FINNS HURL BACK RED TANK DRIVE; HUNDREDS SLAIN

Helsingfors Admits Retreat in Arctic.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE FINNISH ARMY AT THE FRONT, Dec. 16.—The heavy soviet bombardment of Finnish positions on the Karelian isthmus which we [newspaper correspondents] witnessed from a high bank of the Taipale river two days ago proved to be the prelude to another futile Russian attack.

In this sector the Finnish line extends up the river from the point where it enters Lake Ladoga for a few miles to where the stream bends, making a loop before entering Lake Suvanto. The Finns permitted the Russians to occupy positions in the forest between the lake and the river since, they said, it was under the control of their artillery and is proving a death trap for the Russians.

Russians Launch Tank Drive.

The Russian artillery fire, which was growing in volume when we left the line, continued steadily thru the night. Yesterday morning large forces of Russians started to advance against the Finnish lines behind 50 tanks. The Russians, the Finnish staff announced, suffered heavy losses. Fourteen tanks were destroyed, four surrendered upon reaching the Finnish lines, and the remainder retreated after the Finns destroyed the infantry.

The attack was simultaneous at many points on the Karelian isthmus front and the Russian dead, a communique said, were counted by the hundreds at various places.

Soviet naval forces participated in yesterday's attack. One soviet patrol boat was destroyed by a direct hit from a Finnish coastal battery. The Finns said the soviet shells caused no damage.

Russian Plane Shot Down.

Altho flying conditions improved, the soviet aviation remained inactive. One Russian plane was shot down by the Finns. Finnish planes continued to fly over the enemy lines.

Large reinforcements of Russians forced the Finns to retire on the Petsamo front in the arctic. The 500 year old Petsamo monastery, founded by the Russian monk, Boris Gleb, was captured by the soviet troops yesterday. The Finns helped the monks to reach Salmijarvi, and they now are proceeding to Sortavala on Lake Ladoga, where Archbishop Herman of the Greek Orthodox church has arranged quarters for them.

At Suomussalmi and Tolvajarvi Finnish troops were busy rounding up Russians who survived the battle of last week. Many Russians were frozen to death trying to reach the soviet frontier. Large quantities of soviet munitions and guns were captured by the Finns. The Finns report that the invaders had only small supplies of food with them.

Text of Communique.

"On the Karelian isthmus at the Taipale river in the forenoon of Dec. 15 the enemy began an attack with a concentration of great forces after preparing the way with severe artillery fire and supported by 50 enemy tanks," the Finnish communique said. "The attacks were repulsed with great enemy losses. Fourteen tanks were destroyed and four drove up to our positions and surrendered.

"The enemy attacked also in a number of other sectors but were repulsed everywhere. It was estimated in various places that enemy casualties reached hundreds.

"On the eastern front the enemy continued their attacks most heavily in the sectors nearest Lake Ladoga but were driven back except at Petsamo, where our forces have retreated to Salmijarvi.

Spoils of War Mount.

"At Tolvajarvi pursuit of the retreating enemy continues and the spoils of war continue to mount. In the district of Suomussalmi the battle is proceeding toward a conclusion.

"On the sea enemy naval detachments operated with particular ferocity in the easter ngulf of Finland, launching destroyer and motorboat attacks among other places in the vicinity of the Haapasaari islands [off the coast of Kotka] where one enemy patrol vessel was destroyed. The fierce fire of the enemy did no damage and our batteries drove away the enemy vessels. On Lake Ladoga, numerous batteries participated in battles with considerable effect.

"In the air, enemy activity was re-

READY TO RACE THRU GANTLET OF ENEMY SHIPS

Uruguay Debates on Time Extension.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 17 [Sunday] (AP).—While the German raider Admiral Graf Spee ordered all craft from her sides and turned her nose toward the breakwater apparently prepared to dash to sea, an emergency session of the Uruguayan cabinet was called today to consider Germany's demand for an extension of time for the warship to remain in this harbor. The time for the cabinet meeting was not announced.

Announcement of President Alfredo Baldomir's action in calling the cabinet meeting heightened belief here that the Admiral Graf Spee would not leave the harbor at least before this afternoon.

Dr. Otto Langmann, German minister, confirmed reports that he had requested an extension of time for the ship to remain here.

Chance for More Time.

A possibility that the Graf Spee might gain a further extension under international law was seen when port authorities disclosed two British merchantmen, the Dunster Grange and the Ovington Court, would sail for England today, the Dunster Grange at noon [9:30 a. m., Chicago time], and the Ovington Court at 3 p. m. [12:30 p. m., Chicago time].

Under international law, a warship of a warring nation may not leave a neutral port within 24 hours of the departure of an enemy merchantman.

Altho the barges and launches were told shortly before midnight to leave the side of the Graf Spee, welding operations aboard continued to be visible early today from the dockside. Men were seen working both fore and aft on the ship.

Ideal Conditions for Dash.

Conditions in the harbor were almost ideal for an attempt to get away and elude allied warships waiting outside the territorial waters. The nose of the anchored Graf Spee was swung directly toward the harbor breakwater less than half a mile away. It would be necessary only to weigh anchor and glide out to sea.

The German official reflected the impression that the German ship, forced in here last Wednesday after a long battle with three British cruisers, would not depart until after the cabinet session, which must decide on the requested extension. The deadline now fixed by the Uruguayan government expires at 6 p. m. [3:30 p. m., Chicago time] today [Sunday].

President Baldomir and his foreign minister, Alberto Guani, apparently were greatly worried by the pressure to which they have been subjected by Britain and Germany. Britain has demanded vigorously that Uruguay intern or eject the German raider.

Oppose Indefinite Delay.

Some quarters expressed the feeling that Uruguay was willing to grant an extension of time if her own naval experts recommended it but was unlikely to agree to an indefinite period asked by Germany.

Naval experts said that the political maneuvering was not likely to deter the Graf Spee if her commander found a likely opportunity to slip out of the harbor and attempt to pass the allied warships.

Thousands Crowd Dock.

Earlier in the night thousands jammed the nearest docks straining for a view of the warship as her crew sought to make her battle-

PLAN ARMY BOMBERS TWICE AS LARGE AS FLYING FORTRESSES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16 [Special].—The army proposes to build five bombers almost twice the size of its flying fortresses and with far greater speed and range than any known military bombers. A request of $4,000,000 for this purpose has been registered with the budget bureau, according to information received in reliable quarters.

While details about the proposed dreadnaughts of the air have been kept secret, it is understood that the planes are to weigh about 70,000 pounds without bomb load, as compared to 38,000 for the flying fortresses. They would have four motors of 2,000 horse power, or over, each as against four 1,000 horse power motors in the fortresses, and a flying range of 5,600 miles without bombs. A new type of design is planned.

Meanwhile in a special hangar of the Santa Monica, Cal., plant of the Douglas Aircraft company, an army superfortress of the air said to weigh 150,000 pounds is being hurried toward completion. Its details are a closely guarded military secret. It is understood, however, that the army has decided not to build others of this huge class until the present one is finished and fully tested.

Gets 50 Years for Bomb Plot to Kill Teacher

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 16 (AP).—A one time Texas schoolmaster stoically heard a jury's recommendation today that he be imprisoned for 50 years for a dynamite bomb attempt on the life of a pretty teacher. The jury deliberated two hours, then convicted E. Ross Wyatt, 36 years old, of an attempt July 26, 1938, to kill Mary Jo Miller, 26.

Mary Jo Miller.

Wyatt, who, as principal of the Brookeland, Tex., school eight years ago, hired Miss Miller as a teacher and within a week was "hugging and kissing" her, received the verdict calmly. He smiled faintly a moment later as he walked out of the crowded courtroom, a deputy's hand upon his shoulder.

Blast Wrecks Residence.

The jury found him guilty on a charge of burglary with intent to commit murder. He was accused of hoisting a dynamite filled suitcase thru a window of the house in which Miss Miller was visiting her brother. The resulting blast wrecked the residence, but the occupants escaped.

Both Wyatt and Miss Miller testified as to their relationships, but their accounts varied. The young woman said she submitted to the principal's attentions for three years because she wanted to keep her job. Finally, she told the jury, she fled to Chicago to get away from him. She now is employed as a physical education instructor in Oak Park, Ill.

Insists She Sought His Love.

Wyatt countered with the assertion Miss Miller sought his love and on occasion took the initiative in proposing intimacy, then left Texas after he refused to marry her.

Miss Miller came here to testify despite reported anonymous efforts to prevent her doing so.

GERMANY TO APPLY ITS RATIONING TO CZECHS, BEGINNING CHRISTMAS

PRAGUE, Dec. 16.—On Christmas day ration privileges hitherto accorded to Czechs will cease and they will be subjected to the restrictions that prevail in Germany. It will be necessary for them to have ration cards even to eat in restaurants. On New Year's day, real coffee, now available in small amounts, will disappear from shops under a decree forbidding its roasting. Cards governing the purchase of all clothing are being issued to Aryans in the protectorate.

GERMANY TO USE ALUMINUM FOR NEW COIN ISSUE

BERLIN, Dec. 16 (AP).—Germany's money—like her airplanes—is being made as far as possible from domestic products such as aluminum and paper. The reichsbank announced today that it soon would begin issuing aluminum 50 pfennig coins [20 cents] to replace the present nickel coin.

Paper one, two, and five mark notes were circulated some time ago to replace coins of nickel.

Governor Tries to Thumb a Ride; It Doesn't Work

Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 16 [Special].—A distinguished looking gentleman stood this morning at the corner of Arlington and Bramhall avenues and wearily jerked his thumb as automobile after automobile approached. More than 200 passed and none stopped to give the hitchhiker a lift. Finally he gave up and boarded a bus that would take him to his office a mile away. Only after entering the bus was he recognized as Harry Moore, governor of New Jersey—a man who got up today to find both his automobiles in use.

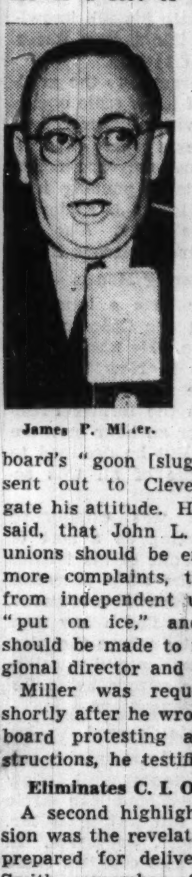
Testifies NLRB Terrorizes Its Own Employes

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—The use of a sort of OGPU secret police system to terrorize its own employés who do not have the approved attitude was attributed to the National Labor Relations board today by James P. Miller, a former regional director of the board at Cleveland.



James P. Miller.

Miller told the house committee investigating the NLRB that a member of the board's "goon [slugger] squad" was sent out to Cleveland to investigate his attitude. He was told, Miller said, that John L. Lewis' C. I. O. unions should be encouraged to file more complaints, that all petitions from independent unions should be "put on ice," and that industry should be made to fear both the regional director and the NLRB.

Miller was requested to resign shortly after he wrote a letter to the board protesting against these instructions, he testified.

Eliminates C. I. O. Indorsement.

A second highlight of today's session was the revelation that a speech prepared for delivery by Edwin S. Smith, a member of the NLRB, was too radical for David J. Saposs, chief of the board's economic division, whose revolutionary writings and membership in various so-called communist front organizations have been the subject of investigation by the Dies committee on un-American activities.

Smith, who was on the stand at the time, admitted that he heeded the advice of Saposs and eliminated from his speech a public indorsement of the C. I. O. in its controversy with the American Federation of Labor.

Miller's difficulties with the board as to the proper attitude toward C. I. O. unions and industrial leaders occurred in connection with the Hoover Vacuum Cleaner company case, he related. In 1938 the board held that an independent union of the Hoover employés was dominated by the company and ordered its disestablishment.

Told Union Dissolved.

The employés dissolved the old independent union, organized a new one and petitioned the board for its certification as the proper collective bargaining agency. Miller thereupon conducted an investigation to determine whether the new union should be so certified.

In December, 1938, Miller said, Nathan Witt, secretary of the NLRB, wrote a letter to the Cleveland office "which burned us up." Witt rebuked him for even bothering to investigate the claims of the new independent union, Miller testified.

The witness said the board then sent Fred G. Krivonos, whom he described as "a member of the goon squad," out to investigate the matter. Krivonos had been identified previously as an assistant to Secretary Witt.

Tells of "Goon Squad."

"Any time you disagree with Mr. Witt a member of the goon squad is sent out to use pressure on you," Miller said. Krivonos, he declared, claimed that the new independent union was the same "company dominated union" that had been ordered disestablished, and demanded to know why the United Electrical, Radio and Machinery Workers [C. I. O.] union had not filed a complaint charging the company with maintaining a company union.

"He then sent for Arthur Garfield, a representative of the United Electrical, Radio, and Machinery Workers union and in my presence tried to persuade Garfield to file a 8 [2] charge [pertaining to company unions] against the company," Miller continued. "Garfield said there was no basis for such a charge. Mr. Krivo-

TEXAN REVEALS HIS CANDIDACY FOR FIRST TIME

Goes Hunting After Announcement.

Dewey Swats New Deal

Thomas E. Dewey, New York prosecutor, in his second campaign address for the Republican presidential nomination, assails the New Deal's "zigzag policies" and urges that business be given a helping hand instead of a sock in the jaw. Story on page 3.

Uvalde, Tex., Dec. 16 (AP).—Vice President John N. Garner announced today "I will accept the nomination for President."

John N. Garner.

He made the announcement in a 44 word formal statement to a small group of newspaper men and friends, then ducked behind the wheel of his automobile and headed for his ranch for a four day hunting trip.

The statement said: "I will accept the nomination for President, I will make no effort to control any delegates. The people should decide. The candidate should be selected at primaries and conventions as provided by law, and I sincerely trust that all Democrats will participate in them."

One Emphatic Note.

Only once did he raise his voice to emphasize any part of the statement. That was when he came to the words: "I will make no effort to control any delegates."

Garner, tersely, without fanfare, thus answered the question that has been plaguing political friends and foes for months. He was dressed in a business suit, and delayed his hunting trip only long enough to hurry in the house and change to his outdoor clothes.

His Hunting Companion.

With Garner on the hunting trip was Ross Brumfield, garage man who has been his companion for many years on scores of expeditions into the brushland of southwest Texas. While Garner was speaking on the side porch of his home, Brumfield was in the garage packing the camping gear.

Garner had told no one in Uvalde that the statement was to be made. In it, he broke a traditional silence on political affairs which has characterized his tenure as Vice President. He made a speech at Philadelphia in 1936, accepting the Democratic nomination for the vice presidency. He spoke once over the radio during the campaign that followed.

Discusses the Weather.

He had just one other word to say today. He noted the fact that it was the coldest day of the year in Uvalde, and remarked:

"This is the best time of the year. I like to sleep out in the open in this kind of weather."

The Garner-for-President movement had its official start near his birthplace at Detroit, in northeast Texas, Dec. 6, 1938. There, near a split-log cabin on Blossom Prairie, publicized as his birthplace, speakers praised him as a self-effacing citizen who "seeks neither position, place, power, nor influence."

NOBODY'S SURPRISED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—Vice President John N. Garner's formal entry into the 1940 presidential race provoked speculation rather than surprise in the nation's capital tonight.

It had long been expected that Garner would carry his rebellion against the New Deal to the point of seeking the Democratic nomination.

There was discussion on whether Garner's statement might cause President Roosevelt to reveal his third term plans. At Hyde Park, N. Y., where Roosevelt is spending the week-end, it was said he had no comment to make, but it was considered unlikely that the President, if he expects to run, could afford to remain idle for any considerable time while Garner forces mobilize their strength for the convention. This especially true in view of reports that Garner will go into the convention with more than 200 delegates ready to vote for him.

If the President has no intention of seeking the nomination himself, observers believe, he also will be forced by Garner's move to make an early revelation of his own plans in the interests of any man he may seek to name as his successor.

One man concerned is Roosevelt's partially estranged party chief, Postmaster General James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, who must decide whether he should throw his weight to his boss or to Garner.

In many capital quarters it has been suspected that Garner and Farley may complete a deal under which Farley would be given the second place on the ticket, should Garner be nominated. Under Roosevelt, Farley has no prospects for the future except to continue to sell stamps.

Fear Party Breakdown.

Neither has given any indication that such a course has been discussed, altho various observers are confident both are interested in stopping the President in 1940 in the interests of holding the Democratic party together.

The Garner candidacy was also regarded here as the move which may save or split the Democratic party. If Roosevelt should decide to run, the conservative Democrats will undoubtedly gather behind Garner. If he does not, the Garner forces hope that "Cactus Jack" will be the man around whom all factions will gather.

The Garner candidacy has its roots far back in the early days of the New Deal when he lifted his voice time after time in cabinet meetings to protest against extravagant spending and visionary government.

In 1937 Garner stepped out openly against his chief and fought the Supreme court packing bill. From that time he assumed control of congress, going so far as to defeat the neutrality revision program when it was introduced at the end of the last regular session of congress.

Spurns Vice Presidency.

Last July 4, Garner came out into the open against the President by letting his friends know that he would positively not indulge any third term ambitions of Roosevelt by accepting the Democratic nomination as Vice President.

Most capital comment on the Garner announcement was restrained. Friends were quick, however, to praise the Vice President's record of 38 years of service in the national government.

Most of those who have been critical of Garner withheld comment. It appeared certain, however, that Garner's action would sharpen the political fire which already has been directed at him.

Long regarded as a potential candidate, the Vice President was sharply denounced last July by John L. Lewis, C. I. O. chieftain. Testifying before the house labor committee, Lewis accused Garner of responsibility for attempts to modify labor legislation.

"Evil Old Man."

He remarked that the origin of the attacks on the legislation was not hard to find, adding that the opposition "came from a labor-baiting, poker playing, whisky drinking, evil old man whose name is John N. Garner."

Lewis said he was against Garner "personally, concretely and in the abstract," asserting:

"And I'll be against him when he seeks the presidency in 1940."

Garner made no reply to the Lewis attack, but his friends took up Lewis' words with levity and soon "Evil Old Man" clubs were being organized.

When asked for comment tonight on Garner's candidacy, Lewis gave out word that he had nothing to say because his "views on the subject of Mr. Garner are well known."

Argentine Cabinet Crisis Reported Over Vote Fraud

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Dec. 16.—It was persistently rumored today that Vice President Ramon S. Castillo, José Padilla, minister of agriculture; Pedro Groppo, minister of finance, and Manuel P. Alvarado, minister of public works, were resigning because of a difference of opinion with President Roberto M. Ortiz over the recent elections in Catamarca province. The elections were described in the newspapers as fraudulent. President Ortiz is said to insist that they be canceled.

HOOVER BACKERS WORK TO OBTAIN HIS NOMINATION

Seek Unpledged Delegates at Convention.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The Hoover for president movement has begun to take form on a national scale. Inquiries yesterday brought replies from Washington, from New York, from New England, from the west coast, and from the south that a definite campaign has been inaugurated and probably will be brought out into the open before the end of January.

The political method being used is that of seeking to have as many states as possible send uninstructed delegations to the national convention next summer. With adequate success in this direction, the sponsors feel that the only possible outcome of the convention would be the nomination of Hoover.

Gives Consent to Activity.

The former President everywhere takes the position that he is not a candidate. That is taken to mean that he is not running after the nomination, that he is not working for the election of delegates pledged to vote for him. But what is going on is being done with his full knowledge and consent, if not even under his guidance and direction.

Attention was directed to the gradual development of large scale operations by quiet activities discovered in Chicago. There was a report of large amounts of political correspondence involving many states pouring into the law offices of Orville J. Taylor at 134 South La Salle street. Also out of town visitors were numerous there.

Acts as Clearing House.

Attorney Taylor gave a luncheon for Mr. Hoover at the Chicago club about a month ago. He also gave a luncheon for him in New York, at which there were about 60 guests. He conferred with the former President in Chicago for an hour or more last Wednesday. But he declined to discuss the purpose of all this activity.

Nevertheless it was established that Taylor is acting as a sort of clearing house, as one of his friends described it, for the early processes of the Hoover presidential movement. It is his business to find a key man in each of the states where the plan is to be put into motion and to establish relations with approachable Republican state organizations.

Entire State Covered.

The formula for intrastate operations in many instances will follow the outline of the Republican circle plan already in full swing in Mr. Hoover's home state, California. In each of that state's 58 counties there is a circle of 20 outstanding men working for the Hoover movement. In this way the entire state is covered.

Already the machinery is said to be moving in at least a dozen other western states and the front line is being swung down toward the southern states. Among the states in which the movement is developing are Texas, Tennessee, Georgia, Missouri, Iowa, and Oklahoma.

Another Spurt in East.

Another spurt of activity is to be directed into New England. Mr. Hoover, now in the east, is expected to go up there soon for several speaking engagements and a still greater number of conferences.

It is believed that by the middle of January the movement will be under way in half of the 48 states. About the time that point is reached a meeting will be called of state leaders and their chief aides. It will be held at some central point, possibly Chicago.

Concurrently with the drive toward the election of uninstructed delegates, two other forms of activity will be in progress. One will be the effort to erase what the Hoover supporters in recognition of the work of Democratic propaganda, call the Michaelson smear. The other will be an attempt quietly to start a ground swell for Mr. Hoover for the 1940 nomination.

On Honeymoon

BARBARA CARROLL LA CROIX.

Rumford, Me., Dec. 16 (AP).—Newlywed Barbara Carroll, 19 years old, and Armand P. La Croix, 20, Rumford shoe worker, honeymooned today at a secret retreat after their wedding last night by a justice of the peace.

Her father, Francis M. Carroll, former South Paris deputy sheriff, and Paul N. Dwyer, 20, Barbara's former sweetheart, are serving life sentences for the murder in 1937 of Dr. James G. Littlefield.

Barbara was a prominent figure in the events which culminated in Dwyer's arrest and subsequent conviction, his reappearance in court after having served several weeks of his sentence and his sensational accusation of Carroll—an accusation which led to the latter's conviction for the same crime.

SEN. TAFT WOULD REVISE DOLE TO BALANCE BUDGET

Cleveland, O., Dec. 16 (AP).—Senator Robert A. Taft reiterated today the federal budget could be balanced in two years.

The Ohio senator, who is seeking the Republican Presidential nomination, debated here with Rep. T. V. Smith of Illinois, his opponent in a radio series earlier this year.

Taft suggested the United States pay two-thirds of relief costs and turn back administration to local authorities. This he held would substantially reduce costs.

"So long as state and local units are without power to raise relief funds, no administration is going to balance the federal budget." Smith replied. "Rather, the government is going to help balance state and local governments as it is doing now."

BRICKER ASSAILS NEW DEAL'S WPA RULE AS RACKET

Favors New System with Local Control.

New York, Dec. 16 [Special].—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio tonight attacked the New Deal administration of WPA as a political racket which pads its pay rolls in election years. He demanded its replacement by a new system administered locally and financed by local, state, and federal participation. He spoke at the 54th annual dinner of the Ohio Society of New York.

The governor assured his audience that Ohio has not been taken over by the White House or the department of the interior, and then launched into Ohio's relief problem, declaring it was his official duty to correct the critics of Ohio.

"Because of propaganda, false statements, and political interference from the outside, a great deal of attention has been directed to Ohio relief in the last few weeks" the governor asserted.

Protects State's Fair Name.

"As long as I am governor I shall fight any maligners and those who by falsehood, inuendo, and propaganda would detract from Ohio's fine name.

"I do not propose to be clubbed into a position of fear or silence in the conduct of affairs in the state of Ohio when the very foundations of public morality, political decency, simple honesty, and fundamental human integrity are being eaten away by the unblushing political immorality of the New Deal in its relations to human needs and relief.

"It is not in my heart to flinch before a public crackdown from the White House simply because I have refused steadfastly to permit the administration of public assistance in the state of Ohio to become the football of disgraceful partisan politics in Washington, New York, and the department of the interior."

Defends Ohio Program.

Gov. Bricker charged that President Roosevelt kept WPA on a different footing from the federal system of grants to the states for aid to the aged, blind, and dependent children in order to control the votes of WPA workers.

The governor defended the Ohio relief program as meeting all the state's needs, and charged that Ohio was the victim of political discrimination by the New Deal.

"Ohio and Cleveland have taken care of their people, but the federal government has failed miserably in Ohio," he declared.

After the election in which he was elected last year, the governor charged, Ohio was punished for voting Republican, and in an attempt to discredit his administration there was a disproportionate cut in WPA rolls, especially in Cleveland.

BUSINESS GROUP WANTS STATES TO HANDLE RELIEF

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16 (AP).—The United States Chamber of Commerce recommended today that relief be turned back gradually to the states, contending that it would result in improved care of the needy at lower cost.

"It is apparent from the methods thus far pursued," a chamber committee reported, "that it [the federal government] is remote, too large, and too clumsy for efficient administration of local relief. Thus it is clear that, inherently, the direct participation of the federal government in relief activities is extremely costly."

President W. Gibson Carey Jr. of the chamber sent the report to member organizations with a request for "an active and sustained attempt to follow such suggested procedure as may fit your community and the possibilities of your organization."

Asserting that relief is primarily the function of state and local governments, the committee's report declared that the federal government's part should be limited to financial assistance where state and local resources "are clearly inadequate."

DEWEY BLASTS 'ZIGZAG' COURSE OF DEMOCRATS

Assails Practice of Socking Business.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 16.—Firing a broadside at the Roosevelt administration's "zigzagging" policies, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, tonight declared the nation could not recover from its "sick economy" until government quit "socking" business in the jaw.

Dewey spoke before an enthusiastic crowd of 1,200 persons gathered at the 41st annual dinner of the Pennsylvania society of New York. Leaders in Pennsylvania's business, industrial, and political spheres listened to the 37 year old prosecutor lay down a four point program for the nation's recovery. It was as follows:

1. Stop the government from being "halfway for a sort of creeping socialism and half way for private enterprise." Go ahead wholeheartedly on the side of private enterprise which is the "breadwinner of the nation."

2. Stop bedeviling American business men with "vague, unfounded charges."

3. Start the movement toward actual economy and quit "raising hopes of a balanced budget one day, while advocating spending for its own sake the next day."

4. Make secure the relief of the unemployed, needy and aged by adopting policies which will raise the national income. Thus fulfilment of the country's social obligations no longer will be dependent upon continued borrowing.

Many Flock to Dinner.

Pennsylvanians flocked to the dinner to see the young racket-smashing prosecutor and to hear him deliver the second in a series of speeches since he threw his hat into the ring two weeks ago. Last week in Minneapolis he attacked the Roosevelt régime's philosophy of "defeatism" and pointed the way toward new frontiers in the nation's progress.

Political significance was read in the presence at the speaker's table of two former Republican senators from the commonwealth of Pennsylvania. They were David A. Reed and George Wharton Pepper. There was speculation whether Reed had come out of retirement since his defeat by Democratic Senator Joseph F. Guffey in 1934 and was planning to run again in 1940.

Former Republican Governor John K. Tener and Chief Justice John W. Kephart of the Pennsylvania Supreme court were also at the speaker's table. Gov. Arthur H. James, who is being groomed as a "dark horse" contender for the G. O. P. nomination, did not attend.

Pays Tribute to Gov. James.

Dewey, however, paid tribute to the achievements of the James administration in Pennsylvania and said it was unfortunate the rest of the nation could not share in this "happier state." Then he launched into his main theme, which was how the inconsistencies of the Washington planners had injured business and private enterprise.

By way of illustration Dewey related a fable about a man with the colic and drew gales of laughter from the audience.

"Let me tell you the fable of a young man who ate too many green apples," he said. "He got a bad case of colic. Not getting well right away, he called in a doctor. The first day the doctor prescribed the usual medicine, a liquid diet and rest.

"But the second day, when the young man began to feel a little better, the doctor threw all the good old remedies away. He gave the patient a stiff shot in the arm, yanked him out of bed and administered a long and harsh lecture on his faults in general. And in leaving, he gave the patient a sock on the jaw.

"Every day after that the treatment was different but the lecture and the sock on the jaw were always delivered. The only exception was that on one of the days, the doctor promised to give the patient a breathing spell. Strangely enough, many days have now passed and the patient does not get well. His doctor looks at him bitterly and tells him he is a chronic invalid. I think he is a healthy young man with a great future. I think he ought to change doctors.

"For years our government has been faced with a sick economy which just doesn't get well. This is a matter of serious concern to every one of us, Republican and Democrat alike. If government believes in that economic system, gives it sympathy and consistent treatment, it should recover. But it hasn't. It is time we found out why.

Zigzags Toward Nowhere.

"One of the most important reasons is that our government has copied the inconsistencies of the doctor in the fable. It has been proceeding not in a straight line to somewhere, but it zigzags toward contradictory destinations — toward nowhere."

Dewey pointed out in 1933 the government had asked business competitors to come together under the NRA Blue Eagle banner and make agreements on wages, production, and prices. But now under Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, he declared, the government in its anti-trust prosecutions was cracking down on the very practices nursed under the NRA.

"Once we zigged with the Blue Eagle," said the young prosecutor. "Now we zag with Thurman Arnold."

Tries to Increase Prices.

In 1933 the government tried to raise prices by depreciating the dollar and since 1937 had been trying to keep industrial prices down, he continued. Then he recalled the Democratic party platform pledges for a balanced budget and how these were broken.

"Since 1932 mounting annual deficits have increased the national debt by 21 billion dollars," said Dewey. "And now unbalanced budgets have become official policy. In his budget message on Jan. 4, 1939, the President stopped even advocating a balanced budget. He adopted a school of thought which believes that if the government tried to live within its current income 'we would invite disaster.'

"It is not merely a matter of broken promises. It is a basic alteration of our whole theory of government finance. We zig with the Democratic platforms. We zag with the budget message.

"Now within the last few weeks we have seen the government zig back again. Vague suggestions of economy have been put out by Washington. As an election year approaches, the government again remembers the virtues of economy. It's like the little boy who was 'O, so good' just before Christmas."

"Perhaps the most fatal zigzag of all" to Dewey was the policy of the government on one hand of spending borrowed money ostensibly for putting people to work thru increased purchasing power while on the other tax policies destroyed the very investment needed for the expansion of old industries and the building of new ones.

"Is it any wonder that new jobs are not created?" he asked.

Encouragement of private enterprise was the way to make progress, Dewey said.

Aid Private Enterprise.

"Private enterprise is the breadwinner of the national family. It pays all the taxes. Those taxes plus what the government borrows against future earnings of private enterprise are the only source of that absolutely necessary money for the relief of the unemployed, the needy and the aged.

"Private enterprise—and I am talking about the enterprise of the farmer and the worker and the business man—is the source of every job in the country except the jobs on the public pay roll. And those jobs too are supported by private enterprise. So, in the final analysis, every person on relief, every person on a pension, every job in America is supported by private enterprise.

"Five million young men and women have grown to maturity in the last 10 years. Heavy in heart, many of them still are seeking their first job. We must find a way to employ them. Their elders, we must reëmploy or otherwise provide for."

Scoffs at Roosevelt Talk.

Then, returning again to the inconsistencies of the administration, Dewey scoffed at President Roosevelt's pronouncement in 1935 that he would grant a "breathing spell" to ailing business.

"How considerate," said Dewey, his voice edged with sarcasm. "The government of a free country condescends to grant a breathing spell to free citizens, to the men who make jobs and so to the men who hold jobs and who seek jobs. It is as tho business did not have the right to breathe in America except upon sufferance of its governmental masters."

It was the policy of the present régime to increase purchasing power thru spending, "the spending of money raised partly by taxation and partly by borrowing." The result was only temporary, he declared, and in the long run meant a reduction of future purchasing power.

Real purchasing power would come with the increased production of goods at lower prices, according to Dewey's belief.

"We have seen this happen time and again in our great industries. For example, since 1920 the average price of a gallon of first grade gasoline, excluding taxes, has come down from about 30 cents to about 13 cents. The price of a six cylinder car of a popular make has come down from $2,780 to $955 and the cost of tires has come down from about 25 cents for every 100 miles of service to about 5 cents.

"Yet, in the same period average wages of the workers in the automobile plants have gone up from 57 cents an hour to 93 cents an hour. Increased production bringing lower costs and making possible higher wages—that is the time-tested process by which the people of America for 150 years have grown and prospered.

Many New Discoveries.

"In every industry we have a great accumulation of new discoveries. In the last few years we have found 10,000 new metal alloys, 250,000 new chemical compounds. Most of them await the new uses to which new investments could dedicate them and we have the idle money, the idle machines, and the idle men eagerly awaiting the chance to develop them."

1. "Stop following policies going in different directions," he said. "Stop being half way for a sort of creeping socialism and half way for private enterprise. Get down on one side of the fence. Adopt consistent tax policies. Start being wholeheartedly for the enterprise which makes jobs. Declare a firm faith in its future and back that faith with deeds.

2. "Stop making vague, unfounded charges against American business men. If any business man violates the law, name him, indict him, convict him, fine him, jail him. But stop bringing the whole of a group into disrepute and discouragement. Stop punishing the innocent and the guilty alike.

"Begin to move toward actual economy and actual retrenchment of unnecessary public expenditure. Stop raising hopes of a balanced budget one day, while advocating spending for its own sake the next day. Admit that excessive public expenditures have to be tapered off gradually. And start doing it. Start just a trend toward solvency. Start that trend and show it on the books of the government month by month. What we need is to be shown that the climb back up the hard road toward solvency has begun. Show it.

"Make secure the relief of the unemployed, the needy, and the aged. Adopt policies that will raise our national income so that the fulfilment of our social obligations will be no longer dependent upon the hazards of continued borrowing."

Would End Chapter of Errors.

In conclusion Dewey expressed a seasonal year-end hope that common sense would prevail in national affairs and the country could look toward the "more fortunate forties."

"The thirties are almost over," he said. "This has been the first 10 year period in our national history in which our industrial production has failed to surpass its previous records. It is time that we close the books upon this chapter of mistakes and misery. Let us come down to common sense and go forward with courage into what I hope and believe will be the more fortunate forties.

Much more than business is at stake. Much more than material prosperity is at stake. The chaos in Europe teaches us that we must restore our own free enterprise so that our own human freedom shall also survive.

"In all that we plan and in all that we do we must keep in mind the central, vital objective. That objective is the maintenance of human liberty, of the right of the human being to worship and think and express himself in accordance with his conscience and his reason. History shows that these basic human rights can be perpetuated only by preserving a measure of economic freedom.

"I am not interested in business as such or in profits as such. These are but a means to an end. They are the means for giving people an economic freedom. For only with economic freedom can we preserve the spiritual and moral values which make life worth living."

Give Medal to Pepper.

Another feature of the dinner program was the presenting of a gold medal by the society to former Senator Pepper for distinguished service to the nation. The award was made by Senator Reed who spoke of his colleague's work in the senate on foreign affairs and naval matters as well as his contribution to American jurisprudence as president of the American Law institute.

The Pennsylvania society is a "booster" organization of citizens of that commonwealth who have been transplanted to New York. One of its moving spirits was the late Charles M. Schwab, head of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, who served as the society's president for 17 years. Another active member was another steelmaster, the late Andrew Carnegie.

Women Hear Guilty Verdict in Bombing

nos asked him, 'what's the matter with you fellows out here? You don't file 8 [2] charges. In the east we get them right along.'"

Miller asserted that Krivonos turned upon him after he had sought to persuade Garfield to file the charge.

"He said, 'what's your position out here?'" the witness declared. "'Does industry fear you and fear the board?' I told him, 'no, they respect us.' He said, 'that's the wrong position. They ought to fear you and fear the board.'"

Committee Counsel Edmund M. Toland thereupon introduced into the record a memorandum written by Miller to Secretary Witt on April 1, 1939, saying in part:

Unable to Bring Charge.

"According to our records, the final report and covering letter with our recommendation were sent to you on Dec. 5, 1938. This was acknowledged by your letter of Dec. 15, 1938, severely criticizing us for having made the investigation usually made with respect to petitions for hearing and certification.

"Following your letter, Mr. Krivonos visited the office, instructed me to place on ice all petitions filed by independent organizations, and, further, he spent considerable time with Arthur Garfield, representative of the United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers [C. I. O.] union, trying to induce him to file an 8 [2] charge."

The letter referred to Witt's assertion that the new independent union was the "same company union" that had been ordered disestablished, and concluded: "Under all these circumstances, and particularly in view of the fact that we who thoroly investigated this case cannot agree with your conclusion, I don't see how, in justice to the rights granted workers under section 7 of the act, we can do other than respectfully refer the matter back to you for final disposition, and suggest it might be best to authorize a hearing and then make a formal determination."

This was on April 1, 1939, and on May 11, 1939, Miller was ordered to resign.

"What was the reason?" asked Representative Harry N. Routzohn [R., O.].

The witness explained, however, that the board's "ostensible" reason for demanding his resignation was his attendance at a dinner in New York given by Glenn O. Smith, a lawyer who represented employers in labor board cases, last March 13. Miller said he paid his own expenses on the trip to New York to attend the dinner, which was attended also by Elinore M. Herrick, New York regional director of the labor board, and David Morse, New York regional attorney for the board.

Robert Gates, whom he identified as another member of the labor board's "goon squad," visited his office in Cleveland, Miller testified, and told him that "the board was rather disturbed" about his attendance at the dinner in New York. When he was requested to resign, Miller said, Donald Wakefield Smith, then a member of the board, vigorously protested, saying it was "the damnedest thing he ever heard of." Smith, he said, demanded to know why Mrs. Herrick and Morse weren't also asked to resign.

Dines with Employers.

Miller said he had dined with both employers and union officials and felt that there was nothing improper in attending a dinner given by a lawyer for employers. In substantiation of Miller's contention that he was discharged because of his attitude Committee Counsel Toland introduced a report from Krivonos to Witt, which told of dissatisfaction with Miller among officials of the C. I. O.'s United Rubber Workers' union. The report quoted two attorneys of the NLRB office at Cleveland, Harry Lodish and Max Johnstone, as saying: "They believed Miller was making bids in every direction for a 'juicy job' in industry."

Miller discussed various other cases which came under his jurisdiction in Ohio. In a case brought by the Steel Workers organizing committee [C. I. O.] against the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, which still is pending, he said, he refused to give copies of affidavits taken by a field examiner of the NLRB to counsel for the C. I. O.

Later, he declared, he was summoned to Washington, and over his protest Malcolm Halliday, assistant general counsel of the board, ordered three sets of copies prepared for Lee Pressman, general counsel for the C. I. O.

In this same case, Miller testified, Anthony Wayne Smith, assistant general counsel for the C. I. O., disclosed advance knowledge that the board would reverse its policy of deducting WPA relief wages received by strikers from amounts of back pay ordered to be paid by employers. In negotiations for a settlement of the labor board case, the C. I. O. lawyer demanded a stipulation that when the board reversed its policy, the strikers would receive credit for the WPA wages deducted from their back pay.

"Did the board reverse its policy?" asked Counsel Toland.

"Yes, in the Morris Packing company case," Miller replied.

NLRB Member Smith was questioned again today concerning the C. I. O. case against the Berkshire Knitting Mills of Reading, Pa., in which he forwarded to Filene's department store in Boston the union demands for a boycott against the company's hosiery.

Smith said he merely forwarded the union leaflets without indorsing the boycott demands, and that his only interest in the case was the possibility that Louis E. Kirstein, vice president of the department store, might assist in mediating the strike of about 500 of the Berkshire company's more than 6,000 employés.

Toland reminded Smith that he mentioned the boycott activities in his own correspondence with Kirstein and then asked him: "Isn't it a fact that you have been personally biased and prejudiced in favor of the C. I. O. since its formation?"

"I think that's nonsense," Smith replied.

$5 GOLD COIN, MINTED IN 1851, IS SOLD FOR $1,000 AT AN AUCTION

New York, Dec. 16 [Special].—A $5 gold coin minted in California in 1851 by Schultz & Co. was sold for $1,000 today at an auction of United States gold coins. The coin was said to be one of the best of the four or five specimens known of that privately minted type. It was bought by the Stack's coin concern for a client.

NAZIS' BLOCKADE DEALS EMPIRES' SHIPPING A BLOW

N. Y. Port Figures Reveal Sharp Decline.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 16.—How effective is the German counterblockade in the North Atlantic?

Shipping men here are asking that question these days as the number of vessels sailing out of New York harbor for ports in the United Kingdom and France dwindles as the war in Europe increases in ferocity. Neutral sea captains are shunning the theater of hostilities like a plague.

There is a growing belief among skippers and seamen who have braved the dangers lurking in the trans-Atlantic sea lanes that the counterblockade of submarines, mines, surface raiders, and aircraft is more potent than is generally known. Official figures from the custom house bear this out.

Figures Show Decline.

The month of November last year 27 ships with a net tonnage [cargo space] of 176,974 steamed out of the harbor past Sandy Hook bound for English ports. In November this year, only nine vessels departed for British ports—one Estonian freighter and eight boats under the British flag—and the net tonnage had shrunk to 62,282.

American shipping is excluded from ports in the combat zones under law now, but even after subtracting our flag vessels from last year's totals the tonnage is still less than half of what it was in normal times.

There were eight ships leaving for France a year ago in November with a net tonnage of 123,159. Last month, however, only three ships with a net tonnage of 16,007 put out to sea for French ports. For the Germans there has been a complete blackout of shipping since the war began.

Mines Most Effective.

Of the various weapons Germany is using to prevent munitions, food, and other commodities from reaching the British Isles, the mine is proving the most effective, in the opinion of shipping men here. Neutral vessels are giving the area a wide berth because of the drifting mines, and skippers also fear the hazards of navigating among a growing number of wrecked and partly sunken craft in the shipping lanes.

It was pointed out when the conflict started the British had only 200 minesweepers available for duty, while at the end of the world war there were 2,500 in the "suicide fleet" clearing the channels.

Specific information on conditions in the blockaded area in the Atlantic and North sea is veiled behind the smoke screen of war censorship. Admiralty orders have sealed the lips of the masters of British and French vessels.

Visit to Pier Refused.

War censorship apparently extends to the New York waterfront as well. Mounted police shooed away this correspondent when he attempted to walk out on the pier of the Cunard Line today. In the slip nearby are the two superliner war refugees, the British Queen Mary, daubed from stem to stern with a somber gray and the black hulled Normandie of the French Line.

Captains of vessels flying neutral flags are loathe to talk about the war, but one skipper was willing to express his views on the counterblockade. He was Capt. Carl M. Swenson of the 5,300 ton Swedish freighter Ragnhildsholm. Swenson, a grizzled veteran of sailing the seven seas for 40 years, was found in his cabin aboard the freighter lying at the Swedish-American docks in Brooklyn. She was being loaded, principally with crated Chevrolets, for the return voyage tomorrow.

Recalls World War Days.

"I was a first officer during the world war on boats sailing between Sweden and the United States," said Swenson, "and in my opinion the allies do not have as good control over the German counterblockade today as they did then. Then we knew where the mine fields were. They were here and there"—Swenson poked his finger about on an imaginary chart on the table. "We could avoid them, but today the German airplanes are dropping mines anywhere and we do not know where they are."

On the last voyage over, Swenson said, the only warship he saw was an American cruiser on patrol 200 miles off Nantucket lightship.

"We go north of the fighting and the mines, too, if we can," he said with a grim smile.

Another Skipper Silent.

Also loading at a Brooklyn dock for the return voyage was the Norwegian-America Line freighter Randsfjord. Capt. Halvor Petersen refused to discuss the blockade and said he had seen nothing except seagulls on the western voyage. Officials of the line said a recently enacted Norwegian law provides heavy penalties for any skipper giving out information.

Capt. Vittorio Olivari of the big Italian Lines' luxury liner Rex likewise declined to talk about the blockade other than to say the vessel was halted by the British at Gibraltar for five hours on the last voyage and German mail was removed.

"I am a sailor and I don't know anything political," said Capt. Olivari. "I just follow Mussolini. That's all."

Figures obtained from collector of the port, Harry Durning, for shipping during the first three months of the European conflict and the corresponding period of last year show the war time decline in a graphic way.

The big luxury ocean liner, Bremen, was the last German vessel to sail from New York. She left here 36 hours before Germany invaded Poland on Sept. 1 and returned safely to a home port earlier this week after a three and a half months' oddyssey in which she outwitted pursuing British naval forces.

Decline in Shipping Shown

New York, Dec. 16 [Special].—The following table shows the decline in the number of ships sailing from the port of New York to the United Kingdom, France, and Germany during September, October, and November, 1939, as compared to the number sailing in the corresponding months of 1938. The table classifies the ships by nationality and gives the number of ships and their tonnage for each nationality:

THREE FAITHS UNITE IN FUND DRIVE FOR NEW NEGRO HIGH SCHOOL

Representatives of Catholic, Jewish, and Protestant faiths joined yesterday in a drive to raise from $750,000 to $1,000,000 to build a parochial school for Negroes in the parish of St. Elizabeth's Catholic church, 4049 South Wabash avenue.

The parish has maintained a small high school in the old Swift club building at 41st street and Michigan avenue for the last five years, but it accommodates only 150 pupils. The new school, which will be named Mundelein Memorial High school in memory of the late cardinal, will admit pupils of all faiths.

The Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop and archdiocesan administrator, and Dr. Louis Binstock, rabbi of Temple Sholom, are honorary co-chairmen of the executive committee in charge of raising funds.

Other members of the executive council are Gen. A. F. Lorenzen, chairman; Roy J. Barnett, Edward S. Beck, Judge Jacob M. Braude, Anthony Czarnecki, Roy C. Holbrook, James A. Ryan, Judge John P. McGoorty, Homer J. Buckley, George D. Crowley, Michael F. Girten, J. V. Lanigan, and George J. Spatuzza.

NAZIS INCREASE IRON ORE OUTPUT DESPITE THE WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—The Four Year Plan, official organ of Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's economic scheme, today asserts that Germany has increased its output of iron ore to such a degree that the nation will be able to curtail imports of mineral ores next year, despite war requirements.

In 1937 Germany imported 22,000,000 tons of iron ore, it says, and England imported 8,000,000 tons. "Next year it will be possible to restrict imports of iron ore into Germany to such a degree," it adds, that the situation will change entirely in Germany's favor.

The four year plan enabled the Germans to carry on work after the outbreak of war despite loss of deliveries from Alsace-Lorraine, the publication claims, and asserts that iron ores found in newly opened fields in Salzgitter contained 30 per cent iron ore while ore obtained formerly on the other side of the Rhine river contained only 15 per cent iron.

These figures on the Salzgitter findings are infinitely more favorable than any revealed previously, it is said. The Four Year Plan asserts that the extra cost of mining, which foreign experts estimated as extremely high, represents a sound investment "because Germany does not risk having her ore supply torpedoed."

King George to Decorate Officers in Naval Battle

LONDON, Dec. 16 (AP).—The admiralty announced tonight that King George VI. of England will decorate the commodore and captains of the ships that engaged the German battleship Admiral Graf Spee. Commodore Henry Harwood will be made knight commander of the Bath. Capts. C. H. L. Woodhouse, F. S. Bell, and J. E. Parry of the cruisers Ajax, Exeter and Achilles will be appointed companions of the same order.

AIR CASTLES DÉ LUXE

By CALEB

ONE nice thing about an air castle is its perfection. Air castles don't have faulty flues, imperfect plumbing, and rooms that won't heat.

So long as any project is in the blue and cloudlike dream stage, it's above reproach, and perfect in all its parts. The maiden engaged, but separated from her promised swain, actually dreams him into a faultless man. The boy out of sight and smile of his best girl idealizes her in appearance, behavior, disposition, and all else.

The entrepreneur about to start a business, unless he has the analytical head of a scientist, dreams of profits and success which in many cases cannot materialize.

The point is that actual contacts and actual experiences in the world are not without their unpleasant aspects. Our visions are. It's easy to dream dreams unmarked by troubles. The human race has a fortunate—and sometimes unfortunate—penchant for forgetting the obstacles in the race that has been won, and remembering only its swiftness and stimulus and glory. It is so with races not yet run. We forget that every plus has its minus, every black its white, every dawn its dusk, and every up its down.

Many of your friends and mine object to the shortcomings of their job and of their surroundings and of humanity—object to them as the index of all life. To them human contacts are boring, or even obnoxious. Daily routines are a nuisance, or even downright distressing. These people get most of their satisfactions from dreaming and hoping.

However, even more of your friends meet life robustly and squarely. Most of us want to get satisfactions from the daily pursuits we follow. We do not want to depend upon artificial and fleeting dreams and mirages for the things that make life worth while.

Every normal human activity provides in its execution the possibility for real satisfaction. There is no work so humble, no task so obscure, but that doing it well makes food for the soul. Surely the person who completes the day knowing that he has made as great a contribution to the forward progress of the world as was within his capacity and his job to do, has reason for pride.

Meeting life is harder than dreaming it, for the real castles of human endeavor have structural weaknesses. But they are more satisfying to build.

Walk Happily Ever After
Happy, indeed, are the feet so comfortably, so smartly encased in Natural Bridge—And the price leaves your sorely-tried purse smiling, too, for $5 (and $6) is so very little a price for so much beauty, quality, and foot-happiness.

LUND ASKS STUDY OF STATE HEALTH BUREAU EXPENSE

Cites Sharp Increase in Cost for Ten Years.

A legislative commission should be appointed at the first opportunity to examine the appropriations and expenditures of the state department of health, State Representative Arnold L. Lund [R., Riverside] said yesterday.

Lund, who has recommended a reduction of 60 millions in the cost of the state government, did not suggest a flat reduction in the $2,054,821 current biennial appropriation for the health department.

Fears Blame For Cut.

"One hesitates to make recommendations for economy in this department for fear that a possible epidemic might be blamed upon the reduction," he said. "I believe that the heads of this department know that and therefore make no effort to submit smaller figures in their budget. It is necessary that the expenditures of this department be given deliberation and study.

"Too often, under the guise of public health precautions, lavish and unnecessary appropriations are passed. Nobody wants the danger of epidemics or plagues and nothing should be done to curtail their prevention, but that is no justification for extravagance."

Lund noted that the total appropriation for the department has more than doubled in the last 10 years—from $935,090 to $2,054,821.

Calls Lump Fund Illegal.

The operation cost—a figure of $625,000 for the coming biennium—is almost five times greater than the comparable 1929-'31 figure, which was $132,731. The current figure, Lund said, is in a lump sum, unitemized, "which is a violation of the law."

"Salaries have risen nearly 80 per cent," he added, "travel has increased and office expense is nearly six times higher.

"How can the legislature know these increases are bona fide? It is impossible to tell whether they are legitimate when figures showing just how the money is to be spent are not submitted. That is why the legislature should study the needs of the department and determine this fact for its own satisfaction."

COMMUNITY FUND DRIVE NEARS END, '39 GOAL IN SIGHT

Within sight of its goal of $3,611,000, the Community Fund will push its 1939 campaign into its final stages this week. Mark A. Brown, industrial chairman, announced yesterday that only $449,717 is needed to reach the quota alloted for the 178 charitable and welfare agencies which will share in the fund.

Subscriptions from 2,502 concerns with 575,357 employés have been received by the fund.

Among subscriptions acknowledged yesterday was one for $15,810 from employés and executives of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, which was in addition to a gift from the corporation of $27,500. Another was a contribution of $2,500 from the Continental Can company.

Honduran Congress Extends President's Term 10 Years

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Dec. 16 (AP).—A 10 year extension of the present presidential term was approved unanimously today by the Honduran congress. As a result the president of the republic, Tiburcia Carias Andino, and the vice president, Abraham Williams, who took office in 1933, will hold their jobs until 1949.

HALT SLUSH FUND LEVIES, HORNER ORDERS WORKERS

Action Follows Storm of Protest in State.

Gov. Horner has instructed state department heads to stop collecting 2 per cent salary levies from Illinois civil service employés. The levies were made by the Illinoisans, agency which is raising the Horner 1940 campaign fund, and have stirred storms of criticism in many sections of the state.

The governor's order was disclosed yesterday by Gen. John V. Clinnin, only Republican member of the state civil service commission. S. L. Nudelman, state finance director and an active member of the Illinoisans, confirmed Gen. Clinnin.

View Order as Admission.

Republican leaders, who said the new order was virtually an admission that the Illinoisans had been violating the law against soliciting civil service workers, asserted the governor should have gone further and compelled a return of sums already collected from this group.

"This has been going on for a long, long time," said Richard J. Lyons, candidate for the G. O. P. nomination for governor. "Christmas is near and Gov. Horner should direct the department heads to return the 2 per cent that has been shaken from them. His private tax on state employés incomes is illegal.

"I know, even if he doesn't, that Illinois housewives are tired of paying the 3 per cent sales tax on bread and butter so that pay rollers may be hired to give the administration 2 per cent of state employés salaries for a political campaign."

Only a week ago 50 Republican legislators signed a round robin letter addressed to the governor, demanding that he stop the salary levy collections. On Thursday the civil service committee of the Union League club voted a thoro investigation of the Illinoisan practices. State's Attorney Charles A. O'Connor of Kane county has threatened grand jury action if he discovers the organization violating the law.

Collector Defies Law.

The state civil service commission reported Dec. 1 that there was evidence of illegal pressure being put on state workers. Other investigators learned that H. A. Stone, a representative of the Illinoisans, went into state institutions to collect. Later Stone established his headquarters in hotels. He defied State's Attorney James E. Burke of Will county when the latter questioned his actions.

Gen. Clinnin said the governor warned his department heads at a closed meeting in Springfield Dec. 11. Clinnin emphasized that the order covered all employés in classified divisions, and was not confined to those who have taken examinations and established full civil service status.

The governor was quoted by Clinnin as saying: "I would rather not have any contributions than to have the law violated, altho I favor many small contributions to large gifts from people who would expect favors."

INJURIES IN FALL FATAL.

Mrs. Etta O'Regan, 84 years old, 1645 Adams street, a widow, died in County hospital yesterday from a broken hip suffered Nov. 21 in a fall in her home.

2 LAVA STREAMS POUR DOWN SIDE OF MT. VESUVIUS

NAPLES, Italy, Dec. 16 (AP).—Vesuvius sent two new 50 yard wide streams of lava pouring down the mountainside today toward the "valley of hell" and the town of Terzigno. After a first alarm, however, officials said there was no danger to the populace. A railroad at the base of the volcano and funicular railway on its slopes continued to operate. The two new rivers of lava began overnight and continued during the day.

SCOTT Custom Built Radio

OFFERS PERFORMANCE WE BELIEVE UNAPPROACHED BY ANY OTHER RADIO RECEIVER IN THE WORLD!

We unreservedly guarantee a Custom Built Scott to outperform, in a side by side test, any other radio receiver in the world, regardless of price. You alone are the judge. If it does not have finer tone, purer undistorted reproduction, greater selectivity . . . if it does not bring in weak foreign stations with more volume and greater clarity . . . you can return it within 30 days for refund.

PRECISION MADE-TO-ORDER

Each Scott is custom built with the precision of a fine watch for performance impossible with receivers made in factories by mass production methods, yet they cost little more. Sensitivity is so great finest laboratory test equipment can hardly measure the extremely faint signals tuned in and amplified to loud speaker volume by this magnificent, super powerful radio instrument. We believe the Scott holds more verified long distance reception records than any other radio receiver.

CHOICE OF FAMOUS MUSICIANS

Because of its superb tonal realism, the Custom Built Scott has long been chosen for personal use by famous musicians, scientists, artists of stage and screen, and many others trained to appreciate fine tone. The list of distinguished Scott owners reads like a "Who's Who" of the world.

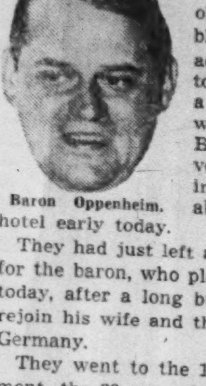
BEAUTY WRITES NOTE TO BARON; DIES IN PLUNGE

Tragedy Follows a Gay Farewell Party.

New York, Dec. 16 (AP).—After penciling a note of lost love in three languages, Lola Laszlo, 21 years old, a beautiful blonde Hungarian actress, plunged to death from the apartment of wealthy German Baron Frederick von Oppenheim in the fashionable Gladstone hotel early today.



Baron Oppenheim.

They had just left a farewell party for the baron, who planned to depart today, after a long business visit, to rejoin his wife and three children in Germany.

They went to the 10th floor apartment, the 39 year old baron told police, to get his Christmas presents for her and her family. She is the stepdaughter of Aladar Laszlo, Hungarian playwright-composer.

She Writes the Note.

While the baron was wrapping the presents, Miss Laszlo sat down and wrote a note. He asked her what it was. "You'll see it later," she said.

He went out of the room for a second and when he came back she was gone. A window stood open.

She crashed onto a first floor marquee on East 52d street before the eyes of passersby who had just left a nearby night club.

The note, in mixed German, Hungarian, and English, read:

"I can't get along without you very well. . . . I lost my last orchid and you. . . . I won't be able to see the bear any more. . . ." [The baron had a toy Teddy bear and police assumed she referred to this.]

Her Ambition: Hollywood.

Miss Laszlo, who came to America last spring, had hopes of a Hollywood career, but had been dancing in a small restaurant.

Her intimates were amazed at the idea of suicide. Her stepfather said: "It couldn't have been suicide. She had no reason to be depressed."

Police talked for four hours with the baron, who agreed to postpone his departure.

Boettigers on Way to Visit President Over Christmas

Hyde Park, N. Y., Dec. 16 [Special.] —John Boettiger, Seattle publisher, and Mrs. Boettiger, the former Anna Roosevelt, will arrive here tomorrow to spend the Christmas holidays with President Roosevelt.

Poses as Nearly Destitute; Dies with $5,000 in Bank

Mrs. Anna Durigan, 63 years old, represented herself as friendless and nearly destitute when she went to lodge in a rooming house at 3008 Jackson boulevard. Yesterday Mrs. Durigan died. In her effects was a bankbook showing that she had $5,000 on deposit in a loop bank. The police are searching for her relatives.

FREED IN STOCK SALE CASE, SAYS HE WAS KIDNAPED

Brings $200,000 Suit for False Prosecution.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 16 [Special]. —August J. Petrie, 66 years old, former president of the Evinrude Motor company, today filed suit for $200,000 damages against Robert W. Roberts, former treasurer of the Milwaukee Forge and Machine company. The suit followed dismissal of charges against Petrie of obtaining money under false pretenses and violating the state securities law.

Petrie charged that he had been forcibly and illegally removed from Florida and brought to Milwaukee in chains by Roberts and John Zilavy, detective from the Milwaukee district attorney's office, to face the charges.

Scrap Started by Stock Sale.

Petrie's suit was one of a tangle of legal actions that followed a stock transaction between the two industrialists. Both are retired and living in Florida.

Roberts attempted retaliation to Petrie's damage suit by having Petrie served on a $5,000 civil damage suit. Petrie's attorneys, Henry J. Bendinger and Walter J. Hofer, advised their client he need not accept service. He had been illegally brought from Florida, they said, and legally was not in the state for service.

The rumpus between the two retired businessmen began in January, 1934, when Roberts alleged Petrie sold him 25,000 shares of class B stock of the Aurora, Ill. Brewing company for $5,000 but did not make delivery.

Both Charges Dismissed.

After a three hour hearing yesterday Assistant District Attorney Andrew Brunjart asked dismissal of the fraud charge and Civil Judge Francis Jennings also dismissed the charge of selling stock without a license.

Petrie's suit was filed as soon as he was freed by Judge Jennings. Petrie charged he had been called from a Pensacola, Fla. hotel by Roberts and Zilavy, forced into Roberts' automobile, and held captive by arm and leg chains while he was driven here. He said no warrant was served until he reached Milwaukee.

Zilavy said Petrie was arrested on an extradition warrant signed by the governor of Florida. "No leg or arm chains were used," Zilavy said, "there was a handcuff on one of his wrists while we were riding and it was removed whenever we stopped and he got out of the car."

MIRALOTTE L. SAUER BECOMES BRIDE OF RAYMOND W. ICKES

Miss Miralotte Lucia Sauer and Raymond Wilmarth Ickes were married last evening in the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Louis Wendlin Sauer of Winnetka. After the ceremony, which was read by the Rev. Samuel D. Harkness of the Winnetka Congregational church, a reception was held in the residence.

Mr. Ickes is the son of Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, who was the best man. The only attendant of the bride was Mrs. Harold L. Marks. The bridegroom is an assistant United States district attorney in New York and the couple will be at home in that city after a honeymoon trip to Florida.

SAW HOLE IN WALL; ROB STORE.

Burglars sawed a hole in the side of the Robert Barrick paint store at 6050 Halsted street early yesterday and stole $300, 20 dozen paint brushes, a $100 watch, and a $300 diamond ring.

HULL CALLS COST BASIS FOR TARIFF 'IMPRACTICABLE'

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16 (AP).—In a new defense of the administration's trade agreements program, Secretary of State Cordell Hull criticized as "unsound and impracticable" today a suggestion by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] that tariffs be based on the spread between domestic and foreign production costs.

Hull contended in a letter to the Michigan senator that this would involve a return to the flexible provisions of the 1922 and 1930 tariff acts, which he said had been discredited.

"If experience counts for anything at all, it surely shows that such a course would be a tragic one for the future of the nation," he asserted.

Hull's letter, latest preliminary shot in the fight expected at the next session of congress over the question of extending the trade agreements act, replied to a Nov. 24 letter in which Vandenberg said he did not wish to return to the "old log-rolling tariff processes," but instead would like to have rates adjusted under a formula laid down by congress so as to equal "the difference in cost of production at home and abroad."

3 EMPTY CASH REGISTERS STOLEN.

Burglars broke into the Skokie Valley Ice Cream store at 1630 Irving Park road yesterday and stole three locked cash registers and $10 worth of candy. The registers were empty.

FRENCH PAPERS HIT MOVE TO JOIN HITLER AS ALLY

Oppose Pooling of Forces for War on Bolshevism.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 16.—French newspapers today cracked down on what they called subversive tendencies to distract the public from remembering that Fuehrer Hitler is the principal enemy against whom the war is being fought.

The newspapers deploring this tendency indirectly admit that powerful elements have even been recommending Hitler as the spearhead in a crusade against bolshevism.

Le Matin, always bitterly anti-communistic, in admitting that such opinion exists decries it as idiotic because "it is as if Hitler were going to participate in a war against himself."

Calls Hitler and Stalin Alike.

The semi-official Le Temps, after praising Minister of Interior Albert Sarraut's warning against communistic propaganda, which it declares still is a problem in France, cautions the public against distinguishing between Hitler and Dictator Stalin of Russia.

Le Temps cites a brochure which has been distributed all over France and which, it says, is certain to cause many people to believe that "Germany is only a negligible enemy and should be asked to aid the fight against the great danger of communism."

The brochure is quoted as explaining in almost the same terms as Count Galeazzo Ciano's speech in Rome today that Great Britain and France forced a reluctant Hitler into the Moscow pact and as stating that Hitler was even more displeased with the Russian attack on small neutrals than the empires themselves.

Le Temps maintains that the "public will remember Hitler is the main aggressor and Stalin his accomplice."

See Little Chance for Action.

The possibility of any immediate important military developments on the French-German front daily seems more remote as official declarations and newspapers continue to declare that useless action will not contribute to victory.

The Journal Des Debats declares that the most difficult task in both the battle and political fields is proper timing and warns against any sudden action in either sphere where success is not assured by a complete understanding of the problems involved.

This follows Premier Edouard Daladier's demand in the chamber of deputies that 10,000 radio sets be sent to the troops at the front which, he said, will be worth many times the price "it if keeps the soldiers from being bored."

Civilians Face Hardships.

Less solicitude is shown for the welfare of the public, however. Finance Minister Paul Reynaud announced when presenting the budget last week that the economy of the country is based entirely on the military needs and economic advantage of France.

He added that the time may come when not anything which only contributes to the happiness of the civilian population will be imported.

Other deputies warned the civilian population that they have no idea of how great or to what extent will be the sacrifices and deprivations they will be asked to make before the war is over.

So far as night life in Paris is concerned, the deprivations so far consist of nothing more than keeping more sober hours and the inconveniences of getting home during the semi-blackouts. But the normal Parisian housewife observes beefless, hamless and vealless days twice weekly.

Escape Red Bombs

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mrs. Elna Sorderman and sons, Jarmo and Martti, as they landed in New York from Finland.

New York, Dec. 16 [Special].—The first Finnish refugees from the Red invasion of their homeland arrived in New York today with harrowing tales of the bombing of Helsingfors.

The 240 refugees were among the 274 passengers aboard the Norwegian-America liner Oslofjord, which docked at Brooklyn at the end of its final Atlantic crossing for the duration of the war. The Oslofjord will be placed in the West Indies cruise service.

Mrs. Edna Sorderman, 32 years old, told how she and her 4 months old baby, Martti, were on a bus in Helsingfors when the Russian planes began dropping their bombs. The bus driver raced thru the débris-littered streets to a suburb and none was injured.

George Sorderman, 40, her husband, was at work in a factory when the bombing started.

"I passed a six-story house which had been struck by bombs and set afire," Mrs. Sorderman said. "They were carrying out the dead as I passed. The earth shook from bomb detonations. Later, from a hill, I watched far into the night as sections of Helsingfors burned."

Sorderman and his wife both are naturalized Americans. He, his wife, Martti, and another child, 4, plan to live in Mount Vernon, N. Y.

FRENCH VICTORS IN HAND TO HAND FIGHT WITH NAZIS

Company of Foe Is Hurled Back, Says Paris.

PARIS, Dec. 16 (AP).—Hand to hand fighting on the western front was reported tonight by the French command for the first time in weeks. French troops inflicted heavy losses on a German company that attacked east of the Moselle river and was repulsed.

A communique issued tonight by the French general staff said the attack was made early in the morning after artillery preparation. The communique follows:

"The enemy attempted a raid about 6:15 this morning [12:15 a. m. Chicago time] on one of our outposts east of the Moselle river.

Two Prisoners Escape.

"The raid was carried out by a detachment of approximately a company after artillery and minnenwerfer [infantry trench mortar] preparation and was protected by artillery and heavy machine gun fire during the engagement.

"The attacked post defended itself energetically in hand to hand fighting. The enemy was repulsed with heavy losses and left in our hands arms and material.

"They succeeded in taking two prisoners, who were able to escape by profiting by our fire and rejoined our lines."

Chamberlain in Fishing Outfit.

WITH THE BRITISH EXPEDITIONARY FORCE IN FRANCE, Dec. 16 (AP).—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain donned his salmon fishing outfit today to inspect British troops in the mud and cold. He wore a brown sport suit, canvas ankle leggings and a rubber coat. Soldiers cheered him lustily on his 100 mile tour. One cry heard was "Good old Nev!" At an airdrome the premier refused afternoon tea, saying he was too busy and believed he had lost the habit.

FOUR AMERICAN NATIONS AGREE ON WAR STAND

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 16 (AP).—Agreement was reached tonight by representatives of the United States, Argentina, Brazil and Uruguay on the text of a joint declaration once more fencing off the American republics and their waters from the European war. The declaration, to which other American nations were expected to give their consent, probably will be made by Tuesday.

A high Argentine official confirmed that the consultations had reached a conclusive stage and said the ambassadors were reporting to their governments.

He said feeling was widespread that now was the time for a strong, unanimous expression against repetition in American waters of the battle last Wednesday between the German Admiral Graf Spee and three British cruisers.

stricted to a few flights. Our own air force made numerous reconnoitering flights in different sectors during the day. Our antiaircraft batteries shot down one enemy plane."

The Russian Communique.

MOSCOW, Dec. 17 [Sunday] (AP).—Advances in the Murmansk and Ukhta areas and insignificant skirmishes on other sectors of the Finnish front were announced early today by the Leningrad headquarters of the Russian army. The communique said:

"On Dec. 16, in the Murmansk and Ukhta directions, the soviet troops continued to advance.

"In other directions there were insignificant skirmishes and action by patrols.

"Retreating from Salmijarvi, the Finns burned down all buildings belonging to the Finnish population and forcibly took away the population.

"Brick houses belonging to concessionaires were not burned but windows were smashed. The inhabitants were evacuated by the Finns."

Russia Replies to League.

In an authorized statement on its expulsion from the league of nations, Russia declared it was not waging or interested in waging a war against Finland.

The statement, released by Tass, official news agency, blamed France and Britain for the expulsion of Russia and asserted that army operations in Finland were aimed at what it called the bankrupt Finnish rulers of the Mannerheim clique.

[Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim is head of the Finnish national defense council.]

Asserting that the communist people's government of the democratic republic of Finland was the legitimate government of Finland, the statement maintained that Russia's relations with its little neighbor were peaceful and friendly.

[After Russia invaded Finland, a communist-headed people's government was set up in Terijoki, a Finnish town near the frontier, and Russia signed a mutual assistance pact with this régime.]

Cites Rule Over Africa.

Asserting that the ruling circles of Britain and France dictated the league decision to oust Russia, the statement said the empires have neither the moral nor the formal right to talk about aggression of the U. S. R. R. nor to condemn this aggression. It cited the rule by the empires over vast territories in Asia and Africa, and their rejection of German peace offers.

Observers expressed belief that the statement's reference to the People's government as Finland's only legitimate régime indicated that Russia plans to ignore the radio appeal for peace by Vaino Tanner, Finnish foreign minister.

British Women Ask Queen and Roosevelt to Aid Peace

LONDON, Dec. 16 (AP).—A massmeeting sponsored by the Women's Peace campaign today presented an appeal to Queen Elizabeth for aid in getting an international conference to seek "a return of methods of reason and negotiation." The meeting also adopted a resolution urging that President Roosevelt call a conference of neutral countries to make recommendations to the belligerents for ending the war.

WATER COLORS DONE BY HITLER TO WOO RUSSIA

Moscow and Berlin to Trade Art Exhibits.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—Further to strengthen the ties of Nazis and bolsheviks, high officials of both countries are preparing a "kultur" exchange which will center around exhibits of paintings to be shown in Germany and Russia.

The program includes the loan of four portraits of Adolf Hitler in different uniforms in a German collection to be shown in Moscow and other cities, and a series of bolshevik portraits of Dictator Josef Stalin and Premier Vyacheslav Molotov in a Russian collection to be displayed in the principal German cities.

Water colors by Hitler himself and his sketches of pillboxes and other fortifications, which were used in constructing the Seigfried line, will be included in the German exhibit that will be sent to Russia.

Movie industries of both countries are preparing to coöperate. The German labor front and the Russian cooperatives will make movies showing how workers live in Russia and in Germany. After these films are completed, Russo-German movie plays are to be produced.

The first group of Russian workers arrived in Germany this week. They are specialists in the automobile industry and will start their German training in the huge plant erected by Germany near Fallersleben for construction of the so-called people's automobiles.

SPEE ASKS CLEAR PATH FROM PORT; EXPECTED TO FLEE

Prepared for Assault on Foes' Battle Line.

worthy. Welders apparently placed a huge plate over the hole torn in her port bow during the battle with British cruisers, two of which are waiting outside the territorial waters for the Admiral Graf Spee. Meanwhile the ministers of Germany and Great Britain waged a last ditch fight last night over the warship, Germany seeking an extension of time in which she may remain here, Britain demanding her ejection or internment.

Dr. Langmann, the German minister, in repeated calls on the Uruguayan foreign minister, Alberto Guani, protested furiously against the time limit for the Admiral Graf Spee's stay in the harbor here. He contended the warship could not be made seaworthy within the deadline set by Uruguay.

American Minister Active.

Eugen Millington-Drake, the British minister, was equally insistent during his many visits to the foreign office that the ship be allowed no further time for repairs. The American minister, Edwin C. Wilson, who has kept well informed on developments, also visited Guani.

Naval authorities of several nations said only an order from Fuehrer Adolf Hitler would start the Admiral Graf Spee's commander, Capt. Hans Langsdorff, on the desperate gamble which would greatly imperil both his ship and its 900 young crewmen. The alternative was internment for the rest of the war.

A Dangerous Task.

The magnitude of the danger facing the ship if it attempts to race for its freedom became more evident as the day progressed. Known to be outside the harbor waiting with guns ready were the British cruisers Ajax and Achilles, which drove the Admiral Graf Spee into this port Wednesday night after a 14 hour running battle.

Also believed participating in the death watch over the German raider was the 10,000 ton British cruiser Cumberland. But both sides were reported to be rushing up reinforcements for the prospective battle.

The great British battle cruiser Renown and the aircraft carrier Ark Royal, steaming from South African waters, were expected at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, within striking distance of this vicinity, early today. The 26,500 ton French battleship Dunkerque was both reported already in the cordon and steaming toward it. Observers at the port of Rio Grande in Brazil said that a large warship had passed, southward, at dawn yesterday. This may have been the Dunkerque.

Three British Destroyers.

The Brazilian government-controled news agency, Agencia Nacional, said in a dispatch from Recife in northern Brazil that three British destroyers, the Hardy, Hero, and Hostile, had arrived at Rio de Janeiro, taken on oil and food and departed for an unrevealed destination.

The Admiral Graf Spee may not have to stand alone if it does choose to fight it out. A Reuters dispatch from London said the Rome radio had reported that the German pocket battleship Admiral Scheer, with an escort of submarines, was heading for Uruguay.

German officials have asserted that the Admiral Graf Spee took refuge here because she was almost out of oil. British officials, however, say the Admiral Graf Spee refueled from a tanker at sea less than a week ago and, if that is true, naval experts estimate her tanks are at least one-third full.

Big Battery Silent.

Neutral naval officers said the Admiral Graf Spee's stern battery was not functioning shortly after Wednesday's battle began, thus explaining how the British cruiser Exeter could close up to 1,000 yards from the Graf Spee. The guns of the stern battery can reach nearly 20 miles.

[The superstructure of the Exeter, which was damaged early in the naval battle, was so nearly shot away that the warship now looks like an open boat. This statement, contained in other news dispatches, was attributed to ship pilots at Bahia Blanca, Argentina, who said they saw the Exeter heading southward for the Falkland Islands, where the British have a naval base.]

Observers said the German ship's motors also must have been damaged as it made 18 knots along the last 50 mile stretch into Montevideo when she was fleeing from the British cruisers Ajax and Achilles. She normally is capable of 26 knots.

British officials did not hide their confidence that the Admiral Graf Spee has no chance of escaping the warships off shore.

GERMANY AWAITS BIG SEA BATTLE; HITLER IN PARLEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—Fuehrer Adolf Hitler, Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, and General Admiral Erich H. A. Raeder conferred here tonight as the nation awaited expectantly for the naval battle it believes is in preparation off the coast of Uruguay.

It was understood that all German naval units with a chance of actively assisting the Admiral Graf Spee were speeding in the direction of Montevideo. The Germans believed that a number of submarines on duty in the Atlantic would try to come to the rescue of the beleaguered raider.

In some nonofficial circles the advisability of the Admiral Graf Spee not attempting to leave Montevideo and allowing the crew to be interned was discussed. Officials declared that the final decision was "in the hands of the ship's commander."

Five Possibilities for Graf Spee

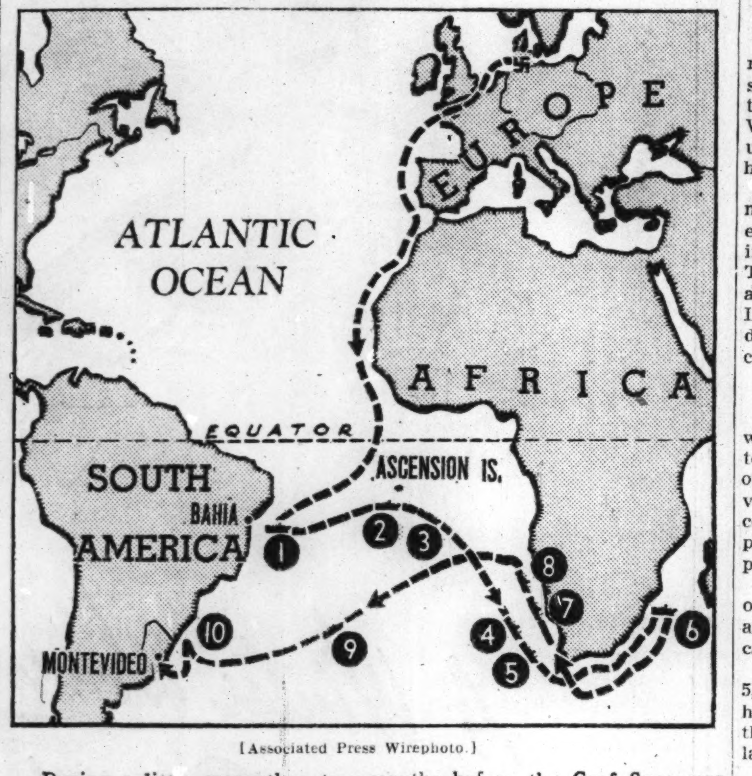
If the German pocket battleship Graf Spee, chased into the Montevideo, Uruguay, harbor by British cruisers, leaves today to avoid internment, it may attempt to retrace the course by which it arrived (1). Other possibilities are a dash for the open sea (2), heading southward along the coast in Argentine waters (3), going to Buenos Aires, Argentina (4), or moving up the Uruguay river (5).



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

During a little more than two months before the Graf Spee was driven into port at Montevideo, Uruguay, by three British cruisers last Wednesday, the German pocket battleship was credited with sinking nine ships totaling 49,999 tons. The map shows the approximate route of the raider, beginning at a German port, and the areas where the sinkings occurred. The sinkings follow: The Clement, 5,051 tons, Sept. 30 (1); the Newton Beech, 4,651 tons, Oct. 5 (2); the Ashleen, 4,222 tons, Oct. 7 (3); the Huntsman, 8,196 tons, Oct. 10 (4); the Trevanion, 5,299 tons, Oct. 15 (5); the Africa Shell, 706 tons, Nov. 16 (6); the Doric Star, 10,086 tons, Dec. 4 (7); the Tairoa, 7,893 tons, Dec. 4 (8); and the Streonshahl, 3,895 tons, Dec. 7 (9). The battle last Wednesday followed an attack by the Graf Spee on the decoy ship Formose (10).

CITY'S PASTORS OFFER PRAYERS FOR FINNS TODAY

Pastors of Chicago churches have been asked to offer prayers for Finland at services today, which is Finland day in Illinois by proclamation of Gov. Horner. Many ministers will appeal for contributions to the Finnish Relief fund, recently organized under the direction of Herbert Hoover.

Philip R. Clarke, president of the City National Bank and Trust company, heads the committee of 24 civic leaders directing the collection of relief funds here. Headquarters has been established on the first floor of the bank building at 200 South La Salle street.

BRITISH HOLD JAP VESSEL CARRYING GERMAN EXPORTS

Examination May Provide Test of Blockade.

LONDON, Dec. 16 (AP).—The British contraband control today took for examination the Japanese steamer Sanyo Maru which sailed from Rotterdam with a cargo of German potash and machinery.

The examination of the freighter attracted unusual interest because it may turn into a test of the British order imposing a blockade on German exports, even on neutral ships. British officials said the examination was a routine one but neutral shippers were watching the case closely. Several neutral nations protested against imposition of the blockade on exports.

129 on Destroyer Lost.

The admiralty announced that 129 men—six officers and 123 enlisted sailors—perished in the sinking of the British destroyer Duchess, sunk Wednesday after a collision with an unidentified vessel. Earlier reports had placed the toll at 120.

Two Norwegian steamers struck mines and sank off Britain's northeast coast with 10 men reported missing, seven injured and 30 rescued. They were the 1,907 ton H. C. Flood and the 1,264 ton Rangi. Capt. Peder Indbu said the Ragni struck a mine during a dense fog and six of his crew were missing.

Swedish Ship Lost.

Another victim of the sea warfare was disclosed with the arrival at Rotterdam of 11 members of the crew of 20 of the Ursus, 1,499 ton Swedish vessel which sank off the English coast yesterday after an explosion apparently caused by a mine or a torpedo.

The Ursus raised the two day total of known sinkings to four British and three neutral ships and indicated a loss of about 80 lives.

Reports in Rotterdam said also the 5,217 ton Greek steamer Germaine had gone down in the Atlantic and that the Netherlands steamer Pennland had picked up the crew.

Escorts Prize of War.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 16 (AP).—The British cruiser Despatch was reported moving northward off the Chilean coast today with the 4,930 ton German freighter Duesseldorf as a war prize following its capture yesterday off Caldera, 360 miles north of Valparaiso. First reports indicated the Duesseldorf had been sunk instead of captured.

German Ships Safe Thus Far.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 16 (AP).—Word was reported today from the German liner Columbus and freighter Arauca, which left their refuge at Vera Cruz Thursday, that they were making their voyage without incident.

The Araucа gave her destination as New Orleans and the Columbus as Oslo, Norway, but informed sources said their courses might be changed to evade British warships. The vessels have the choice of two comparatively narrow outlets from Mexican gulf ports—the Yucatan channel, between southeastern Mexico and Cuba, and the straits of Florida, between Florida's southern tip and Cuba.

Week's Box Score on the War at Sea

Mercantile shipping again suffered heavily during the last week—the 15th of the war. From Dec. 10 thru Dec. 16 29 vessels grossing 83,757 tons were destroyed. The loss of life was 215. The following table records the losses for each country:

Nation.	Sunk by submarine or warship.	Mines.	Other causes or unknown.	Tonnage.	Known dead.
Britain	3	6	6	51,637	*147
Germany	1	0	1	6,313	*39

CANADA FREES 46 WAR PRISONERS; 700 STILL HELD

Enemy Aliens Kept in Two Camps.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 16.—Canada this week released 46 enemy aliens from concentration camps. The government also informed other aliens interned in the two camps in Canada that the board investigating the activities of subversive elements would be willing to investigate their cases with a view to liberating them.

Among those given their freedom on condition that they would do nothing to hinder the progress of the war were several Winnipeg grain men with close connections in Minneapolis. Their names are withheld at the request of the censor.

Two Internment Camps.

Canada has two enemy internment camps. One is at Kananaskis, 65 miles west of Calgary, Alta., in the foothills of the Rocky mountains on an old forestry camp. The second is at Petawawa, Ont., in the northern mining area. There are 200 aliens in the western camp and 500 in Ontario.

Two Germans who escaped from the western camp several days ago were recaptured Wednesday by Canadian northwest mounted police while they were getting into a taxicab in Calgary. The taxi had been engaged to take them across the border into Montana. They had been living on dried wild fruits found on trees and bushes, and sleeping in hay and straw stacks. They had $15 in cash on them and their eager desire, they said, was to get back to Germany.

Canada is easy on Germans who were quite outspoken in favor of Germany before the war. As long as they appear to be loyal to Canada as their home, they are not interfered with. German newspapers still are being published in Winnipeg, but they are more careful what they publish than they were before Sept. 1.

Consul General Goes to Chicago.

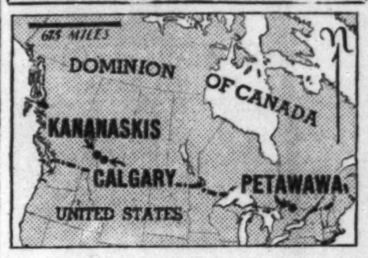
The German consul-general and his staff went to Chicago, without hindrance from Canadian authorities, at a date some time after the outbreak of hostilities in Europe.

All German agencies have been closed and their staffs have disappeared. Many are in internment camps. The 10,000 Germans in Winnipeg, however, have given no trouble.

It was different in the province of Alberta, where the mounted police had a difficult time rounding up the out-and-out Nazi sympathizers. Husbands were separated from their families in many cases, and the families were put on relief.

Many German ex-soldiers have joined the Canadian military corps for Canadian duty only.

Canada Holds Aliens



Five hundred aliens are imprisoned in a concentration camp at Petawawa, Ont., and 200 in a camp at Kananaskis, Alberta.

Dutch Will Open Air Line to South American Port

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands, Dec. 16.—Royal Dutch Air Lines is planning to open a trans-Atlantic service between Amsterdam and Paramaribo, Dutch Guinea, it was learned tonight. It will use Douglas planes and fly a route via Portugal and the Cape Verde Islands off West Africa. Mail only will be carried but the service may be opened to passengers next year.

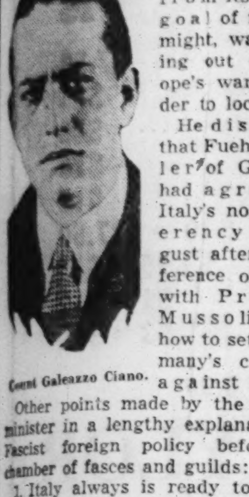
ITALY DISCLOSES DEAL WITH HITLER TO STAY NEUTRAL

Ciano Blames Empires for Nazi-Red Pact.

ROME, Dec. 16 (AP).—Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, declared today that Italy, three years from its self-set goal of military might, was keeping out of Europe's war in order to localize it.



Count Galeazzo Ciano.

He disclosed that Fuehrer Hitler of Germany had agreed to Italy's non-belligerency last August after a difference of views with Premier Mussolini over how to settle Germany's claims against Poland.

Other points made by the foreign minister in a lengthy explanation of Fascist foreign policy before the chamber of fasces and guilds:

1. Italy always is ready to aid in restoring peace, but it is equally determined to protect with an inflexible firmness the interests of its land, air and sea traffic, its prestige, and its future as a great power.

Opposes Balkan Bloc.

2. Italy opposes as useless the formation of a Balkan bloc of neutral powers, but desires to maintain and consolidate peace and order in the Danubian and Balkan sectors.

3. Italy remains loyal to its partnership with Germany.

Ciano's speech was the first exhaustive exposé of the Italian position in more than a year. Mussolini and diplomats of warring and neutral countries alike listened attentively as the 36 year old foreign minister, who is Il Duce's son-in-law, indicated that Italy would be involved in war only if its prestige and interests as an imperial power were challenged. William Phillips, American ambassador to Italy, was among the foreigners present.

Ciano warned Great Britain and France that real peace would be impossible as long as they insisted on restoration of Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, and Austria.

Blames Empires for Red Tie.

"Whoever wishes to work successfully for peace," he said, "must keep to the firm ground of reality."

He said the German rapprochement with the soviet union would have been avoided had Britain and France not forced it on Hitler by efforts to draw Russia into their plans to encircle Germany.

He disclosed that differences of views between Italy and Germany appeared for the first time at Salzburg over the way in which Hitler insisted on regaining the Free City of Danzig. Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, Hitler, and Ciano conferred there Aug. 11-13.

Previously, in Milan in May, before the German-Italian military alliance was signed, Ciano said Germany and Italy agreed on the necessity of making every effort to preserve and consolidate the peace of Europe for a long time.

"The duration of this period of peace necessary both to perfect their internal reconstruction and complete their military preparation was fixed at three years by us, while the Germans spoke of four or five years," he said.

They agreed, therefore, to raise no new disputes, Ciano said. He said the German-Polish controversy then was far from the acute stage when it no longer could be settled by negotiations.

Mussolini urged one more attempt at a peaceful solution, it was related, and got Hitler to agree to a joint declaration that they thought diplomatic negotiations still were possible.

But Hitler and Von Ribbentrop in long talks told Ciano why Germany could not accept further delay, at the same time clearly showing Hitler's desire to limit the conflict.

As explained by the authoritative editor, Virginio Gayda, in Il Giornale d'Italia, Germany then went its way, which led unexpectedly to the rapprochement with Russia.

21 BREMEN HEROES EXPECTED TO MEET ADOLF HITLER TODAY

BERLIN, Dec. 16 (AP).—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler was at work today in the chancellery, attending to state affairs and keeping a watch on war developments. His last known public appearance was at the celebration on Dec. 6 of Field Marshal August von Mackensen's 90th birthday. It was taken for granted that Hitler will receive Commodore Adolf Ahrens and 20 others of the crew of the liner Bremen, which Ahrens brought safely thru the British blockade to Bremerhaven, when they come here tomorrow.

BRITAIN'S LABOR LINK TO FRANCE WORRIES UNIONS

Suspect New Attempt to Suspend Rights.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 16.—Along with the new financial and economic tieup between the British and French governments, labor leaders of the two countries now are seeking to swing ten million Anglo-French trades unionists solidly behind the empires' war machine.

Sir Walter Citrine.

Seven hand picked members of the general council of the British trades union congress, headed by Sir Walter Citrine, returned to London tonight after conferring for two days with their French counterparts in Paris on wartime problems.

It was the first meeting of the recently established joint committee of Anglo-French trades union executives which was set up ostensibly to work out plans for defense of mutual interests in wartime and to counteract alleged attempts to drive a wedge between organized workers in Britain and France.

Conferences Puzzle Workers.

Both the British and French governments are actively sponsoring the pooled labor movement, but disquiet is expressed in labor circles here about events in factories and workshops in France and unionists generally are perplexed about the objects of the conferences. Under present arrangements, labor leaders hold monthly conferences in alternate capitals.

The rank and file of British trades unionists are confronted with curtailment of liberties already imposed by the British government in the guise of war emergency measures, and are wondering whether the labor chiefs plan to take a common stand against further encroachments or whether a move is afoot to import the French government's Draconic system of labor decrees to Britain.

They suspect an attempt may be launched under cover of the trades union pact to extend the application of compulsory overtime and wage cuts, coupled with longer working hours and the totalitarian methods of concentration camps and forced labor under military control, for those daring to oppose wartime labor conditions decreed by the government.

Report Forced Labor in France.

The press here has been pointing out that all French workers not in the army must contribute 15 per cent of their wages to a war chest and that 40 per cent of all overtime is deducted and shop stewards abolished.

Reports published here by the Times and the Daily Telegraph also state that decrees have been issued authorizing all French prefects to fix the place of residence "for persons dangerous to national defense or public safety," and such persons may be put to work on national defenses.

Objection has been voiced here to this approximation of alleged methods in Germany which, according to the New Statesman and the Nation, means that concentration camps and forced labor have been set up in France, Britain's ally.

France Adopts 70 Hour Week.

Much has been made here of the fact that the British and French delegates on the joint committee exchanged views on war time legislation as it affects the trades unions and also discussed the working of the French government's new labor decrees. Apart from crushing the shop stewards movement, stabilizing wages at the pre-war level, and compelling workers to surrender part of their overtime earnings to the state, the decrees cancel all elections in the unions for the duration of the war and replace the 40 hour week with a 70 hour week in basic industries.

GERMANS ESTABLISH VAST KITCHEN TO COOK FOR 30,000 NEEDY

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—Food for the 30,000 needy persons daily will be cooked in what is termed the most modern kitchen in the world. The kitchen has been established in a Berlin suburb by the Nazi winter relief organization. Thruout the winter, until March, the food will be transported in huge thermos containers to 115 distribution centers in the capital.

The kitchen is so huge that the food is handled on conveyor belts. The belts transport meat and vegetables to various machines that prepare them for cooking. Potatoes, for instance, are weighed, peeled and washed automatically while moving on from machine to machine until they reach the boiler where they are cooked. The boiler has a capacity of more than 200 gallons.

All refuse is sorted out and dumped on a conveyor belt, which transports it to a central depot where it is collected and used for fattening hogs.

The kitchen employs 120 persons, who work from 2 to 9 a. m.

TWO GUN BANDIT LEARNS HIS PAL ISN'T ON SQUARE

Elton R. Anderson, 26 years old, late of Memphis, Tenn., Paducah, Ky., and other points south, learned early today that there is little honor among thieves.

He and a companion held up Joseph Tranchitello, 1524 Frontier street, a taxicab driver. The companion did the actual robbing, and gave Anderson a fistful of change as his share. Then he separated from Anderson.

Not long afterward Policemen William Hoey and Martin Tully of the Central station seized Anderson, who was carrying two guns, both empty except for a blank cartridge. They found $2 in his pockets. Anderson claimed 86 cents as his own money, making his net loot only $1.14. Then he learned his disappearing pal had actually robbed Tranchitello of $8, taking most of the loot himself. Anderson was disappointed, but immediately proceeded to get even. He gave police the name of his cheating confederate.

3 DOCTORS URGE TRANSFUSIONS IN TREATING BURNS

Indiana Researchers Find Fluids Ineffectual.

A revolutionary method for the treatment of severe burns—the use of blood transfusions rather than tannic acid—is described in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The treatment, which gives a new conception of the effects of burns on blood and tissues, was developed by Dr. H. M. Trusler, Dr. H. L. Egbert, and Dr. H. S. Williams of Indianapolis, Ind., working at the Indiana university medical center. It not only involves blood transfusions, but deprecates the common practice of giving water, often by force, to a burned person.

In their studies the Indiana physicians were concerned with the fatal shock reaction which often comes a few hours or even a few days after a burn. Such a reaction may occur in a case that seems to be progressing favorably. The chief factor in this, they write, is the reaction of the capillaries [or minute blood vessels] to heat injury.

Burn Shock Explained.

"Following a burn," they explain, "the capillaries in the injured area dilate or expand. The circulation [of the blood] stagnates, and the blood plasma, or fluid part of the blood, escapes thru these injured capillaries into the tissue spaces.

"If the burn involves a sufficient number of capillaries, the patient dies of shock due to a loss of blood fluid so rapid that nothing can be done to replace it. Fluids injected into the vein merely wash out into the tissue spaces."

Because of this drying up of the blood, it is common practice, they assert, to force fluids into the blood by injections into the veins and by mouth. In these instances, they contend, the burn shock is complicated by a waterlogging of blood and tissues, producing water-intoxication.

Cite Two Cases as Proof.

The physicians cite two cases to support their contentions. One is that of a 2 year old girl whose burns were treated under the tannic acid method. [Tannic acid, an astringent, is used to form an eschar, or scab, on the injured surface, protecting it and preventing the escape of blood fluids.] No blood transfusion was given, and she died four days later.

The other case is that of a 15 year old girl, severely burned when her evening dress caught fire. The burns covered 55 per cent of the surface of her body, and, altho any involvement of more than 50 per cent usually is fatal, she was out of the hospital and home a month later. She was treated by the blood transfusion method, with a total of six transfusions in four days, the first eight hours after the burn.

SOVIET COMPANY AND AIDS INDICTED IN U. S. SPY HUNT

2 Others Refuse to Testify Before Grand Jury.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16.—The first indictments in the six months' investigation by the department of justice into the activities of spies and foreign agents in the United States were voted by a federal grand jury and returned in the United States District court here today.

The indictments charge Bookniga, Inc., of New York City, and three of its officers with violation of the foreign agents' registration act. Those named are Morris Liskin, president; Raphael Rush, vice president, and Nolan Weinberg, secretary-treasurer. All are stockholders in the corporation.

Bookniga was described as the agent and representative of Mezhkniga of Moscow for the sale and distribution in the United States of books, magazines, periodicals, and pamphlets of a political and propagandous nature and for political and propaganda purposes.

Three Counts in Indictment.

The indictments in the first count charge that the three men, from Sept. 8, 1938, to April 6, 1939, were agents in the distribution of communistic literature and failed to register at the state department as foreign agents, as required by the alien registry law of June, 1938.

The second count names the three men together with the Bookniga corporation and charges a conspiracy to avoid the required registration. This count charges that Rush on three separate occasions wrote to Charles W. Yost, chief of the state department's arms and munitions section, stating that Bookniga was not an agent for a foreign principal.

The third count charges the men refused to file the proper registration papers with the state department.

New Jury to Be Called.

The grand jury, which heard Attorney General Frank Murphy testify Thursday on the nature of his campaign, spent but five days on the case. A special grand jury is to be convened here in January to investigate irregularities in the registration and passports of foreign agents.

This special grand jury is to be one of a nation-wide chain of such bodies, one of which will be in Chicago. The Chicago body will hear evidence gathered by the bureau of investigation of the department of justice and by the Chicago police. Lieut. Make Mills of the Chicago police department, an expert on subversive activities, has been coöperating with federal agents.

Two other men, Boris Nicolsky and A. Illyin, who were involved in the investigation, were liberated in custody of their attorney, Horace S. Whitman, altho government counsel stated they refused to testify on behalf of the government before the grand jury. Justice department attorneys identified them as employés of Amtorg corporation, the huge Russian commercial firm with headquarters in New York.

Besides the men named in today's indictments and the recalcitrant witnesses justice department officials revealed several others are under investigation.

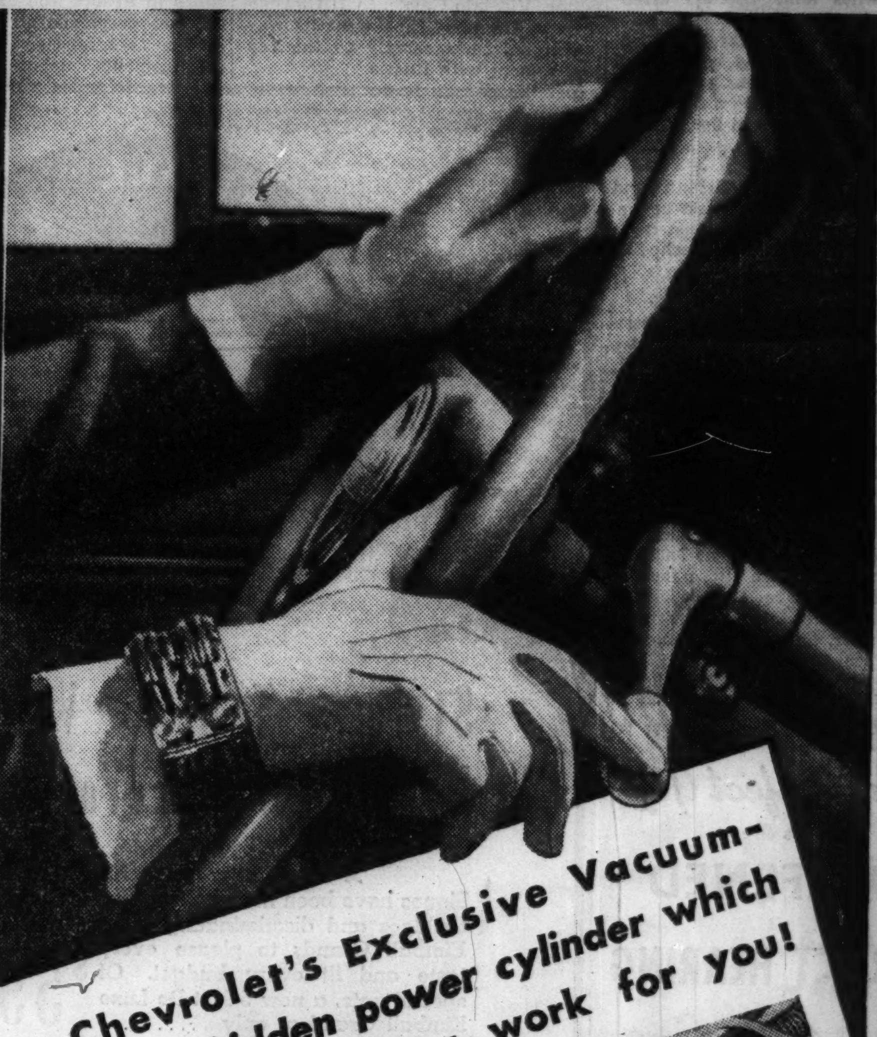
"Chevrolet's FIRST Again!"

Only Chevrolet has this EXCLUSIVE VACUUM-POWER SHIFT!



—and only Chevrolet's Exclusive Vacuum-Power Shift has a hidden power cylinder which does 80% of the gearshifting work for you!

Why shift for yourself? Why do it the hard way? Chevrolet's Exclusive Vacuum-Power Shift is controlled from the steering column by an extra-short lever—its end right under the rim of the steering wheel, within easy finger reach. The only effort required of the driver is to move the lever; the vacuum cylinder supplies the effort required to move the shifter forks and gears within the transmission. Instead of supplying all the effort of shifting, the driver supplies only one-fifth; the compact, simple vacuum mechanism, positive and unfailing in operation, does the rest.

80% AUTOMATIC—ONLY 20% DRIVER EFFORT!

YOU know the old saying . . . "Appearances are deceiving." . . . Well, nowhere does this apply more fully than to steering column gearshifts in today's automobiles.

All steering column gearshifts look more or less alike. . . . But only Chevrolet's New Exclusive Vacuum-Power Shift acts for itself when you touch the lever. . . . Only this one advanced steering column gearshift is 80% automatic in operation!

You see, Chevrolet's New Exclusive Vacuum-Power Shift has a hidden power cylinder. And this power cylinder goes into action the instant you start to shift gears. It does 80% of the work for you instead of letting you push and tug and do all the work yourself!

You want the newest and best—the best in driving and riding ease, the best in styling and road-action—and on all these counts "Chevrolet's FIRST Again!"

AUDIENCE HAILS GRACE MOORE'S SINGING IN LOUISE

City Opera Company Ends '39 Subscription Season.

BY CECIL SMITH.

The 1939 Chicago City Opera company ended its subscription season in the Civic Opera house last night with a repetition of Charpentier's "Louise," attended by a large audience. Only two postseason performances, both of "La Bohème" [on Monday evening and on New Year's eve] remain to complete the year's opera schedule.

In its two earlier representations "Louise" proved to be the most notable production of the season, and it remained so last night. Once again Grace Moore gave a performance not only warmly and movingly human, but also imaginatively conceived in tremendously effective musical and theatrical terms.

Exceptional Gift Revealed.

It has been one of the season's most rewarding experiences to discover the hitherto unrevealed extent of Miss Moore's exceptional gift for the operatic stage when she finds a part that is completely suited to her vigorous, outgoing temperament.

Doris Doe made her local operatic debut as Louise's mother, singing the part well in a biting tone and acting in a relentless, nagging manner. André Burdino, Léon Rothier, and a long list of others repeated their excellent earlier performances, and Louis Hasselmans conducted superbly.

Repetition in Name Only.

The afternoon presentation of "Tosca" was a repetition in name only, for all three of the major rôles were undertaken by artists who had not sung them at the season's single earlier performance. Elen Dosia, as Floria Tosca, finished her assignment for the year by leaping off a Roman parapet. Jan Kiepura and George Czaplicki, her fellow principals, both will be heard in special postseason performances.

Mr. Kiepura was an object of special adulation and often was interrupted at awkward and inconclusive moments by scattered groups who seemed inordinately eager to applaud. His last act aria, "E lucevan le stelle," brought down the whole house, as it ought to have, because his singing was a model of beautiful tone and fluent production.

Monolog Rousing Affair.

Mr. Czaplicki's impersonation of the treacherous Scarpia has grown in histrionic stature and improved in vocal focus since a year ago. With ample tone and bold theatrical accents he made a rousing affair out of the famous second act monolog, as he had earlier with the "Va, Tosca" soliloquy at the end of the first act.

Miss Dosia, I must say frankly, still is miscast in the title part. Her voice is too light and lyric, so that she spends a good deal of her time preparing for musical climaxes she usually is unable to achieve.

Of course it was a pleasure to see her on the stage, however, for she is a genuinely decorative member of the company. The action of her Tosca is in the main effective, tho it has something of a tendency to resolve into disconnected episodes of contrived action and movement.

Wed in Kenilworth

[Koehne Photo.]

MRS. ROBERT BETHKE.

The Church of the Holy Comforter in Kenilworth was the setting for a beautiful wedding yesterday afternoon when Miss Patricia Davis became the bride of Robert H. Bethke of New York. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Davis, gave a reception at their Kenilworth home after the ceremony.

Miss Davis, who was attended by Miss Betty Moore Davis as maid of honor, wore an ivory satin gown cut along straight lines with a high neck and long sleeves. Her veil was of fingertip length. The bridesmaids were Miss Katherine Bethke, the bridegroom's sister; Miss Barbara Wilder, Mrs. Harlan O. Page Jr., and Miss Philomena Baker.

Mr. Bethke, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bethke of Chicago, had his brother, Arthur, as best man. Ushers were Philip R. Clarke Jr., Julian Kiser of Indianapolis, Charles S. Wilson Jr., Samuel Whiteside of Grand Rapids, Mich., Richard Smith, and the bride's brother, Paul H. Davis Jr.

Mr. Bethke and his bride will motor thru the south for two or three weeks and then go to Kew Gardens, Long Island, N. Y., where they will make their home.

INDIANA SOCIETY POKES RAZZ AT McNUTT'S HOPES

Aspirant for President Draws Hoosier Gibes.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Some 1,100 men who once were little boys in Indiana gathered at the Palmer House last night for the 28th annual dinner of the Indiana Society of Chicago.

The assemblage was impressive. The night was costly [$12.50 a plate]. The $13,750 entertainment was a man named McNutt, Paul V., former governor of Indiana and now candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. Mr. McNutt, white-haired and smiling ["The U. S. A.'s gift to women!" a banner proclaimed], sat at the speaker's table, guest of honor, as he heard and saw his political aspirations made the butt of the choicest buffoonery given annually.

Two doorways decorated the stage. One was labeled the 2% Club. The other was the G. O. P. Doghouse. Into one, directed by F. Harold Van Orman, Hoosier hotel magnate, went prominent Democrats, cautioned to "pay till it hurts." Into the other went—the others.

Banter on the Banners.

Pickets paraded constantly thru the audience. They bore banners proclaiming, "Dealer's Choice." "I Am a 2%-er." "Peppery Paul for President." "You Can't Be Frank for McNutt," and "Every Night Is Bank Night at the 2% Club."

On this high plane the evening started, while a proxy placed in the mouth of McNutt the theme song of the evening, sung to the tune of "Wishing":

Wishing—that's all I do,
Wishing—and hoping too,
Wishing Mr. Roosevelt—would be so kind,
Not to be the nominee—gee, I wish I knew his mind.

Wishing—that Garner'd go—
Fishing in Mexico.
If wishing Franklin Delano,
Mrs. Elano—
With Admiral Byrd would go—then
Wishing will make it so.

A special edition of an Indiana paper announced McNutt's election. Two minutes later came the announcement he had changed the name of all holidays to McNutt day. Moreover, he had a plan to end unemployment: Whitewash Yellowstone National park.

To all of this banter and much, much more, Mr. McNutt responded with, "Brother, can you spare a dime?" He said the Indiana boys had been tough enough, but "awfully kind." He said he thought he was "case hardened and heat tempered" by now, since "actually I am only a stone's throw from the post office and an epithet's throw from the department of the interior." This referred to opposition to him voiced by Postmaster General James Farley and Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes.

Mr. McNutt then discussed politics, mostly Republican. He referred to his arch enemy, Ickes, with "howling Harold is anxious to play, as you well know, but shouts from the sideline indicate he should stay on the bench." He talked, subtly and gaily, on and on and on, and a fat, hot Hoosier on the balcony arose and with finality declared, "I was for him when I came in, but he talks too damn long."

But he didn't say a word about Peppery Paul for President.

Gets Verdict of $50,000 for Leg Cut Off by Train

Harry Adams, 1913 Erie street, a switchman, was awarded $50,000 damages from the Chicago and Erie railroad in a jury verdict returned yesterday in the Superior court of Judge John F. Haas. Adams lost a leg, according to evidence submitted by his attorney, Joseph D. Ryan, on the night of Dec. 5, 1938, when he was struck by a freight train in the railroad yards at 51st street while attempting to signal to the crew of a switch engine.

DAD IN JAIL, SON, 10, IN HOSPITAL AFTER A BINGE

Kenneth Smolinski, 10 years old, 4333 Marmora avenue, accompanied his father, Walter, on a tavern to tavern tour last night. The journey ended with Kenneth in the Swedish Covenant hospital, under treatment for too much alcohol, and Walter in a jail cell.

The father was arrested in Niles by Sergt. Joseph Catanzaro, who charged him with driving while intoxicated. The Niles police were unable to awaken the boy when he passed out in their station and hurried him to the hospital. Physicians there recommended that he remain overnight. They found a considerable amount of beer and wine in his stomach.

Mrs. Smolinski told the police her husband and son had left home to buy a Christmas tree.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike for another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other."—From the Farewell Address.

INDIA IN THE WAR.

Gandhi's attitude toward the British empire must be regarded as generous. He says that there should be no stabbing in the back and that "there can be no civil disobedience for the sake of embarrassing Britain." India is recognized as the challenge to the British profession of democracy and many Englishmen concede that unless the question can be answered honestly and satisfactorily to the people of India the major premise of the imperial argument in this war disappears.

Altho the dominions made their own decision and were free to declare war or remain neutral, as Ireland has done, India was voted into the war not by itself but by the government in London. It is believed that if the British government had referred the question to the Indian congress there would have been a voluntary adoption of the empire's cause and that India would have given its support of its own free will with as much enthusiasm as it did in 1914, when it hoped that its loyalty would be fully rewarded by a grant of independence such as is the right of the dominions.

The sequence to the war understanding was unfortunate. The acts of repression were as tragic in some of their results as any which have been found in British colonial policy. The effect of the failure to honor what the Indian patriots thought was a pledge of faith is felt now when Great Britain is again in an hour of peril. India has been declared in the war, but it has responded by asking for guaranties more reliable than those of the world war that its participation will give it an independent place in the empire. Will democracy include India?

Gandhi's generosity in advising the Indians not to take advantage of Britain's present difficulties makes the test of the British war philosophy the more impressive. If this is a conflict for liberty against oppression, then India should come within the operation of the higher principles. Altho Great Britain might not be able to restore liberty to the Czechs and the Poles, it can without fighting any one give it to the Indians. After many centuries Ireland stands as a solution of an ancient injustice, and certainly it does the British cause no harm, either in the field or in world opinion, that the Irish have won the right to independent action, including the right to stay neutral in one of Britain's wars.

THE SOUTH WINS.

In the transportation contest between the states of the north and those of the south the latter have won the first battle. The Interstate Commerce commission has just given it a freight rate victory by its decision in a case brought before it by the southern governors' conference. Freight rate reductions were ordered on certain commodities ranging from 5 to 35 per cent from points of origin in the south to destinations in the north. Altho the list of articles involved is comparatively small, southern politicians are jubilant in predicting further burocratic aid in raiding the markets of their northern competitors.

That the decision was rendered on the basis of political rather than economical considerations was evidenced, among other things, by the fact that the commissioners participating in the case, with one exception, voted in accordance with their geographical and political origins. The decision was given on a 5 to 4 vote, two commissioners not participating. The President's pronouncement some time ago that the economic plight of the south was the nation's "No. 1 problem" gives further light on the reason for the outcome of the case initiated by the southern governors. Back of it all was the failure of the government's TVA project to attract industries to that socialistic experiment. As an alibi the southern governors raised a hue and cry that the cause of this failure was the fact that freight rates within the south were, generally speaking, higher than those within the north. The fact that traffic density is and should be the most important factor in determining a general level of freight rates in any certain territory was given little if any consideration by those southern commissioners who voted in favor of the southern complainants.

That the decision was influenced by emotional reactions and political expediency rather than by common sense consideration of the fundamental economic principles of rate making was indicated by Commissioner Eastman in his dissenting opinion. He said the case had become a political issue and he called attention to the fact that the interest manifested in the proceeding by the producers and shippers within the south was scant. He pointed out that the reasons for some of the conclusions of the majority were not made clear and in some instances conclusions were unexplained. Commissioner Miller, who also dissented from the majority, asserted that the decision was arbitrary and could not endure.

The case should have been decided upon its economic merits and not upon sectional political considerations. A rehearing should be granted.

GOVERNMENT FASHIONED MONOPOLIES.

The United States Supreme court has overruled the District court in the Chicago milk case and has remanded it for trial. Judge Charles E. Woodward had dismissed the indictments on the grounds that the defendants—milk dealers, dairy farmers, wagon drivers, and health officials—had not violated the Sherman antitrust act in their alleged combination and trade agreement because the agricultural marketing act empowered the secretary of agriculture to regulate prices and distribution.

To give validity to marketing agreements, the Supreme court held, the secretary of agriculture must be a party to them. Without him in the undertaking the antitrust laws prevail. An officer of government must have a hand in the proceedings under authority granted by congress before there is immunity from the laws against monopoly and restraint of trade. The court of course does not say whether monopolistic restraint is good or bad. It says only that the agreements, combinations, and undertakings in control of trade, manipulation of production, and fixing of prices are lawful when the government sits in, but will put the enterprisers in jeopardy if it doesn't.

As in the Chicago milk shed the government may take two different views. Mr. Thurman Arnold of the department of justice may try, as he says he did in this milk case, to lower prices by forcing competition in a free market. Mr. Wallace of the agricultural department may try to raise prices by marketing agreements and restraints which without his participation would come within the purview of the antitrust act.

It would seem that there is in this rule of law a validation of a government fashioned monopoly. The producers and distributors may not fashion it themselves, but the government may force them into it.

AN HISTORIC DELUSION OF GRANDEUR.

When Gouverneur Morris was about to sail as American minister to Paris George Washington commissioned him to purchase a watch, a plain but expensive one. Mr. Morris shopped about to find the best watchmaker and had some correspondence with the general. In one of his letters—Feb. 23, 1789—contained in the two volume recently published diary he relates a bit of gossip which had come from London.

"By the Bye, in the melancholy Situation to which the poor King of England has been reduced, there were I am told [in Relation to you] some whimsical Circumstances. His first Outset was to seize Mr. Pitt by the Collar and with outrageous Language addressed to the Rebel General, had nearly strangled him before he could get Help. Afterwards the Defender of the Faith, in one of his Capricios, conceived himself to be no less a Personage than George Washington at the Head of the American Army. This shews that you have done Something or other which sticks most terribly in his Stomach."

Is this the original pattern of the stories of delusions of grandeur? Probably not; very likely when Nebuchadnezzar turned himself out to grass some Babylonian remarked: "He thinks he is the Sacred Bull."

BRONZE AND IMMORTALITY.

It is the custom in this as in most other communities to fasten a bronze plate to any important public work. The plaque tells who were the public officials concerned in the erection of the structure.

There can be no very serious objection to this practice; at worst it is only an evidence of harmless vanity and the cost to the taxpayers is negligible. But it is curious that in their desire to be known to all posterity as great and good men our public officials place their reliance solely on bronze. It is true that bronze will last five hundred or a thousand years even in our smoky air, but it is also true that when a poorly planned bridge or an inadequate fieldhouse is torn down, as will happen at the first opportunity, the bronze plaques go with the rest of the junk. There is no Periclean immortality in a bronze tablet after it has been melted up.

The public official who craves the esteem of generations of Chicagoans yet unborn will do well to consult the best architect [and engineer] he can find to plan the public work in question. There are today in this town four or five architects who really know their business, men possessed of practical sense and a high order of taste. Anything they design has a pretty fair life expectancy. It is singular how seldom these gentlemen are consulted in the designing of important public works in this community.

Editorial of the Day

A MOUSE TO THE RESCUE.
[Portland Oregonian.]

One time the natives killed too many herons down south and the crawfish tunneled holes in the levees and flooded the farm lands. It seems that the herons had been keeping the crawfish down. Then, too, it is recognized that in regions where the little coyote is pretty well killed out by trap and poison and rifle, the jackrabbits inherit the land and the fullness thereof. Such instances are numerous and instructive, and biological observation fully confirms them.

The latest story of the sort tells of the grasshoppers down in Plumas county, California, which laid so many eggs last summer, under seemingly ideal conditions for eventual hatching, that everybody was alarmed at the prospect of a grasshopper plague next year. But there isn't going to be any grasshopper plague in Plumas next summer—and a mouse is the reason there isn't. The field mice have been industriously engaged in digging up the grasshopper eggs for their appreciative refreshment, and the state bureau of entomology estimates that the mice have reduced the grasshopper prospect by perhaps 85 per cent already. But field mice themselves can be pests, and the problem is expected to begin again from another angle.

Yet the lesson remains, and it is to go slowly in all matters such as this. The original and persistent violator of natural laws, who jumbles the plan of control, is man, the husbandman himself.

TOO SMART.

"Are we going to try out young Roberts for the football squad?" asked the captain.

"No," replied the coach; "anybody who can spell such words as plenipotentiary, erysipelas, and plebiscite is no good as a football player."—Kablegrams.

PLEDGE TO CZECHS BROKEN

BY JOHN DICKSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark.—Early in October the Germans conveyed the impression that they were preparing to lift many of the restrictions curtailing the freedom of the citizens of the former Czecho-Slovakia who live in the protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia. Hitler, in a proclamation on March 16, had pledged protection and fair treatment of their national life.

German emissaries informed the men who remained at the head of the Czech administration that their burdens would be eased and that President Emil Hacha should go to Berlin and be apprised of the generous plans of the German Fuehrer. Hacha, despite his advanced age and illness, is virtually a prisoner of the Germans in castle Lany, the former residence of President Thomas G. Masaryk.

When informed of Hitler's plan, Hacha and his aids worked out a 40 page memorandum which was handed over to the delegated protector, Baron Konstantin von Neurath, and which the Czechs hoped would be presented to Hitler. The Czechs were told it had been presented. They assumed this was true because suddenly Hitler no longer wanted to see Hacha. This was taken as evidence that he did not want to see a man who had the courage to dictate and sign a memorandum charging that not a single promise of Hitler made to the Czechs had been kept.

* * *

Hitler, in his March 16 proclamation, took the Czech people under his protection, guaranteeing an autonomous development of their national life. He assured the protectorate that its state income would not be touched.

Paragraph 6 of the proclamation promised economic safeguards. In the meantime these safeguards not only were circumvented but changed by new decrees of the reich.

The German authorities in Bohemia-Moravia are suppressing all national rights of the Czech people. The word "state" has been forbidden.

The Czech people believed at first that the March 16 proclamation represented a magna charta of their rights. They were greatly mistaken because they were circumvented thru a series of "legal decisions" by Protector von Neurath issued last July 7.

On Sept. 1 a German police force was introduced officially. Thus the autonomy of the state was, so to speak, pressed in a pincer and the protector, who theoretically was only to represent the interests of the reich in the protectorate, has become the absolute master.

An absolute violation of the proclamation of March 16 is found in official German interference in the economic life of the protectorate under the pretext of investigating Jewish property, control of all mineral oils, distribution of coal, and use and control of all cars.

Without legal rights the following bodies function in the protectorate:

German police, aviation service, German guilds, German postal service, additional offices of "national defense," health offices, lawyer guilds, coal control offices, and the emigration office for Jews.

* * *

The legal rights of Czech authorities have been reduced to a minimum and the German authorities arrogate the right to decide even minor matters.

The original proclamation called for merely a confirmation or rejection of the decisions of the Czech government thru the reich protector. In reality, the Czech government or authorities are unable to take any decision whatsoever without first obtaining the permission of the local German authorities. Czech officials appointed by the Czech government are not always permitted to retain their posts. On the contrary, in most cases they are ousted or arrested by the Germans.

The Germans arrogate the right to change the sentences passed by the Czech courts. Orders issued by Czech courts are canceled by German orders. Czechs can now be dragged before German courts, even if the matter involved does not deal with political charges. In many cases Czech courts were "disciplined" by order of the Germans.

Czechs are no longer masters in their own houses. In Prague, in 68 houses, Czech tenants were forced to vacate the premises on two weeks' notice to make place for Germans. They are now without homes. Czechs do not have the same rights as Germans, even in districts where there is only a small German minority.

The Czechs also are being repressed thru confiscation of state properties and forests and financial resources. The Czechs were impoverished specially thru the decree of the reich protector of Aug. 11, under which all contracts existing between the German reich and the former Czecho-Slovakia prior to March 15 were annulled. On the strength of this the Czech state received no money for all the military equipment seized by the Germans. Furthermore, the Czechs received no compensation for the Czech banknotes taken in the Sudetenland and which the Germans agreed to pay for. A number of historical Czech buildings were seized and Czech historical treasures disappeared.

Czech industry is seriously crippled.

Czech cultural life, too, has been interfered with. Everywhere the German language takes precedence over Czech. The Czech National theater must give the German inscription first above the Czech inscription. The word "Czech" itself has been banned. The Czechs are forbidden to call any of their associations "Czech." The word is banned in the papers and in the theater.

The military authorities requisitioned 32 schools, thus depriving 2,523 pupils of their Czech schools. Most Czech theaters are closed. Czech films must submit to German censorship. Germans were given posts in Czech scientific institutes. Czech scientists are allowed to appear at international congresses only if they meet with the full approval of the Germans.

The Czech population feels that the lower ranking officials are determined to Germanize them. The Czech people resisted Germanization for 300 years and fought for their freedom.

Among the Czechs arrested by the Germans and held for months without anybody having a chance to appeal to a court or a responsible leader is the mayor of Prague, Dr. Peter Zenkel. He, too, is in the Buchenwald concentration camp, which is known for the ferocity of its guards.

The sokols, which were always leaders in Czech circles, saw many of their leading men arrested. Dr. Miroslav Klinger, chief of all sokols, is detained by the Germans. Sokol leaders who were 80 and 86 years of age were taken into concentration camps and prisons by the Germans because they feared "they were representative leaders of national feeling."

* * *

Now a new danger is cropping up for Bohemia-Moravia, the same as for all other parts of Germany—unemployment. Because of the lack of raw materials, textiles, and leathers, thousands of workers were dismissed. Even the big shoe manufacturing firm of Bata, which the Germans hoped would help bolster their exports, had to curtail work.

Czechs working in Germany have been dismissed—not because of friction. On the contrary, quite a number of skilled workers were doing very well, their skill being appreciated by employers and Nazi officials alike. Now there is insufficient raw material and many of the men are wending their way homeward. Even a Hamburg wharf where 70 Czechs were employed dismissed them—because of lack of business.

The communists are showing great activity in their former Czech lands. The Germans are trying to curtail their activities, but this is not an easy matter in view of the Russo-German friendship. The Czechs watch this new friendship with keen but silent amusement. They tell how in the Sudetenland a margarine factory has received a big consignment of wrappers printed in Russian—which the Czechs feel certain are being used to convey the impression among the masses that Germany's Russian allies have begun to deliver goods to their German friends.

LOWERING BLOOD PRESSURE WITH HAWTHORNE BERRIES.

FOR decades physicians have been searching for the cause of high blood pressure—hoping for a remedy. All too clearly do we realize the harmful possibilities of an incessant "pound" within the arteries, which may be quite too strenuous for their elastic walls. As we know, under ordinary conditions, the level rises and falls during each 24 hours, depending somewhat upon posture, occupation, and emotional disturbances such as excitement and anger. But as the vessels become more brittle due to the process of ageing, which may be premature with some persons, more exertion on the part of the heart is required to propel the circulation. This in turn raises the tension.

The question has been asked over and over again, can we not find some chemical which will safeguard the blood conduits against injury? A fire hose constructed to withstand 100 pounds may burst under a 50 per cent overload. We wish to avoid these peaks and some are able to acquire a type of self-control, pursuing their work efficiently but calmly and deliberately. Thus the contracting grip of a spasm of the capillaries is avoided. For the one who presents a systolic figure of 220 or more, nitrites have been employed and, recently, the cautious use of sulfocyanates has been helpful. But the results are temporary and little permanent good is accomplished.

Now comes the suggestion that tincture of hawthorne [botanical name: crategus] offers more hope than any other preparation hitherto utilized. French physicians particularly have recommended five drops of this compound twice daily in order to maintain the pressure within reasonable bounds in those instances in which the force is too great for safety.

The drug is prepared by macerating the fruit [berries] with dilute alcohol and the product is standardized against a normal strength of digitalis—which it resembles somewhat in its medical action. It is not sufficiently potent, however, to be relied upon as a cardiac stimulant and cannot in the slightest degree replace foxglove in the management of heart failure.

A recent report by J. D. P. Graham calls attention to a series of cases of hypertension in which the systolic rating ranged from 190 to 240. Each member of this group was chronically ill and had sustained either some paralysis as an aftermath of a rupture of a vessel in the brain or was a victim of advanced kidney disease.

In an effort to determine the power of the substance one teaspoonful was administered three times daily. Regular recordings were taken and when it was felt that the level was low enough the material was discontinued. Both the systolic and diastolic readings were reduced. The favorable effect lasted for two weeks or more before a gradual rise took place. No other treatment was given and the patients were permitted to rest as much as they chose. A light diet was prescribed.

One individual, for example, began the regimé with a daily systolic of 240. This was observed for 10 days; then the first dose was given. Ten days thereafter a drop to 170 had occurred and within 20 days to 160. The medicine was then stopped. Two weeks later the upward climb began. Thirty-five days after the beginning of the experiment the mercury column on the instrument reached 230.

Strangely enough, this drug has no influence upon average ratings. It does not slow the rate of the heart heat; neither does it increase the flow of urine. There were no untoward reactions and no evidence of interference with other body functions.

It appears then that we may have in this relatively innocuous tincture a product which can be used periodically with our hypertension sufferers to relieve from time to time the persistent strain on the arterial tubes. No objection to its daily employment has been noted—as, in the cases cited, when it is omitted the former state of affairs returns after a time.

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO
[From Tribune Files.]

Dec. 17, 1914.

[142d day of world war; 108th day of present war.]

LONDON. — A powerful German fleet this morning slipped thru the cordon of naval defense which has made the coast of England inviolable for centuries, bombarded the cities of Scarborough, Hartlepool, and Whitby, on the Yorkshire coast [365 miles from Heligoland], killed probably 150 civilians and soldiers, wounded 200 persons, and destroyed an immense amount of property. The German squadron participating in the bombardment was composed of two battle cruisers and an armored cruiser, while from four to six light cruisers attacked Scarborough and Whitby. The German ships escaped practically unharmed in a heavy mist after about thirty minutes of shelling.

VIENNA.—High sources here have admitted that 100,000 Austrians fell during their retreat from Servia. Parades and demonstrations have been staged by the people, who are angry at army leaders.

PARIS.—The allies have extended their left flank to the sea above Nieuport, pushing the Germans back with the help of British and French warships. The French have assumed the offensive along a fifty mile front in Alsace.

BERLIN.—A huge force of Germans is massing along the Vistula river for a third attempt to take Warsaw. The Russians are making a strategic retreat.

WE, "THE ILLINOISANS."

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. 13.—It is well that the "Illinoisans" are at last receiving the publicity they deserve. We have paid and paid and paid—not for two years, as seems to be the impression, but for almost four. And it was Mr. Smith who threatened in the presence of reliable witnesses: "They will pay or else; we have so many weeks to get them before election and six weeks after."

These words were spoken a few weeks before the November election of 1936; and we were already paying at that time.

My husband is a college graduate; has been with the state highway department for 25 years; has received advancement under Republican and Democrat administrations; he was not appointed politically; and has no political sponsor now.

The engineers in the department, for some reason or another, are not under civil service. But civil service would, it seems, hardly offer them protection from the demands of the "Illinoisans."

It is most degrading to be compelled to sign the Illinoisans' pledge to contribute "voluntarily" 2 per cent of one's salary to a cause which one repudiates entirely. The contribution is an assessment; it is not voluntary; it is received in each office by a political appointee. It means $35 to $100 a year.

Conditions were not the same under previous administrations. Nothing approximated the ruthless audacity of the proposal of the Illinoisans' pledge.

A CONTRIBUTOR.

THINKS WALLACE THE MAN.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—F. D. R. will probably retire soon. However, we can be somewhat compensated for this great loss if Henry Wallace, that great midwestern liberal and son of the soil, will become subsequent captain of our ship of state. I'm sure THE TRIBUNE will see eye to eye with me here.

M. C.

WHY NOT RECALL THEM?

Chicago, Dec. 12.—I think Senator Vandenberg has something when he suggests the recall of the American ambassador to Russia.

Why not, as THE TRIBUNE suggested some days ago, recall all our ambassadors in Europe?

I resided in France eight years and seriously doubt if any one—except a chronic dyspeptic—could escape becoming francophile.

Mr. Kennedy apparently is prepared to be an equally nimble "page boy" to the "gout fearing" gentlemen of the British cabinet as our ambassador to England was during the last war.

Besides, the "open season" for diplomacy is closed in Europe. Why not make it open season for European debt collecting?

M. P. F.

LOOK AT TRIBUNE "CLOCKS."

Chicago, Dec. 12.—So much talk is being heard about the city budget not being able to accommodate an increase of 350 police. I wonder if the committee has ever referred to the Tribune clocks? One shows 24,182 injured persons and 649 dead from automobiles. The other shows 35,172 crimes with 191 killings. Of course, an increase of 10 times the number the commissioner of police asks for wouldn't completely correct the situation but it certainly would help to have 350 eager and younger men added to the force.

SPEAKS UP FOR LEAGUE.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—However ineffective the league of nations has been the idea back of it in no way deserves the cartoon treatment given it in Tuesday's paper. The feeble efforts of nations to coöperate deserve consideration and aid rather than ridicule and censure.

MOVIES PARTIES FOR CHARITY.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—At this season of the year we find many benevolent groups and organizations including, of course, the justly famous Good Fellows and a younger child of charity known as the Christmas Basket Movie Parties. Being a registered nurse I am greatly interested in these plans to care for Chicago's needy.

I have watched the Movie Parties, sponsored by the motion picture industry of Chicago, grow yearly since 1935. They labor all year to provide us with entertainment and yet, at this, their busiest season, they give much time and effort to make the Movie Basket Parties a real power for good.

More power to the movie industry and may they long continue to sponsor such commendable enterprises.

ICEBERGS AND WEATHER.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—I note your article, "Experts Puzzle Over 20 Years' Mercury Rise."

A Catholic priest living for many years in the arctic, in an article published in a weekly magazine, says he could predict by observation of the iceflow, its start and the masses of icebergs passing thru the Bering strait in early spring the kind of summer we will have.

Almost every year a cold wave strikes the European continent about the middle of May. The phenomenon is explained: the melting of icebergs in the Atlantic ocean, accelerated by the warmer temperature of spring, cools the atmosphere which, sweeping over Europe, causes the wintry weather.

The influence of forests on atmospheric conditions is now recognized. Forest trees accumulate and conserve humidity, which in evaporating form clouds and bring rain. The radical deforesting of our forests, began some 30 to 40 years ago, is now extended to Canada and in Alaska 1,000 acres are cleared for homesteads. With devastation of forests, less humidity is conserved and evaporated. Fewer clouds reach the arctic, curtailing formation of glaciers. Consequently, the masses of icebergs passing thru Bering strait are reduced, with the ultimate result that less cool air gets free to cool the atmosphere.

This may explain the mercury rise of 20 years.

HALL LIGHTS.

Chicago, Dec. 7 [Legal Friend of the People].—I rent an apartment in a two story building and [1] was informed this fall by my landlord that he did not have to light the halls and since then has not done so. I was advised by one of the real estate offices to contact the building department at the city hall and from this department I learned that Law 809, under the building code, paragraph .01 compelled owners of [2] two apartment buildings to light their halls—this law having become effective July 31, 1939. I was advised to address a letter to Mr. R. Schmidt, commissioner of buildings, city hall, asking that steps be taken to have my landlord comply with this law.

3. I wrote Mr. Schmidt under date of Oct. 23, but to date have had no ackowledgment of my complaint, nor have there been any lights in our halls. I shall very much appreciate any help you can give me, as if such a low is in effect I have a right to enjoy lighted halls. Also I was advised the law compelled [4] the landlord to keep these lights burning all night as in larger apartment buildings. I inclose self-addressed envelope for reply and will appreciate anything you can do to ascertain why my request of the building commissioner's office has had no attention, or any suggestions you can give me how to proceed in the right direction to get our halls lighted under the above law.

I. M. B.

1. He was right up to July 31, 1939.
2. Section 66-1 of the new city code imposes the obligation as to "every existing building."
3. You might try following it up in person.
4. The ordinance does not mention the landlord but merely says lights "shall be provided." It will probably be construed as imposing the requirement on the landlord.

LIABILITY ON NOTE.

Chicago, Dec. 8 [Legal Friend of the People].—I have a note that came due in September, 1936. The note is signed by a man and his wife. He owes interest for a year. He died last week.

1. Can I hold his wife responsible to pay this note?

2. If I sign a claim for my money how do I go about it? Where do I go to do this? Will it cost me anything to file claim?

H. S.

1. Yes.
2. We do not understand the question. If you mean that the man has died and that you wish to file a claim in the probate proceedings, you can obtain a printed form from the Clerk of the Court, but unless the executor or administrator is willing to mark your claim to be allowed it will be necesary for you to follow the matter up and prove your facts when the claim is reached, hence it is ordinarily advisable to employ an attorney.

DEAR SANTA; HIS MAIL IS HEAVY AT POSTOFFICE

800 Letters Ask Him Not to Forget This Year.

Santa Claus' office at the Chicago postoffice is filled with little pigeonholes. Some 800 letters already are in the pigeonholes. The letters are of all colors, all sizes. Some are printed, some scrawled. Some are on little scraps of paper, some on postcards, but the words on each represent a child's trust in—humanity.

For about 40 years the postoffice here has had an official Santa Claus. He reads every letter, every patient, twisted word. Maybe it is addressed to the north pole, but he gets it. What is more, he tries, if he feels there is a need, to do something about it.

Some Missed Last Year.

These go to lonely persons and visitors in the city who come to the postoffice and ask for them.

Joseph Chmelik, auditor, is Santa Claus this year for the first time. He doesn't look the part, for he is slender, beardless and brown-eyed, altho his hair is white. He deserves the title, however, for he is the postoffice's senior employé, having started there as a special delivery messenger boy 53 years ago. Now he is 68, with five grandchildren of his own.

"Not all the letters are from children," he explains. "A lot of pathetic letters are from widows and families in distress.

"It's hard to tell whether it is a needy case. When we give out the ones we think are needy, we explain we haven't investigated. But I haven't had any requests to give them out yet."

Into the needy file go such letters as this:

"Thank you for the toys you gave me last Christmas. My mother was in an automobile accident, and she cannot go and work like she wanted to do. If you can, will you send my two brothers and sister and me some toys. My father died seven years ago. My sister needs a snow suit, and she would like a doll and buggy if it isn't asking too much. One brother wants a chemistry set and a toot-toot horn. My other brother wants a chemistry set. I would like a doll and cradle. My mother don't want anything, but dear Santa, she DOES need a new table cloth."

"It's a new rôle for me," Mr. Chmelik says, "but I like it."

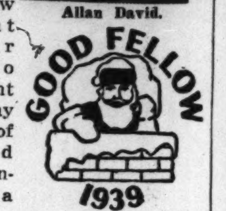
YOUTH LEADER, 16, MAKES PLEA FOR GOOD FELLOWS

An appeal to Good Fellows everywhere to do their bit toward helping Chicago's needy have a merry Christmas, was made yesterday by one of the city's juvenile leaders. He is Allan David, 16 years old, chairman of the Good Fellows speakers' bureau of the Boys Brotherhood Republic. He spoke over W-G-N.

Allan David.



The Good Fellow button.

Young David asked his listeners to support the Good Fellow movement that boys and their families who otherwise might be in want may receive baskets of food, toys, and candy. He concluded, "Be a Good Fellow now."

Another Good Fellow address, announced for tomorrow in the Metropolitan section of today's Tribune, is to be given Thursday during the W-G-N midday service. The speaker will be Philip Maxwell, Good Fellow editor. The progress of the campaign to date will be found in detail in the Metropolitan section today.

The three classes of Good Fellows this Christmas are described in the accompanying coupon, which is printed for all who want to share the spirit of Christmas with others less fortunate.

STATE ATTACKS BOND LEGALITY IN HIGHWAY PLAN

Friendly Action Taken in City's Test Case.

BY HAL FOUST.

Attorney General John E. Cassidy filed briefs in the Illinois Supreme court yesterday attacking the constitutionality of the $60,000,000 superhighway legislation. The suit is a friendly test case brought by the city of Chicago which asks the court to compel State Auditor Edward J. Barrett to register $10,000 worth of superhighway notes for sale.

Attorney General Cassidy.

Cassidy's answer brings the issues on both sides of the case before the court. Altho the city was given until next Thursday to file briefs, its main arguments are contained in preliminary pleadings, J. Herzl Segal, assistant corporation counsel, said yesterday. Segal, Corporation Counsel Hodes, and Joseph F. Grossman, first assistant corporation counsel, are attorneys for the city.

Hope for Quick Decision.

The city hopes for a decision on the validity of the enabling legislation before the February term of court. Both sides are coöperating for a prompt decision. Meanwhile the city and county are preparing plans for construction under terms of the act.

The superhighway legislation, passed at the last session of the state assembly, authorizes state officials to sell $60,000,000 worth of gas tax anticipation notes to finance superhighway construction in Cook county. Half of these notes would be retired with interest from the city's revenue from motor fuel taxes during the next 20 years. Half would be retired from the county's future gas tax revenue.

The attorney general contended in his brief yesterday that issuance of these notes would violate a provision of the Illinois constitution enjoining the state from contracting a debt without the authority of a referendum election.

Contend Debt Not State's.

The city contends the $60,000,000 would not be a debt against the state but would be a debt solely against future revenue produced by the highways and therefore is not covered by the constitutional restriction. In support of this view it argues that the gas tax is not a tax but is a service charge for use of the roads with the service measured by gasoline purchases. The city asks the court to classify these gas tax notes in the same category as water bonds which are retired solely from the revenue produced by the improvement they finance.

Cassidy argues that the special fund doctrine is not applicable to taxes, such as the motor fuel excise, which future legislatures might appropriate for any governmental purpose. He also holds that no legislature can limit the powers of future sessions. A provision of the superhighway statutes would prohibit any future reduction of the motor fuel excise below requirements for retiring the notes.

Quote Other Court Decisions.

Another point raised by the attorney general is his charge that the series of superhighway statutes are not in harmony in their amendments to the gas tax law.

On the main issue of whether the $60,000,000 worth of notes would be a debt within the meaning of the constitution, hinging as it does upon the point of whether the gas tax is a tax or a service charge, both sides quote opinions from Supreme courts in other states. But neither side has found a direct precedent in Illinois legal history.

In two previous Illinois cases challenging the constitutionality of the motor fuel act, the Supreme court upheld the validity of the act as "a privilege tax."

DIES AFTER FALL FROM LADDER.

Thomas Broddle, 76 years old, died yesterday in the Westlake hospital, Melrose Park, of injuries suffered last Monday when he fell from a ladder while pruning a tree in front of his home at 807 North 7th avenue, Maywood.

Bit of Metal Traps Death Driver

THE MASSACRE

PISTOL IN HAND, LEAPS TO DEATH UNDER A TRAIN

An unidentified man, about 45 years old, leaped in front of a fast passenger train on the Rock Island right of way at 78th street and Fielding avenue last night. He was killed instantly. Fireman Edward Johnson said that the man appeared from behind a shanty, waited until the train was near, and jumped.

Near his body Policemen Bert Haslem and John O'Halloran of the Gresham station found a brand new pistol, fully loaded, and in his pockets three extra cartridges.

"This man," said the policemen, "apparently meant to kill himself with the pistol, but he lost his nerve. So he jumped in front of the train."

EXPECTS $100,000 IN BACK TAXES TO BE PAID BY JAN. 1

County Treasurer John Toman said yesterday that he expects to collect $100,000 in delinquent real estate taxes by the end of the year under his monthly instalment plan which went into operation last week. Property owners who have paid their 1938 taxes are eligible to pay their back bills for the years 1928 to 1937, inclusive, over a period of as long as 24 months. By joining a suit now pending before Judge Harry M. Fisher in Circuit court, they can receive a waiver of half their penalties for the years 1928 to 1932, inclusive.

Quick Wits of Car Driver Save Him and His Wife

Quick action on the part of Thomas Jaros, 52 years old, 4916 South Kolin avenue, saved the lives of himself and his wife, Martha, 48, last night. As they were crossing the Santa Fe railroad tracks at Kolin avenue and 53d street Mrs. Jaros screamed that a train was approaching. Jaros swerved his car ahead of the train and in the same direction. Altho the train struck his car and pushed it some 200 feet, the full impact was lost because the car was moving with the train. Jaros and his wife were only slightly hurt.

SKILFUL POLICE WORK TRAPS HIT AND RUN KILLER

Persistent detective work by Policemen Edward Charvat and Edward O'Brien of the Englewood station brought about the arrest of a hit and run driver last night. He is Chester Lewandowski, 25 years old, 4549 South Sacramento avenue, a steel worker. He confessed, police said.

On Nov. 24 his car fatally injured John Mehigan, 72, of 628 Madison street, at 61st street and Wentworth avenue. The only clews were a partial license number and a triangular piece of metal loosened from one of the car's headlights.

Piece of Metal Is Clew.

Unable at first to trace the driver thru the number, Detectives O'Brien and Charvat concentrated on the metal. After much work they established it was a type used on a Packard sedan. Knowing that much they looked up the license numbers of Packard cars until they came to one approximating the partial number given by witnesses. This was traced to Lewandowski. Moreover, the broken metal fitted into the damaged left lamp of his car.

Lewandowski was arrested. He admitted he had run down a man Nov. 24, but didn't know he had died. He fled in fright, he said. His companion, Walter Jazdyk, 22, of 2843 West 39th street, told a similar story.

Boy, 6, Killed at Play.

James Kirby, 6 years old, 1226 West 98th street, was struck and killed by an automobile yesterday at 98th street and Vincennes avenue while playing with a group of children. His brother and sister narrowly escaped being struck by the car, which was driven by Mrs. Josephine Godley, 8436 Peoria street.

Fred Gellwalt, 26 years old, 7283 South Chicago avenue, a gasoline station employé, died early today in the Woodlawn hospital of injuries suffered yesterday when, according to police, he walked into the side of a moving car at Woodlawn avenue and Marquette road. The driver was Carl Swanson, 2626 Michigan avenue.

Edward Doyle, 60, of 3970 Lake Park avenue, was killed by an automobile in Roosevelt road, west of Mannheim road, Hillside.

Robert Shepard, 37 years old, was killed last night when his automobile ran off Waukegan road south of the Knollwood club in Lake Forest and crashed into a tree. Shepard lived at 860 Taylor avenue, Highland Park. Near the car the Lake Forest police found Donald Bocox, 29, of 1606 Belvidere street, Waukegan, who had been a passenger. Bocox, seriously injured, was taken to the Alice Home hospital in Lake Forest.

On the basis of past records, state safety engineers predicted yesterday there would be 40 deaths and 480 injuries in traffic accidents in Illinois over the Christmas holidays unless motorists and pedestrians exercise unusual care.

Up to 2 p. m. yesterday 859 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 662 were killed in Chicago, where 21,455 were injured in the same period.

FIND PHYSICIAN, WOMAN STABBED TO DEATH IN CAR

Missouri Doctor Believed Killed in Robbery.

New Madrid, Mo., Dec. 16 [Special].—Authorities tonight sought clews to solve a double murder brought to light this afternoon when the bodies of Dr. James Perry Vickrey, large landowner, physician, and surgeon of Steele, Mo., and a woman were found in the physician's coupe north of here in a Mississippi river levee ditch.

The woman was identified as Mrs. Frances Sabaugh Murphy, 45 years old, of Holland, Mo., a town about three miles from Steele and 50 miles from here. Both towns are in Pemiscot county, just south of New Madrid county, next to the Mississippi.

Car Reported by Negro.

Officers learned that the car had been observed during the night at the spot where it was found. Coroner L. A. Richards Jr. of New Madrid said the couple had been dead 12 to 15 hours when a Negro share cropper reported to Chief of Police T. A. Truchon of New Madrid that he had seen the car and that a man, apparently intoxicated, was lying in the seat.

Truchon investigated and found the physician's body. Raising the door on the rear compartment of the coupe, he found the woman's body, doubled over in order that the door could be closed.

"Both victims had been beaten on the head and the physician's false teeth had been knocked out by a blow," Coroner Richards said. "Each had been stabbed about five times with an ice pick."

Believe Robbery Is Motive.

Highway police working on the case under direction of the district office at Poplar Bluff were of the opinion that robbery was the motive which led to the killing. Dr. Vickrey, they said, often carried large sums of money, and none was found on his body. Police were satisfied that both of the victims were murdered.

The physician, a former coroner, was a graduate of the old St. Louis College of Medicine in St. Louis, Mo. He had practiced in Steele for several years, having moved there from Savannah, Ga. He leaves his widow; a daughter, Helen, a teacher in the Steele schools, and a son, James, a junior in the Steele High school.

Mrs. Murphy had been married previously, her name then having been Sabaugh.

3 GUNMEN SEIZE $1,000 IN HOLDUP OF UNION OFFICER

Three armed bandits held up George McKinley, secretary-treasurer of the Steamfitters' Protective association, local No. 597, in the union offices at 408 South Leavitt street last night and escaped with $1,000.

McKinley, who lives at 351 Riverside avenue, Riverside, was seized by the men, all carrying automatic pistols, as he was about to leave the garage at the rear of the headquarters after having closed up for the night. They forced him back into the offices and compelled him to open the safe, from which they took the money. Then they tied McKinley to a chair and fled. He freed himself soon afterward.

GAS VICTIM, 2, REVIVED.

George Maye, 2 years old, was revived by a fire department rescue squad yesterday after he was overcome by coal gas as he slept in his crib at 6221 North Greenview avenue. He was taken to Edgewater hospital.

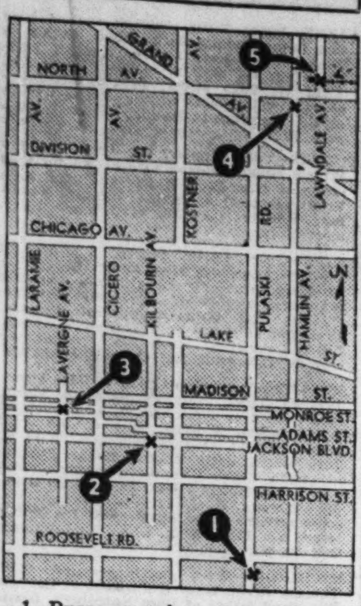
Purse Thief's Trail



1. Purse snatcher steals auto. 2. Miss Alice Raleigh robbed here. 3. Takes purse from Mrs. Anna Delaney. 4. Robs and beats Mrs. Anna Graves. 5. Robs Mrs. Ricka Thompson and then kills her with car.

Shakespeare avenue police pressed their search yesterday for the pocketbook thief who killed one of his victims with an automobile and brutally beat another. Descriptions of the bandit were given to police by three of his victims.

The woman beaten is Mrs. Anna Graves, 73 years old, 1221 North Monticello avenue. She is in a serious condition in the county hospital suffering from a broken hip and a concussion of the brain. She said the bandit knocked her over a fence last Tuesday night near Hamlin and North avenues when she resisted.

The woman killed by the bandit's car was Mrs. Ricka Thompson, 54 years old, 1654 North Lawndale avenue. The thief took her purse, containing $3, and ran over her with his car. The slaying occurred near Lawndale and North avenues. Two other women reported their purses were stolen by the same bandit that night.

RADIO CATCHES A HONEYMOONER IN AUTO MIXUP

Milton Larbor, owner of a wholesale knitting goods concern at 127 South Market street, started yesterday for Kansas in what he thought was the expensive new sedan of a friend, Joseph Weiss. Weiss, owner of the Southwest department store at 6242 South Kedzie avenue, had arranged for Larbor to take the car from a public garage.

An hour after Larbor left, Mrs. Isabelle Howard, 3150 West 62d street, called at the garage for her car. The garage owner discovered that Larbor was driving Mrs. Howard's car, a duplicate of Weiss'. He appealed to the police, and a radio message was broadcast to state highway police. Larbor was stopped in Lexington, 117 miles from Chicago. The garage owner took the Weiss car to Larbor and returned in Mrs. Howard's car.

STATE WILL ASK QUICK TRIAL OF 5 INDICTED IN RAPE

Conviction Carries Penalty of Year to Life.

Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, said yesterday that the state's attorney's office would move swiftly in an effort to convict five men indicted last week for the kidnaping and rape of an 18 year old girl. The five will be arraigned early in the week before Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court.

Conviction on the rape charge carries a penalty, to be fixed by the trial judge or a jury, of a year to life in prison. Intermediate sentences are not given in rape cases. The kidnaping penalty, in a case of this sort, woulld be from one to five years.

Confess Within 24 Hours.

The five, who confessed the crime last Wednesday less than 24 hours after its commission, are in the county jail. They were caught by the policeman-father of the victim, aided by Policemen Packey McDonough and Robert Aylmer of the Morgan Park station.

The girl and her younger sister visited a Blue Island skating rink last Tuesday evening, and were seized by six men as they left. The younger girl fought free, but her sister was forced into a waiting car. The victim was driven to a lonely spot near 123d and Throop streets where five of her captors attacked her. Then she was taken home. The younger sister noted the license number of the car and notified her father.

Traces License Number.

The father traced the number and, with the aid of two other policemen and Calumet City authorities, seized John Rusnak, 23 years old, 12537 Honore street, Calumet Park. Rusnak named his companions, all Calumet Park residents, and they were seized. Those who admitted the rape were Rusnak's brother, Frank, 19; Clemons Sinlawski, 19, of 12530 Honore street; Stanley Grzegorzek, 19, of 12601 Honore street, and Steven Gosciej, 23, of 12445 Winchester avenue.

The sixth member of the party, who said he had not attacked the girl, was Elmer Benthowski, 18, of 12601 Honore street. He will testify for the state at the trial.

COURT RECORDS IN FIRE PERIL, SURVEY SHOWS

Fire which would menace lives and irreplaceable records is a constant danger in many Cook county courts, according to an article in the current issue of the Chicago Bar Record, publication of the Chicago Bar association.

A bar association committee made a survey of vaults used for keeping records of the Municipal, Probate, County, Superior and Circuit courts. The committee said all the vaults are vulnerable to fire because of the use of light metal equipment and wooden shelves. Court records in some instances are stored in paper and cardboard containers. The article said all court clerks recognized the fire danger.

Signs prohibiting smoking are posted in some record rooms but are ignored, the committee reported.

WOMAN PLUNGES TO DEATH FROM HOSPITAL ROOF

Mrs. Rose Weber, 48 years old, 2046 West 70th place, the mother of six children, leaped or fell to her death yesterday from the roof of a three story wing of the Billings hospital at 950 East 59th street on the University of Chicago campus. Mrs. Weber had been in the hospital since Oct 22, suffering from a nervous condition. She occupied a fourth floor room. Unnoticed by nurses, she left it, walked down to the third floor, and went to the roof thru a door. No one saw the plunge. Another patient saw Mrs. Weber's body lying at the rear of the hospital.

Expect to Finish Balance by 1941 Deadline.

Today is the first anniversary of the start of construction of Chicago's subway. The $46,000,000 project is 36 per cent completed. The date for finishing the work is Jan. 1, 1941. Philip Herrington, city subway commissioner, said yesterday that progress indicates the deadline will be met. The route is scheduled to go into operation in the spring of 1941.

Ceremonies opening the project were held Dec. 17, 1938, in State street near Chicago avenue. The speakers included Mayor Kelly and Secretary Ickes. Ickes was present because the federal Public Works administration, of which he then was head, contributed $18,000,000 toward the project. The remaining $28,000,000 is being supplied from the city's traction fund.

5.6 Miles Completed.

Harrington said yesterday that 5.6 miles of tube for the system have been completed. This is 36 per cent of the 15.4 miles of single tube to be built [the route being 7.7 miles in each direction].

Nine of the 10 tunnel contracts now are under construction. The tenth section, 3,635 feet of double tube, from where the project was begun a year ago, has been finished. The contracts in construction, including the section finished, will cost $31,256,856. Bids for subway stations are being taken, and this work will start soon.

One of the most spectacular jobs in the program was done last week when two twin 200 foot tubes were laid under the river at the State street bridge crossing. These will be connected with the land tunnels on the State street route.

Where Tubes Will Run.

When completed, the State street route will run from a connection with the south side elevated lines at 14th street, between Wabash avenue and State street, to a connection with the northwest elevated near Clybourn and North avenues. The Dearborn street route will operate from Van Buren street to a connection with the Logan Square elevated at Paulina street.

More than 40,000 persons, comprising workers and their families, are benefiting from the employment created by the subway project.

"Our construction record," said Harrington, "has been achieved with a degree of safety that, in the opinion of experts, is outstanding for subway building. What we have accomplished has been possible only thru the active and wholehearted coöperation of Mayor Kelly and the city council, and the untiring efforts of every member of the staff of the department of subways and traction, supplemented by the coöperation of PWA."

Await Court Suggestions.

The PWA's $18,000,000 grant is conditional on the working out of a transit unification ordinance for the city. Tomorrow Judge James H. Wilkerson, in whose federal district court the surface and elevated lines are in receivership, is expected to present his suggestions as to what such an ordinance should contain.

An important point on which the city insists is that the ordinance should provide for no increase in the present 7 cent street car fare for at least three years. Security holders of the transit lines want an 8 cent fare and assert that this rate question does not come within the scope of the ordinance.

Herman Saxon, 58, Soviet Trade Builder in U. S., Dies

Toledo, O., Dec. 16 [Special.]—Herman Saxon, 58 years old, long active in promoting trade relations between the United States and soviet Russia, died last night in City hospital at Fostoria, O., of injuries incurred in an automobile accident. Mr. Saxon, a former Toledoan and more recently a resident of Detroit, Mich., was born in Russia. In his early manhood he became a member of the revolutionary circle presided over by Lenin and Trotsky. In Toledo he founded the Saxon Auto Lamp and Horn company, which ultimately merged with another concern to become the Electric Auto-Lite company. In recent years he had been a Detroit manufacturer. He is survived by a son, David.

DIES ATTENDING INVALID.

Ashton, Ill., Dec. 16 [Special].—Mrs. John Vaupel, 82 years old, died suddenly yesterday while caring for her husband, who is ill. They celebrated their 59th wedding anniversary Sept. 30.

PANAMA PAYS TRIBUTE AT BIER OF PRESIDENT

American Officers Attend Arosemena Rites.

Dr. Augusto S. Boyd [top] and Dr. Juan D. Arosemena.

Present at the cathedral services and at ceremonies at the grave were officers of the United States army and navy and of the Panama canal department.

The body was escorted to Panama by high government officials and a guard of honor was placed over the body as it lay in state in the cathedral.

Dr. Arosemena, who suffered a heart attack on Nov. 8 and then apparently regained his health, suffered a fatal attack this morning at Penonome, 150 miles in the interior, where he had gone to dedicate a public works program today. Only yesterday he had been decorated at the Peruvian legation with the Peruvian Order of the Sun and then had motored to Penonome.

Provisional President Sworn In.

Second Vice President Ezequiel Fernandez Jaen was sworn in as provisional president.

[It was explained in Washington that the provisional president will hold the office temporarily, as Dr. Augusto S. Boyd, Panama's ambassador to Washington, is the first vice president and constitutional successor to Dr. Arosemena.]

Had Long Political Career.

Dr. Arosemena was elected president in 1936 and began the last year of his term Oct. 1. Member of a family long prominent in the public life of Panama, Dr. Arosemena had an extended political career. He had served as minister of agriculture and as foreign minister.

NEXT THURSDAY WILL BE YEAR'S SHORTEST DAY

The winter solstice, which marks the shortest day of the year and official first day of winter, will occur next Thursday. The period of daylight, according to Dr. Thornton L. Page, University of Chicago astronomer, will be 9 hours and 7 minutes. The sun will rise at 7:15 a. m. and set at 4:22 p. m.

The solstice occurs when the sun has swung farthest south of the equator and its rays strike the northern hemisphere with the greatest degree of obliquity. At noon Thursday the sun will stand exactly overhead at the Tropic of Capricorn. After the solstice the days will start growing longer again.

The first 12 days of December were the warmest for that period ever recorded in Chicago, it was disclosed yesterday by the weather bureau. The daily average excess of temperature was 8.5 degrees, Gordon E. Dunn, assistant forecaster, reported.

Dunn predicted continued mild weather today.

NAVY PREPARES YOUTH TO SERVE NATION AND SELF

Offers Job, and Training for Life Work.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

Each week 1,000 young men are graduated from the four big training stations of the United States navy. Nine weeks earlier those 1,000 young men came to the stations as raw recruits—farm boys, high school graduates, college students, and unemployed youths. They leave as sailors, ready for sea duty with the nation's battle fleets.

The reasons why thousands of young men are enlisting in the navy are simple. It offers them a job, a good living, and the chance to see the far, strange corners of the world. It offers them a well paid career in the navy or the opportunity to learn a vocation or trade which will be of use to them after their service is over.

One of the largest of the training schools is the Great Lakes station, on the shores of Lake Michigan near Waukegan. Here 2,000 recruits—or "boots," in navy jargon—are in training. Each week the school graduates 240 men.

Off to the Navy.

To Great Lakes this writer went last week to see the navy thru the eyes of a recruit; to find out what the navy has to give. In short, to become a "boot" for a time.

At 1 p. m. last Monday the reporter arrived at Great Lakes. At 4 p. m. he was on the parade ground, shouldering a rifle and clad in a pea jacket, blue jumper, and bell bottomed blue trousers like the 119 other members of Company 42, Chief Boatswain's Mate Thomas O'Gorek commanding.

In three hours he had been subjected to hot and cold showers, examined by dentists and physicians, and put thru an assortment of tests. His hair had been cropped to the 1½ inch navy standard. He had been given $100 worth of the fine, rugged navy clothing issued to each recruit.

"Pick 'Em Up; Lay 'Em Down."

And he and the others of Company 42 were striving awkwardly to obey Chief O'Gorek's exhortations:

"Pick 'em up, boot! Pick 'em up and lay 'em down."

O'Gorek was a man with a heart. Forty-five minutes later, when the Springfield rifles were becoming heavy, Company 42 finished its first drill, returned the guns to their racks, and trooped to barracks to wait for mess call.

For the first 21 days of their stay at Greak Lakes recruits are quartered in Camp Barry, a separate unit within the training station. They sleep, eat, study, and drill in this camp for that period. Then, proved free of any disease which they might have contracted before enlisting, they are moved to barracks in the training station proper.

Evenings Are Their Own.

That Monday night mess was the first taste of navy cooking for most of the members of Company 42. It consisted of baked meat loaf, scalloped potatoes, baked sweet corn, sweet pickle relish, brown gravy, hot mince pie, bread and butter, and coffee—good strong navy coffee.

In the training station the recruits' evenings are their own. Camp movies, roller skating, bowling, card playing, and other games in the barrack parlors help fill them. After their 21 days in Camp Barry the training station's social house is open to them. The social house contains a store for enlisted men and officers, game rooms, soda fountain and lunch counter, and rooms where the "boot" may visit with family or friends.

After the 21 day quarantine recruits also are free to leave the post Saturday afternoons and Sundays.

Hammock Takes a Knack.

That first night in barracks was a memorable one for Company 42, memorable because the navy sleeps in hammocks, a knack not to be learned without pain by newcomers.

Steel railings, or jackstays in navy parlance, extend across the barracks from wall to wall. The canvas hammocks are slung from these stays. In the quarters of the newest recruits the jackstays are only 3½ feet above the floor, but in the regular barracks they are 8 feet up, as they are in fighting ships. Sea bags which hold the sailor's clothes, and ditty bags which contain small stores, are slung below the hammocks.

Making up a hammock and getting into it is an art in itself. Under the direction of Chief O'Gorek hammocks were slung from the jackstays, pulled tight, and lashed into place. Mattresses then were slipped into the hammocks, pillows were placed, and two navy blankets were draped over the hammock.

Settled for Night—Maybe!

The recruit cautiously approaches his new bed from the top end, lifts himself up to the jackstay, and slides into the hammock. Pulling the blankets over him, he tucks them in under the edges of the mattress. If he is lucky he is settled for the night. If not—he picks himself up from the floor and tries again.

After half an hour of rather spectacular failures this writer managed to trim ship for a night's sleep.

Reveille and Chief O'Gorek arrived simultaneously at 5:30 a. m. Tuesday. At 6:45 a. m. Company 42 breakfasted on fried eggs and bacon, fried potatoes, coffee cake, and coffee. From 8 until 11:30 a. m. members of the company were taught how to care for equipment and how to mark each piece with indelible ink, navy style. The afternoon was devoted to infantry drill and sports on the parade field.

Navy Training Begins.

It is when he is transferred to the regular station, or "paradise," that his navy training begins.

He studies semaphore signaling, rigging, lifesaving, knot tying, and general navy regulations. He learns to box and wrestle, to use his rifle or pistol, and to row the big navy cutters. He learns ship nomenclature, the distinguishing features of the fast destroyers, the light cruisers, the aircraft carriers, and the floating fortresses, which are the heavy battleships.

During his six weeks' stay in the regular station he is transformed from a "boot" into a well trained apprentice seaman, able to fit into the clocklike machine, which is a fighting ship's crew.

$21 a Month at Start.

More than that, the recruit learns what the navy has to offer. At the beginning of his six year enlistment the recruit is paid $21 a month and keep. Four months after he enlists he becomes a seaman second class, at $36 a month. Six months later he is eligible to take an examination for seaman first class, pay $54 a month.

By taking examinations at various periods of his service he can rise thru the posts of third class petty officer, pay $60; second class petty officer, $72; first class petty officer, $84, to the rank of chief petty officer at $126 a month. Beyond that is the rating of warrant officer at $200 a month.

The sailor also is assured several automatic salary increases. After four years' service he receives a 10 per cent increase, and each four years thereafter gets another 5 per cent increase up to 25 per cent.

After 20 years' active service he is eligible for a transfer to the fleet reserve. This amounts to retirement at one-half of his active duty pay. After 10 years in the reserve he gets a full retirement with an increased pension.

U. OF C. INCOME ON ENDOWMENTS DROPS ONE-THIRD

Controler's Report Shows Ten Year Decrease.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A survey of University of Chicago finances, made public yesterday by Harvey C. Daines, university controler, showed that income from endowments has decreased more than one-third in the last 10 years.

Daines said the situation was caused by a decline in the income from endowments which was equal to a 34 per cent loss of endowment principal during the decade. He said it demonstrated the disastrous effects which declines in the earnings of American business and industry have had on endowed institutions.

Income Off 2.2 Per Cent.

The report said that in 1928-29 the university's income from endowments averaged 6.2 per cent. This declined to 4 per cent for 1933-'39. Daines' report said this means that the income value of one dollar of endowment principal is worth less than two-thirds of its income value of a decade ago.

The report showed that the university's endowment sheet had a balance of $70,944,247.82 on June 30, 1939. The income from this was $2,808,866, or 4 per cent. In the previous year the income was 4.5 per cent, or in excess of 3 million dollars.

"But the endowment income for 1938-'39 was $728,601 less than that received in 1930-'31, the peak year," the report said. "This reduction occurred in spite of a net increase in endowment principal of $11,014,349 in the nine year period.

Cites Significance of Decline.

"This almost unbelievable situation results from a decline in the rate of return from 6.1 per cent in 1930-'31 to 4 per cent in 1938-'39. Since the variation of 1 per cent in the rate of return on the present principal of endowment is equal to $709,442 in annual income, the importance of a satisfactory yield from endowment investments in the operation of the university budget is rapidly apparent."

While an examination of the report seems to show that the university is in a strong financial position, with assets totaling $125,835,441, Daines said such a conclusion is erroneous. He said the university's responsibility for serving present and future generations is not reflected in a balance sheet.

"An institution may possess substantial amounts of capital and yet be quite impoverished when available resources are placed side by side with needs, obligations, and opportunities," the report said. "The University of Chicago is in such a position today.

Drastic Curtailment Feared.

"There still remains in reserves and unrestricted gifts a sufficient amount to finance the regular budget at approximately the present level for the fiscal years 1939-'40 and 1940-'41, provided no further decline is sustained in recurring income. After 1940-'41, drastic curtailment of expenditures will be necessitated unless large sums can be raised to maintain the present program of education and research."

Daines reported that the university had received gifts totaling $1,308,671 in the last fiscal year. Nearly half of the amount was designated for current purposes and less than one-fourth for endowment. Undetermined purposes, loan funds, and plant additions accounted for the balance. The largest sources of gifts were bequests and estates. Foundations and charitable institutions were second. Trustees, alumni, and other donors contributed $277,972.

Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the university, raised questions of the permanent value of endowments as basic economic foundations for educational and other institutions in a recent magazine article. He advocated larger gifts for current expenses and use of endowment principal for current needs.

COAST GUARD RESERVE PUSHES SAFETY WORK; 11 UNITS SET UP IN CITY

The first five months of the Coast Guard Reserve have been highly successful, in the view of officials both here and in Washington. Twenty flotillas, of which 11 are in Chicago, already have been organized, and more are being formed.

Lieut. Nathaniel Fulford, in charge of the reserve in the Chicago area, said yesterday the main purpose of the group is to promote a study of safe and proficient methods of handling small pleasure craft. Rules of the reserve provide that members must carry more than the amount of safety equipment provided by law. A flag is provided for the boats of members to indicate craft equipped according to the reserve regulations.

Each flotilla consists of 10 boats, and membership is limited to United States citizens owning at least a quarter interest in a yacht or motorboat. Members may not be called to military duty, nor may their boats be requisitioned by the coast guard.

The Chicago district, with its 11 flotillas, has four more in sight and a total of 167 members.

GUARDSMEN HURL BACK AN INVADER IN WAR ON PAPER

Several hundred officers of the 33d division, Illinois National Guard, met in the 131st Infantry armory, 16th street and Michigan avenue, yesterday afternoon. They will remain there until noon today, at which time they hope to have repulsed [on paper] a theoretical army invading the United States from a base in Mexico.

At last reports the officers of the 33d had directed their troops in a brilliant movement at the Nolan river, Kentucky, and had driven the invaders back across that stream. Col. Guy W. Chipman and Lieut. Col. Paul McDonald of the regular army were present to umpire the war. It was fought, as far as the 33d was concerned, in what one officer described as "very bad country with few roads."

Hearst Paper in Atlanta Is Suspending Publication

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 16 (AP).—The Atlanta Georgian-American, a Hearst newspaper unit, announced today it would cease publication with its Sunday issue tomorrow. "Its feature news and services will appear in the Atlanta Journal beginning Monday, Dec. 18, 1939," said the announcement. An afternoon daily with current circulation figures of 80,414 daily and 162,000 Sundays, it was founded April 25, 1906, and acquired by William Randolph Hearst in 1912.

PHI BETA KAPPA AT DEPAUW TO MARK 50TH YEAR

Six Notables to Be Made Honorary Members.

Greencastle, Ind., Dec. 16 [Special].—Indiana Alpha chapter of Phi Beta Kappa will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary at DePauw university tomorrow and Monday, and in so doing will initiate six persons into honorary membership.

The six are Willis Vandevanter, retired associate justice of the United States Supreme court; Owen West, Chicago attorney; Eli Lilly, head of an Indianapolis pharmaceutical laboratory; Dr. Carl Stephen Ell, newly-elected president of Northeastern university, Boston, Mass.; and Mrs. Catherine Coffin Phillips of Pasadena, Cal., a biographer and historian. Of these, all except West and Lilly are DePauw alumni.

42 Others Nominated.

Also nominated to membership are 42 living DePauw alumni of classes antedating 1898. Of these, 21 are men students who were graduated before 1889, when the chapter was founded, but whose scholastic achievements would have merited membership if there had been a chapter during their studentship. The other 21 are women of classes between 1889 and 1898 who would have been eligible except for the fact that women were not admitted to membership before 1898.

The jubilee celebration will open tomorrow afternoon with vesper services at which Dr. Walter Bundy, professor of English Bible at DePauw, will make the principal address. His subject will be "The School of the Spirit."

Chapel to Be Held.

On Monday morning a special Phi Beta Kappa chapel will be held. Dr. William E. Hocking, professor of philosophy at Harvard university, will be principal speaker at this service. His subject, inspired by the European situation, will be "The Finer Arts of Pugnacity."

A forum on Monday afternoon will include an informal discussion and an address by Dr. Arthur H. Compton of the University of Chicago on "The Place of Science in a Liberal Arts Education."

Dr. J. L. Riebsomer, professor of chemistry at De Pauw and president of the De Pauw chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, will preside at both Monday meetings, which will be open to the public.

Are You Interested in Bird Banding?

How often will birds return to their original banding stations? What is the banding record of a well-known Blue Island, Illinois, bird bander? What is the ambition of all bird banders? The answers to these questions will be found in Bob Becker's interesting article in Section 1 of today's Chicago Sunday Tribune.

KINNICK VOTED BIG TEN'S MOST VALUABLE

IRISH RALLY IN LAST 4 MINUTES FOR 11 POINTS

Wolverines Lead at Half, 22 to 18.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 16 [Special].—Michigan's basketball team withstood a furious Notre Dame rally tonight and dealt the Irish their first defeat of the season, 41 to 39. Notre Dame had won four straight games.

Coming from behind midway in the first half, the Wolverines outfought Notre Dame and proceeded to pile up an 11 point lead in the second period. Then Eddie Riska and his teammates started a rally which threw the 5,000 spectators into an uproar until the final gun halted the attack. Notre Dame scored 11 points in the last four minutes.

Riska Scores 23 Points.

Riska, brilliant star from Chicago, was the outstanding man on the floor as he scored 10 baskets and 3 free throws for 23 points. The Michigan points were well distributed as the Wolverines played an excellent team game.

Notre Dame started the game by gaining an 8 to 0 lead. With Riska dropping in shots from all angles, the Wolverines didn't appear to have a chance. Then Charley Pink and Jim Rae led a bombardment which tied the score at 11 all.

Michigan found the range and managed to break up the Irish passing tactics by close floor play. Pink tipped in a basket and Bob Fitzgerald dropped in a left handed hook shot. Mike Sofiak dribbled thru for a goal under the basket and Fitzgerald scored again on a pass from Pink. The Wolverines then held a 19 to 11 lead.

Michigan Leads at Half.

Riska came back with two foul shots and two field goals, but Michigan led 22 to 18 at half time.

Michigan held its advantage until late in the final period when Notre Dame struck. Riska and George Sobek scored on successive break-aways and in the final minute Bob Smith's long shot, and two more scores by Riska made it 41 to 39 as the gun ended the drive. Lineups:

BADGERS LOSE, 41-28

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 16 [Special].—Marquette university avenged an earlier defeat by Wisconsin when it dealt the Badgers a 41 to 28 defeat before 6,000 in the Milwaukee auditorium tonight. The Badgers won the first game of the series, 46 to 39.

Holding the Badgers to one field goal in the first half, Marquette went out to a 16 to 6 lead as Deneen showed the way with three field goals and a free throw. The score was 4 to 3 in the Hilltoppers' favor after the first 10 minutes.

The second half was faster and the Badgers, with Schwartz and Gene England in the lead rôles, narrowed the Marquette edge to 20 to 15. Marquette's offense again picked up, however, and put the game beyond reach. Reserves finished out the last four minutes. Lineups:

WAYNE BEATS IOWA

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 16 [Special].—In a finish which saw two untried sophomores supply eight points in the last seven minutes, Wayne university's basketball team upset the University of Iowa, 34 to 30, tonight. It was Iowa's first defeat in four games.

Bill Collins and Len Myron were the sophomores who came thru with the winning points. Collins, a tall forward, made five points and Myron, a guard who played barely four minutes, came thru with three after the score had been tied at 29-all. Tommy Lind and Vic Siegel, two fast forwards, produced most of the scoring for Iowa as they combined for 17 points. Siegel topped the individuals with nine points.

Iowa, missing repeatedly on short shots, faded after taking a 26 to 22 lead early in the last half. The Hawkeyes had staged a rush to over-

ONE TO THE GOOD

Byron Nelson, national open champion, relaxes in the clubhouse after a two under par round gave him a total of 205 and a one stroke lead in the $10,000 Miami open golf tournament yesterday. The meet will end today.

BYRON NELSON LEADS IN MIAMI GOLF WITH 205; M'SPADEN SECOND

Miami, Fla., Dec. 16 (AP).—Byron Nelson, steadying after an almost disastrous start, today carded his third straight sub-par round, a 68, for a 205 that gave him the undisputed 54 hole lead in the $10,000 Miami open golf tournament.

Nelson, national open champion who is trying for a clear-cut right to the year's professional supremacy, was off form on the first three holes but came breezing in with a four under par 31 on the second nine.

A new threat emerged when Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Boston, last year's winner, got a four-below-par 66 to move up a single stroke behind Nelson with 206.

Eighteen holes of competition will complete the tournament tomorrow.

Snead Again a Threat.

Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., back in the form that made him the most feared professional in the land, hammered out a 67 for 207 to reënter the first place fight.

Also in contending position at 207 were Ralph Guldahl, two time national open ruler who scored a 69, and Gene Kunes, the Philadelphian whose 70 dropped him two strokes off the pace. Kunes had shared the 36 hole lead with Nelson at 137.

Snead became the center of a controversy when a spectator claimed Sam's ball moved as he was addressing it on the ninth hole.

Sam Is a Sportsman.

Snead said he hadn't seen it move, but offered to take a penalty stroke altho neither of his playing partners, McSpaden and Joe Turnesa of Rockville Center, N. Y., had noticed anything amiss. The tournament committee ruled against a penalty, altho Snead argued for 10 minutes after his round that he be penalized if there was any question.

Tommy Armour, winner of every major professional championship and still going strong at 46, had a 68 for 208 to stay in the running. Even with him there were Denny Shute, former British open and P. G. A. titleholder who scored a 69, and E. J. [Dutch] Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., who equaled par 70.

Youngsters Card 209.

A pair of youngsters, Clayton Heafner of Linville, N. C., and Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Y., shared the 209 spot, Heafner after a 69 today and Hogan after a 70. Bud Williamson of Fort Wayne, Ind., with a fine 66, and Dick Metz of Chicago with a 71, were tied at 210.

Henry Picard, current P. G. A. champion who leads the professional brigade both in money earnings and points toward the Harry Vardon trophy, slipped to a 71 for a total of 211, six strokes behind Nelson. By winning the tournament, with Picard finishing third or worse, Nelson could excell in both divisions.

Ed Oliver of Hornell, N. Y., shot the day's third 66 to tie Picard and Joe Turnesa, who had a third round 71, at 211. Wilford Wehrle of Chicago made a 71 for 212 to remain in front of the amateurs.

LONG ISLAND FIVE WINS IN OVERTIME FOR 40TH IN ROW

New York, Dec. 16 (AP).—Long Island university's basketball team put on a terrific closing drive to run their undefeated string to 40 straight games tonight with a 56 to 55 overime victory over Oregon before 17,852 in Madison Square Garden.

Coming from behind a 14 point deficit in the last 17 minutes of regulation time, the Blackbirds tied the score at 50-all on Bill King's shot with 20 seconds to play. Then, with the Webfoots in front 55 to 54 in overtime, King, muscular Negro veteran, dropped a pivot shot with 40 seconds left for victory.

In the first game of the opening Garden double header of the season Oklahoma A. & M. whipped City college of New York, 36 to 24.

Decatur, Ill., Dec. 16 (AP)—James Millikin university scored an Illinois College conference triumph tonight with a 35 to 26 victory over Lake Forest college.

WILDCAT RALLY IN SECOND HALF DEFEATS PITT

Harman, Shepard Pace Attack.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The amazing Wildcats did it again. Last night in Patten gymnasium, Northwestern won its third consecutive basketball game, whipping Pittsburgh in the last five minutes, 39 to 33.

Losing, 17 to 14, at the half, the Wildcats came back to score three consecutive field goals, lost this advantage twice, and then, with five minutes remaining and leading only 32 to 31, they outsped and outfought the Panthers in the best climax of this embryonic season.

Last night it was the veteran pair of Les Harman and Bob Shepard who led the attack on Pittsburgh's semizone defense. They were ably supported by Capt. Ad Vance, whose three set goals from behind the foul circle did as much to disconcert Pittsburgh as the speed and passing of the others. Vance also steadied his mates and his defense was superb.

Dick Klein Proves Worth.

Dick Klein, the sophomore who led the victory march against Washington State, didn't have as many chances last night, but while the pace was much swifter, he proved his worth defensively in the closing minutes and contributed the final field goal on a dribble in after interception of a Pitt pass in midcourt.

Harman and Shepard, however, earned the cheers of the crowd of 3,500. Harman led both teams with 14 points and Shepard scored 12, four field goals and four penalty shots in five attempts. There was a decisiveness to Northwestern's attack in the second half that must have encouraged the coaches while the Wildcat defense, coping adequately with Pitt's single and double blocks, kept the Panthers shooting from a distance.

Pitt started a team largely composed of substitutes, but by the time Northwestern ran up an 8 to 1 lead all the varsity had reported. Pitt finally went ahead, 13 to 12, lost that advantage by a point on penalty shots, and then finished the half leading, 17 to 14.

Score Tied Four Times.

Harman and Shepard accounted for all Northwestern's points during the attack that swept thru four tied scores to send the Wildcats ahead, 29 to 23. With seven minutes to play and after Pitt had come within three points, Vance's final goal made the score 32 to 27. Dick Klein, who had rested the greater portion of the half, replaced Al Butherus, and with five minutes to play and Pitt only one point behind at 32 to 31 Harman came in for Henry Clason, who had relieved him briefly.

Klein scored from under the board after a feint and bounce, and Shepard's field goal from the side and a penalty shot finished Northwestern's scoring, except for Klein's last second goal. George Kocheran, diminutive forward; Jimmy Klein, and Mel Port each scored four field goals for Pitt. Lineups:

CHICAGO, 52; ARMOUR, 27

The University of Chicago basketball team walloped Armour Tech, 52 to 27, in the Maroon fieldhouse last night, scoring its third consecutive victory of the season before 1,500.

Ralph Richardson, Maroon guard, led the scoring with 14 points on five field goals and four free throws. It was Armour's fifth straight loss.

Armour failed to score for 12 minutes. Then Capt. Bill Scherer sank a free throw. Armour did not break thru again until the count was 18 to 1. Chicago led at the half, 28 to 11. Lineups:

ST. GEORGE, LOYOLA, DE LA SALLE, FENWICK, ST. RITA WIN IN TOURNEY

BY HOWARD BARRY.

First round play was concluded and the field narrowed to eight teams for today's afternoon and evening games in the St. George High school invitational basketball tournament last night. St. George, Fenwick, De La Salle, Loyola, St. Rita, and St. Patrick of Kankakee were added to Friday night's victors, St. Michael and Leo, for today's quarter-final contests.

St. George beat De Paul, 34 to 23; Fenwick eliminated Central Catholic of Hammond, Ind., 42 to 23; De La Salle outlasted St. Mary's of Woodstock to win, 33 to 30; Loyola beat Holy Name of Lockport, 30 to 24; St. Rita defeated St. Mel, 34 to 23, and St. Patrick beat St. Ignatius, 28 to 23.

St. Rita established itself as one of the most formidable teams of the tournament by defeating St. Mel. Both quintets had plenty of big, fast and aggressive players but the south side boys clicked more consistently with their shots.

St. George and Fenwick were other teams which showed considerable strength in winning.

After a very slow start, Loyola had to hustle to catch Holy Name Tech of Lockport, but once the North Side boys got to the front they had little trouble staying there.

In one of the closest games of the round, De La Salle of Chicago came out of a tight spot to defeat St. Mary's of Woodstock. The score was tied six times and the lead changed eight times.

IOWA HALF IS THIRD HAWKEYE TO WIN HONOR

Harmon 2d in Poll of 23 Electors.

THE WINNERS

1939—Nile Kinnick, Iowa.
1938—Howard Weiss, Wisconsin.
1937—Corbett Davis, Indiana.
1936—Vernon Huffman, Indiana.
1935—Jay Berwanger, Chicago.
1934—Pug Lund, Minnesota.
1933—Joe Laws, Iowa.
1932—Harry Newman, Michigan.
1931—Clarence Munn, Minnesota.
1930—Wesley Fesler, Ohio State.
1929—Bill Glasgow, Iowa.
1928—Chuck Bennett, Indiana.
1927—Ken Rouse, Chicago.
1926—Benny Friedman, Michigan.
1925—Tim Lowry, Northwestern.
1924—Red Grange, Illinois.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Nile Kinnick, University of Iowa half back, has been chosen the football player most valuable to his team in the Western conference.

Kinnick, who is the third Iowa player so honored in the poll conducted annually for 16 years by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will receive a sterling silver football, actual size. He and the other nine players voted most valuable to their elevens by their teammates will receive white gold miniature footballs engraved with their name, honorary caption, and university monogram.

These awards will be mailed shortly after the holidays to the 10 honor men of the conference who comprise THE TRIBUNE's All-Big Ten team. Kinnick's award will be presented at a time to be selected by him and the officials of the Iowa department of athletics. Heretofore the award customarily has been made during the intermission of a university basketball game.

Kinnick's Name Mentioned.

There was a presentiment that Kinnick would win the majority of the votes of the electoral college composed of 10 conference coaches, 10 veteran conference officials, Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of Big Ten athletics; Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, and the writer. Because Iowa, under the first year direction of Coach Eddie Anderson, had leaped from eighth position in the 1938 conference standings to second position this year, and was denied a tie with Ohio State for the championship only by a tie with Northwestern in the final game, Kinnick had been prominently mentioned as probable winner of the silver football.

First, however, Kinnick had to become eligible for selection by the vote of his own teammates. Kinnick's selection was unanimous. Thirty-four squad members voted in his absence from Iowa City due to an injury he suffered in the Northwestern game. After his nomination Kinnick then was in competition with nine other players, all exceptional in ability and leadership. Any one of them merited the honor of election as the Big Ten's most valuable player. It was their collective misfortune, of course, to face Kinnick, whose gridiron feats this fall already have become tinged with legend.

Climax of Climactic Season.

Notified in Iowa City that he had been voted the trophy, Kinnick said: "This is the award which is most gratifying to me. In my mind it bears the most significance for the reason that I was only able to get it because the men with whom I played saw fit to make me their own most valuable player. To think that I am now winning the award as most valuable for the entire conference is a real climax to a very climatic season."

The Big Ten players who with Kinnick were named most valuable by their teammates are:

Chicago—Robert Wasem, half back.
Illinois—Bill Lenich, center.
Indiana—James Logan, guard.
Michigan—Tom Harmon, half back.
Minnesota—Harold Van Every, half back.
Northwestern—John Haman, center.
Ohio State—Stephen Andrako, center.
Purdue—Frank Bykowski, guard.
Wisconsin—George Paskvan, full back.

It is interesting to note that this group is evenly divided between linemen and backs and that two guards, Bykowski of Purdue and Capt. Logan of Indiana, were most valuable men. It is more unusual, however, that the 23 men charged with choosing the Big Ten's most valuable player were nearly in accord. Kinnick was not a unanimous choice. That probably is an impossible goal, and rightly so. But Kinnick obtained more first place votes than any other silver football winner. When Pug Lund of Minnesota took the trophy in 1934 he established a record which lasted for five years.

There were other first place men in the list submitted by the electors, each of whom voted for two choices, first and second. These were scored two points and one point, respectively.

Harmon Takes Second Place.

COMISKEY'S LEFT HAND BROKEN; OUT OF RING 3 MONTHS

Dudas Is Too Tough; Gets Conn Match.

New York, Dec. 16 [Special].—Patrick Edward Comiskey, young Irish heavyweight who was being groomed for main bouts on Promoter Mike Jacobs' winter boxing schedule in Madison Square Garden, has a broken left hand and will be on the shelf at least three months. X-rays today showed that Pat had suffered a severely fractured left hand against the veteran Steve Dudas last night.

First Loss in 25 Bouts.

Few of the 17,000 fans who saw Comiskey drop his first verdict in 25 pro fights thought Pat was badly hurt. He bled freely from the nose thruout the fight but favored his left hand only from the third round on. It was explained today that Pat hurt it somewhat earlier but smashed it in the fourth when he shook Dudas up with a free-swinging left hook to the head. A right floored Steve for an eight count a few seconds later.

Today Dr. Frederick Schwartzberg, of Paterson, N. J., said Comiskey's hand was shattered and put it in a cast which he is expected to wear for two months.

This turn of events in the career of the hard-hitting young pugilist, whom optimistic experts were predicting would become a topnotch heavyweight, hurt Mike Jacobs just as badly. Mike wanted to use Pat against Buddy Baer, and was even considering a suggestion to pair him with Billy Conn.

Dudas, Conn to Meet.

Dudas' upset victory moved Pat out of the picture until around April 1 at least. Dudas won himself a match with Conn for the Garden, Jan. 10. Promoter Jacobs closed the affair today. It will be a 10 round bout.

Meanwhile Hymie Caplin, who is managing Lew Jenkins, new lightweight knockout artist, announced he would ask the state athletic commission to name Lew the No. 1 lightweight contender. Jenkins added further to his stature last night with a three round knockout of Billy Marquart.

Matchmaker Johnny Attell of the 20th Century Sporting club is considering Maxie Berger as the next likely opponent for Al Davis, Brooklyn's hard-hitting welterweight, who is rapidly approaching a championship bout with Henry Armstrong.

Pirrone Signs to Box Sutka in 10 Rounds

Paul Pirrone, Cleveland middleweight, has been signed to meet Joe Sutka of of Wyandotte, Mich., in a 10 round bout in Marigold Gardens tomorrow. Marion Mosley, Chicago heavyweight, will be after his sixth consecutive victory against Emil Schulman in a five round semi-final. Matches of four rounds will bring together Tony Di Pasquale and George Kontopolis, Georgie Feltis, and Tito Taylor, Charles Banks, and James Bivens.

Eddie Lander, west side junior lightweight, and Pete Lello each will collect $750 for a 10 round contest in the Coliseum Dec. 27. The purse will bring Lander's earnings for the year to $3,750. Weight for the match is 135 pounds. Two additional matches of 10 rounds involve Fritzie Zivic and Milt Aron, and Altus Allen and Lee Oma.

De Paul Five Wins, 33 to 29, Over Superior

Superior, Wis., Dec. 16 [Special].—De Paul university came back in the second half to defeat Superior State Teachers, 33 to 29, before 1,500 tonight. Superior, with its offense centered in Bud Engdahl's long shots in the opening period, led 19 to 16 at the half.

Elmer Gainer and Stan Szukala paced the Blue Demons, scoring 21 points between them. Szukala had 11 and Gainer 10. Superior was held to two field goals in the second half.

NEW YORK WINS, CHICAGO SECOND IN TABLE TENNIS

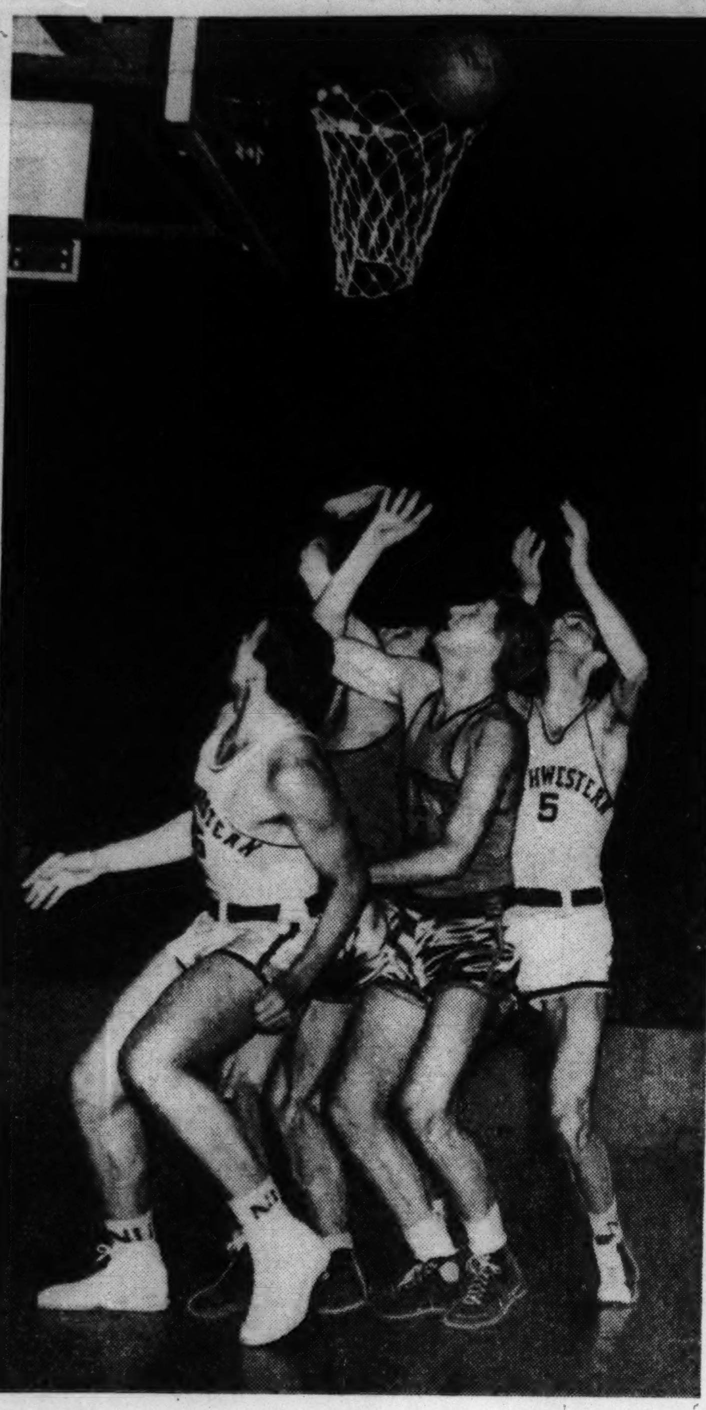
Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 16 (AP).—New York won the national intercity table tennis championship for the sixth consecutive year tonight by beating Chicago, 5 to 1. New York was unbeaten in six matches.

Chicago finished second, Philadelphia and St. Louis tied for third, Indianapolis was fifth and Boston and Detroit tied for sixth.

WHEATON WINS FROM CONCORDIA QUINTET, 50 TO 40

Wheaton college defeated Concordia Teachers of River Forest, 50 to 40, in Wheaton last night. Chet Raube, Wheaton forward, was high scorer with 19 points, and Harry Buerer, Wheaton guard, was second with 15.

BASKETBALL MEANS ACTION, COLLEGE OR PREP STYLE



Northwestern's basketball team flashes to a 39 to 33 triumph over Pittsburgh in Patten gymnasium last night. Prominent in this bit of under-the-basket action is Dick Klein (25), who has just missed a shot, and Lester Harman (5), both of Northwestern, and Jack Scherer (14) of Pitt.

Members of the St. Rita and St. Mel quintets go high into the air in an effort to capture a rebound in their tournament game at St. George High school, Evanston. Nos. 8 and 4 are Pat Sabbo and Jack Segerson, respectively, of St. Mel. Nos. 47 and 67 are worn by Len Zimny and John Gleeson, both of St. Rita, St. Rita won, 34 to 23.

Moriarity Beats Thurnblad to Take Over Billiard Lead

Joe Moriarity took the undisputed lead in the Chicago open three cushion billiard tournament as a result of his 42 to 44 triumph over Arthur Thurnblad, former world's champion, last night in Bensinger's Recreation, 131 South Wabash avenue. Thurnblad was playing for 50. Moriarity leads the competition with five victories and two losses.

BUCKEYES WIN, 64-35

Columbus, O., Dec. 16 [Special].—Ohio State university's basketball team swamped Wooster, last year's champion of the Ohio conference, before 2,500 here tonight, 64 to 35.

Still lacking the service of three regulars, Capt. Robert Lynch, Bob Schick, and Bill Sattler, the Buckeyes used many sophomore prospects thruout most of the game.

Ohio State got away to a 6 to 0 lead. Frank Grenert, 6 foot 4 inch Wooster center, then tied the score on two field goals and two free throws.

SPARTANS WIN, 52-44

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 16.—A last half scoring spree that saw Michigan State roll up 25 points enabled the Spartans to defeat Washington State, 52 to 44, tonight. The Cougars jumped off to an early lead but, with two minutes remaining in the first half, a free throw by Chet Aubuchon tied the score at 27 to 27. Then Washington State took a three point lead before the half ended.

The Spartans gradually pulled away in the second half and, with two minutes left, enjoyed an eight point lead which they held until the finish.

Chicago Site of Two Bowling Sweepstakes on Jan. 6 and 7

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

The interest of bowlers will be centered on Chicago the week-end of Jan. 6 and 7 when many of the nation's tenpin stars will compete for two of the sport's fattest purses in two invitational sweepstake events, Ray Schalk's fourth annual sweep at his Beverly Recreation and Art Meier's third annual Gold Coast event.

Detroit, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, Columbus, O., Louisville, Kansas City, Cleveland, Buffalo, and other bowling hot spots will send sharpshooters to these sweeps. Each event plans on a $1,000 top prize, with a total of possibly $6,000 being distributed among a dozen teams.

The Gold Coast sweep calls for the highest entry fee permitted under sanctioned bowling regulations, $125 per team, and the Schalk affair requires $50 from each quintet. Meier is planning on a limit of 24 quintets and Schalk is after four squads of 20 teams each.

Out of town teams have won some $3,500 at these two events the last three years, with Chicago's Classic leaguers holding a slight edge. Defending champions are the Chicago Pabsts at the Gold Coast, with a 4,336 total, and the Joseph L. Gills at the Beverly Recreation on 4,244. Both programs call for four games across eight alleys.

Windy City League.

The Budweisers, Mineralites, and Joseph L. Gills, leading teams in the Windy City league, will enjoy breathers tomorrow night, the Budweisers facing the McKessons; the Mineralities, tied with the Buds for the lead, meeting the Furmans, and the Gills, who are two games off the pace, meeting the Bennetts. The fourth place Quality five, two games farther back, will face the O'Keefes, in fifth place by three games.

Tomorrow's schedule:

Bennett's Ace Arcade vs. Joseph Gill Insurance, G. and W. 5 Star vs. Nonebetter Ice Cream, Budweiser vs. McKesson's Old Crow, Blazek Tailers vs. Amideis Tap Room, Vogel Bros. vs. J. M. Kralovec & Son, Quality Wet Wash vs. O'Keefe Bros. Coal, Furman Funerals vs. Mineralites, Betinis Boosters vs. Whitecaps.

The Women.

Entries in the Chicago women's bowling tournament, which already exceeds 200 and may pass 300, close Tuesday, according to Betty Ramsey, secretary of the Chicago Women's Bowling association. The tournament opens Jan. 6 in the Windy City Recreation and will continue week-ends until all entrants have competed.

Sally Ostrowski's 597, rolled in the Congress league, was high among women's scores last week. Other scores:

Spotting the Pins.

Remember the benefit match at Northtown Recreation, 2519 Devon avenue, tonight, in which the leading Schamberger Schlitzes of the North End Traveling league will meet a six-man team of present and former baseball stars, including Cub Manager Gabby Hartnett, Ray Schalk, Jimmy Archer, Bob O'Farrell, Red Faber, and Tony Kauffmann. The gross receipts will be turned over to the Tribune Good Fellows fund. Hal Totten will be master of ceremonies. Lou Betini is giving the use of the alleys. . . . While the Wednesday division is continuing its schedule, the Sunday division of the Classic league will be inactive until Jan. 7, 1940. The teams are competing in the central states tournament in Cleveland, O., this week-end. . . . The Budweiser team captained by Joe Wilman is leading Stevenson's Major league and is tied for the lead in the Windy City and Randolph leagues.

The Cook county team increased its lead in the Fireman's Fund Insurance league by handing two defeats to the Accountants. Cook County's margin is now two games. The Sprinklers went into third place by taking two games from the Underwriters. The Hawkeyes gained a tie for fourth place by winning two from the Automobiles. . . . The Evanston Chamber of Commerce Good Will Ambassadors bowling team defeated the Oak Park Chamber of Commerce in three straight games. The total score was 2,751 to 2,587. C. Labich shot 623 and Burton 612 for Evanston.

Samuelson's Major League.

Samuelson's Kids won three games from the Mee & Rammes on a 3,101 series, while the leading Pat's Taps and second place Wallace Coals each were losing a game to the Fritzi Scheffs and Budweisers, respectively. There is now a three-game margin between each of the first four teams. Scores:

MARSHALL WINS 3D STRAIGHT IN SQUASH TOURNEY

The John Marshall squash team won its third consecutive match in class "A" of the Chicago Squash Racquet association winter meet yesterday, defeating Dartmouth Alumni, 3 to 2, on the Marshall courts.

In other matches, the Chicago Athletic association turned back Chicago Dearborn club, 4 to 1, and Chicago Town and Tennis triumphed over the Lake Shore A. C., 4 to 1.

Three teams, University club, Alman's Gym, and John Marshall, each won their third round match in class "B" to remain in a tie for first place. Alman's Gym defeated Evanston Y., 3 to 2; John Marshall trimmed Chicago Dearborn, 5 to 0, and University club won from Lake Shore, 4 to 1. Dartmouth Alumni blanked the Union League club squad, 5 to 0, in another "B" game.

CHICAGO PABSTS' 3,102 TRIUMPHS AT CLEVELAND

Herb Freitag paced the winning team with 223, 186, 258—667. Other team members' scores were: Les Fuller, 641; Joe Sinke, 609; Paul Krumske, 594; Ned Day, 591.

The Isaac Baker & Son team of Erie, Pa., and the Joseph L. Gill & Co. team of Chicago tied for third place at 3,019. Winding up a big night for Chicago bowlers were the Budweisers, who compiled 3,017 for fifth.

Singles and doubles will close tomorrow.

NAME KINNICK MOST VALUABLE BIG TEN PLAYER

dealing Iowa its only defeat of the season and who inspired a badly battered Wolverine eleven to superlative play in the final game when Ohio State, the champion, was defeated, 21 to 14, was in this group. Harmon, however, when not named in first place, almost invariably was second choice. This placed him second in the point standing in the final tabulation.

Capt. Andrako of Ohio State also received first place votes. His leadership, which had the Buckeyes pulling together thruout the season, as well as his excellent play at center, were points noted by the men who voted for him. Van Every, Minnesota's triple threat half back; Wasem, Chicago half back; Indiana's Logan, and Northwestern's Haman were highly regarded. One elector wrote, in naming Haman for the silver football trophy, that he considered Haman's defensive ability to have been more important to Northwestern than any other offensive or defensive factor.

Two Other Hawkeyes Chosen.

Kinnick follows two other Hawkeyes in the parade of most valuable players. In 1929 Bill Glassgow was the first Hawkeye to win the trophy, and in 1933 Joe Laws, now a stellar player with the world professional champions, the Green Bay Packers, received the trophy. Iowa and Indiana are the only universities to have received the award three times.

Chicago, Michigan, and Minnesota have won twice each. All other universities except Purdue have had one conference winner. In the closest vote in 16 years, Cecil Isbell of Purdue was beaten by one point by Corby Davis of Indiana in 1937. In August, 1938, Isbell was awarded THE TRIBUNE's most valuable trophy for All-Stars competing in the annual game against the professional champions. This honor last August went to Bill Osmanski, former Holy Cross full back.

Iowa's record this year, which included a victory over Notre Dame and four conference victories, stemmed from Kinnick's superior play as a runner, kicker, and passer, and from team spirit engendered by Kinnick, Coach Anderson's most apt pupil. Kinnick's performance possibly is the greatest since Red Grange's years at Illinois. Certainly his record is the best in nearly a score of years at Iowa.

Scores Five Touchdowns.

Kinnick scored five touchdowns during the season, including the winning score against Notre Dame. He ran the ball 106 times for a total of 374 yards, an average of 3.52 yards an attempt. He completed 33 passes, 11 of which scored touchdowns. Two passes scored against South Dakota, three against Indiana and Wisconsin each; one against Michigan, and two against Minnesota in the fourth period, which whipped the Gophers who had led until that time by 9 points.

Kinnick drop kicked for 11 points and a scoring total of 41 points. He punted 73 times for an average of 39 yards. And he played 60 minute games except for the opener and the Northwestern contest when he was removed because of injury.

On this record Kinnick was chosen the most valuable player in the Western conference.

RANGERS DEFEAT CANADIENS, 4-2; TIE FOR 3D PLACE

New York Runs Unbeaten Streak to Eight.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 16 (AP).—The New York Rangers ran their unbeaten streak to eight straight games and climbed into a third place tie with the Canadiens in the National Hockey league by defeating Montreal, 4 to 2, tonight before 7,000.

The Rangers swept to victory on a pair of third period goals by Rookie Kilby McDonald, a second period score by another freshman, Alf Pike, and a goal in the opening session by Bryan Hextall. The Canadiens' goals went to Doug Young and Hector [Toe] Blake.

The success gave the Rangers a record of five victories and three draws in their last eight games, the best undefeated string compiled by any team this season.

McDonald's first goal came on a great passing play with Phil Watson. His second was the result of a breakaway by Clint Smith, who darted away from a Montreal gang attack and fired from five feet out at Goalie Claude Bourque. The Montreal netminder made the save but was left sprawled out on the ice. McDonald just coasted in behind the play and picked up the rebound for a score.

LEAFS WIN, 5 TO 1

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 16 (AP).—Led by Gordon Drillon's two goals, the Maple Leafs stepped into undisputed possession of first place tonight by defeating New York Americans, 5 to 1, before 9,465.

Drillon started the scoring after nine minutes of play and finished it with a minute to go. After Drillon's opening sally, Hank Goldup sent the Maple Leafs two up and Nels Stewart reduced the margin to 2 to 1 just before the first period closed.

Nick Metz fired his first goal of the season on a breakaway in the second period and there was no further scoring until midway thru the period. Then Gus Marker made his first goal of the season and Drillon closed the scoring, aided as on the first goal by Syl Apps. Lineups:

Sonja Comes Back to Town Tomorrow

Miss Henie's Show Reaches City Tomorrow

Sonja Henie and her troupe of more than 100 skaters will reach Chicago tomorrow afternoon to begin a week's rehearsals before the presentation of the 1940 Hollywood ice revue in the Chicago Stadium for eight nights beginning Christmas eve, Dec. 24. The final rehearsals on Chicago ice will begin on Tuesday.

The revue, produced by Arthur Wirtz of the Chicago Stadium and staged and directed by Harry Losee of 20th Century-Fox, is the largest company of skaters ever assembled. Featured with the Norwegian stage and ice star will be two of the finest current pair skaters, Stewart Raeburn of Toronto, Ont., and Harrison Thompson, a native of Chicago who learned his skating in Montreal, Que., and London, England.

Has Première in Houston.

The extravaganza, which cost more than $150,000 to produce, had its première in Houston, Tex., Dec. 8, and closed there last night. Near capacity houses witnessed all the performances there and critics lauded the show.

For the first time in the history of skating the featured portions of the show are devoted to ballets and Miss Henie and her company present the complete Stravinsky arrangement of Chopin's "Les Sylphides," the entire "Rumanian Rhapsody" of George Enesco, and portions of the exotic "Scheherazade Suite," by Rimsky-Korsakow.

In addition to the ballets, a host of other attractive numbers have been arranged, many of them also featuring the ten times world's skating champion, who was defeated only once in all of her years of competition.

Have New Tango.

A year ago Miss Henie and Stewart Raeburn stole the 1939 revue with their tango on the ice. This year they present a tango to the music of Victor Herbert and in place of the skating fantasy "Alice in Wonderland" there's the "Candy Shop Parade," based on the music of "Over the Rainbow."

TULANE SYSTEM HAD ITS ORIGIN AT MINNESOTA

New Orleans, La., Dec. 16 (AP).—The Texas Aggies, come Sugar bowl day, will face a distinct Tulane system of power football developed by Coach Lowell [Red] Dawson on Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest's famous military principle of "get there fustest with the mostest men."

The system emerged from 25 years of Minnesota influence at the southern school and was worked out mainly thru experimentation starting from Bernie Bierman's single wing formations that did such wonders for both Tulane and Minnesota.

Without any radical departures, Dawson, by rearranging his backs to bring them close to the point of attack and pulling an extra tackle out of the line for interference, has perfected a system that generates terrific power thru the line with double blocking.

How the Attack Works.

Bierman's favorite formation at Tulane placed the tail back slightly to the strong side of center and 4½ to 5 yards back of the unbalanced line, the full back about a yard ahead of him and to strong side, the quarter close behind the outside guard and the wing back about three yards directly behind the end.

Dawson pulled his ends in tighter and put the wing back outside the end and as close as the law allowed. The tail back was placed slightly more to the weak side and four yards behind the line, the full back parallel and behind the outside guard, the quarter slightly more to the strong side.

"I think our formation takes better care of a sliding line and allows more effective cutbacks thru the middle," Dawson says.

Easier to Box Tackle.

"With the wing back outside the end it is easier to box a tackle and keep him from running out. On weak side plays the tail back is nearer the spot and doesn't force the wing back so deep on reverses, and the full back is in a better position to get ahead fast.

"We bring the blockers to the point of attack so the defense will have to come to us instead of our going to the defense."

Tulane had been a Minnesota system school since 1915 when Clark Shaughnessy, one of Doc Williams' great Minnesota linemen, introduced his master's famous shift.

System Well Established.

Bernie Bierman, another Williams product, succeeded Shaughnessy and worked from some of Williams' formations, altho giving them his own interpretations. Ted Cox of Minnesota succeeded Bierman and continued his system.

When Bierman went to his alma mater he took his Tulane quarter back, Dawson, as assistant coach, and when Dawson returned to Tulane in 1936 he brought two Minnesotans, Glenn Seidel and Bill Bevan, as assistants.

The two schools were twin laboratories for one system for a quarter of a century. Now Tulane has its own system.

HAWKS HOPE TO UPSET BRUINS AND BRIMSEK

11 Straight Losses to Boston Bother 'Em.

Games Tonight

Maple Leafs at Americans'.
Rangers at Red Wings'.
Bruins at Blackhawks'.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Goalie Frank Brimsek, padding and paddle, will be out on Chicago Stadium ice tonight with the rest of the champion Boston Bruins. Paul Thompson and the Blackhawks hope to show Frankie a sight he has never seen, the Hawks beating the Bruins.

Brimsek succeeded Paul Thompson's brother, Tiny, at the start of last season. Somebody forgot to tell the rookie from Mike Karakas' home town that the Hawks at the time of his major league debut were champions of the world. He started right in not being afraid of the then champs and thru 10 games against the Hawks has made something of a career of stopping pucks which the Hawks aimed at the nets behind him. The Hawks have scored only eight goals on Brimsek during the 10 games since Frankie came up from the hockey steppes or bushes.

Lose Eleven Straight to Boston.

There was one Boston victory near the close of the 1937-'38 season, and the Hawks have lost twice to the Bruins this season. These, combined with the eight lost last year while the Hawks were defending world champs, have given the Chicagoans a losing streak of 11 straight in competition with the Bostonese.

Manager Thompson still is grieving about the manner in which they failed to break the Bruin string in Boston on Nov. 14. In that game Doug Bentley, flashy Hawk rookie, scored in 2 minutes and 27 seconds, and the Hawks remained ahead until the Bruins tied the score after the halfway point in the third quarter. The Bruins scored in overtime on a fluke and added another after the Hawks opened up, thus accomplishing a 3 to 1 victory.

Bruins Do It Again.

The Hawks in Chicago on Nov. 19 clung to a scoreless tie until late in the game. After the Bruins' late score the Hawks opened up and the Bruins slapped in another counter to effect a 2 to 0 final score.

After reviewing practice sessions held in preparation for the Bruin encounter Manager Thompson, who is a man of some caution, said the team which will face the Bruins tonight is the best Chicago has sent against the ferocious Bostons in several seasons. Paul became especially optimistic when he found all 17 of his chattels on the ice at Friday's practice. This was the first time in a month that Thompson had all hands on skates simultaneously, a series of casualities which knocked out Earl Seibert eight games ago having started a string of accidents which at one time had six Hawks out of shape at the same time.

Seibert Returns Tonight.

Seibert will return to action tonight, paired at defense with Art Wiebe. Joe Cooper is ready to return, but will not be in action against the Bruins. Bill MacKenzie, who has been putting on a rejuvenation show since his return from Providence will team with Des Smith in the other defense pairing. Phil Hergesheimer, another healed casualty, also will be given added rest, with Ab Demarco continuing in his stead.

Sunday night crowds at Chicago hockey games, averaging around 16,000, have been causes of amazement to the turnstile boys with other clubs. The Bruins have always drawn here and a capacity turnout is anticipated tonight. Lineups:

RENAISSANCE, DUFFY FLORALS PLAY TONIGHT

The Duffy Florals, Chicago professional basketball team, will make its 1939 debut tonight against the New York Renaissance, claimants to the pro title, at 9:30 o'clock in the Chicago Teachers' college gymnasium, 68th place and Normal avenue.

Gene Brownell, 6 foot 6 inch center, who formerly played with the Oshkosh All-Stars and New York Yankees in the American league, will lead the Duffy Florals. Other squad members include Glen Downey, co-captain and guard of Purdue's 1937 quintet, and three former Chicago high school stars, George Morriss of Mount Carmel and Johnny Orr of St. Rita, forwards, and Art Jackson of Parker, guard.

The Rens will use the same squad that brought them the pro crown, namely, Eyre Saitch, Johnny Issacs, William [Wee Willie] Smith, Charles [Tarzan] Cooper, William [Pop] Gates, and Zack Clayton.

Los Angeles Bulldogs Close Pro Season Against Gunners

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 16 (AP)—The Los Angeles Bulldogs end their American Professional Football league campaign tomorrow in a game with the St. Louis Gunners. Coach Ike Frankian's Bulldogs defeated the Gunners earlier this season in St. Louis and figure to repeat the victory tomorrow and then claim the American league championship. The Bulldogs divided two league games with the leading Columbus Bullies and defeated them twice more in nonleague contests.

Bruins Are a Puzzle, Too

Perhaps to take their minds off their engagement tonight with the strong Boston Bruins, two members of the Blackhawks while away a few moments in their dressing room in the Stadium with a puzzle game. Les Cunningham, center, and Mush March, right wing (seated, left to right), are the combatants. Bill Thoms, center, and Bill Carse, center (standing, left to right), are the kibitzers.

ILLINOIS WILL OPEN PREP MAT CLINIC DEC. 28

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 16 [Special].—The first annual high school wrestling clinic will be held at the University of Illinois Dec. 28 and 29.

State high school wrestling coaches are invited to attend, bringing up to 10 members of their squads to participate in mass drills and instructions by the Illinois staff, H. E. Kenney, head coach, and G. C. Law and Allen Sapora, his assistants.

Dr. H. C. Gebhart of the university medical department and W. W. Brown, trainer for the last 10 years, also will appear on the program.

Lang Wins Y. M. C. A. 440 Yard Swim Title

Allen Lang of the Lincoln-Belmont Y. won the Chicago Y. M. C. A. senior 440 yard free style swimming championship last night in the Lawson pool. He covered the distance in 5:34.5. John Grube of Central Y. was second, while Jack Kolp of Lincoln-Belmont and Richard Hinze of Central placed third and fourth, respectively.

Di Re to Meet Cannon Today for Handball Title

George Di Re, 1939 winner of the tourney, and Paddy Cannon, former state doubles title holder, both of the Chicago Towers club, will meet this afternoon for the 1940 Central A. A. U. handball singles championship in the Madison Athletic club, 4717 Madison street.

Cannon and Di Re eliminated Lieut. Bob Quinn of the fire department and Bob Kendler, Chicago Towers club, respectively, yesterday in semifinal games. After dropping the first game, 21-14, Cannon came back to take the next two, 21-16, 21-1, from Quinn. Di Re won in two games, 21-16, 21-19.

Quinn and Kendler will play at 3:30 today for third place. The championship match is scheduled for one hour later.

An original field of 32 of the city's leading players began competing for the title last Monday. Each of the finalists won four games to reach the title play. Di Re defeated Tony Korper, Ray Laser, Russell Fiske, and Kendler. Cannon eliminated Tony Di Alberti, John Zapfel, Ralph Sipes, and Quinn.

LOMBARDI WINS ODDITY PRIZE FOR BEAUTY NAP

Snead's 8 Strokes Also Get Votes.

New York, Dec. 16 (AP).—It's a doubtful honor but Ernie Lombardi, the Cincinnati Reds' catcher, heads the list as the originator of the No. 1 oddity of the year in the opinion of 67 sports editors participating in the Associated Press' annual quest for the year's oddest or most freakish incident.

Surely it wasn't premeditated but when Lombardi took that little snooze at home plate while the Yankees came pouring over him in the tenth inning of the final game of the world series, he clinched the honor. He was the top choice of 37 of the editors, with Sam Snead's eight strokes on the last hole to lose the national open golf tournament and the bump England's Sidney Wooderson received in the Princeton mile the only other oddities receiving more than one vote.

Football First Among Sports.

The editors accompanied their ballots for Lombardi with several picturesque descriptions of just what the big catcher did after Charley Keller knocked him down and Joe DiMaggio roared home while the ball rested only inches from Ernie's hand.

As a sport, football ranked No. 1 in the number of freaks. There was the unidentified game reported in which the ball split in half on a placekick for the extra point and the point was awarded when one-half went over the cross bar. Also the usual annual oddity—in the L. S. U.-Mississippi college game—in which a sub jumped off the bench to tackle an opposing ball carrier.

Doyle Gets Vote.

Other oddities listed were: Jack Doyle's knockout of himself in London; the bed lamp that up and attacked Dizzy Dean, injuring his arm; the double knockout, in an amateur fight at Anamosa, Ia.; the P. G. A. strike which threatened to stop the tournament; Bud Ward's golf shot which hit a woman and caused him to lose the national open by one stroke; Johnny Revolta's six putting a hole in a winter golf tournament, and Quarter Back John Evashevski's sending Michigan's Tom Harmon over from the three yard line to score, not realizing that Harmon had scored on the previous play.

Budge and Riggs to Play Exhibition on Wednesday

Don Budge, world professional singles tennis champion, and Bobby Riggs, world amateur champion, will play an exhibition in the 108th Engineers armory Wednesday.

Steven Owen to Coach League Stars for Packers

New York, Dec. 16 [Special].—Steve Owen, veteran coach of the New York Giants, has accepted the assignment of handling the All-League Stars for their game against the champion Green Bay Packers next month in Los Angeles, it was announced yesterday. Owen accepted the coaching berth, tendered him by sponsors of the game, preliminary to leaving here for the coast.

Owen expects to drive westward as far as his home in Kinsley, Kas., and from there probably will complete his journey to the Pacific coast by train. He expects to reach Los Angeles Dec. 23, when he will start work with the squad.

The players who will oppose the Packers are being selected by ballot.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Last year, along about this holiday season, Chicago basketball fans were presented an innovation in their favorite sport. Loyola and De Paul universities, which had been for many seasons conducting a little vendetta of their own, made peace and joined each other in a series of double-headers against top flight foes from every section of the country. As the series progressed, under the sponsorship of Judge John A. Sbarbaro and Arthur Morse, co-directors of the Chicago Intercollegiate Basketball association, more De Paul and more Loyola alumni began to follow their alma maters. More interesting was the fact that a definite group of subway alumni, who had no affiliation with either school, began to be attracted by the caliber of the two teams and their joint opponents.

Tomorrow night the subway alumni will have to ask for a transfer, for Loyola and De Paul have moved the scene of their combined operations to the Coliseum, 15th street and Wabash avenue, from the 132d Regiment armory. The Coliseum offers a floor especially built for basketball, transparent glass backboards, and 8,000 seats, of which 3,000 are general admission.

Loyola Opens with Carnegie.

Loyola will open tomorrow night's double-header at 8:15 o'clock in a battle with Carnegie Tech, with De Paul meeting Southern California in the second game. The two Chicago quintets will play eight other double headers this season, their next pair being scheduled for Christmas night, when De Paul will meet Oregon university and Loyola will battle Southern Methodist.

Coach Lennie Sachs of Loyola will enter tomorrow's game with only one member of the team which won 22 consecutive games before losing to Long Island university in the final of the Madison Square Garden tournament. The survivor is Capt. George Wenskus, guard. Wenskus will have no such assistance as he got from Mike Novak, Wibs Kautz, George Hogan, and Bill O'Brien, but he will be supported by a cast which already gives rise to the suspicion that the Ramblers will finish among the country's best teams.

Graham, Schell Back with Loyola.

Returning from last year's Loyola team are two of its most valuable alternates, both of whom will be regulars this season. They are Vinny Graham and Ed Schell. Rambler sophomores who will make their double-header debut tomorrow include Ed Lee, Bruno Kryzeminski, Frank Leahy, Don Burns, Dan Cahill, and Augie Durso.

Carnegie Tech is in the same position as Loyola—that of trying to fill holes made by graduation. Leading the Tartan squad are their Mutt and Jeff scoring twins, Capt. Bob Stark, 6 feet 5 inches tall, and Johnny Burke, 5 feet 5 inches. Stark led the scorers in the Eastern Intercollegiate conference last season with 146 points in 10 games.

De Paul Defeats Purdue.

De Paul already has established itself as one of the best teams in the central states, the climax coming last Monday night, when the Blue Demons handed Purdue a 37 to 25 defeat on its own floor. Leader in this triumph was Sophomore Lou Possner, former Marshall High school star, who made 12 points, the margin of victory. Four veterans, Capt. Stan Szukala, Elmer Gainer, Ed Norris, and Chet Tollstam, all of whom aided Bob Neu in compiling last year's fine record, will start for Coach Tom Haggerty.

Southern California is led by Capt. Dale Sears, named as all-star center in the southern division of the Pacific Coast conference last season. The forwards include Ralph Vaughn, a southpaw whose home is in Frankfort, Ind., and Jack Morrison. The guards are Tom McGarvin and Jack Lippert. Included on the squad and likely to play are two other Hoosiers, Keith Lambert of Anderson, Ind., and John Luber of La Porte, Ind., and an Aurora, Ill., boy, Joe Reising. The latter, who weighs 206 pounds and stands 6 feet 5 inches, is a guard.

Nebraska Schedules Night Track Meets

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 16 (AP).—Nebraska Track Coach Ed Weir announced today Kansas, Kansas State, and Oklahoma will help Nebraska inaugurate night indoor track meets this season. Bleacher and lighting facilities are being constructed under the stadium. Kansas is booked for Feb. 10, Kansas State for Feb. 23, and Oklahoma for March 2.

STRONG FOES TO TEST LOYOLA AND DE PAUL IN DOUBLE HEADER

Dale Sears (left) and Tom McGarvin are two mainstays of the University of Southern California basketball team which will open its Christmas holiday invasion of the central states and east against De Paul in the Coliseum tomorrow night. Loyola will meet Carnegie Tech in the other half of tomorrow night's double header.

BRUINS LOOK FOR BUSY EVENING AGAINST AKRON

It will be almost a basketball homecoming for Notre Dame fans Wednesday night when the Akron Firestones face the unbeaten Chicago Bruins in the 132d Infantry armory. The invading quintet includes three outstanding Notre Dame stars. They are Johnny Moir, Paul Nowak, and Tommy Wukovits of last season's Notre Dame team. As forward, center, and guard, respectively, they rate with any players coached by George Keogan of the Irish.

Tommy Wukovits.

Moir shattered individual scoring records during his varsity career at Notre Dame with 780 points against the toughest sort of competition. Nowak wasn't quite as prolific in the scoring column with 478 points, but with his height of 6 feet 5 inches he was invaluable as the key man on both offense and defense.

Formidable Scoring Trio.

Wukovits, a speedy 6 footer, combined with Moir and Nowak in 1938 as the most formidable scoring trio in the collegiate field. Now that they are united once more the Firestones are benefiting from the smoothness of their coördinated play.

While the Firestones have dropped three of their first four games, the Bruins have won two straight victories and now are the only undefeated team in the circuit.

Kautz Scores 31 Points.

The scoring brilliance of Wibs Kautz, the pivot play of Mike Novak and the defensive work of Eddie Oram and Frank Linskey have stood out for the Bruins. Kautz has accounted for 31 of the 62 points the Bruins have rolled up in two triumphs over Oshkosh and Detroit.

After the Akron game the Bruins will be idle until Dec. 26, when they begin a road trip in Detroit. The game in Chicago with Sheboygan Dec. 25 has been postponed until Jan. 7.

C. Y. O. SEXTET, PEPSI-COLA TO MEET IN ARENA

The C. Y. O. Shamrocks will meet Pepsi-Cola in the first game of today's hockey double header in the Chicago Arena, starting at 2:15 p. m. In the second contest the Planerts will oppose the Chicago Hornets, who seek their first victory. Lineups:

C. Y. O.		PEPSI-COLA.

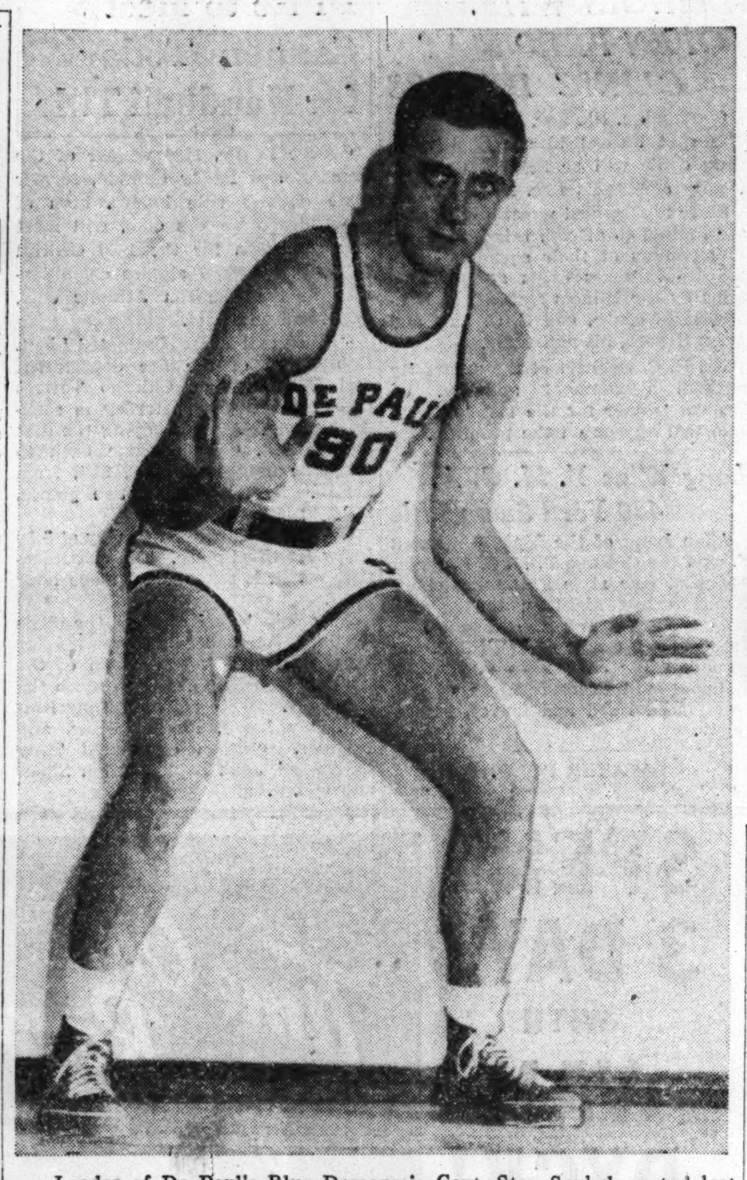
Nickeloid Soccer Team Draws Milwaukee Rival

New York, Dec. 16 [Special].—The draw for the third round of the national amateur challenge soccer cup competition was announced tonight by the United States Football association. The lone Illinois survivor in the competition, American Nickeloid S. C. of Dalzell, will go to Milwaukee to play the Milwaukee Hungarian Tigers on or before Sunday, Jan. 7.



Leader of De Paul's Blue Demons is Capt. Stan Szukala, rated last year one of the country's outstanding collegiate basketball players.

Nalon Out to Keep Lead in Midget Races

The pre-Christmas handicap will be the main event on an eight race midget auto program tonight in the 124th Field Artillery armory, 5200 Cottage Grove avenue, where Duke Nalon, Chicago star, will seek to protect his point standing lead against a field of 50 other drivers. The races will start at 8:30 p. m., with time trials at 7 o'clock.

Nalon's chief opposition tonight will come from Tony Willman of Milwaukee, who won last week's main event; Harry MacQuinn of Indianapolis, defending national indoor champion, and Wally Zale, Ray Richards, Ted Duncan, and Bob Muhlke of Chicago. Zale will try to shake a motor trouble jinx which has dogged him for two meets.

Paul Russo of New York, eastern board track champion, is also entered in tonight's races. Russo, a native of Chicago, is regarded as one of the most daring and accomplished drivers in auto racing. He won the only board track race ever held in the Armory and he drove in the money in the national board track meet last June.

MacQuinn, who finished third behind Willman and Nalon last week can regain the point standing lead from Nalon tonight if he wins the main event and Nalon fails to place. The Hoosier driver led armory pilots for two successive years until Nalon replaced him a month ago.

After the time trials, the drivers will compete in four elimination races, a handicap at fifteen laps for the fastest eight cars, two consolation races and the 40 lap Christmas main event.

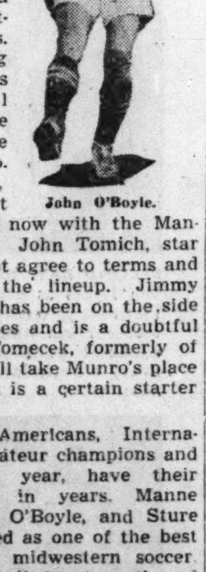
Cecil Isbell, Packer Star, Weds Purdue Beauty Queen

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 16 [Special].—Cecil Isbell, Green Bay Packer half back, was married today to Hope Reisner of West Lafayette, former Purdue university beauty queen, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Reisner. Lou Brock, a star on this year's Purdue team, was best man. The couple will honeymoon in California, where Isbell plays with the Packers against a professional all-star team Jan. 7, and will make their home in Wisconsin.

SPARTA BATTLES SWEDES TODAY IN CUP SOCCER

BY OFFSIDE.

The Sparta Falstaffs, the only club to bring a national soccer championship to Chicago, will meet the Swedish Americans today in Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue, in a third round national cup game. The winner will earn a place in the western semi-finals.



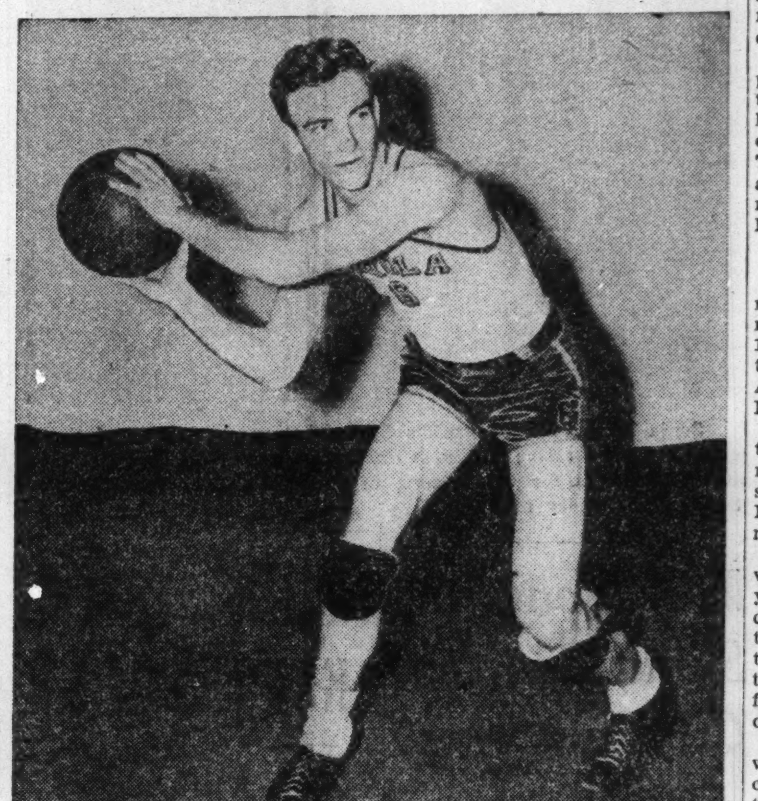
John O'Boyle.

Since winning the title two years ago several changes have been made in the Sparta lineup. Jimmy Munro, who played at outside right, is now with the Manhattan Brewers. John Tomich, star half back, did not agree to terms and is still out of the lineup. Jimmy Wolf, left wing, has been on the side lines with injuries and is a doubtful starter. Emil Tomecek, formerly of the Olympias, will take Munro's place and Jerry Rezek is a certain starter at right half.

The Swedish-Americans, International league amateur champions and undefeated this year, have their strongest team in years. Manne Holmes, Johnny O'Boyle, and Sture Fore are regarded as one of the best defense trios in midwestern soccer. The middle line will be strengthened by Willie Preiss, formerly of the German Americans. He will play with Johnny Kilgour and Stig Larson. The match will start at 2:30 p. m. Johnny Nugent will be referee. The lineups:

SPARTA.		SWEDISH AMERICANS.
Joseph Silovsky	G	Manne Holmes
Tom Scott	R. B.	Johnny O'Boyle
Laddi Mrnka	L. B.	Sture Fores
Jerry Rezek	R. H	William Preiss
James Nudera	C. H	Stig Larson
Einer Pearson	L. H	Johnny Kilgour
Emil Tomecek	O. R	[illegible]ner Johnson
Frank Trimmell	I. R	[illegible]ge Mattson
James MacDermott	C	Axel Johnson
William Fraser	I. L	Ohrenberger
Jimmy Wolf	O. L	Magne Mallman

Ralph Vaughn, Southern California forward, was the leading Pacific Coast conference, southern division, scorer last year.



Vinny Graham, a forward on last year's outstanding Loyola quintet, has been switched to guard this year by Coach Len Sachs.

GIVES BIMELECH TOP WEIGHT FOR 3 YEAR OLD RACES

Handicapper Draws Up Experimental List.

New York, Dec. 16 [Special].—Bimelech, Black Toney's last son, the unbeaten 2 year old champion and, in the opinion of E. R. Bradley, his owner, a colt that will leave his mark in the annals of thoroughbred racing, has been placed at the top of the Experimental handicap weights announced by John B. Campbell. The official handicapper for The Jockey club assigned Bimelech 130 pounds, eight pounds over the scale for his age, and rated him four pounds higher than his nearest rival for honors next season.

While weights are assigned for the Experimental as tho all of the colts and fillies named were entered for a race, it is not exactly what it implies.

Experimental Important.

The Experimental, like the Free handicap in England, is only a rating by an official handicapper, but it is important in that it provides an authoritative opinion on the performances of the 2 year olds and gives a line on what Campbell thinks they may accomplish as 3 year olds in classic tests.

The weights will come as a surprise in some well informed quarters of the turf because, in selecting his runnerup to Bimelech, Campbell chose C. V. Whitney's Carrier Pigeon. This colt made a sensational debut at Saratoga, then went wrong and nothing was seen of him during the latter part of the season.

Expects Him to Be Ready.

Carrier Pigeon undoubtedly will be ready for competition when the Derby rolls around. Campbell put him at 126 pounds, four below Bimelech and two over Millsdale Stable's erratic Andy K. and Arnold Hanger's Roman Flag.

John Hay Whitney's Calory, second to Bimelech in the Futurity at Belmont, is rated at 123 pounds, the same as Dit, stablemate of Roman Flag. C. V. Whitney's Flight Command is placed at 121 pounds.

Bimelech will be the shortest priced winter book favorite for the Derby in years. Altho the next Blue Grass classic will not be run until May, all the pricemakers are now quoting 4 to 1. It's usually a 5 to 1 proposition that you can't even name a starter for the race some five months ahead of its running.

There have been some powerful winter book favorites, but no Derby choice ever shaped up more attractively than Bimelech, considered one of the best horses ever bred by Bradley.

Bradley Four Times Winner.

Bradley has won the Derby four times, the only man ever to do so, and if all goes smoothly from now until May the colorful Kentuckian is confident he will win it for the fifth time with Bimelech. Were the race to be run today instead of next spring Bimelech would be a 1 to 5 shot.

But there is one big hitch to Bimelech's chances of winning the Derby. It is the weather. Bradley doesn't fear any horse, but he will be concerned about track conditions when the time rolls around. While the brilliant son of Black Toney-La Troienne was undefeated in six starts this year, he never ran over a muddy track.

Bimelech Scratched Twice.

It is significant that Bimelech was scratched out of the Arlington Futurity and the New England Futurity because of "off" tracks—an admission that he is strictly a fast track horse. Bradley did want to run him in the Champagne stakes at Belmont Park, wet or dry, to find out whether he could negotiate the "goo," but the colt was withdrawn. Trainer William Hurley says Bimelech can't run in the mud, altho he has never run in it.

In the 65 renewals of the Derby, it is interesting to note a fast track prevailed for 37 runnings. Will it be fast next spring? That's the question uppermost in the mind of Bradley, who otherwise visions even at this time another conquest in the greatest spectacle of the American turf.

But if it comes up mud—what then? Will Bimelech run in the Derby, anyway, and will he prove just as invincible in it as he has proved himself to be on a pasteboard strip?

The weights announced by Campbell follow:

Bimelech 130; Carrier Pigeon, 126; Andy K, 124; Roman Flag, 124; Calory, 123; Dit, 123; Flight Command, 121; Now What, 119; Roy Angler, 118; Epatant, 118; Rough Pass, 118; Straight Lead, 118.

CUBS AND SOX WILL MEET IN 15 SPRING GAMES

Open Series March 14 in Los Angeles.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox and Cubs, who have been a-feudin' for so long that nobody can remember what started their war, will have another whirl at their strife next spring. Starting on March 14 in Los Angeles, they'll resume where they left off in the recent city series, and the arguing between them will continue, with intermissions and changes of scenery, until April 14 in Chicago.

Spring training details, as announced yesterday by the two clubs, reveal 15 engagements between the Cubs and Sox and also that the respective managers, Gabby Hartnett and Jim Dykes, have elected to continue the arrangement whereby battery men and possibly a few rookies are granted a little more time to work that winter tired feeling out of their muscles.

First Cubs Leave Feb. 19.

The Cubs appear to be going in for training in a big way. The first squad will leave here Feb. 19 and reach its Catalina Island, Cal., spring base Feb. 22. The regulars will arrive there Feb. 29. The Sox first squad will leave Chicago Feb. 26 and will start work at their Pasadena, Cal., school on Feb. 29, the same day the Cubs' main contingent reaches camp. The Sox regulars don't have to show up in Pasadena until March 4.

Six of the scheduled 15 Sox-Cubs affairs will be played in Los Angeles, starting March 14 and ending March 28. Then they'll make the customary barnstorming jaunt thru the southwest, finishing temporarily in El Paso, Tex., April 3. From El Paso the Cubs will go to San Antonio to take up a week's tour with the St. Louis Browns. Meanwhile the Sox and Pirates will engage in a cross-country program of eight games, after which Manager Dykes will take his boys to Chicago to complete the spring business with the Cubs.

Each Will Meet Athletics.

During their California stay the Cubs and Sox also will see Connie Mack's Athletics, who will train in Anaheim. The Cubs have three Los Angeles dates with Connie's performers. The Sox are booked for two meetings with the A's, one in Anaheim and the other in Hollywood. The complete spring schedules follow:

SEMIPROS PLAY '40 WORLD SERIES IN PORTO RICO

New York, Dec. 16 (AP).—The 1940 semi-pro baseball world series again will be played in San Juan, Porto Rico, where the first successful series was played last fall, Ray Dumont of Wichita, Kas., president of the National Semi-Pro Baseball congress, said today. If the Porto Rican champions repeat their 1939 victory the world series will be held in New York in 1941, Dumont said.

Last September the Duncan [Okla.] Cementers, who won the American semi-pro title, won only two of six games against Guayama, Porto Rican champions.

The 1940 American entry will be decided in the sixth national championship tournament of the semi-pro congress in Wichita, Kas., Aug. 16-28.

1939 AMERICAN LEAGUE PLAYERS SET 46 RECORDS

Record breaking was somewhat on the down side in the American league in 1939, compared with the season of 1938. A various assortment of 64 records were engraved on the ledger in 1938, whereas in 1939 the total diminished to 46. This was announced last night by league headquarters.

As might be expected the world champion New York Yankees set the pace in establishing new records, both for team and individual play. Most important of the new figures was the performance of the Yankees in breaking the American league record and equaling the modern major league mark of four straight pennants. The Yanks also won their fifth world series in four straight games, the 1939 world series finding them with a team batting average of only .206 and with only 16 men left on bases in four games.

Other outstanding feats of the Yankees during the season in the realm of new major league records included most home runs, and most total bases in a single game, and most home runs in a double header. In the first game of their double header with the Athletics on June 28 the champions shattered a major mark with eight. Five more in the second game enabled the champs to top their own previous major league record for most homers in two consecutive games which they had set in 1936 with 11. The Yankees also reaped 53 total bases, which was three more than their own league standard established in 1932.

During the season, for the 10th time in history, the New York club blasted three home runs in a single inning. The champions accomplished this rare feat in succession in the game of June 28 against Philadelphia.

Sox's Failure to Get Kennedy Stops Ruel's Noble Experiment

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox at the recent winter meetings tried and failed to get Pitcher Vern Kennedy from the St. Louis Browns. Unless the effort continues and succeeds, one of baseball's greatest psychological experiments will go a-wastin'.

Coach Muddy Ruel, the Sox's bull pen professor never has ceased to grieve that Kennedy was taken from his psychology class before he, the professor, enabled Vern to master his several complexes, including his residence in a trailer, fits of anger, and assorted perplexity.

Kennedy, you remember had a 20 victory season with the Sox and also registered a no hit game against the Cleveland Indians. After these stellar accomplishments, Prof. Ruel went to work on Vern's complexes in a big way. Prof. Ruel figured that if he spoke enough soothing words of wisdom and advice Vern certainly would win more than 20 every year, with maybe a couple of no hitters included.

Patient Becomes Erratic.

Well, it seemed that the more Muddy purred to and tried to reason with the eccentric right hander the more erratic and temperamental the patient became.

So finally Manager Jimmy Dykes gave up and traded Vern to Detroit, where he won 10 games before his complexes swooped back on him. He faded out with the Tigers, was traded to the Browns, apparently became more and more discouraged with the tailenders, and was virtually worthless to St. Louis in the late weeks of the season.

We wouldn't criticize Prof. Ruel for the world. We consider him one of the smartest and most personable gentlemen in baseball and one of the biggest factors in the Sox's more than medium success with less than medium playing assets. But we have always felt that the professor made one big mistake in his efforts to straighten out Kennedy. Muddy should have made it his first problem to coax Kennedy out of that trailer. If Vern could have been tricked into moving into a regular, roomy, abode, we think he might have continued a star pitcher.

A Bit Skimpy as Abode.

We never were a guest in Kennedy's trailer, but we understood it was like many other trailers, a bit skimpy as a regular year around abode.

When Vern began to crack up it was said that the gypsy instinct was affecting his team spirit. He was a gypsy and longed for the open road.

This impulse he conquered fairly well. But we always felt that there wasn't much he could do about getting a full night's rest, sleeping in a combination bed and pantry shelf. Some of his physical ailments at the time were diagnosed as crackerbowl cramps, dishpan distemper, and folding bed elbow. His outbreaks of temper were called trailer tantrums, etc.

Being a fellow who is much of a hand to mind his own business, Prof. Muddy doubtless overlooked the trailer matter as a personal privilege, not to be invaded.

Too Many Trailer Blights.

But you can see that Vern was in no shape to be talked to while suffering from all these trailer blights.

We have tried to learn whether Vern still has his trailer, or a reasonable facsimile of same. If he has, and can't be persuaded to give it up, we hope the Sox will give up acquiring Vern, much as we'd like to see Prof. Ruel make another try of the mental guidance business.

If the Sox do get Vern, and he still clings to his mildew flair, we suggest the Sox borrow P. K. Wrigley's $9,000 trailer and put Vern in it. There'd be no cramps in that luxury number.

PIRATES BOOK 32 GAMES FOR SPRING JAUNT

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 16 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates tonight announced a 32 game spring training schedule for 1940, opening March 14 in San Bernardino, Cal., against the Philadelphia Athletics.

Douglas Denies Getting Bid to Coach Grinnell

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 16 (AP).—Ben Douglas, coach at Maplewood, Mo., High school, who has been mentioned in Des Moines as a possible successor to Guy Lookabaugh as football coach at Grinnell college, said today he hadn't heard a thing about it.

"I wouldn't want to comment on it because I haven't been approached," Douglas added.

Douglas, a star in football, basketball and track at Grinnell, is credited with developing the passing ability of Paul Christman of the University of Missouri's football team. Christman played two years under Douglas at Maplewood. Douglas also coached Missouri's twin ends, Bud and Bob Orf, and the Tigers' full back, Bill Cunningham.

He was graduated from Grinnell in 1931, played a year of pro football with the Brooklyn Dodgers and then coached at Greenfield [Ia.] High school and Cornell college, before coming to Maplewood in 1934.

POSTPONE THREE A. A. U. GAMES OF CHICAGO QUINTET

Denver, Colo., Dec. 16 (AP).—Another league meeting to iron out difficulties in the schedule was announced today by the Mission Valley A. A. U. Basketball league. President William H. Miller said the meeting will be held at Kansas City tomorrow. He also disclosed three league games set for next week have been postponed.

The Bartlesville, Okla., Phillips were scheduled to play the Chicago La Salles in Chicago Tuesday and at Bartlesville Friday, and Chicago was to meet Oklahoma City's 89ers in Oklahoma City Thursday.

The league may arrange a new schedule for the New York Nationals and take them back into the league. The first league tour of the New Yorkers was called off two weeks ago, but later Coach Samuel Feinberg said the team had been given permission by the Metropolitan A. A. U. and was ready to keep its league engagements. Earlier, Chicago was substituted for the New York quintet.

Hold Foils Title Event Today at Lake Shore

Foils will clash in the first competition of the season today when the open men's foil championship event will be held in the Lake Shore Athletic club under the sponsorship of the Illinois division of the Amateur Fencers league of America. The meet begins at 11 a. m. and is open to the public without charge.

Oscar Barab, 1939 champion, will defend his title against top ranking duellists of the Chicago area including Frank Righeimer Jr., former American Olympic star, Campbell Wilson, Eugene Williams, Fred W. Siebert, and Floyd Traynham Jr. More than 50 entries are expected.

Three weapons, foil, epee, and saber are recognized for men's competition, and women's events are limited to the foil.

MANY COACHES ARE MENTIONED FOR JOB AT RICE

Houston, Tex., Dec. 16 (AP).—Rice institute maintained a silence today regarding prospects for the position of head football coach, from which Jimmy Kitts was ousted.

Rumors, however, suggested Dr. Jock Sutherland, former Pittsburgh coach; Ray Morrison of Vanderbilt, Raymond Wolf of North Carolina, Morley Jennings of Baylor and Jess Neeley of Clemson. Baton Rouge heard that Larry [Moon] Mullins, former Loyola coach, was a possibility. A dark horse was Dell Morgan, Auburn line coach.

The shakeup in the Rice staff began Thursday, when Lou Hertenberger, line coach, resigned. Kitts was asked to resign but refused, and was fired yesterday.

CHIEF TRAINER OF DENEMARK STABLE QUITS

New Orleans, La., Dec. 16 [Special].—Announcement was made today that Jack Carter, veteran trainer for the stable of Mrs. Emil Denemark of Chicago, had resigned and that Carter would be succeeded by Dave Womeldorff, who had charge of the second string of Mrs. Denemark's stable this year.

Womeldorff will take over the first division in January, L. A. Conner, the stable's foreman taking charge until that time.

Policeman, Ex-De Paul Guard, Admitted to Bar

John E. Reid, guard on the De Paul football team in 1933 and now a policeman attached to the East Side station, was admitted to the bar Thursday. Reid is a brother of Steve Reid, Northwestern captain and guard in 1936 and a starter for The Tribune All-Stars against the Green Bay Packers in 1937.

HOLD BANQUET TOMORROW FOR MOUNT CARMEL

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

John Andretich.

Wally Fromhart, Mount Carmel football coach, and the members of his Catholic league championship squad have removed Santa Claus and Christmas shopping tours from immediate consideration on their social calendars. Two new items have been placed on their lists, the first being the annual football dinner in the Palmer House tomorrow night. The second is strenuous practice for the post-season game with an All-Star eleven in West Palm Beach, Fla., Dec. 30.

The banquet, arranged by alumni and school supporters, is expected to be one of the largest affairs of the season. Sharing the spotlight on the speaking program will be Mayor Kelly, who watched Mount Carmel tie Fenger, Public School league champion, 13 to 13, in a thrilling last quarter rally three weeks ago; Elmer Layden, University of Notre Dame football coach; the Most. Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, founder of the Catholic Youth organization, and Administrator of the Chicago archdiocese, and the Rev. Theodore J. Hatton, Mount Carmel principal.

Bob Elson Is Toastmaster.

Bob Elson, W-G-N sports announcer, will be the toastmaster. Other speakers will include Judge Michael L. Igoe, Congressman Raymond McKeough, the Rev. Paschal Baier, Mount Carmel athletic director; Fred Mundee, assistant coach; Johnny Andretich, captain and left half back, and Head Coach Fromhart. The banquet will begin at 6:30 o'clock, and reservations still can be made by calling Fairfax 1020. More than 1,500 are expected to attend.

Coaches Fromhart and Mundee and the squad wasted no time beginning preparations for the West Palm Beach contest. They accepted the invitation to play in the southern city on Thursday night and Friday afternoon engaged in a light drill. However, Fromhart and Mundee will order a heavy workout tomorrow in Jackson park, and there will be daily sessions until the squad leaves Chicago on Dec. 27.

Hear About Their Opponents.

Fromhart, armed with reports on the strength of the southern All-Star eleven, delivered a long lecture yesterday afternoon. The players were given all available information on the All-Star squad, which is composed of 28 seniors from three high schools in Palm Beach county. The schools are Palm Beach, located in West Palm Beach, sister city of the more famous resort; Lake Worth, adjoining city to the south, and Pahokee High, which is located in the Everglades region, overlooking Lake Okeechobee.

The heaviest starting line which the coaches would be likely to select would average about 168 pounds, while most of the back field men are small and would scale an average of 150. The All-Stars will be coached by H. M. Whittington of Palm Beach High; Frank Hobson of Pahokee, and Russ Bullard of Lake Worth.

Coach Fromhart will name a squad of 25 players to make the trip to West Palm Beach. Capt Andretich and his touchdown partner, Frankie Meakim, were named on an All-Star Chicago team to play in Los Angeles and will join the team in Florida after the game on the Pacific coast Christmas day.

FENGER BANQUET TUESDAY.

Donald Griffin and his Fenger High school teammates who won two consecutive Public High School league football championships, will be honored at a community celebration in Thomas C. Hill auditorium, 112th streets and Wallace avenue, Tuesday night. The banquet was arranged by the Roseland post of the American Legion and the Fenger Football Fathers' club.

Speakers at the dinner will include Mayor Kelly, James B. McCahey, president of the school board; Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools; Ald. Arthur G. Lindell and Sheldon W. Govier, clerk of the Appellate court. Charles Palmer, Fenger coach, will introduce the players.

BIRD DOGS GET REAL WORKOUT IN MISSISSIPPI

Setters, Pointers Range Far for Quail.

BY BOB BECKER.

Of all the sporting breeds getting attention these days, two of them, the setter and the pointer, easily are stealing the snow below the Mason and Dixon line, for it's quail hunting time. And when the season opens on the Bob Whites, the little game bird with whirring wings and a fast tricky flight, it takes the handsome pointers and setters to find and point them.

On a recent trip to Hazlehurst, Miss., which is right in the heart of the Bob White and cracklin' bread country of the south, the sportsmen trotted out their finest fox hounds for a thrilling race on gray fox which ended with a kill just a short distance from the campfire. The coon and 'possum hounds, too, put in an exciting evening. Nevertheless, the hounds had to play second fiddle to the setters and pointers because sportsmen all around Broun's Wells, which was our headquarters, talked about nothing but "bird huntin'." Their setters and pointers were on the go from morning until dark.

Expect 'Em to Travel.

The boys down in Mississippi want their dogs to travel wide and handsome. They expect their setters and pointers to step out thru the fields and fragrant pine woods. Close working, slow dogs, the kind most of us require for our northern hunting on foot, are not given much of a rating down south. You hunt on horseback around Hazlehurst and at other places in the south, so it's possible to keep up with these long range bird finders. But one morning when we hunted with Sidney Bufkin, the orange Belton setter named Peggy, the beautiful liver and white pointer, Becky, and a big pointer named John, there were times when not even our good horses could keep these dogs in sight, so far did they range and so fast were they working the cover.

The northern hunter may expect all types of shooting conditions and shots at all angles on a Mississippi hunt. There is brush shooting, sporty shots in briar thickets, beautiful chances in green woods, fast birds flushed from fields and from other locations.

Gets a Quick Shot.

One little black setter owned by Sam Toler gave us an interesting shot at a single. The bird dropped into a narrow strip of thick brush and briars running between two open fields. The little black dog located the bird. When flushed the Bob White roared past our head like a feathered bomb. We couldn't shoot for several seconds because our hunting partners were in front and behind us. The bird didn't fly into the open. It stayed in the thick cover, dodging trees and tall bushes. When it was safe for us to shoot we had to make a quick snapshot—much like the chance that grouse gives one in the north country.

RADIO SPONSORS FIGHT PRICE ON NEW YORK GAMES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 16.—Announcement that the announcer who last season broadcast baseball games at Yankee stadium and the Polo grounds had been transferred back to Washington is not evidence that Yankee and Giant games will not be broadcast again in 1940.

Edward G. Barrow, president of the Yankees, today said no decision on broadcasting had as yet been reached. He was inclined to believe local games again would go on the air.

The sponsors, complaining that only 12 per cent of the radios in the metropolitan section were turned on from 3 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon during the baseball season as against a national percentage of 33, have been seeking a reduction in the fees.

The Yankees and Giants have told the sponsors to take it or leave it at the old figure. On Monday a series of conferences is scheduled again. Before Jan. 1 the decision will be announced. A new contract will have to be signed before then.

124TH ARTILLERY ELEVEN TO MEET SILVER ARROWS

The 124th Field Artillery football team will wind up its season this afternoon, meeting the Maciejewski Silver Arrows in the armory, 5200 Cottage Grove avenue. A preliminary game, starting at 1:30 o'clock, will match the Oakland-Kenwood A. C. and the Oakland Panthers.

The artillerymen will risk an undefeated record against the Silver Arrows. They have played 10 games this season, winning 9 and tying 1. They have accounted for 180 points, against their opponents' 20.

REMINGTON RAND EARNINGS LOWER THAN YEAR AGO

Clark Equipment Profits Held 'Satisfactory.'

Smaller profits were shown in a report issued yesterday by Remington Rand, Inc., a leading manufacturer of typewriters and other machines. September quarter net profit was $201,831, equal to $1.09 a share on $4.50 preferred stock, against $413,123, or 13 cents on the common stock in the 1938 period.

For six months ended with September, earnings were $352,163, or $1.90 a share on preferred stock, compared with $506,275, or 5 cents on the common a year ago.

Forecasts Satisfactory Quarter.

"Most satisfactory" earnings for the current quarter were forecast for the Clark Equipment company in a letter to stockholders from Eugene B. Clark, president. He characterized 1939 as "an excellent year" for the company, a Michigan concern manufacturing automotive and other equipment, and said prospects for 1940 "seem fairly bright."

However, he added, "there is little reason to expect anything in the nature of a boom or any strong stimulation of American business due to foreign wars."

Day's Earnings Reports.

EQUITY ERASED.

The status of stockholders of bankrupt companies being reorganized under section 77B of the national bankruptcy act was clarified recently by the United States Supreme court. In the case of the reorganization of the Los Angeles Lumber Products company the court ruled in effect that stockholders cannot participate in a reorganized company until the full prior rights of bondholders and other creditors against the assets of the company had been met completely.

Before this court decision it was thought by some legal authorities that section 77B contemplated the "composition" of claims to permit stockholders to share in the assets of the reorganized enterprise even tho the creditors' claims had not been met completely.

This interpretation was swept aside by the court decision. The old Boyd doctrine of creditor priority established by the high court in 1913 in the case of Northern Pacific against Boyd was reaffirmed and applied rigidly.

The Supreme court held that a reorganization plan, to be "fair and equitable" under section 77B, must give precedence to the rights of bondholders and other creditors.

Assent of the majority of each class of security holders alone would not be enough to make the plan "fair and equitable." Thus, even creditors themselves cannot waive their priority rights nor deprive the minority of theirs. The effect of this application of the Boyd principle is to prevent creditors from surrendering a portion of their property to the stockholders when the creditors' claims have not been fully satisfied.

Application of the principle eliminates the rights of stockholders in reorganizations in which there are insufficient assets for the prior liens of creditors. An equity security therefore does not have any real equity in a corporation unless there is asset value above that needed for the creditors.

In the case before the court more than 90 per cent of the bondholders and senior stockholders of the company had agreed to a plan which, the court said, gave the common stock holders 23 per cent of the assets and voting power in the new company. The court objected to this surrender of priority rights by the bondholders because, it said, the stockholders had no equity in the company and had not contributed to the new company by assessment or subscription.

The participation of stockholders in a reorganized company is limited by their contribution in money or its equivalent to the assets of the new company, according to the decision.

The effect of the court decision, according to some bankruptcy experts, will be to speed reorganization by wiping out the claims of stockholders when assets are inadequate to satisfy creditors in full. Others contend that reorganizations will be retarded because many plans already pending will have to be revised to eliminate stockholders from participating in the proposed new companies.

The direct significance of the decision is that the position of prior lien securities of bankrupt firms generally has been buttressed and that of the junior issues weakened.

RAILS' OCTOBER NET EARNINGS SHOW INCREASE

Santa Fe 10 Month Profit 23 Cents a Share.

Railroads reporting October results yesterday showed a continuance of the improvement recorded in preceding months. Net profits were larger, and most of the roads which failed to operate profitably showed reductions in their net losses.

Improved October operations brought net income of the Santa Fe system to $5,745,789 for the first 10 months of the year. This equaled 23 cents on the common stock. Profit was $5,110,190, or $4.11 a share on the $5 preferred stock for the corresponding period of 1938.

Union Pacific Gains.

Ten month earnings of the Union Pacific and leased lines were $11,954,620, against $11,764,533 a year earlier, equaling $3.88 and $3.80 a share on common stock in the respective periods.

Southern Pacific transportation subsidiaries had 10 month earnings of $4,238,438, equal to $1.12 a share, compared with a net loss of $7,478,449 a year ago.

Milwaukee railroad reported a net loss of $13,761,928 for the period, compared with loss of $16,238,432 a year earlier.

PLAN TO FINISH TALL APARTMENT ON SOUTH SIDE

Plans were disclosed yesterday for completion of a tall apartment building at the southwest corner of 69th street and Crandon avenue. After the skeleton work had been completed to the 10th floor late in 1929 the depression caused a halt.

A syndicate headed by Anthony A. Olis, an attorney, is reported to have acquired the interest of the contractors in the building, on which the now defunct Garard Trust company issued $935,000 in bonds. Negotiations for a $450,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to complete the building are reported under way.

The syndicate proposes to build the structure to its originally proposed height of 13 stories. An unusual feature is a proposal to locate the heating plant on the top floor instead of in the basement. It is planned to cool the 73 apartments in the summer.

PRICES OF BONDS MOSTLY STEADY; FEDERALS GAIN

Some Norwegian dollar loans were improved. The 4¼s of 1965, selling at 67¼, rose 1⅛. Danish issues, however, eased, with the 6s of 1942 dropping 1 at 65. Also ahead were some Italian loans. Australian 4½s of 1956 added 4⅜ at 71.

Transactions totaled $3,102,800, face value, compared with $3,013,200 on the preceding Saturday.

DIESEL ENGINE WITH HYDRAULIC DRIVE IS TESTED

Rail Officials, Engineers View Demonstration.

Davenport, Ia., Dec. 16 [Special].—A new Diesel-hydraulic locomotive, assembled by the Davenport Besler corporation plant here for the General Machinery corporation of Hamilton, O., has been demonstrated to railroad officials, engineers, and mechanical experts from widely separated points in the middle west and east.

The locomotive represents a departure from other Diesel-powered units in that it is equipped with hydraulic transmission, somewhat similar to that used in certain automobiles. Increased flexibility of operation is said to represent its principal value.

Engine Still Experimental.

Altho the new locomotive is still in the experimental stage, it is regarded by technicians as sufficiently perfected to be ready for use, either in switching units or for service in moving passenger trains. The switching unit was demonstrated here with a 44 ton locomotive, capable of attaining a speed of 45 miles an hour. Much higher speeds are possible with other types.

Altho production of the engine and hydraulic transmission has not been entered into to any degree, the Hamilton plant is prepared to turn them out in sufficient quantities to meet expected demand. The Davenport Besler corporation expects to receive a major share of the work of assembling the Diesel motor and transmission in locomotives built here.

Officials Are Optimistic.

Officials of the Ohio company expressed themselves as pleased with the locomotive made by the Davenport firm, and assembled with the Diesel engine and hydraulic transmission.

Among the officials who inspected the locomotive at the preview here this week were: J. L. Harrington, chief operating officer of the Rock Island railroad; G. A. Rentschler, president of the General Machinery corporation; J. E. Petersen, vice president of the same company and vice president of the Hydro-Motive corporation, also of Hamilton, O., which built the transmission equipment, and Heinrich Schneider, vice president and engineer of the General Machinery corporation.

NORTH WESTERN STOCK DIPS ON CAPITAL PLAN

Chicago and North Western railway common stock sold down to ⅜ point in active trading on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, the larger sales presumably reflecting the interstate commerce commission's final reorganization report holding the carrier's stock to be of no value. The stock was quoted previously at 50 cents a share.

Altho small losses were in the majority, a number of important issues registered fractional gains. These included Middle West Utilities, Libby, Katz Drug, Swift, and Abbott Laboratories.

The exchange reported 169,000 shares were traded during the last week, against 168,000 the week before and 265,000 a year ago.

OIL FOUND AGAIN IN OLD ILLINOIS PRODUCING AREA

Centralia, Ill., Dec. 16 [Special].—Oil was found again today in one of Illinois' first producing districts, near Raymond, in Montgomery county 35 miles south of Springfield. Wildcat operators who drilled deeper than levels from which oil was drawn in the 1880's said further tests would be required before the commercial possibilities of the new well could be determined.

Thirteen wells were completed this week in Clinton, Bond, Marion, and Wayne counties.

INVITE PRIVATE PENSIONERS TO FEDERAL FEAST

Well-to-Do Asked to Take Benefits.

Many Chicagoans who already are receiving private pensions ranging as high as $400 a month, are being notified by agents of the federal social security board that they can qualify to obtain government pensions [old age benefits] up to $50 a month for life. This was learned yesterday at the board's regional office.

Representatives of the board at 173 West Madison street, admitted that they are encouraging all persons of more than 65 years of age who still are able to work, to obtain the federal allowance. The board is not interested, the agents frankly asserted, in whether the applicants for governmental aid are paupers or men of wealth.

Based on Salary Earned.

In fact, they said, the more a man has been able to earn—up to $3,000 annually—since Jan. 1, 1936, the larger the pension he can receive. Payments are based on average monthly earnings, and consequently persons in the upper brackets will be able to obtain larger pensions than those whose salaries always have been low.

It also was learned that certain abuses have developed from administration of the social security act. In many instances applicants who already receive adequate private pensions are trying to get on the federal rolls thru a fraudulent arrangement.

The social security act passed in 1935 provided monthly benefits to be paid beginning in 1942 to persons who became 65 after that date. An amendment passed last August, however, changed this so that persons who became 65 after last Jan. 1, will begin receiving pensions in 1940.

Can Qualify by Working.

Furthermore those who became 65 between 1936 and 1939 also can qualify for the monthly benefits by working six calendar quarters of three months each—or a year and a half—after their 65th birthday. If they earn $50 or more in each quarter they become eligible to receive benefits of from $10 to almost $50 a month, depending on their average monthly earnings.

Several men included under this provision of the act said that they have approached their attorneys with a proposal that will enable them to qualify for the larger benefits. One man explained that he has a number of friends who would be willing to employ him at a large salary for the required year and a half just so he could qualify.

"I'd even be willing," said this man, "to turn back my wages to one of my friends. In that way my friend wouldn't lose and I could bring up my monthly earning average since 1936 to about $250."

First Treated as Joke.

Another man, formerly an executive with a large commodity house here, said he believed that the suggestion he should apply was a joke until agents for the security board convinced him they were making a genuine offer. They told him they didn't care how much of a private pension he was receiving.

"It hardly seems fair to take the pension," he said, "but they tell me it's mine and I may as well have it."

Another man whose private pension is more than $300 a month, said: "This seems as screwy as a lot of other government programs. I don't need the money because my own private pension is substantial. But they tell me I can qualify for $27.50 a month by hanging on another two months to a part time job I've had since my retirement a year ago. I don't need it, but it'll buy me a new automobile every year. Why shouldn't I take it?"

Call Plan a Violation.

At the regional office of the board in Chicago it was said that fraud of any sort in obtaining pensions would be prosecuted. When told of the proposal to hire friends so that they could qualify, the representative said that such a plan would be at least a violation of the spirit of the act.

A. A. Kuhle, regional representative of the board, was reported in Washington yesterday, but a spokesman said:

"While there may be a few persons with private incomes who will qualify for pensions, literally thousands of others do not have private incomes. To them the pension will be an important source of revenue."

It has been estimated that approximately 1,100,000 persons were granted rights to obtain monthly benefits under the amendment including those who continue to earn beyond their 65th year. No estimate of the cost of these pensions has yet been made.

ONION GROWERS REJECT FEDERAL MARKETING PLAN

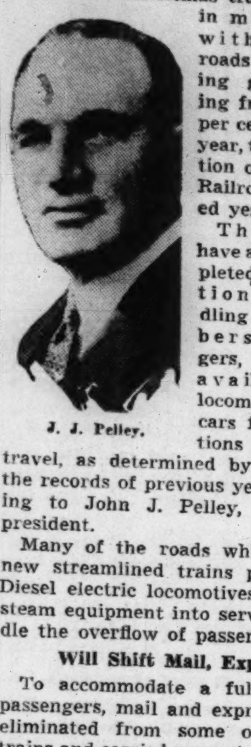
Washington, D. C., Dec. 16 (AP).—The agriculture department announced today commercial growers in 34 major onion-producing counties of Idaho and Oregon rejected a proposed federal marketing program at their recent referendum.

The department said only 23 of 90 growers who voted in the referendum favored the federal plan. The 90 represented approximately 48 per cent of the total production in the area, the department estimated. The favorable vote of two-thirds of those participating was required.

Under the proposed program, interstate shipments of onions could be limited according to varieties, grades and sizes when marketing conditions warranted.

Rails Expect Heavy Travel Over Holidays

Railroads are preparing for one of the busiest Christmas travel seasons in many years, with individual roads anticipating gains ranging from 5 to 30 per cent over last year, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday.



J. J. Pelley.

The carriers have already completed preparations for handling larger numbers of passengers, making available extra locomotives and cars for the sections of heaviest travel, as determined by studies of the records of previous years, according to John J. Pelley, association president.

Many of the roads which operate new streamlined trains powered by Diesel electric locomotives will press steam equipment into service to handle the overflow of passengers.

Will Shift Mail, Express.

To accommodate a full quota of passengers, mail and express will be eliminated from some of the fast trains and carried separately.

"Better economic conditions and low fares, in some cases special rates, account for the anticipated increase," said Pelley. "The fact that Christmas and New Year's fall on Monday, thus extending the holiday periods, is another factor."

Chicago and other cities which operate extensive suburban services will use additional trains for the accommodation of shoppers.

The Chicago and North Western announced that trains to the Pacific coast are already receiving additional patronage which has necessitated the use of extra cars. The streamliner City of Denver will be augmented by a special steam section out of Chicago on Dec. 22, when the road expects its traffic peak.

Extra Sections Planned.

Anticipating heavy travel between here and St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn., the road has provided for two steam sections to run with the streamliner "400" on Dec. 22 and 23.

A. D. Martin, passenger traffic manager of the Rock Island lines, forecast an increase of at least 5 per cent over the 1938 Christmas travel record of that system. He said December travel will top that of November by about 27 per cent.

Special sections of the road's Rocket streamliners will be operated, and the use of 175 extra passenger cars has already been arranged for service to Arizona, California, and other points.

Another factor boosting rail travel, according to Martin, is the European war. Many persons who normally travel abroad during the winter are spending holidays in this country, he said.

F. N. Hicks, passenger traffic manager of the Milwaukee railroad, said that beginning this morning, the line will operate two extra mail trains daily between Chicago and Minneapolis. The Hiawatha and other fast trains of the line will be operated in several sections. The road, he said, expects a boost in travel as a result of a reduction in round trip fares which went into effect Friday.

Expect 25 Pct. Gain on Burlington.

Albert Cotsworth Jr., passenger traffic manager of the Burlington predicted holiday travel would exceed that of 1938 by as much as 25 per cent. The road will operate special sections of its Zephyr trains and use additional coaches in virtually all others, he said.

F. H. Baird, passenger traffic manager of the New York Central system, reported a number of the road's fast trains are already running in several sections. He predicted that the increase already noted over last year's traffic will be accelerated as the holiday brings on increased flow of traffic.

Pennsylvania railroad officials predicted that as many as 500 extra trains will be operated thruout the system to augment the service of regular trains which are being expanded to their full capacity. Mail and express shipments are also being made in larger volume, it was said.

Traffic over the Santa Fe system during the first fifteen days of December was 10 per cent larger than in the corresponding period of last year, and a further gain is expected within the next few weeks, according to T. B. Gallaher, passenger traffic manager.

Advance Trains' Departure.

The system's Super Chief and El Capitan trains will leave Chicago on Dec. 22, one day ahead of their regular schedule, in order to bring passengers to Los Angeles the day before Christmas.

Detailing the preparations made by the nation's rail carriers, Pelley said: "The railroads are prepared to handle peak loads over the holidays. They have more than enough equipment for such a large movement.

"Extra cars and locomotives have been made ready and will be placed at points where they are most likely to be needed.

"Shortly before Christmas there is a great increase in the amount of mail and express which goes by rail. In order to enable passenger trains to maintain their schedules and at the same time to speed up mail and express traffic, many railroads will operate trains consisting of nothing but rail and express."

Cent. Republic Collects More on Old Debts

About $831,000 was collected by the Central Republic Trust company, which is liquidating the assets of its predecessor, the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, from liquidations in the three months ended Oct. 31. This was disclosed yesterday in the quarterly statement of Charles H. Albers, receiver. The report was filed with Judge Philip J. Finnegan in Circuit court.

Albers termed the amount "better than average." It compared with $630,000 in the preceding three months and collections of about $500,000 each during most of the quarterly periods since January, 1937.

The amount collected in the latest period was turned over to the Reconstruction Finance corporation. It was applied on the balance of the original 90 million dollar loan made by the RFC to the Central Republic Bank and Trust company in 1932.

Reduces Debt to RFC.

Only about $300,000 of the amount collected went to reduce the principal of the loan. The remainder was for interest on the unpaid balance, which is computed at 5½ per cent. As a result, the unpaid balance on Oct. 31 amounted to about $43,000,000, according to Albers.

The Central Republic Bank and Trust company, the former "Dawes bank," ceased operations in October, 1932, after the RFC loan had been negotiated. Its deposits were turned over to the City National Bank and Trust company.

Albers explained that improvement in the securities markets had enabled liquidating company to dispose of many listed and unlisted securities during the three month period. This, he said, was a major factor in the increased collections for the quarter.

Recalls Stock Liability Suit.

The recent denial of the United States Supreme court for a review of a Central Republic Bank and Trust company stockholders' liability case, according to Albers, will not be reflected in the Central Republic Trust company's collections. Altho Albers is receiver in both instances, the stockholders' liability fund is a separate matter under the jurisdiction of the federal court.

The stockholders had appealed a decision of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson in favor of the RFC. The decision, later upheld by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, held stockholders liable for the full par value of their stock totaling $14,000,000.

Claims Are Scaled Down.

The extent to which the Central Republic Trust company was forced to make generous settlements rather than face the possibility of receiving nothing was indicated in the report. In one case, a claim of $11,940 was satisfied for $300.

In another instance, the receiver held judgment notes against Albert Sabath for $1,295, against Milton J. Sabath and Joseph Sabath for $285, and against Milton J. Sabath, Albert Sabath, and Joseph Sabath for $1,965.

Albers authorized the vacating of the three notes upon the condition that the debtors execute a new joint judgment note for the total due under the three judgments.

Report France Orders 650 More Curtiss War Planes

New York, Dec. 16 (AP).—Six hundred and fifty more Curtiss pursuit planes have been ordered by the French government, says the New York Times. The order increased to about 3,800 the number of American planes contracted for by European neutrals and belligerents in the last 18 months. The total value of the orders placed in this country by foreign governments for planes, propellers and aviation accessories was roughly estimated by The Times at $350,000,000.

BRUNDAGE IS SEEKING LA SALLE HOTEL LEASE AND PURCHASE OPTION

Avery Brundage, Chicago contractor and sportsman, disclosed yesterday that he is negotiating with the Central Life Assurance Society of Des Moines, Ia., for the lease of the La Salle hotel, with option to purchase. John T. Wheeler of John T. Wheeler, Inc., is carrying on the negotiations.

Avery Brundage.

The La Salle was erected in 1908-'09 at a reported cost of $6,000,000. It was built by the Stevens family which erected the Stevens hotel and was dominant in the Illinois Life Insurance company. Depression difficulties resulted in the sale of the property in October, 1935, for $337,000 cash, subject to about $1,000,000 back taxes. It was taken over by the La Salle-Madison Hotel corporation, formed by Central Life Assurance.

Brundage said that if the deal is closed, a real estate company he controls will operate the hotel. The realty company already operates a number of small hotels in the city, he said.

ASK IMMEDIATE CUT IN PIPE LINE RATE FOR GAS

A brief asking that an immediate interim order be issued reducing gas rates of the Natural Gas Pipe Line Company of America $3,500,000 a year was forwarded yesterday to the federal power commission in Washington, D. C. John E. Cassidy, Illinois attorney general, and Harry R. Booth, assistant attorney general and counsel for the Illinois commerce commission, took the action.

Booth has gone to Washington, where he will argue in support of a motion filed Nov. 7 requesting an immediate interim order. George Slaff, counsel for the federal power commission, also will ask the commission to enter an immediate order.

The proceeding arises from the Illinois commission's complaint that the pipe line company's wholesale rates to Illinois utilities are excessive.

FINN PEACE MOVE BOOSTS VALUE OF POUND AND FRANC

European currencies strengthened in relation to the American dollar at New York yesterday. This resulted from the possibility that Finland's appeal to Russia might bring an end to hostilities between the two nations, it was said.

The British pound sterling climbed ¾ cent to $3.94, and the French franc closed 0.00375 cent higher at 2.23⅝ cents. The Mexican peso was quoted at 17.75 cents at New York, compared with 18.60 cents on the preceding day, but in both cases the prices were nominal.

The United States treasury announced that an overnight addition of $52,232,100 in its gold stocks raised the total above the 17½ billion dollar mark for the first time to $17,516,339,784.

Holiday Trade in Chicago is Ahead of 1938

Customers are crowding Chicago's large stores and are buying more goods than they did in the Christmas shopping season last year, merchandising executives reported yesterday. The brisk activity contrasted with showings in some other cities where lagging purchases caused retail business nationally to make a smaller average gain last week than had been expected.

"Our sales, both in dollars and in physical volume, are the largest in many years—better even than in 1937, the year that marked the peak of the first period of recovery from the depression.

Buying Power Gains.

"The crowds are tremendous, and there is a considerable urge to buy, altho purchasing power still is insufficient to bring back the kind of business that prevailed in 1928 and 1929. The bright part of it is that buying power is gaining. We note a good demand for all lines of goods."

Asked if the prevailing mild weather has reduced sales of winter goods, the executive said:

"No. For instance, this is one of the best overcoat seasons we have had in years.

The president of another of the largest stores said:

"We experienced a substantial increase in Christmas business over last year. Gift buying began with a rush the day after Thanksgiving, and has continued in increasing volume ever since. While trade has been well distributed thruout the store, it has been particularly impressive in more practical goods, such as house furnishings and men's clothing. Toy sales also have been very big. The average transaction has been slightly ahead of last year."

Perfume Demand Large.

The merchants did not all agree that practical goods are selling best. An official of another store said:

"This has been a big season for lounge chairs and other household goods of the practical type. But there has been a heavy demand for perfumes, and this has been one of the biggest seasons in our history for jewelry."

He added that the store's volume of sales is running ahead of last year, but that it was slightly below what had been expected.

A spokesman for another store said it is finding practical lines in widest demand. He reported the dollar volume of sales was larger than a year ago, and said the store had many more extra employés to give customers better service.

Chicago Bank Clearings Mount to 424 Millions

Chicago banks cleared $424,200,000 of checks last week, compared with $312,200,000 in the preceding week, and $386,400,000 in the 1938 week, the Chicago Clearing House association reported yesterday. The association's report follows:

	Clearings.	Balances.

GRAIN PRICES ADVANCE AGAIN IN HEAVY TRADE

Wheat Crop Below Needs Is Feared.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Closing prices on the May delivery of principal grain on the Chicago Board of Trade:

	Yesterday.	Friday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$1.05⅛	$1.01½	$ .66¼
Corn	.58¼	.57	.51⅝
Oats	.39	.38¾	.28¼
Rye	.73⅞	.70½	.44¾
Soy beans	1.23½	1.19	.81⅛

Grain prices advanced yesterday in the most active session witnessed on the Chicago Board of Trade since the present upturn began late in November. Wheat soared nearly 4 cents and soy beans advanced about 5 cents from Friday's close. All deliveries of wheat, rye, and soy beans and July corn sold at new high prices for the season.

Closing trades were at the top. Wheat finished 3⅜ to 3¾ cents higher. Corn was up ⅝ to 1¼ cents. Oats gained ¼ to ⅜ cent. Net gains on rye were 3⅜ to 4⅛ cents. Soy beans were 4 to 4¾ cents higher.

Fear Crop Below Needs.

Traders realized more fully that the condition of the new winter wheat crop is so low that there is a strong probability that the domestic harvest in 1940 will be much below normal needs. Moreover, the record breaking drouth continues in the west and southwest. These influences furnished the background for the sensational advance in prices.

A weather bureau long range forecast indicated that generally fair and somewhat above normal temperatures would prevail in the drouth stricken regions this week. This area, it was officially reported, has received less than one-third of normal rainfall in 3½ months.

Holdings of about 184,000,000 bushels of cash wheat by government agencies or pledged by farmers for loans have reduced the supply of "free" wheat to a minimum, brokers say.

Estimate Free Wheat Supply.

There is an aggregate surplus of 230,000,000 bushels of wheat, statisticians say, after allowing for domestic needs and the quantity exported to date. After deducting the loan and government holdings only 46,000,000 bushels of "free" wheat remains, it is said.

Commission houses were heavy buyers of wheat futures yesterday, and found offerings light except from speculators who had bought at lower prices and were taking profits. Some brokers said as fast as one long sold out another speculator bought the futures.

Export sales of about 1,500,000 bushels of North American cash wheat were reported, including 250,000 bushels of hard winter grain sold for shipment from Gulf of Mexico ports to Norway.

Some Government Wheat Sold.

It was understood that the latter grain represented part of the government holdings that were acquired from farmers who defaulted on loans on 1938 crop grains. The United Kingdom bought about 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat.

Grain prices in less than three weeks have advanced in the most sensational manner since the inflation bulge in June and July, 1933, brokers said. At the high prices yesterday wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade showed an advance of 19 to 19⅛ cents from the low on Nov. 28, when the current upturn got under way. Corn has advanced 5⅝ cents; rye, 18⅝ to 22¼ cents, and soy beans, 19½ to 23 cents a bushel during the same period.

The upturn of 14¾ to 16 cents a bushel in soy beans last week was the largest for such a short period since trading in futures was inaugurated in 1936.

Sales of grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade for the week ended Dec. 15, as reported by the

Give Us Rains, Is Kansas Plea to Santa Claus

Nothing that red-coated, bewhiskered old gentleman might put in a Kansas farmer's stocking a week from tonight would please the farmer more than snow or rain, if the weather is warm enough. That rain barrel under the gutter spout is dry enough to be used for kindling wood.

The farmer doesn't care much about rain barrels. But where wheat is concerned, that dry rain barrel means hard dollars and cents are lost. How much money has been lost is difficult to estimate. Certain it is, however, that the winter wheat crop will be one of the smallest in years—the smallest in 40 years, with one exception, if Chicago's crop experts are correct.

389 Million Bushels.

On the basis of Dec. 1 conditions, the experts' predictions averaged 389,000,000 bushels, altho the planted acreage this year was only about 2,000,000 acres smaller than the 46,000,000 acres planted for the 1939 harvest. The 1939 harvest was 551,000,000 bushels, only 9,000,000 bushels below the 10 year average.

But in the fall of 1938, when the 1939 crop was planted, the United States did not have the greatest autumn drouth in history, the farmer will tell you sadly. The entire year of 1934 established a record for lack of rainfall, but, considering only the autumn months, when the wheat is planted which will produce two-thirds of the nation's wheat supply, this year has exceeded the 1934 record in many states. The drouth has hit hardest in Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, and Texas, the big winter wheat states.

Rainfall Is Slight.

In Kansas rainfall this fall was only 1.75 inches, compared with normal rainfall of 6.09 inches. Nebraska rainfall was 1.15 inches, against 4.53 inches in an average year.

The situation becomes worse each day. Since the experts gave their Dec. 1 predictions, there has been no rain of consequence in the wheat belt. A few duststorms have been reported. And the weather bureau predicted that conditions will be favorable for more duststorms next spring unless there is generous rainfall this winter.

In the spring wheat states, which produce the remainder of the nation's wheat, conditions are only slightly better. Thus the spring wheat crop, lacking sufficient soil moisture at the time it is planted in the spring, may also suffer widespread damage. But good rains between now and March could alter that prospect entirely.

Damaged Beyond Repair.

Much winter wheat is already damaged beyond recovery, grain men say. Some farmers are hoping to replant their fields in January, but the success of such a venture will depend entirely on the weather. So far the weather hasn't been on the farmer's side.

Thus to the farmer whose money is invested in a field of winter wheat, the return of dollar wheat in American grain markets last week may or may not mean much. The "crop scare" has boosted prices, but he cannot benefit if his crop is destroyed.

Meanwhile farmers who own 164,000,000 bushels of wheat stored under government loans watched the market hopefully, and refused to redeem the wheat and sell at the present market. Each rise of a cent a bushel in the market price boosted the value of the stored wheat $1,640,000. The price is now about 20 cents a bushel above the loan level in some areas. But the farmers held on, not liking the crop scare, but appreciating the advancing price of the wheat already harvested and waiting to be sold. In the period from Nov. 28 to Dec. 11, holdings pledged to the government as security for loans increased 2,724,000 bushels. In that period December wheat at Chicago gained 11 cents a bushel in price.

Bankruptcy Cases Run Below Total in 1938

Edward E. Douglas, chief clerk of the federal court, yesterday reported 2,199 bankruptcy cases have been filed thus far in 1939, compared with 2,294 in the corresponding period of last year. The number of cases terminated was 1,825.

TRADE CREEPS AHEAD, BUT IN WARY FASHION

Trends Vary Widely in Last Week.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

Business trends varied to a high degree last week, but statisticians who measured them in the light of normal seasonal tendencies said the main swing was upward.

One of the dark spots in the business pattern was the failure of retail trade to expand nationally as much as merchants had expected.

Offsetting the disappointing showing made by stores' sales, however, were gains in some other lines. Electric power production established an all-time high mark, and automobile output was the largest for any week this year, altho the gain was less than seasonal.

Other Trends Show Variance.

Cotton textile mills also increased cutturn. Bank loans to business increased in Chicago and New York.

Normal year-end abatement caused declines in steel production and railroad freight loadings. The dollar volume of contracts let for engineering construction fell 30 per cent. Bank clearings in 22 leading cities shrank. Residential construction held about even, and wholesale trade remained slack.

There were reports of unfavorable conditions in the oil refining industry, with complaints that refiners' margins are too narrow as between the price they pay for crude petroleum and prices of finished products. Several plants were said to have ceased operations in the last few weeks.

November Reports Favorable.

Meantime, reports covering November continued to trickle in, most of them revealing favorable comparisons with earlier periods. Earnings and dividend news made good reading for stockholders of companies engaged in many fields of business.

In a survey of retail trade, Dun and Bradstreet said retailers have moderated their expectations for the Christmas season. The mercantile agency said that buying of gifts spurted, but that mild weather re-

COTTON FUTURES PRICES REGISTER ADDITIONAL GAINS

Report Indian Brokers Are Strong Buyers.

Cotton futures prices climbed again yesterday at New York in the second day of a recovery from a tumble in the middle of the week. Closing prices were 0.06 cent to 0.12 cent a pound higher than on the preceding day, and showed much higher gains compared with the levels of a week earlier.

Market activity reflected lively advances at Bombay, which caused strong buying by Indian brokers in New York. In addition, a better demand was reported for textiles. Large orders were placed by buyers who had been hesitant on Friday.

Gains Are Reduced.

Profit taking and hedging sales whittled down the day's extreme gains in the cotton market, but the January delivery finished 0.06 cent a pound higher than on the preceding day and 0.61 cent higher than a week earlier.

Spot cotton in New York closed at 11.40 cents; New Orleans, 11.30, and Galveston and Houston at 10.90 cents a pound.

Strength prevailed in several other commodities also. The January domestic sugar contract closed 0.02 cent a pound higher than on Friday ad 0.03 cent above the price of a week earlier. The March delivery rose 0.02 cent a pound for the day and 0.05 cent for the week. Prices follow:

Commodity Exchange administration, aggregated 277,837,000 bushels. This was the largest business in a similar period since August, 1937. Sales during the preceding week were 239,138,000 bushels. During the corresponding week last year sales were 74,929,000 bushels.

ANALYZE SOY BEAN RISE

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 16 [Special].—Soy beans are bringing a higher price this year because soy bean meal is worth more. A bushel of soy beans raised on the average Illinois farm usually yields about 9 pounds of oil and 48 pounds of meal. The meal in recent years has been worth about 50 per cent more than the oil, according to L. H. Simerl, associate in agricultural marketing extension at the University of Illinois.

"Soy bean meal is used for many purposes, but in the United States about 99 per cent of it is used as live stock feed, its quantity exceeding cottonseed meal for the first time in 1934 and 1935," he said. "From 1935-'36 to 1937-'38, Chicago prices for soy bean meal and cottonseed meal were about the same. In 1934-'35 and again in 1938-'39, however, soy bean meal sold lower than cottonseed meal at Chicago."

STOCK MARKET CLOSES LOWER; RANGE NARROW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 16.—Stocks closed lower today in a session of narrow price movements. Losses, however, rarely exceeded fractions and generally were regarded insignificant. There was little in the news deemed capable of inspiring a movement in either direction. Sales totaled 335,440, compared with 261,730 last Saturday.

A number of issues were influenced by special developments. Chicago and North Western preferred declined a major fraction to a new low for the year. The common also hit a record low before firming up to finish unchanged. The easiness of these shares was attributed to the reorganization plan of the Interstate Commerce commission, which would wipe out the equity of the preferred and common.

Rails and utilities clung close to yesterday's closing levels. United States Gypsum gave up a point and Westinghouse Electric sold off a large fraction. Douglas Aircraft moved up a large fraction.

Allied Chemical gave back 3 points of its 4 point advance of Friday. Lesser losses were recorded by United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, United States Rubber, and Boeing.

FARMER RIPS AAA BEFORE PROGRAM MAKERS OF G. O. P.

Its Build-up, Tear Down Policy Assailed.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 16.—The Republican party's agricultural fact finding subcommittee listened today to a sharp exchange between a man who said he represents 70,000 Illinois farmers and one who said he represented only himself.

The first is Earl Smith of Chicago, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association and vice president of the American Farm Bureau Federation. The other is Lawrence C. Wheat of Decatur, who farms 624 acres with the help of tenants.

The Federal Agricultural Adjustment Administration—in whose benefits wheat does not participate—and its effect upon corn belt farmers was the subject of the debate before the Republican congressmen studying the needs of agriculture preparatory to formulating a Republican policy on the farm problem.

Committee Head Attends.

The subcommittee, appointed by Rep. Joseph W. Martin [R., Mass.], Republican leader in the house, is part of a general agricultural committee of the party. Rep. Clifford Hope of Kansas, chairman of the larger group, is sitting at the hearings here with Rep. Leo E. Allen of Galena, chairman of the subcommittee, and seven other Illinois congressmen.

Today's debate was opened by Wheat immediately after Smith had declared that the AAA is a refinement of bills written by farmers themselves and that it has done great good in the corn belt.

"No matter who wrote it," said Wheat, "it has not solved the problem, it has not reduced the surplus, and it is not conserving the soil.

[Soil conservation is the legal peg upon which the AAA of 1938 was hung.]

"I don't represent 70,000 farmers. I represent only myself. I am not blaming anybody. I am just telling you the effect of the AAA as I have seen it.

Assails Hybrid Corn.

"In the first place it offers pay for the thing good farmers have been doing all the time. If soil conservation means stopping gullies and washouts —erosion—in the fields, you may be sure that good farmers have been doing it for years.

"If a farmer will not do this of his own volition, why pay him to do it?

"If soil conservation means preserving the plant food in the soil, how do you explain the recommendation that farmers plant hybrid corn, which produces twice as much as ordinary corn on the same acreage? Look at its roots. They are more than twice as big and clumpy as those of ordinary corn. Any one can see they take out the plant food twice as fast.

"Salesmen of this corn have admitted as much to me. And lastly, if the corn does produce twice as much, where is your crop control?"

[Hybrid corn, recommended to AAA participants in the corn belt, was developed by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.]

Wheat also assailed the practice of southern AAA participants who have begun growing corn in competition with northern farmers whose acreage has been reduced under the crop control plan.

Smith Defends Association.

Smith began his testimony before the subcommittee by replying to witnesses of yesterday who declared that certain large farm organizations misrepresent their members; that the associations' views are not those of the farmers. Smith explained in detail how officers of the Illinois Agricultural association are chosen and said that every member has a voice in the group's policies. Then he continued:

"The farm problem never has been given the attention it deserves in relation to the welfare of all the people. It is easier to criticize than to offer constructive information. No one can truthfully say that the AAA has solved the problem. But neither can anyone say it hasn't made great progress.

"We are against wrecking what has been accomplished thus far in creating a new program. We must restore equitable, fair relationships between industry and labor on the one hand and agriculture on the other. It is useless to raise agricultural prices if the things the farmer has to buy go up correspondingly.

Pay Raises Useless.

"Much of the present price disparity is due to government help to other groups. The farmer is not against good wages for labor, because labor is his best customer. But shorter hours and higher pay are not helping labor. The annual payrolls show that.

"And now to government help for the farmer. The AAA of 1938 was drawn up after days and hours of study and consultations. It is a refinement of measures written by farmers themselves to meet the farm problem. And the farmers want the principles of the AAA retained.

"It is true that the AAA has grown up like Topsy. It is loosely coördinated. There have been too many administrators and too many new administrators. We are trying to pull a six horse load with a two horse team. There are many wrinkles to be ironed out. But it is the most effective law ever written to help the farmer.

"It is our suggestion that it be administered by an independent board of business type farmers who will be impartial and nonpartisan."

Corn Statement Challenged.

After Wheat had replied to Smith it became obvious that friends of the AAA had rallied to today's hearing. Several persons in the audience challenged his statements that the south is raising corn. Wheat immediately named Senator Arthur Capper [R., Kas.] as his authority. Others admitted corn is being grown in the south, but declared it is being consumed there and has no effect upon northern farmers.

S. Fred Cummings, a farmer of Mazon, near Morris, who spoke yesterday against destruction of the nation's tariff wall thru reciprocal trade treaties, took issue with Smith's statement about two horses trying to pull a six horse load.

"How would you get the other four horses?" Cummings asked. "By multiplying the present pay roll by 3?"

"What pay roll?" asked Smith.

Problem Is Price Parity.

"The problem is not one of production or lack of it, but of price parity," said Smith. "The administration and congress have tried to help, but we have not yet gotten around the table to work out a price parity."

"But what about those other four horses? What are they they going to do to me?" Cummings persisted.

The discussion then became general, hinging about the AAA's corn loan of 57 cents a bushel, its benefits and its drawbacks. Smith insisted that he had not come to discuss participation or nonparticipation in the AAA. Asked afterward if he is a Democrat or a Republican, he replied that he is an independent.

One of the first speakers of the day was Frank Moberly, a McLean county farmer who operates 850 acres and raises cattle and hogs. He declared that he is favorable to the AAA as it stands today and said that McLean county is largely "signed up" with the AAA.

Uniformity Is Needed.

He added, however, that uniformity is needed; that the grain farmer is being helped more than the live stock farmer and that th large farmer—such as himself—is helped more than the small farmer . He said farm tenants should be included in AAA allotments.

Before leaving tonight for Des Moines, Ia., where the subcommittee will hear Iowa and eastern Illinois witnesses on Monday and Tuesday, Congressmen Hope and Allen described the Springfield sessions as the most successful of the five they have held.

WOOL OFFERING BY AUSTRALIA IS WELCOMED

Boston, Mass., Dec. 16 (AP).—The Australia government's decision to release wool for shipment to the United States at prices ranging from 90 cents to $1.02 a pound was described tonight as likely to have "a highly constructive influence" on the market.

"Altho no price guarantee has been made," said a statement issued jointly by heads of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers and the Boston Wool Trade association, "we are informed that there is no possibility that the British authorities will be willing to offer wool at any lower price.

"Due to the removal of the uncertainty regarding the possibility of lower prices, an analysis of the situation indicates that the industry can now proceed with confidence."

"The allotment of 75,000 bales, amounting to about 22,000,000 grease pounds, is equivalent to approximately 12,000,000 pounds of clean wool."

TORPEDO BOATS WILL BE BUILT AT NEW PLANT

New York, Dec. 16 [Special]. —Twenty-three high speed motor torpedo boats and submarine chasers for which the navy department has awarded a contract to the Electric Boat company of Groton, Conn., at a cost of $5,000,000, will be constructed in a new plant to be built at the Elco works, Bayonne, N. J., it was revealed today.

Ground has been broken for the plant, and its completion is expected within three months. This will leave a 10 month period within which the "mosquito fleet" must be on the seas, in accordance with the government contract.

The Elco works is a subsidiary of the Electric Boat company and was the scene of what has been described as a phenomenal world war accomplishment — construction of 550 submarine chasers in 488 days in all.

Duffield Resigns as Aid to Treasury Secretary

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16 [Special].—Secretary Henry Morgenthau today announced that Eugene S. Duffield, who has been an assistant to the secretary for a little more than a year, has resigned, effective Dec. 31, to return to private employment. Duffield's principal work for the treasury was the supervision of public relations, which will be carried on by Charles Schwarz, director of press relations. Duffield will return to the Wall Street Journal, where he was employed before accepting the treasury post.

CHARGE DEALERS ARE FORCED TO AID REA SALES

Federal 'Badgering' Tactics Assailed.

Electrical appliance manufacturers and dealers yesterday declared that the Rural Electrification administration is virtually forcing them to help it obtain new rural power consumers. They said that the REA recently sent a letter to manufacturers of electrical appliances announcing a 90 day drive for new customers.

Solicitation, the letter said, is being carried out by voluntary workers who receive no cash compensation.

Most projects, however, plan to reward the solicitors by presenting them with "appliance purchase reward certificates," which will amount to 10 per cent of the minimum monthly bill of each new consumer secured. The certificates will be good only in exchange for electrical appliances for the farm or home.

Ask Further Rewards.

The REA told the manufacturers and dealers that "since the solicitors are securing new potential appliance purchasers, some of the appliance manufacturers, distributors and dealers have indicated a desire to further reward the solicitors for their efforts."

The reward, it developed, will take the form of special discounts of 35 to 40 per cent on the price of the appliances the solicitors buy. Such discounts, the letter said, have already been offered by some manufacturers.

That, declared the dissenting dealers, will probably reduce the purchases which the solicitors might have made at regular prices otherwise. To clinch the proposal, the letter said that "under this plan the reward certificates may be applied only toward the purchase of these specially priced appliances."

Termed "Badgering" Tactics.

"In other words, if we don't join the plan and offer the 35 and 40 per cent discounts, we don't get any portion of the sales," one manufacturer complained. "This letter is typical evidence of the fact that there is no end to this new brand of governmental interference with private business. Matters have come to a pretty pass when some governmental agency adopts badgering tactics like these."

The REA's letter admitted that the plan was 'quasigovernmental activity," and urged manufacturers to take part in it "as a means of stimulating and strengthening their dealer organizations."

MONTH'S AWARDS FOR BUILDINGS NEAR YEAR AGO

New York, Dec. 16 (AP).—Expansion in private residential and manufacturing building largely offset a drop in federal construction last month, the F. W. Dodge corporation reported today.

The statistical agency said the dollar volume of construction contracts awarded in November in 37 states east of the Rocky mountains totaled $299,847,000, within 1 per cent of the November, 1938, figure and 15 per cent larger than in October this year.

Commercial building awards amounted to $20,400,000 against $13,721,000 in the 1938 month and manufacturing construction expanded to $18,481,000 from $10,534,000 in the 1938 period. Residential building, 80 per cent of which was for private account, increased 22 per cent over last year. Privately-owned utility construction also expanded.

STEEL OUTPUT IS EXPECTED TO DIP THIS WEEK

Steel mills in the Chicago area will begin this week's operations at 89.7 per cent of theoretical ingot capacity, it was estimated yesterday. The rate was 90.8 per cent last week, 93 a month ago, and 56.7 per cent in the corresponding 1938 week.

Production in the Pittsburgh district also is scheduled to decline. The drop, two points from last Monday's rate, will place production at 91 per cent of capacity. A month ago Pittsburgh mills were humming at 94, and a year ago at 44 per cent. No. 1 heavy melting steel scrap is quoted at $17.50 to $18.50 in Pittsburgh, a drop of 50 cents a ton from the previous quotation.

Prices of Butter and Egg Futures Close Higher

Refrigerator egg futures scored gains of 0.05 cent a dozen yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange as private interests took the Chicago cash market out of the hands of the government. In Chicago wholesale markets, dealers bid ¼ cent more for fresh gathered firsts, pushed to 18¾ cents a dozen on Thursday by the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation. Butter futures advanced.

LOW HOG PRICES RECALL KILLING SCHEME OF AAA

Values Are Only Slightly Above 1933 Level.

Farmers received an average of $5 a hundred pounds for hogs at the close of last week, the lowest level for any December day in six years. Live stock men at the Chicago stock yards observed yesterday that the $5 level was only 60 cents above the price prevailing on Nov. 11, 1933, the day the government made its first purchases of matured hogs in an effort to control prices.

On the day the program was launched, agents for the Agricultural Adjustment administration went into the yards and bought 5,000 hogs for the Federal Surplus Relief corporation at an average of $4.40 a hundred pounds.

Follows Slaughter Program.

That was after the AAA had destroyed more than 6 million pigs in August, September, and October, 1933, in another phase of its price control program.

Hog raisers unloading their offerings on the market during the last few days said their position in some ways is worse now than it was when the AAA thought it necessary to rescue them from "ruinous" prices in 1933. Then the August-October monthly averages ranged from $4.05 to $4.50. Current costs of corn, the principal hog feed, are about 10 cents a bushel higher than on Nov. 11, 1933. The corn-hog price ratio at the close of the week figured only 8.9, the most unfavorable to hog feeding since July, 1937. On the 1933 date it was 9.5.

Hog Shipments Heavy.

The present low level of hog prices is attributed chiefly to the increase in shipments during recent weeks and the belief that the volume will continue heavy for some time. Hogs have come to market in such large numbers that packers have been unable to keep supplies moving into retail channels at prices that warranted a profitable payment to farmers for hogs.

Private surveys last week disclosed that current volume is even heavier than back in 1933, when government agents first arrived at the yards in the rôle of hog buyers.

Chicago consumers are getting pork, as a whole, at depression prices, altho prices for the various cuts compared with six years ago vary considerably.

Swine Prices on Downgrade.

Hog prices at the close of the week were on the downgrade. The various classes finished unevenly 15 to 55 cents under the close of the preceding week. The six day average at $5.15 was the lowest weekly cost to packers since February, 1934. This was $2 under the price for the corresponding week in 1938 and $2.65 lower than two years ago.

Markets for other live stock and meats were weakened by the competition of cheap pork. Steers closed unevenly weak to 75 cents lower for the week. The six day steer average at $9.10 was only 5 cents above the lowest weekly average this year.

Lamb prices slumped to the lowest levels in more than three months. The week's average at $8.80 was down only 15 cents, but final transactions were 40 to 60 cents under the close of the preceding week. Old sheep, yearlings, and feeding lambs closed steady to weak.

May Return to Service

The steamship Washington shown against skyline of New York.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16 (AP).—The United States Lines' proposal to put its two finest liners, the Washington and Manhattan, in service between New York and Italy appeared likely today to receive early approval by the maritime commission.

Rear Admiral H. A. Wiley, a member of the commission, presided today at a brief hearing on the proposal, but no opposition developed. Wiley remarked that there was no opposition "because all had been amicably agreed to beforehand."

The maritime commission has indicated a willingness to permit the Manhattan and Washington to enter the Italian service provided the United States Lines work out an aggreement with American Export Lines and American President Lines, which serve the Mediterranean. Wiley's statement today was taken to mean that such an agreement had been reached.

The Washington and Manhattan have been made inactive by the neutrality law barring American ships from the war zones.

FEDERAL WAGE RULE CARRIED TO HIGH COURT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 16 (AP).—The justice department asked the Supreme court today to pass on an attempt by a group of iron and steel corporations to enjoin enforcement of a law requiring contractors furnishing the federal government more than $10,000 worth of supplies to pay their employés local prevailing minimum wages.

Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson told the court that a decision delivered by the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia would "reduce the act to a futile gesture." He explained that the majority of the court seemed to have agreed with a contention by the corporations that the word "locality" means "the city, county, village or, at most, a small geographical area."

Jackson contended that "a construction under which the word means an area of small or large extent according to the economic facts of the particular industry seems plainly to be the only sensible interpretation from an administrative standpoint." He said it would involve an enormous amount of work, much of which would be useless, if the government were compelled to ascertain the prevailing minimum wage "for each narrowly restricted geographical area."

SEVERAL FIRMS GIVE BONUSES TO EMPLOYES

The Shelby Salesbook company, Shelby, O., yesterday announced distribution of $45,000 under a profit sharing plan in effect for the last five years. Factory and office employés, except for executives, were paid 6 per cent of their annual salaries.

Plymouth Oil company announced Christmas bonuses equal to a half month's salary for employés of one year or more service, and one week's salary for others.

Five hundred employés of the Houghton & Co., manufacturers of oil and leathers, have been paid Christmas bonuses, Maj. Aaron E. Carpenter, president of the company, said. Employés in plants at Chicago, Detroit and Philadelphia, who earn less than $2,500 annually, were paid a week's wages if employed for two years and a half week's salary if employed for a shorter period.

The week's volume of trade was estimated at 6 to 10 per cent larger than a year ago. Regarding wholesale trade, the agency said advance purchases for spring, as well as reorders for seasonal goods, were in comparatively small volume.

Power Output Sets Record.

The record established by the power and light industry was an output of 2,585,560,000 kilowatt hours of electricity in the week ended Dec. 9, the latest for which figures have been compiled. The figure compared with 2,538,777,000 in the preceding week and 2,318,550,000 in the corresponding 1938 period.

Automobile production was estimated at 117,805 units, the largest weekly volume so far this year. Output was 115,488 in the preceding week and 102,905 in the 1938 week.

Steel mills operated at 91.2 per cent of capacity, compared with 92.8 per cent in the preceding week and 57.6 per cent a year earlier.

Industrial Index Rises.

The Associated Press index of industrial activity rose to 112.1 per cent of the 1929-'30 average, from 110.9 per cent in the preceding week. A year earlier it stood at 93.4 per cent. The index, with its seasonally adjusted components, compared as follows:

	Latest week.	Prev. week.	Year ago.
*Composite index	112.1	110.9	93.4
Automobile prod.	105.8	107.8	86.7
Steel mill act.	122.4	124.6	77.3
Cotton mfg.	135.4	135.0	114.9
Electric power use	129.1	128.8	117.2
Residential bldg.	98.4	98.4	90.9
Total carloadings	74.0	75.5	70.1

*1939 high.

The decline for the week was attributed partly to shutdowns for furnace repairs and partly to a slackening in new orders. Backlogs of orders still are large, however, being sufficient to keep mills busy for more than two months, according to Iron Age, trade publication.

The decline in freight loadings was largely a result of falling coal shipments, as most other types of goods moved in larger volume. Loadings totaled 687,265 [for the week ended Dec. 9], a drop of 1,623 cars compared with the preceding week but 67,999 cars more than the volume for the 1938 week.

Airplane Industry Hums.

The airplane industry was given new impetus by receipt of additional large orders from Great Britain and France. Lockheed Aircraft corporation, after receiving a new $20,000,000 order, announced purchase of the factory of the Continental Aeronautic corporation at Burbank, Cal.

Western Electric company elected a new president, Clarence G. Stoll, who began work in the Chicago shops of the company 36 years ago.

Highlights of November.

United States Steel corporation's shipments of finished products were the largest for any month since May, 1937.

Several automobile manufacturers reported last month's sales were the largest for any November on record and that accumulations of unfilled orders are increasing.

Operating revenues of 90 class 1 railroads last month were 14.7 per cent larger than in November, 1938.

Piano shipments were the largest in November in 10 years, and unfilled orders were 43 per cent larger than a year earlier.

Exports of merchandise from the United States fell to $287,000,000 from $323,168,000 in October, according to a department of commerce report, which said sea blockades influenced the trend.

Business Bits

Duane L. Peterson.

Duane L. Peterson, former sales director of Butler Brothers, has been appointed general manager of the company's Baltimore branch to succeed Louis C. Burr, senior vice president, who recently announced his intention to retire Feb. 1 after 51 years of service. Burr will continue a director of the company.

Fred W. Young of the hog buying department of Swift & Co. will retire Tuesday after 50 years of service. Young began work with Swift as an office boy in South Omaha, Neb.

The sales department of Butler Brothers will hold a Christmas party Wednesday night at the Sherman hotel.

A Chicago Mercantile exchange membership has been posted for transfer to Ernst R. Katz of the S. K. Produce company, Chicago.

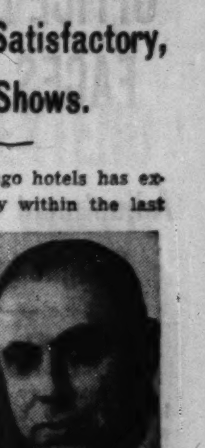
E. W. Tinker, Washington, D. C., assistant chief of the state and private forestry division of the United States forest service, announced his resignation to become executive secretary of the American Pulp and Paper association. He will begin his new duties Jan. 1 in New York City.

Thomas W. Harrington, coach foreman of the 47th street yards of the Rock Island railroad, has retired after 50 years of service.

CHICAGO HOTEL BUSINESS GAINS IN RECENT WEEKS

Outlook Is Satisfactory, Survey Shows.

Business of Chicago hotels has expanded substantially within the last few weeks as the result of many big conventions which have drawn large groups of delegates to the city, a survey indicated yesterday. Conventions already booked for 1940 assure satisfactory operations next year, it was said.



Roy Steffen.

One of the largest of the recent meetings was that of the National Standard Parts association and associated groups of automotive dealers. About 10,000 attended.

Roy Steffen, president of the Greater Chicago Hotel association, said this year's business will register a slight gain over the 1938 level, and predicted further advances next year.

Many Holiday Parties Booked.

"Numerous Christmas parties have been booked, and this business promises to compare favorably with that of recent years," said Steffen, who is managing director of the Bismarck hotel.

"Many corporations and business groups have already arranged for their annual parties for employés and customers. New Year's business will be good. Conventions already arranged for next year, some of them as late as October, promise a high level of activity."

A survey of the hotel business for the entire country, made by Horwath & Horwath, specialists in hotel and restaurant accounting, indicated 1939 operations will equal those of 1938, but fall below the level of 1937. The survey excluded activities in New York and San Francisco, where abnormal gains have resulted from the world's fairs.

Restaurants Report Gain.

November sales of 256 restaurants which reported to the National Restaurant association averaged 6 per cent larger in dollar volume than in the corresponding 1938 period, the association said. Sales have increased for eight consecutive months.

Restaurants having monthly sales of $10,000 to $25,000, classed as medium sized, reported a 7 per cent gain. Those in the small and large classifications reported 5 per cent increase.

Tenants of Insurance Exchange Vote on Question: "To Move or Not to Move"

CITY'S LARGEST OFFICE BUILDING FACES A CRISIS

Adjustment of Rentals Is Sought by Owners.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Ernest R. Graham.
[Max F. Kolin Photo.]

The Insurance Exchange, Chicago's largest office building, is facing a rental rate crisis which threatens to leave it with a large amount of vacant space in 1942.

As a result of difficulties arising from terms of 30 year leases signed in 1912, the owners are confronted with the following situation:

1. Some of the 250 companies which have space in the building are paying much less than rates prevailing in nearby office structures.

2. Many tenants not having long term leases are paying more than the prevailing rates.

Tenants Asked to Vote.

3. An organization of tenants has asked members to vote on whether to move out or accept a rental adjustment program proposed by the owners and providing for increases in the low rates and reductions in the high rates.

4. The tenants are considering four proposals by various interests for a new building to care for them if they vote to move.

About 95 per cent of the companies in the building are connected with the insurance business. If the vote, not yet complete, favors removal, the 21 story Insurance Exchange will face numerous vacancies. If an adjustment is agreed upon, the building will continue as one of the most conspicuous one-type tenancy projects operated in this country.

Building Occupies Entire Block.

The building was erected in two units, covering the entire city block bounded by Jackson boulevard and Wells, Van Buren, and Sherman streets. The north section was built in 1911 and 1912. The south half was erected in 1927 and 1928.

The project was promoted by the late Ernest Graham, of the architectural firm of Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, and Max Pam, attorney.

Real estate men regard it as an example of the uncertainty of predicting the future of real estate rentals. The owners made 30 year leases with insurance firms on a graduated rental basis.

Leases started at what was then the prevailing rental of $1.25 per square foot for the first 10 years. This was advanced to $1.35 for the next 10 and to $1.50 for the third 10 year period, ending in 1942.

Rentals, Expenses Climb.

But rentals advanced much faster than expected—and so did overhead expense in the shape of taxes and operative costs. The result was that tenants who signed a 30 year lease now are paying so much under the rental market prevailing in nearby office buildings that the Insurance exchange, it is claimed, is losing money on every dollar received.

To offset the losses incurred under the fixed rental schedule the owners some time ago began to advance rents for tenants who had not made such long term leases. Many firms are now paying over $3 per square foot, which is above the average prevailing rental rate.

It is now planned to reduce the highest rentals and advance the lowest schedules so that all tenants will pay a more nearly uniform rate. It was learned that many of the largest firms which have been paying less than market rate are willing to accept increases.

Largest Office Building.

According to Roy C. Swanson, building manager, the Insurance Exchange has 1,118,000 square feet of rentable space. This makes it the largest office building in Chicago, he said.

In the questionnaire sent out to tenants by the Insurance Tenants' association of which Charles Buresh is chairman, it is stated that 225,000 square feet of space in the building are occupied by tenants paying $1.50 per square foot. Rentals in neighboring buildings of the same type are from $2.25 up to $3.75.

In the questionnaire are listed four proposed new buildings offered by various interests to care for Insurance Exchange tenants if they vote to move.

The Phipps estate suggests a 19 story building at the southwest corner of Franklin and Monroe streets, to be designed by Mundie, Jensen, Bourke & Havens.

Provide for Air Conditioning.

Ducts will be built so air conditioning can be installed. It would have 435,000 square feet of floor area. A tentative rental of $1.65 per square foot is named, subject to readjustment if taxes and operating costs advance, which probably would mean a much higher rental, it was said.

The Leander McCormick estate offers to erect a new building at the northeast corner of Madison and Franklin streets, with 500,000 square feet or more, with rental varying from $1.80 to $2.20, with air conditioning 14 cents per square foot additional per annum.

Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, architects, have proposed another plan for a new building on the south side of Jackson, between Clark and La Salle, to have 520,000 square feet with rental at $2.35, including air conditioning.

Other Sites Suggested.

Napoleon Picard, identified at one time with the Insurance Exchange, suggests several sites, but emphasized the north side of Washington, between Clark and Dearborn. He offers a building with 700,000 square feet or more with rental of $1.85 and 15 cents per square foot additional for air conditioning.

The questionnaire states that space in three other big buildings also is offered. They are the 120 South La Salle street building, the Merchandise Mart, and the Civic Opera building.

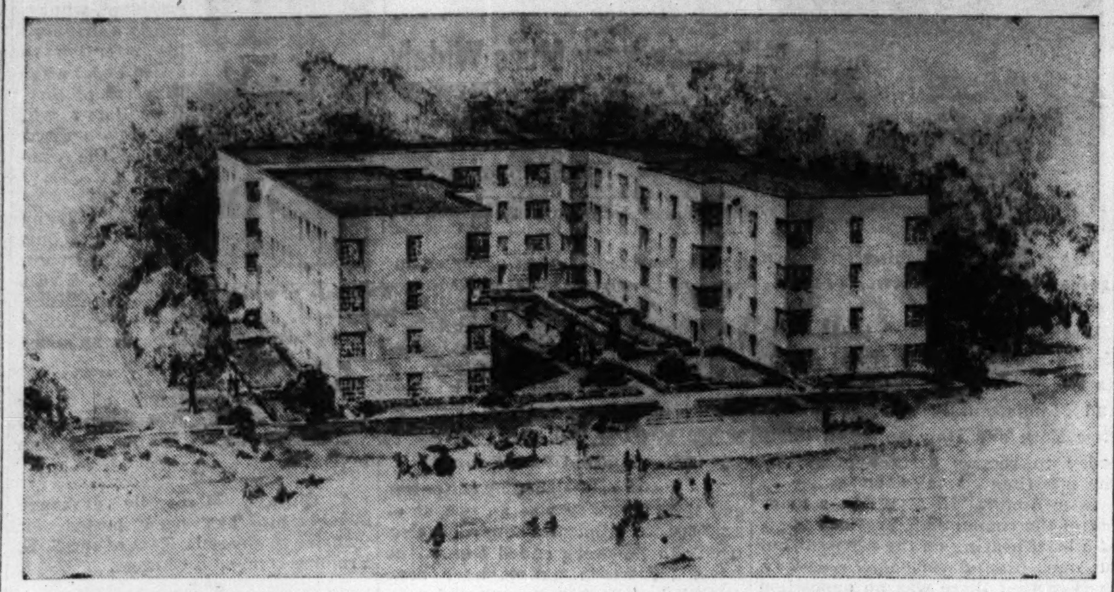
The Insurance Exchange building was built at a reported cost of $14,837,490. The north unit cost $6,879,795 for land and building. The south half cost $7,957,695 for the building alone.

The two units are owned by two corporations, the sole stockholders of which are the trustees of the Graham estate and the heirs of Max Pam.

The members of the Insurance Tenants' association, in addition to Chairman Buresch, are George W. Childs, Lyman M. Drake, P. C. Lewis, George H. Moloney, Clarence Oxnam, Fred J. Sauter, and Jay S. Glidden, secretary of the Chicago Board of Underwriters.

According to Glidden, the final result of the questionnaire will be announced about the middle of January.

Apartments Will Overlook Lake Michigan



The above 47 three-story "walkup" apartment building is contemplated for the north side of Chase avenue, overlooking Lake Michigan. Burnham Brothers & Hammond are architects, with Donald Boothby associated. The Robert G. Regan company has the general contract. (Story in adjoining column.)

Tenants Vote on Rent

The tenants in the Insurance Exchange, shown above, are voting on the question of rental adjustments.

BUILDING COST HAS ADVANCED, SURVEY SHOWS

Building costs in the United States already have risen appreciably as a result of the European war and a further increase next year can be expected, Byron T. Shutz, president of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America, said yesterday. His opinion is based on a survey just completed which shows that 80.6 per cent of the members of the association reporting from 64 cities in 31 states say that building costs have risen since Sept. 1. Nearly two-thirds of the members expect higher building costs next year.

"Prospects of higher costs ought not to frighten prospective builders, however," Shutz said. "There probably will be no sharp sudden advances, but slow increases generally.

"The indications for higher costs ought to act as an incentive for many to begin building now while they still have the advantages of today's prices and the low charges for financing."

Three Flat Buildings Are Sold for $99,000

The 18 flats at 6201 North Glenwood avenue were sold by the Trust Company of Chicago, trustee, to an undisclosed buyer for a reported $39,000 cash. Roy E. Knauer & Co., broker, also report the sale of 15 flats at 6330 Magnolia and the same sized building at 6546 North Richmond street by the Lake View Trust and Savings bank, trustee, to an undisclosed purchaser for $60,000.

TIRE COMPANY LEASES STORE.

Western Tire Auto Stores leased space at 5931 West North avenue. The interior will be remodeled.

Jensen Again Will Head Chicago Building Congress

The officers and board of directors of the Chicago Building Congress, Inc., have been renominated, according to Paul D. Angell, secretary. Election will be held at the annual meeting next month. Elmer C. Jensen of Mundie, Jensen, Bourke & Havens, will continue as president.

At the Realty Boards

Earl H. Macoy, executive secretary of the Landis Award Employers' association, will speak before the Southwest Realty board next Thursday, Dec. 21, at 12:30 p. m., at the Syrena restaurant, 1825 West 47th street. His subject will be "Advantages of Open Shop in Building Maintenance."

The Oak Park Real Estate board will hold its annual Christmas party tomorrow noon in the main dining room of the Oak Park Arms hotel.

H. L. DRAKE PAYS $132,500 FOR 24 EVANSTON FLATS

Harry L. Drake yesterday bought the 24 apartment building at 717-23 Hinman avenue, Evanston, for $132,500, according to revenue stamps on the deed. The property was sold by the Guardian Life Insurance Company of America to Apartment Buildings, Inc., which in turn conveyed it to Drake.

The buyer paid $13,250 cash and gave a purchase money mortgage for $119,250. Charles F. Hough was attorney for Drake. A. J. Henning represented the seller. The Chicago Mortgage Investment company, Chicago agent for the Guardian Life, negotiated the deal.

Drake also bought the 24 flats and two stores at the northwest corner of Rockwell street and Montrose avenue, for a reported $72,000. The seller was the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance company. Title was conveyed to the Invesco Realty Corporation of New York and then to Drake. Hough also was attorney for Drake in this purchase.

Realty Miscellany

Winston S. Porter of Sudler & Co. was elected and installed as president of Lambda Alpha fraternity recently. Graham Aldis is vice president. Charles G. Rummel of Shaw, Naess & Murphy is treasurer, and George R. O'Callaghan of Cook & Jackson is secretary.

The Chicago Real Estate board year book for 1940 is being distributed to members and is available to others interested in real estate, according to an announcement by board headquarters at 32 West Randolph street.

The Holland Building and Loan association, which claims to be the oldest state chartered association in Chicago, yesterday celebrated its 58th anniversary. H. Van Herik is president. It was founded by Hollanders.

L. D. McKendry, manager of the real estate and mortgage department of the Chicago Title and Trust company, will speak on "The Economics of Real Estate as Applied to Real Estate Appraising" at a dinner meeting of the Northern Illinois chapter, No. 6, of the Society of Residential Appraisers. It will be held next Tuesday evening at the Chicago Real Estate board.

Daniel Goldberg, president of Progressive Hotels, Inc., has moved his offices from the Field building to the 208 South La Salle Street building.

News of the Architects

The Architectural Club of Chicago, formerly at 1801 Prairie avenue, has leased new quarters on the seventh floor of the Merchandise Mart.

The Architects' Club of Chicago will hold a Christmas party in commemoration of its 15th birthday and in honor of the retiring officers at the Piccadilly restaurant, in the Fine Arts building, tomorrow evening. A sound picture of the construction of the Golden Gate bridge will be shown.

PLAN 47 FLAT BUILDING FOR ROGERS PARK

Site Is at Chase Avenue and Lake Shore.

Bids are now being taken on subcontracts for a 47 apartment building in Rogers Park. If figures are satisfactory and Federal Housing administration financing is approved, the structure will be erected on the north side of Chase avenue on the lake shore. Burnham Brothers & Hammond are the architects, with Donald Boothby, associate architect. The Robert G. Regan company has the general contract.

According to tentative plans the rent schedule will average $20 per room per month, it was said. There will be five suites of three rooms each, thirty-six with four rooms, and the remaining six flats will have five rooms each.

Has Riparian Rights.

The building will comprise two units arranged in "U" shape, with the opening toward the lake. The property, fronting 296 feet on Chase avenue, and 158 feet along the lake shore, has riparian rights. It will be called the Birchwood Beach apartments.

If construction gets under way within the next few weeks, as expected, the building will be ready for occupancy next summer, it was said.

Will Cost $185,000.

The building will cost approximately $185,000, it was said. The cost of the land was not disclosed. During the boom days of 1926 the property was sold for $250,000.

Exterior walls facing Chase avenue and the lake will be of face brick, the other walls will be of common brick. Stairs will be of steel. All back stairways will be enclosed.

The design will be modern, with corner windows. It will be a three story "walkup." The owner is Birchwood Beach, Inc.

ELECT OFFICERS OF SOUTH SIDE REALTY GROUP

Erwin L. Dankers, 7020 South Racine avenue, was elected president of the Southtown Real Estate Brokers' association, at the annual election held last Monday evening in the office of Blackford and Kussman. He succeeds Charles J. French. Clarence O. Rosain was elected first vice president, and Walter F. Lovell was chosen second vice president. John H. Schroll will be the organization's new treasurer. Ferdinand G. Christgau, of the Clarence O. Rosain office, will continue as secretary.

Erwin L. Dankers.

Directors elected were Walter B. Hough, Charles J. French, Robert C. Graham, and the officers of the board.

Installation of officers will take place during January. A committee headed by Walter F. Lovell was appointed to select the date and place.

Great Northern Leases Field Building Space

The Great Northern Railway company has leased space at 142 South Clark street in the Field building. It will move next week from 212 South Clark where it has been for eight years.

New West Side Church

The cornerstone of the above building of the Midwest Bible church, at the southeast corner of Cicero and Cornelia avenues, will be laid today at 3 p. m. Participants will meet at 2:30 o'clock at the present church edifice at 3509 North Cicero avenue. The Rev. Torrey Johnson, pastor, will preside. Plans by Architect Albert Frederic Heino provide for an auditorium seating 750 in the above $25,000 unit. Later a community hall costing $25,000 is contemplated. Completion of the first unit is set for March 1.

ARGUS BOOK SHOP WILL MOVE TO MICHIGAN AVE.

The Argus book shop, now at 333 South Dearborn street, will move on Feb. 1 to 16 North Michigan avenue. Ben Abramson, president of the Argus Book Shop, Inc., yesterday leased space in the first floor quarters occupied by Thomas Cook & Son travel bureau, 5,000 square feet on the second floor, and basement space. The lease is for 4½ years beginning next February. The rental was not disclosed.

Ben Abramson.

The Argus book shop was at 434 South Wabash avenue from 1922 to 1928. Since then it has been in the Standard Club building, 333 South Dearborn street. The firm, which specializes in rare books and first editions, has a branch shop in the Burnham building, 156 West Randolph street, under the management of Ija Adler.

HOME BUILDING IN FOUR STATES SHOWS INCREASE

Residential building in northern Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, and eastern Wisconsin during November was more than $4,000,000 larger than during the same month last year, according to T. O. Morgan, district manager of Dodge reports. Contracts awarded last month for all types of residential building in the four state area totaled $14,095,000. In 1938 the November contracts were $9,891,000. This is a gain of $4,204,000.

The 18 apartments at 1363-65 South California avenue were sold yesterday by the Spector Realty company to an undisclosed buyer.

NEW SUBURBAN BUILDING RISES TO HIGH LEVEL

Home Construction Best in Several Years.

New construction in Chicago suburbs during November was the largest, with one exception of one month [April, 1937], since 1931. According to a survey of 77 suburban communities made by the Bell Savings, Building and Loan association, permits were issued last month for buildings valued at $4,221,998.

This is a gain of 17 per cent over November, 1938, which was one of the best months of last year, with a total of $3,596,890. November, 1939, exceeded October by 20 per cent, the total for that month having been $3,508,898.

November was the largest month of this year and also the largest November in the records of the suburban survey.

Eleven Months Show Gain.

The eleven months of this year are more than $6,700,000 ahead of the same period of last year, the totals being $35,920,064 for 1939 thus far, and $29,187,958 for the corresponding part of 1938. This is a gain of 2[illegible] per cent.

The largest report in the suburban survey was from River Forest. P. W. Hazelton, village clerk, reported a total of $503,268. The chief item was a $475,000 permit for the River Forest Garden apartments at the northwest corner of Harlem and Oak.

The second largest was the report of Norman E. Schmidt of Winnetka, totaling $404,425. It includes a grade school to cost an estimated $260,000.

The third largest return was that of Olive Langfeld of Niles Center, $202,250, comprising twenty-four homes.

Home Building Increases.

In home building the November suburban reports are equally impressive. It was not until 1936 that the suburban building commissioners began to itemize their reports to show how many permits were issued for new homes and their value.

The record of progress in this four year period is indicated by these figures for November during the last four years:

	No. of homes.	Cost.
1936	178	$1,399,544
1937	207	1,601,649
1938	278	2,130,481
1939	381	2,657,279

The November gain in home building, as compared with November, 1938, is 37 per cent in number of homes started and 25 per cent in the value.

Alterations Decrease.

November also showed a small gain over the preceding month in the value of the homes for which permits were issued, but not in the number. In October permits were issued for 386 new homes, with an estimated value of $2,578,099.

The only unfavorable factor in the November situation was the decline in repairs, alterations, and additions to homes. The total investment was $205,442. The October total was $338,798.

Twenty-seven building commissioners reported no alterations or repairs in their communities.

HOLIDAY ROUND OF GAY PARTIES BILLED IN PARKS

Dances, Songfests, Plays Arranged.

Continuing its custom of the last five years, the park district will be host this year to many thousands of children at a series of Christmas parties in 25 park fieldhouses on the northwest side. The round of merriment opens today and will extend in some cases thru Christmas, it was announced by V. K. Brown, director of recreation, and the various park supervisors.

As a rule, the park parties are for children enrolled in any of the park activities, but some of them are of general nature, and there will be many private parties. Games, singing, playlets, and gift distributions feature most of the programs.

Here is a schedule of the Christmas parties for the northwest side as prepared by the park leaders:

At Athletic Field.

Athletic field, 3546 Addison street—The Young People's Social club will have its party at 8:30 p. m. tomorrow, while the Junior Girls' club party will start at 8 p. m. Wednesday. Harvey Dunham is instructor in charge.

Avondale park, 3516 School street—Thursday evening the girls' gymnasium group under Grace Peterson and the children's theater of Avondale park under Frances Finn will present "The Toymaker's Doll" at a party for the park children. The boys' gymnasium and craft groups will hold a party at 4:30 p. m. Friday. The girls' artcraft group will be entertained at 3:30 p. m. Friday. The Civic Improvement club of the park, composed of boys 12 to 17 years old, will have its first party at 7:30 p. m. Friday. Girls of the gymnasium and dramatic classes will have their party Saturday. George Smith is park supervisor.

Blackhawk park, 2318 North Lavergne avenue—There will be numerous parties thruout the week, starting tomorrow, according to F. V. Degenhardt, park supervisor. The general party will be held next Thursday evening, in a gay Christmas setting.

Plays on Friday.

Brands park, 3259 Elston avenue—The season's festivities open at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday with a party by the park's Good Fellows club. The participating officers are Mrs. Alma Ptag, president; Mrs. Vi McComb, vice president; Mrs. Bobby Behrns, secretary, and Mrs. Fannie Flynn, treasurer. The big park party will start at 3:30 p. m. Thursday. Admittance is limited to those enrolled in park activities. The dramatic group will present a children's play Friday afternoon and an adults' play the same evening. Harold Gaffney is park supervisor.

California park, 3901 North California avenue—There will be three parties for park enrollees, it was announced by Joseph M. Rosich, park supervisor. The artcraft club will have its gathering at 1 p. m. Friday, and the tennis club at 8 p. m. the same day. The children's social club will be entertained at 1 p. m. Saturday.

Chopin park, 3420 North Long avenue—The Lacons athletic and social club is coöperating with the park in holding a general party for park children Friday. Features include the showing of movies taken in Mexico by W. H. Sutherland, park supervisor, and singing, dancing, and other entertainment, including a specialty number by Ken Yonell, juvenile ventriloquist.

Carols Friday Night.

Edison park, 6755 Northwest highway—The general party will open at 7:30 p. m. Friday. Carols sung by the park's choral group will be broadcast by public address system. The artcraft groups will have their party at 4 p. m. Thursday, according to C. F. Hoffman, instructor in charge.

Eugene Field park, 5100 North Ridgeway avenue—The senior girls will hold their party Tuesday. Next day the dramatic group will gather. There will be two parties Thursday, one for the artcraft group and the other for the midget and junior gymnasium girls. The play groups will have parties Friday morning and afternoon, it was announced by P. H. Lederman, park supervisor.

Gompers park, 4224 Foster avenue—In the two weeks starting tomorrow there will be 16 parties in the fieldhouse. Sponsors include the various park activities groups, as well as Scout mothers, North Mayfair Woman's club, Mayfair Garden club, and others. E. B. Meier is park supervisor.

Dance for Youths.

Hermosa park, Kilbourn and Belden avenues—The park's junior woman's club is sponsoring a party Tuesday. Next day the social dance club will be host to young people from 14 to 18 years old. There will be a party Friday for children of the gymnasium groups. George L. Koppe is instructor in charge.

Holstein park, 2200 North Oakley avenue—A "Christmas Frolics" will be presented by park players under the direction of Mamme M. Kurtz. Featured performers include Lorraine Tupper, Lillian Chebo, Jacqueline Belcke, Myra Mickelsen, Shirley Mickelsen, and Barbara Bowes. There will

Radio Will Carry Their Songs

Television would be a welcome aid to Christmas cheer this week as northwest choristers send their voices out on the ether waves to usher in a season of holiday and solemn songs. Singing for "Father Young's Christmas program" on the National Farm and Home hour at 11:30 o'clock Friday morning, they will be heard over a national network, but their lace edged surplices, golden capes, and crisp ties are a sight reserved for Christmas audiences at St. Philomena church, 1921 North Kedvale avenue. They are shown here with the Rev. Francis C. Young in rehearsal. Left to right, front, they are Frank Kornfeind and Norman Carsello, with William La Vey, John Butler, and Joseph Ginley in the rear row. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Today's program will be given at St. Philomena Catholic church, Karlov avenue and Cortland street, where the boys' concert band will play for a community Christmas party at 4:30 o'clock. On Friday night the girls' accordion group will give a holiday program for patients at the Illinois Research hospital, at 1819 West Polk street.

An after-Christmas concert is scheduled for Dec. 28 when the girls' section will play at the Salvation army headquarters at 1140 West 59th street. Next day the boys' group will entertain at the Juvenile Detention home, 2246 West Roosevelt road. The final program, at Mooseheart home, will be played by the girls' group the afternoon of Jan. 7.

Northwest players in the boys' band include Ralph Bishop, Frank Cherney, Hillard Guzick, Mike Kostelny, Lawrence Lange, and Raymond Piccony. Four northwest junior players are Robert Berg, Irvin Frey, Walter Pacquet, and William Sonnemann. In the girls' section the seven northwest siders are Ethel Inselberger, Lois Jahnke, Elaine Piccony, Elaine Rathmann, Dorothy and Patricia Reed, and Clarice Zeller.

Mothers of Young Judea Give Party This Evening

A party sponsored by the Albany Park unit of the Chicago Mothers of Young Judea will be held tonight at the Casino terrace of the Morrison hotel, with Mrs. Bertha Nussbaum of 5435 North Kimball avenue as presiding hostess. On Wednesday night Mrs. Jean Fond will be chairman for a Chanukah party at the College of Jewish Studies, 220 South State street.

WHEELING CHILDREN TO RALLY AT PARTY ON VILLAGE SQUARE

A Christmas tree in the village square at Wheeling will be the focal point for most of the children in the suburb next Friday night. They will be guests at the annual Christmas party given for them by the chamber of commerce. According to President Arthur Fossbender Santa Claus will be there to distribute some 300 boxes of candy, nuts and fruit. The party also will be the occasion for a session of old fashioned community singing of carols. Chairman Hans Schmidt has arranged the program which has been held annually the last five years.

CANTATAS RING IN CHRISTMAS SEASON TODAY

Churches to Offer Plays, Carols.

In songs and in sermons, in plays and in pageants the centuries' old story of the birth of Christ will be told once again this week in northwest side churches.

Following a custom of many years' standing the combined choirs at Grace Lutheran church, Laramie and Parker avenues, will present a twilight Christmas concert with a candle light processional at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Walter F. Borchardt will direct the choirs and Mrs. Florence Reimer will play the organ accompaniment. The Rev. August Jarus is the pastor.

A similar program will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the First Gethsemane Lutheran church, Oakdale and Lamon avenues. The junior and senior choirs will sing under the direction of Martha M. Lundberg. Alice Deal is the organist and Ramona Ulrich is the pianist. The Rev. Emmer E. Engberg is the pastor.

Irving Park Drama.

"The Guiding Star," a Christmas story by Laura Bell, will be enacted by members of the High School Evening club at the Irving Park Baptist church, Irving Park road and Kostner avenue, at 8 o'clock tonight. Mrs. Esther Bowker will direct the cast, consisting of Karsten Adison, Edna Semple, Olga Johnson, Eugene Woodside, Donald Bowker, Betty Bogardus, Jack Bogardus, Vernon Stahnke, Evelyn Stahnke, Lois Eggers, Shirley Minter, Russel Swanson, and Richard, Dorothy, and Lois Jean Strong. Carols will be sung by Betty Bowker, Dorothy Williams, Joseph Sternbaur, and Keith McKeough. The Rev. Carl McAllister is pastor.

Mount Olive Evangelical Lutheran church, Tripp avenue and Byron street, will have its Christmas candlelight carol service at 8 o'clock next Wednesday night. The girls choir and the mixed choir will sing and Miss Marga Link will play three organ solos. The Rev. Bernard H. Hemmeter will speak on "Satisfying Man's Desires."

Ira B. Wilson's Christmas cantata, "Along the Christmas Road," will be sung by the choir at the Kedzie Avenue Methodist church, Kedzie avenue and Cortland street, at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Robert Matthews will direct the music. The Rev. Edward Evensen is the pastor.

Family Party Tuesday.

The church school at the Grand Avenue Congregational church, 1305 North Hamlin avenue, will hold its Christmas program and family party next Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock. The program will consist of songs, recitations, and a pageant, "The First Christmas." White gifts will be accepted for Firman house. The Rev. Ernest E. Morrill is the pastor.

Miss Clara Ady will direct the 46 voices of the combined choirs at the Avondale Methodist church, George street and Spaulding avenue, in a recital, "The Glory of Christmas" at 8 o'clock next Friday night. Herbert Lincoln will be the organist. The Rev. James O'May will speak on a Christmas theme.

Sermon topic for the Rev. Joseph B. Shefveland at Bethel Lutheran church, 2101 Humboldt boulevard, this morning at 10:45 o'clock will be "The Truth that Sets You Free." Tonight at 8:15 o'clock the choir will offer a candle light service.

Kelvyn Park Presbyterian.

The Lord's Supper will be celebrated tonight at the Kelvyn Park Presbyterian church, 2516 North Kostner avenue. At the morning service the Rev. G. J. Hinshaw will speak on the "Purposes of Jesus from His Own Words."

The Rev. E. F. Krauss of the Chicago Lutheran seminary will speak at a special Advent service in Peace Lutheran church, 5944 Cullom avenue, at 10:45 a. m. today. He will speak on "The Children of the Church." The Christmas program will be held at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday. The Rev. Otto Doering is the pastor.

Children of Wicker Park Lutheran church, Hoyne avenue and Le Moyne street, will have their Christmas program tonight beginning at 7:30 o'clock. White gifts of food will be accepted for the Maywood Lutheran Children's Home and for Christmas baskets to be distributed to needy in the neighborhood. They will be delivered next Saturday. The Rev. Charles Leslie Venable is the pastor.

Victor W. Schultz will direct the Mayfair Methodist church choir in the Christmas cantata, "The Christ Child," by Hawley, at 7:30 o'clock tonight. The church is situated at Wilson and Kilpatrick avenues and the pastor is the Rev. Armand Guerrero.

Collect Gifts for Home.

Gifts of canned goods and other staples will be collected at Gethsemane Evangelical church, Belle Plaine and Monticello avenues, this morning for the Children's home at Bensenville. A new Boy Scout troop also will be installed during the service. The Rev. R. R. Fillbrandt will speak.

The Logan Square Baptist church choir, Lawndale and Belden avenues, will sing a cantata, "The Story of Christmas," by Matthews, at 8 o'clock tonight. Next Friday night Santa Claus will visit the children

OUR TOWN

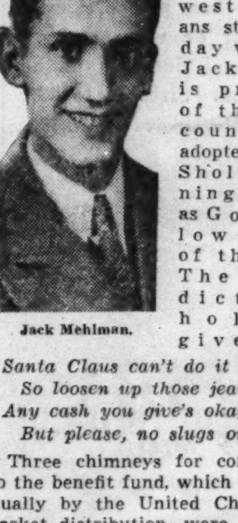
Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

ONE of Our Town's sons, Fred E. Wiley, has been notified that his name will appear in the next issue of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." A senior at Wittenberg college, Springfield, O., his record there is one of the best ever compiled. He was president of the Boost Wittenberg association, men's governing body; president of the junior class, a member of Blue Key and Skull and Chain, national activities honorary fraternities; winner of a certificate for scholastic excellence, winner of a varsity letter in swimming, secretary of the "W" club for athletes, a member of the tournament debate team, a cabinet member and treasurer of the college Y. M. C. A., and a member of the Interfraternity council.

Fred E. Wiley.

At the end of his junior year he was awarded the Junior prize, a scholarship granted each year to the member of the class who ranks highest in character, service to others, leadership, and scholarship. His fraternities are Delta Sigma Phi, Tau Kappa Alpha, Tau Pi Phi, and national forensics honorary. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Wiley, 2648 North Francisco avenue, and a graduate of Roosevelt High school.

A PRIZE winning jingle and the meeting of co-eds under the main hall mistletoe provided the note of Christmas cheer which closed Wright Junior college's annual basket fund drive with a record total on Friday afternoon, when more than 3,000 northwest collegians started holiday vacations. Jack Mehlman is president of the student council which adopted Marvin Sholtz's winning jingle as Good Fellow theme of the year. The Sholtz dictum to holiday givers was:



Jack Mehlman.

"Santa Claus can't do it all
So loosen up those jeans;
Any cash you give's okay,
But please, no slugs or beans."

Three chimneys for contributions to the benefit fund, which is used annually by the United Charities for basket distribution, were erected in the school halls next to sprigs of mistletoe at corridor intersections. Performance of the third annual "Varsity Show" Friday was the final benefit effort for the holiday fund.

Harold K. Rocho will be installed as master builder of D. C. Cregier chapter of the Order of the Builders next Thursday night at the Kelvyn Park Masonic temple, 4400 Montana street. The other new officers are A Robert Ernest, deputy master builder; James MacLagan, senior inspector; Herbert Ench, junior inspector; Charles Thompson Jr., secretary; Ernest Duus Jr., treasurer; Henry A. Williams, senior overseer; Vernon Sorensen, junior overseer; Richard H. Boos, chaplain, and Elroy L. Mack, marshall.

Stewards are Robert Amundsen, Le Roy C. Johnson, Erik Gjertsen, and Ralph M. Johnson. Donald Henricks is sentinel. Herbert M. Edelmann will be the installing grand master builder. Assisting him will be Harold Behrendt, Charles J. W. Fritz Jr., Walter E. Tiedeman, Edward K. Radtke, and Owen G. Thomas.

Bethel No. 21 of the Order of Job's Daughters will act as the escort. There will be dancing after the installation ceremony.

MR. AND MRS. C. W. KUBLANK celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary last Tuesday with an open house at their home in Algonquin in the afternoon and a reception in the school gymnasium in the evening. They have been residents of the village since they were married there on Dec. 12, 1879. Mr. Kublank retired from his trade as a building contractor four years ago. He was one of the organizers of the village board when the town was incorporated. Mrs. Kublank was a charter member of the St. John's Lutheran Ladies Aid and is still active in its affairs. They have five children, Miss Matilda, Mrs. Herman Dehmlow, Mrs. Fred Bau, Herman, and Carl. There are 15 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

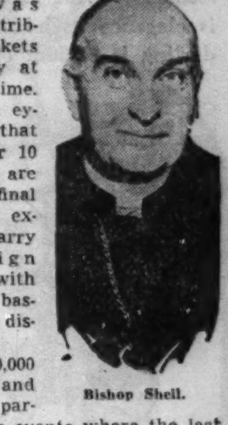
Leaders in the Roosevelt High school Hi-Y clubs recently attended the Illinois State Older Boys' conference at Wheaton. Among them were Ted Wendland, Charles Massey, Robert Benziger, Gordon Barkes, John Harris, William Krusen, Dick Soderberg, Leonard Swanson, Ernest Ott, Howard Feichtman, Joe Englehardt, Phillip Kelly, Claude Carmichael, and George Peters. Theme of the convention was "Youth Strives for Peace."

HOPE TO EXTEND YULETIDE CHEER TO MORE HOMES

Carols Help Carry Charity Message.

BY CLAYTON KIRKPATRICK.

Chicago's Good Fellows already have surpassed last year's record when money enough was raised to distribute 2,300 baskets to the needy at Christmas time. This week, eying a record that has stood for 10 years, they are launching a final drive that is expected to carry the campaign over the top with at least 3,300 baskets to be distributed.



Bishop Sheil.

More than 10,000 men, women, and children will participate in six events where the last appeals will be made. The first will be a Good Gellow Carol Sing sponsored by the Knights and Themis clubs of the University college of Northwestern university. It will begin at 4 o'clock today in Thorne hall.

Edgewater Choir to Sing.

The concert will be sung by the Edgewater Presbyterian choir, directed by Dr. Samuel Burkholder. Miss Jane Nelson, contralto, winner of the woman's division in the vocal contest in the 10th annual Chicagoland Music Festival, will be the soloist. Miss Virginia Payne will give a dramatic reading and Kenneth Cutler will play the organ accompaniment. Vladimir d'Lissovoy, chairman of the sing, will extend the welcome.

At 8 o'clock tonight the W-G-N radio program, "Your Sunday Date," will be devoted to the Good Fellows. Guest speaker will be the Most Rev. Bernard Sheil, D. D., administrator of the archdiocese of Chicago. Harold Stokes and the orchestra will play in the audience studio.

Tomorrow afternoon at 12:35 o'clock Philip Maxwell, Good Fellow editor, will take to the air on Dr. John Dickson's Midday Service broadcast to make a report on the progress of the campaign. Later in the afternoon 1,000 boys and girls from public high schools and Wright Junior college will sing carols around a 40 foot Christmas tree erected in the areaway between Tribune Tower and the W-G-N studios.

Carols Go on Air.

Mr. Maxwell will act as master of ceremonies and Miss Helen Howe, director of music in the Chicago public schools, will lead the singing. The carols will be broadcast over W-G-N from 3:30 o'clock until 3:45 o'clock.

Choruses and their directors who are taking part in the concert are: Austin High school, Hazel Lloyd, Edna Pohlman, Louis B. Ryerson; Farragut, Marie Johnson, Marie C. Ehrenwerth; Hyde Park, Josephine Lee, Grace Guller, Veronica Whelan, Flora Churchill; Roosevelt, John Hamilton; Senn, Samuel Burkholder; Steinmetz, Willard L. Groom; Waller, Margaret Gallagher, Mildred Tess, and Wright Junior college, Erhardt Bergstrasser.

Actor Edward Everett Horton, Orchestra Leader Charles [Buddy] Rogers, and Leverett S. Lyons, chief executive of the Chicago Association of Commerce, will do their bit for the Good Fellow cause next Wednesday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock. They will speak before 500 fraternity men at the fourth annual fraternity Good Fellow luncheon in the Red room at the Hotel La Salle.

Memorial to Founder.

The campaign is a legacy of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity, since the original Good Fellow was the late Edward C. Fitch, a Phi Psi and founder of the movement. The luncheon is sponsored by the fraternity's alumni association in Chicago.

GOLDEN JUBILEE IS CELEBRATED BY SIX COUPLES

Another Pair Observes 53d Anniversary.

Auspices for weddings in November and December, 1889, were favorable for some pioneer couples of the northwest side and suburbs. For six of them, November and December, 1939, are golden months and they have celebrated their anniversaries with receptions and family parties.

Another pair, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Holmgren, 3116 Lyndale avenue, marked their 53d anniversary with a party for their four children in their home. They have resided at their present address for 45 years. Mr. Holmgren is 79 years old and his wife is 74.

Those celebrating their 50th anniversaries were Mr. and Mrs. Max Murzyka, Des Plaines; Mr. and Mrs. Julius E. Krause, Genoa City; Mr. and Mrs. Anders Hanson, 4926 North Washtenaw avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Walenty Lesniewski, 2314 Charleston street; Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Fahrenkrog, 5646 Windsor avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dupont, 4250 North Albany avenue.

Aided Church Founding.

Mr. and Mrs. Murzyka have resided in or near Chicago since 1904. They were among the founders of St. Nicholas Catholic church, Oakley boulevard and Rice street. They have one daughter, Mrs. Marie Muro, and five sons, Basil, Michael, Vladimir, Peter, and Max Jr. Mr. Murzyka has been caretaker of St. Nicholas cemetery since 1917.

Since 1898 Mr. and Mrs. Krause have called Genoa City their home. until four years ago they resided on a farm near the village, but now have retired. Their children, Mrs. Carrie Bauman, Mrs. Bess Rowe, and George K. were among the 80 persons who attended their reception.

More than 200 friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Dupont attended their reception in the Salem Norwegian church. One of them was Mrs. Betty Wiberg, 2150 North Kedzie avenue, a bridesmaid at the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Dupont have a son, Frank, and two grandchildren. Natives of Denmark, both came to Chicago in 1882 where they met and were married.

Have Six Children.

The reception of Mr. and Mrs. Fahrenkrog will be held this afternoon at their home. They have been residents of the northwest side since their marriage having lived on a farm at Lawrence and Canfield avenues until 15 years ago when Mr. Fahrenkrog retired. They have six children, Miss Emma, Mrs. Fred Gubitz, Mrs. Olga Gubitz, Mrs. John Lange, Rudolph, and Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanson, residents of Humboldt Park and Logan Square for more than 30 years, will also receive friends and relatives this afternoon. Their reception will be held at the home of their daughter, Mrs. William Allard, 4340 Armitage avenue. Their other daughters are Mrs. Edwin Wrench and Mrs. William Henke.

Born in Poland, Mr. and Mrs. Lesniewski came to Chicago some years before they met and were married in Bridgeport. At their reception on Nov. 11, Ald. Vincent Zwiefka [33d] acted as master of ceremonies. They have six children, Mrs. Jennie Bednarczyk, Mrs. Elizabeth Serafin, Miss Angeline, Miss Florence, Walter, and Stanley.

Northwest Lions to Hold Children's Party Tuesday

Some 80 underprivileged children will be entertained at a Christmas party given by the Northwest Lions club next Tuesday afternoon at 4306 North avenue. Among the group will be 25 who are blind. Others selected by their principals will come from the Nobel, Cameron, Nixon and Lloyd schools. Cake and ice cream will be served by the auxiliary and gifts of candy and mittens will be given to each child. Charles F. Scully is chairman.

CLUB INVITES CHILDREN FOR YULETIDE PARTY

Barrington Women Are to Entertain.

Shopping signs and club programs both say "it's only seven days 'til Christmas" today as a final, cheerful warning to northwest side women to wind up holiday preparations. Most 7th district clubs have held their yuletide parties, but some remain.

All the youngsters in town are invited to the Barrington Woman's club on Wednesday afternoon to help put juvenile gusto into club holiday festivities. Members will join with the local Girl Scout council in sharing their Christmas cheer. The entertainment will open at 2 o'clock at the Catlow theater for a showing of cartoon pictures and carol singing. Kenneth Grom will be the organist.

Charles Eagle Plume, a Pikuni tribesman of the Blackfeet Indians, will be guest speaker. He will wear Indian costumes for a series of tribal songs and dances. Around the Christmas tree in the theater lobby young guests will receive their candy gifts from Girl Scout council members, including Mrs. Dowell Durbin, Mrs. Charles W. Fritz, Mrs. Elmer Kingery, Mrs. V. H. Lageschulte, Mrs. Victor Norton, Mrs. Paul Trier, Mrs. Harry Wewetzer, Mrs. A. M. Wilkins, and Mrs. Martin Schreiber.

Belmont Woman's Club.

Songs, gifts, and games will bring members to the home of Mrs. Leslie Langile, president, at 5530 Roscoe street, on Wednesday afternoon. Opening with a buffet luncheon at 1 o'clock, Mrs. Glen Culbertson's holiday program will feature the Christmas music of the newly organized club chorus, directed by Mrs. Joseph R. McHale, who will lead the group in its regular weekly rehearsal tomorrow afternoon in her home at 5026 Fletcher street, beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

Franklin Park Woman's Club.

The American home, art, and garden departments will join Thursday afternoon as hostesses for the annual Christmas party in the home of Mrs. William Radabaugh, whose co-hostesses will be Mrs. Charles Greaves and Mrs. John Shennan. Department chairmen in charge of the holiday program are Mrs. John Diegnan, Mrs. Harold Halvorsen, and Mrs. Shennan.

Hermosa Junior Women.

"Santa Claus will be there" is the final reassuring line on the club invitations this week, which schedule the annual Christmas party for Tuesday night at Hermosa park fieldhouse. Twenty-five needy children from the Nixon school will be guests and receive St. Nick's pack bounty of games, candy, and gifts. The party will start at 7:30 o'clock, with Miss Grace Counihan as president and hostess.

Irving Park Woman's Club.

Three times this week members will dispense with the regular order of business and clear the floor for holiday fun. Tomorrow night the annual evening Christmas party will replace the daytime club session. Members of the evening auxiliary and junior groups will be guests for the social program at Myrtle Masonic temple, 4240 Irving Park road, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. John William Chapman heads the party committee as first vice president, assisted by Mrs. Eugene J. Kuntzman, Mrs. Howard Evans, and Miss Elizabeth Lenth in charge of cards, music, and decorations, respectively. An orchestra will accompany the grand march at 9 o'clock and the circle dances will whet appetites for Mrs. Otto E. Huntley's refreshments.

A second holiday party to replace a serious club session is arranged for Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. E. C. Watson's American home department will meet at 1 o'clock in the woman's community building for a holiday program of games. Members of the public health and public welfare department, gathered for their special Christmas party on Wednesday afternoon, will remember the department's purpose with a collection of gifts for children at the Lydia home, 4300 Irving Park road. Mrs. David C. Brixey will be hostess in her home at 3757 North Tripp avenue, where 1 o'clock lunch will be served to open the program arranged by Mrs. A. L. Conlon, chairman.

Evening Auxiliary.

Christmas cheer will be in the air and on the air Tuesday night when Irving Park members tune in on a holiday radio party arranged by Mrs. Lois Treadwell Bouilly, social chairman. The special holiday event will be held at the community building. Members will also take a second helping of holiday fun on Thursday at the annual turkey dinner and Christmas party at Sarah Hackett Stevenson memorial home. Mrs. Evelyn Holmes is handling reservations for the dinner, when auxiliary members will join mothers and children of the home for a merry Christmas evening.

Woman's Civic Club.

Things will start off tunefully Wednesday afternoon at the Kelvyn Park Christmas party with a roll call query for favorite Yule carols. Starting at 1:15 o'clock, the program will include carol singing and grab bag gifts.

Mount Prospect Women.

Christmas music will set the tempo for variations on the regular monthly meeting Tuesday night, when a holiday program will replace club business, beginning at 8 o'clock at South church. Mrs. C. G. Gallagher will preside and introduce Miss Roberta S. Racine, guest artist, in a dramatic reading titled "Christmas Fantasies." Miss Racine is a member of the Northwestern university Lyceum theater and a network radio reader. Choral singing will be accompanied by Mrs. E. C. Bolton at the organ.

Assisting Mrs. V. C. Bacon, hostess chairman, will be Mrs. John Allan, Mrs. I. E. Besander, Mrs. L. E. Bigelow, Mrs. J. D. Binkley, Mrs. J. F. Boyland, Mrs. A. M. Brown, Mrs. William Busse Sr., Mrs. A. G. Carlson, Mrs. J. F. Timlin, Mrs. W. C. Turner, Mrs. I. W. Tuttle and Mrs. Bolton.

Women's Improvement Club.

A preview of Christmas will entertain members of the Northwest improvement and social club on Thursday afternoon at the Central Plaza hotel, 321 North Central avenue. Carols and readings will follow the 1 o'clock luncheon, with Mrs. Ida Waskow presiding. Mrs. Linda Wessberg is decorations chairman and Mrs. Myrtle Smerz will be assisted as entertainment chairmen by Mrs. Laura Eich, Mrs. Emily Stracek, Mrs. Ann Hearle and Mrs. Gladys Otto.

Norwegian Woman's Club.

Reciprocity will be the Christmas theme of a Wednesday afternoon meeting at 2512 North Kimball avenue, when Mrs. Hermana Rye Haugan will preside at a program of literature and music. Mrs. Inger Boye of the Highland Park library staff will discuss Sigrid Undseth, Norwegian novelist, and Miss Jean Mastrud will sing soprano numbers, accompanied by Miss Eleanor Sundmark at the piano.

Ready with Greetings

Three northwest club leaders will say "Merry Christmas" to their groups this week at holiday parties. Mrs. John William Chapman is first vice president of the Irving Park Woman's club which will dance tomorrow night at the Myrtle Masonic temple. Barrington children will share Mrs. Robert G. Work's greetings on Wednesday afternoon when the village women's club entertains at its annual Christmas theater party. Mrs. C. G. Gallagher heads the Mount Prospect club which will hear carols and dramatic readings at its party Tuesday night.

Chairman

Mrs. Jessie Blaine Barnes, 8829 Harper avenue, is chairman of the luncheon and Christmas party at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday in the Tower house of the Stevens hotel, at which the Lilian G. Burchby club of Chicago will entertain Mrs. Lulu E. Benson, worthy grand matron, and the grand officers of the Order of the Eastern Star of Illinois. She will be assisted by Mrs. Allie Shearer, 109 Wisner avenue, Park Ridge, president; Mrs. Anna Heindl, 6969 Sheridan road; Mrs. Esther Morganson, 3634 North Oak Park avenue; Mrs. Helen Popp, 2906 North Major avenue; Mrs. Rose Vodvarka, 5557 South Richmond street, and Mrs. Edna Haney, 156 Chandler avenue, Elmhurst.

AVONDALE CHOIR IS SCHEDULED TO SING CANTATA

A Christmas cantata, entitled "The Music of Bethlehem," by Holton, will be sung by the choir at the Avondale Methodist church, George street and Spaulding avenue, at 8:15 o'clock next Friday night.

Soloists will be Arlyne Martins, soprano; Lyla Dawson, contralto; Howard Kasch, tenor, and James Martins, baritone. Miss Clara Ady will direct the choir and Herbert Lincoln will play the organ accompaniment.

More than $3,000 was spent recently in redecorating the church, which recently celebrated its golden jubilee. This is the first program of its kind to be offered since the auditorium was refurbished. The Rev. James O'May is pastor.

K. OF C. COUNCILS PLAY SANTA FOR 10,000 IN HOMES

Five Christmas parties in the series planned by the Knights of Columbus this year for more than 10,000 residents of 42 orphanages, day nurseries, homes for the aged, and similar institutions will take place this afternoon. Visits will be made to the Angel Guardian orphanage, 2001 Devon avenue; St. Joseph's orphanage, Lisle; Guardian Angel Day nursery, 4600 McDowell avenue; Illinois Technical school, 4910 Prairie avenue, and De Paul Day nursery, 2145 North Halsted street.

The parties during the next few weeks will mark the 30th year in which the Chicago chapter of the Knights of Columbus has played Santa Claus to forgotten men, women, and children.

Cost of the parties is defrayed by the voluntary contributions of members and their friends. The committee, which includes one member from each of the 65 councils in the county, is headed by Martin J. Hough, chairman; Arthur Donoghue, secretary, and Harry Gerardin, publicist. Jacob A. Mueller is president of the chapter. Contributions should be sent to the Christmas Cheer committee, Knights of Columbus, suite 1105, 173 West Madison street.

Hospital Chaplain to Talk to Young People of Church

Young people of Bethany Presbyterian church will meet tonight for a program with the Rev. Russell L. Dicks, chaplain of the Presbyterian hospital, as guest speaker. George Robertson, 4501 North Bernard street, is program chairman and will introduce the chaplain's review of his own recent book entitled "How to Visit the Sick." Margaret Clyde is committee assistant for the meeting in the church auditorium at Humboldt boulevard and Cortland street.

LEAVES HIM WONDERING.

Our so-called civic leaders certainly messed things up when they invited Republican Lyons in to dedicate the Democratic Austin avenue subway about two weeks ago. Everything looked shipshape that day, as far as the tunnel was concerned, but since then things have not gone so smoothly. Last week it was still closed to traffic altho it was supposed to have been completed Dec. 1.

The best we local residents could learn was that the tunnel would be barricaded until the lights were installed—a job we had supposed was all finished. For a while there were rumors that a citizen's committee might hang lanterns up so that they could use the $1,000,000 improvement, but that kind of humor didn't catch on. It wouldn't have done a bit of good anyhow, since there was some kind of a mixup with electric meters and the pumps stopped, allowing water to seep in to a depth of more than a foot.

To some it looked as tho the job was temporarily sabotaged to teach the Republicans a lesson in politics. I wonder if that could be the correct explanation?

PROTESTS CEMETERY RULES.

Of all the greedy and monopolistic activities yet to be employed is that of the Mount Olive cemetery located on North Narragansett avenue. Of course, with the present dictatorship policies employed it is no wonder that they are inherited.

On the iron entrance gates leading into the cemetery is a large sign reading that a charge of 25 cents will be made on each bundle of evergreens brought into the cemetery with which to cover graves.

At your favorite florist or at any number of stands outside the cemetery a bundle of the finest balsam evergreen can be purchased for 25 cents. This bundle, with a little care, is sufficient to nicely cover any grave. The cemetery also sells evergreens, but they charge 50 cents a bundle, which is supposed to be enough to cover two graves.

The evergreen they sell is spruce, which does not last as long and is not as nice looking, hardly covers two graves, and is mostly devoid of needles and an eyesore on any grave.

We paid a good price for our family lot 29 years ago. We place flowers there regularly. We buy them from our favorite florist because we do not want to be held up by the high prices of the cemetery greenhouses.

I believe we still have the right to buy where we please and from whom we please. I do not believe they have any legal right to dictate to us and say that we must buy from the cemetery greenhouses or else pay 25 cents per bundle, and I should like to see this contested in court. I think they would lose and be very much embarrassed. Pretty soon they will try to tell us what kind of clothes we must wear when we visit our graves.

MESSAGE FOR THE TIMES.

I wish to take this means to thank you for your splendid write-up on Pastor Torrey Johnson and the new Midwest Bible Church building appearing in last Sunday's Tribune. In these days of wholesale murder of humanity it is indeed gratifying to read about the progress of a constructive Gospel work which holds out a living hope to a weary, passing world. Moreover it proves conclusively that the unadulterated Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ has not changed or lost its power, nor does it need financial wizards for its furtherance but instead people who adhere to its fundamental precepts and manifest a changed life when and after they accept the Lord Jesus Christ as their personal Saviour.

G. F. Quilty.

PRAISES TRIBUNE HELP.

It is with the utmost sincerity that we express our appreciation to you for your coöperation with our publicity chairman, E. L. Barr, in publishing news of our organization and our community.

It is well known that a civic organization must have publicity in order to function and grow so it can be a benefit to a community. We have had this assistance, for which we are grateful, from The Chicago Tribune.

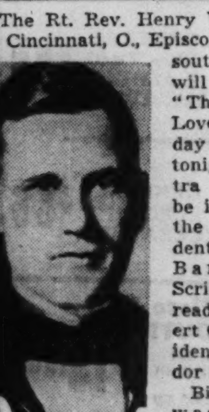
Secretary, North Mayfair Improvement association.

BISHOP OF CHURCH ON WHEELS TO SPEAK IN ORCHESTRA HALL

The Rt. Rev. Henry Wise Hobson of Cincinnati, O., Episcopal bishop of southern Ohio, will speak on "The Victory of Love" at the Sunday Evening club tonight in Orchestra hall. He will be introduced by the club's president, Clifford W. Barnes. The Scripture will be read by Col. Robert G. Peck, president of the Aridor company.



Bishop Hobson.

Bishop Wise was graduated from Yale university. He held the rank of major in the world war where he was awarded the D. S. C. medal for "bravery under fire." When he was raised to the episcopate, Bishop Wise rejected the idea of a cathedral and selected a trailer for a sanctuary on wheels whereby, he said "I can better bring the consolations of religion to the scattered communicants of my extensive diocese." Bishop Wise was chairman of the Episcopal church's Forward Movement, and was recently elected president of the Movement for World Christianity.

"Why the Chimes Rang," a Christmas play by Raymond M. Alden, will be presented by the Chicago Boys' club, under the direction of Howard Tooley, at the 7 o'clock informal meeting. Bernard E. Sunny, trustee of the Sunday Evening club, will give a brief address on the activities of the Chicago Boys' club.

PLAN MEMORIAL CHURCH TO THE HUGHES FAMILY

Des Plaines Is Chosen as Site of Edifice.

Honor will be paid one of the most distinguished names in Methodism as a result of plans going forward in Des Plaines this week to build a new church as a memorial to the Hughes family, which in two generations had two active bishops and a pastor serving the church.

The Rev. Philip T. Bohi.

The Rev. Philip T. Bohi is pastor of the present church which will be replaced by the Hughes Memorial church, on which construction is expected to start next year. Members under the Rev. Mr. Bohi and Dr. C. J. Hill, board president, are organizing a building fund campaign.

Half Century Old.

The Des Plaines church, at Jefferson and Lee streets, is more than 50 years old and its audience capacity of 175 has been outgrown. The present membership is 400. Goal of the building fund has been set at $100,000.

Choice of Des Plaines as the site of the memorial has been widely approved because of the village's historic importance in Methodist history. Church annals indicate that the first circuit riders visited the riverside settlement in 1837, and for the last 80 years it has been the site of the Rock River conference campground.

The Original Hughes.

Original churchman of the Hughes family was the Rev. Thomas Bayles Hughes who served churches in West Virginia and later in Iowa, where he was the hometown pastor of young Philip Bohi's church at Bloomfield. The elder Hughes had two sons, the late Rev. Matthew Simpson Hughes, who became bishop of the Portland, Wash., area, and the Rev. Edwin Holt Hughes, who headed Chicago area Methodism from 1924 to 1932 and is now in Washington, D. C., as senior bishop of the Methodist church.

Hughes senior was the only pastor father in the annals of the church who lived to see two sons raised to the office of bishop.

TROOP OF GIRL SCOUTS DUE TO HOLD '21 PARTY'

Girl Scouts will stake a triple play on the number 21 this week when members of troop 21 celebrate their 21st anniversary on Dec. 21. The northwest group is the oldest troop in the city, founded six years after the inauguration of Girl Scouting 27 years ago. A combination birthday and Christmas party will be celebrated on Thursday night at the Albany Park Methodist church, home of the troop since its founding.

The "21 party," for which Rosemarie Goettsch of 4415 North Francisco avenue is arrangements chairman, will also be a homecoming for old troop members. Miss Helen Baldry is leader of the troop, whose four patrols are headed by Patricia Kuehner, Georgjean Schubert, Doris Rix, and Chairman Goettsch. Party assistants include Anna Lee Hewitt, Lorraine Martinson, Carol Kostner, Dorothy Shackleton, and Delores Sander.

Post-Christmas parties are scheduled by two other northwest troops. Troop 210 of St. Stephen's church will combine its holiday party with candlelight investitures on Dec. 26, when 11 Scouts will receive rank awards from Miss Irene Zmyslony, leader. The party of the Mariner Ship troop on Dec. 26 will be a reunion for crew members and alumnæ of the ship Discovery.

De Paul U. Players to Give Sierra's 'Kingdom of God'

Six northwest players of the De Paul university drama department will appear in the dramatization of Martinez Sierra's "Kingdom of God" at the Goodman theater on Tuesday night. The local students include Isabelle Conrath, Laura Gatkoski, Emanuel Shipowe, Selma Greenberg, Rita Baker, and Issahr Appelman, in a cast supporting Bella Itkin in the leading rôle of Sister Gracia.

Offer Drama Scholarships to Actors at Two Parks

The Lake Zurich Players, a summer student company, has offered a $100 dramatic scholarship to the worthiest amateur actor or actress in the little theaters at Chase and Hamlin parks this winter. The winner to be selected next spring will be given instruction in acting technique and production and an opportunity to take part in productions planned by the Players next July and August.

Queens to Crown Another

Three northwest queens will crown a fourth on Jan. 5 at the third annual Chopin park ice carnival, sponsored by the park tennis club. Already the club has three members admitted to the royalty of pulchritude: (Left to right) Miss Jean Olkowski, "Miss Poland"; Miss Ethel Lobdell, "Miss Greater Chicago," and Miss Jeanne Drake, "America's Sweetest Girl." They will assist in the coronation of a new northwest winter queen to climax the free skating carnival.

TENNIS MATCH ON ICE PART OF PARK PROGRAM

Chopin Winter Queen Is Also to Be Crowned.

Crowning of a new northwest winter queen and a tennis match on ice will be leading attractions at the third annual Chopin park ice carnival being planned by the Park Tennis club for Jan. 5. Three Chicago beauty queens will head the regal ceremonies following an evening program of sports and parading on the park rink on the first Friday night of 1940, "if winter comes."

Ethel Lobdell, "Miss Greater Chicago" in the national bathing beauty contest; Jean Olkowski, "Miss Poland" for 1938, and Jeanne Drake, "Sweetest Girl" of the 1938 national candymakers' convention, are members of the Chopin Park Tennis club and will join to crown the northwest winter queen, according to Mike Stair, general chairman.

The ice carnival is a free amateur event sponsored by the park tennis club of which C. L. Baier is president. Special events in figure and speed skating are being planned.

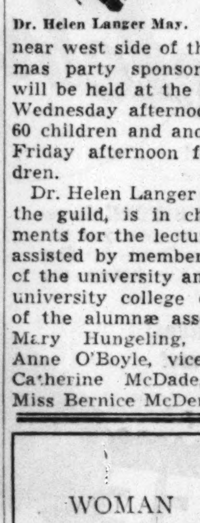
Park officials have approved reservation of the park rink for Jan. 12 and Jan. 19 in the event of weather too mild to permit its freezing to championship form for Jan. 5. Registrations for the various events are being made with William Sutherland, Chopin park director.

GUILD TO HEAR PULITZER PRIZE PLAY READING

A reading of the Pulitzer prize play, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," by Robert E. Sherwood, will be featured at the third program of the Loyola University Service guild series at 8:15 o'clock Wednesday evening in Lyon and Healy concert hall. The play will be read by Miss Ann Birk Kuper, playreader and radio actress.



Dr. Helen Langer May.

Proceeds from the lectures are used to help underprivileged children on the near west side of the city. A Christmas party sponsored by the guild will be held at the University college Wednesday afternoon for more than 60 children and another will be held Friday afternoon for about 40 children.

Dr. Helen Langer May, chairman of the guild, is in charge of arrangements for the lectures. She is being assisted by members of the alumnæ of the university and students of the university college division. Officers of the alumnæ association are Miss Mary Hungeling, president; Miss Anne O'Boyle, vice president; Miss Catherine McDade, secretary, and Miss Bernice McDermot, treasurer.

WOMAN to WOMAN
By Mary Morris

Read general magazines and newspapers today, and scan the advertisements. Aren't there an amazing number of subjects now discussed which a few years back would have been utterly out of place? And most funeral directors, then, would hardly have dared advertise.

Today, however, it seems so logical to point out the merit, for instance, of a particular service. And it doesn't seem at all queer to suggest that people find out facts and costs in advance of need. That's why I'm always telling you how dependable and capable the Halleman Funeral Home organization is . . . 4138 West North Ave.

Recent Bride

[Lincoln Photo.]

Newly married northwest siders at 2641 Walton street are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gudz. The bride is the former Miss Loretta York, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon York of the above address, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Gudz of 815 North Hoyne avenue.

American Ladies' Aid Group to Hold Luncheon Bridge

The December luncheon bridge party of Albany Park branch of the American Ladies' Aid society will be held Tuesday noon at 75 East Wacker drive, with Mrs. Louis Homel as chairman. Mrs. Cecil Bernberg is president of the northwest group now at work on its earning fund campaign.

Alumni to Dance.

Aids Charity Ball

The sixth annual charity ball of the De Paul university secretarial school will be given on Saturday night at the Drake, with Miss Rosemarie Babecki of 1644 North Wolcott avenue serving on the northwest arrangements committee. Other regional assistants include Mariellen Welsh and Lillian Woichiechowski.

WANT KIMBALL AVENUE MADE ONE WAY ROUTE

Northwest Area council of the Chicago Motor club resolved at its monthly meeting last week to send a letter to Ald. George D. Kells [28th], chairman of the city council committee on traffic and public safety, recommending that Kimball avenue be made a one way street. The plan also provides for the conversion of Central Park avenue to a one way street for thru traffic in the opposite direction. Copies were sent to Ald. Matt Porten [34th] and Ald. Walter J. Orlikoski [35th].

The council also went on record as favoring making Austin avenue a thru street. Tentative plans were made to have members of the council meet soon with county highway engineers to discuss plans for the northwest elevated highway.

Those attending the meeting were John H. Kerr, chairman; Vincent C. Rozycki, Bernard S. Molay, Melvin Bieggy, Frank N. Block, J. E. Bulger, James S. Davis, Hugh Donaldson, George J. Eckhoff, H. D. Gearwear, W. W. Luedtke, F. Russell Lyon, Walter H. Miller, William Pasche, Elroy C. Sandquist, John Schwaba, Frank J. Tomczak, Harry G. Weimer, M. H. Wolff, and Helen Trinkler.

ALVERNIA HIGH GIRL IS ELECTED TO TAKE PART OF OLD SANTA

Santa Claus is usually picked for a merry eye and ample midrif, but at Alvernia High school the impersonation is an honor accorded to a school leader each year. Rita Ann Mulhern will be St. Nick at the annual all-school party, for 670 northwest students on Thursday afternoon, as a result of elections held last week by two party host groups, the school band, and the verse-speaking choir.

Miss Rita Ann Mulhern.

She will preside over a program of carols, community singing, holiday skits, and grab bag gifts to mark the last school activity before the Christmas vacation. Miss Mulhern is editor-in-chief of the "Alvernia Gleaner," school publication, and was recently elected president of the senior class.

Party for Children.

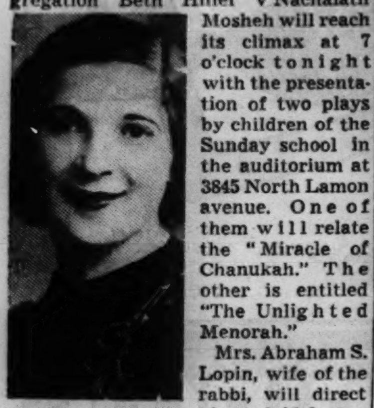
SUNDAY SCHOOL CHILDREN GIVE 2 PLAYS TONIGHT

Chanukah Festival Ends with Performances.

The Chanukah festival at the Congregation Beth Hillel V'Nachalath Mosheh will reach its climax at 7 o'clock tonight with the presentation of two plays by children of the Sunday school in the auditorium at 3845 North Lamon avenue. One of them will relate the "Miracle of Chanukah." The other is entitled "The Unlighted Menorah."



Mrs. Abraham S. Lopin. [J. J. Hille Photo.]

Two silk flags will be given to the congregation by Mr. and Mrs. Zelig Sered. Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts will accept the gift. Bags of candy and refreshments will be distributed to the children in the audience after the plays.

Representatives of three faiths will participate in a symposium on "The American Way" at 8:15 o'clock next Friday night in the Humboldt Boulevard temple, 1908 Humboldt boulevard. The speakers are the Rev. James M. Yard, director of the Chicago Round Table of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Protestant; Prof. Aloysius P. Hodapp of Loyola university, Catholic, and Rabbi David Graubart of the Humboldt Boulevard temple, Jewish.

This afternoon the Junior league will offer a quiz program with prizes to those who can best answer questions. The meeting will be held at 3:30 o'clock in the temple. Those in charge are Al Stone, Dorothy Brodsky, Sydelle Burdick, Herbert Komaiko, and Jerry Schiller.

The Men's club of Temple Beth Israel will hear Robert Lee Straus, author and lecturer, tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock at their meeting at 4850 North Bernard street. Mr. Straus will speak on the "Jewish Contribution to Democracy." Dr. Arthur Elfenbaum and Hyman M. Graber will have charge of the meeting.

Dr. Maurice H. Levine, program chairman of the Albany Park B'nai B'rith, will inject novelty into the meeting next Wednesday night in the Albany Park Masonic temple, Kedzie and Leland avenues, by introducing 10 speakers, each of whom will be permitted to speak for four minutes on any topic he chooses. Henry H. Marks is president of the chapter.

Girls in the Albany Park B'nai B'rith Juniors will model the latest fashions at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Standard club, 320 Plymouth court. Miss Charlene Bloom will offer musical selections. Miss Roselle Stotsky is social chairman.

MOOSE WOMEN PREPARE GIFTS FOR OLD FOLKS

Long distance holiday greetings will be dispatched to Moosehaven at Orange Park, Fla., along with gift collections from northwest Women of the Moose on Tuesday night at Moose hall, 4350 North Pulaski avenue. Miss Loraine Ferris is co-chairman with Miss Louise Sykes for the holiday party, planned by Albany Park chapter, No. 427. John Werremeyer, 5005 North Hamlin avenue, will be guest speaker, representing Pilgrim council of Moose lodge, No. 220. More than 45 jackets made by the northwest Moose auxiliary will be sent to aged residents at the Florida home, according to Miss Helen Johnson, senior regent.

MISS MARGARET DAVIS.

"Chaos and the Way Out," thru peace in the Christmas tradition, is the title of a holiday worship program to be given by the Tuxis and Young People's societies at Norwood Park Presbyterian church tonight. Miss Margaret Davis of Park Ridge will be organist and the mixed chorus will be directed by J. L. McTaggart, with Marcena and Mildred Idle and Jean Shaw as soloists.

Rehearse Good Fellow Sing

Miss Helen Howe, director of music in the Chicago public schools, rehearses six boys and girls who will take part in the fourth annual Chicago public high school Good Fellow half hour choral sing at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. One thousand students will gather around the Christmas tree in the areaway between Tribune Tower and W-G-N radio building for the sing. The first 15 minutes of the concert will be heard on W-G-N. Students pictured here are (back row) Jack Neaylon, Hyde Park High school; Betsy Reed and Ernie Anderson, Austin; (front row) Frances McFall, Hyde Park; Art Foreman, Roosevelt, and Harriet Knudsen, Roosevelt. POLISH GROUP AGAIN RE-ELECTS ITS PRESIDENT

Anthony J. Dembski, 2129 North Damen avenue, was recently reëlected president of the Polish-American club of Chicago for the eighth consecutive year. Mr. Dembski was one of the organizers of the club in 1931.

Other officers are Peter Figiel, first vice president; Joseph S. Janus, second vice president; Carl Holzwart, recording secretary; Joseph E. Idaszak, financial secretary; Bernard Stanislawski, treasurer; Paul V. Pallasch, advocate, and Chester Kaczmarek, sergeant at arms. Directors are Albert Trybula, Stanley C. Mazankowski, John B. Brandt, Walter Polchlopek, and Harry Noncek.

Carl Holzwart, chairman of the entertainment committee, has selected Sunday Feb. 4, as the date for the installation banquet.

Norwood Park Must Wait for Sub-Branch Library

Plans for a subbranch library in Norwood park are being abandoned, according to the announcement of Carl D. Roden, chief librarian of the Chicago public library. Negotiation for a lease of store space at 5995 Nina avenue has failed, and no alternative plans are being considered. Following agitation for library facilities by local civic, school, and business groups, a subbranch location has been planned for opening this week, with Mrs. Bella S. Martin of the Hild branch in charge.

Party Launches School's Golden Jubilee.

The sole survivor of the first class graduated from Josephinum High school in 1895 will be a guest this afternoon at an alumnae party launching the golden jubilee of the pioneer northwest parochial institution, founded in 1890. She is Miss Minnie Klassen of 5930 South State street, who will be on hand to present proceeds of the benefit party to the Sisters of Christian charity for renovation of the old gray stone building at 1515 North Oakley boulevard. Miss Gertrude Stuermer is president of the alumnae association which is collecting the remodeling fund as its anniversary gift to the school.

Miss Gertrude Stuermer. [Sallman Photo.]

More than 1,000 Josephinum alumnae in the Chicago area have been contacted by Miss Stuermer's committee, which includes Miss Betty Hein, Miss Virginia La Pierre, Miss Mary Steder, Miss Margaret Steder, and Miss Anne Bernert. About 250 students are in the current classes.

History of the high school will be read to homecoming alumnae this afternoon to recall the founding of the institution in 1890 under Bishop Patrick Feehan.

Total enrollment the opening year was 50 students, including 28 boarders and 22 day students. Outstanding activity of the next decade was participation in the art and handwork exhibits for the first Chicago fair in 1893.

In 1904 the school received a gift from Mrs. Mary Raymer, alumna, whose Guardian Angel statue, still standing on the school grounds, marked her gratitude for escape from the disastrous Iroquois theater fire. In 1906, when the present annex was begun, each student turned a spade of earth.

Former teachers of Josephinum, in addition to current members of the Sisters of Christian charity faculty, will be guests of the alumnae association today to greet homecoming graduates.

WELFARE BOARD PREPARES GIFTS IN PARK RIDGE

Operating from new holiday quarters in the Pickwick building, the Park Ridge welfare board this week announced plans to present Christmas baskets to approximately 70 local families. Mrs. Charles Grotnes, board president, announced that the food gifts would exceed last year's.

Mrs. Frank Fabbri is chairman of the basket committee which will provide foodstuffs and supervise the wrapping of gift toys repaired by the local fire department after collection by Park Ridge Boy Scouts. Students at Maine High school are assisting the board with a school-wide holiday benefit drive.

The Park Ridge welfare board initiated the supervision of local assistance more than 15 years ago and, since the addition of federal and state relief agencies, has continued to serve as a clearing house for local residents, giving aid in food, fuel, and clothing in emergency cases.

The year round assistance group, headed by Mrs. Grotnes, has a board of 32 Park Ridge citizens, including representatives of all local churches, schools, public offices, clubs, and professions. Byron Casey is vice president; Mrs. Ernest Brown, treasurer, and Mrs. Frank Fabbri, secretary.

Irving Park P.-T. A. Class Due to Hear Book Review

Christmas carols and a book review discussion of "Christ in Concrete," by Pietro di Donato, are scheduled for the program of the Irving Park P.-T. A. education class on Wednesday afternoon. Department members will meet at the home of Mrs. Stanley M. Dunin, 4065 Waveland avenue. Mrs. Hans Howard will be guest book reviser and Miss June Marie Heinrich will sing the carol program.

Mr. W. E. Blend,
Classified Advertising Manager,
The Chicago Tribune

Dear Mr. Blend -

When I read your ad in the Sunday Tribune of October 29, telling how the West Side Buick Sales company had sold 107 used cars, totaling $31,290, at an advertising cost of less than 2%, I started going over our own books to see how our costs compare with that record.

Since October, 1937, we have sold 137 pieces of HOLC property, totaling $885,675 and consisting of 57 residences, 55 two-flats, 24 three-flats and 1 four-flat, ranging in price from $3,600 to $13,300.

Of this number, 129 sales, totaling $841,392, were traceable directly to our classified advertising in the Tribune. As you can see from the following table, this is an advertising cost of one-tenth of 1 percent.

	Tribune	Medium "A"	Medium "B"
Advertising expenditure	$859.68	$102.20	$155.18
Parcels sold by each medium	129	5	3
Total sales	$841,392	$26,575	$17,708
Advertising cost per parcel sold	$6.65	$20.44	$51.72
Advertising percentage cost in each medium	one-tenth of 1 percent	four tenths of 1 percent	eight-tenths of 1 percent

The above record again confirms our previous high opinion of Tribune want ads and, needless to say, we will continue to place the bulk of our advertising appropriation in the medium which gives us such fine returns.

Very truly,

AVERAGE COST OF TRIBUNE WANT ADS PER BUILDING SOLD IS $6.65!

WOULD you spend one dollar for advertising to get $1,000 in sales? Impossible? Not at all—as you will see by the above letter.

Here is striking evidence of the low cost at which Tribune want ads produce high-volume returns for advertisers. The reason for this is not hard to find.

Every day of the week, Tribune total net paid circulation exceeds 1,000,000. More than 780,000 copies of the Tribune are bought seven days of the week right in Chicago and suburbs.

Reaching so many people, the Tribune provides a great want ad marketplace in which buyers in large numbers can be found for practically everything that can be sold, rented, or traded.

Years of satisfactory dealing have accustomed Chicagoans to turn to this marketplace to satisfy their wants—a fact which accounts for the greater returns enjoyed by Tribune want advertisers.

Because they get better returns, want ad users place more total want advertising in the Tribune than they place in all other Chicago newspapers combined. For the same reason, real estate agents and owners likewise place more want advertising in the Tribune than they place in all other Chicago newspapers combined.

To put Tribune want ads on the job getting results for you, call SUPerior 0100—Want Ad-viser. If you prefer, a Tribune representative will call on you at your request.

AMERICAN NOTE WILL DOMINATE YULE ON RADIO

War Cuts Special Pickups from Abroad.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Because of the war Christmas on the air will be different than in other years. For many seasons it has been the custom of the networks to go abroad during the holiday season. Programs have been scheduled from Jerusalem, from Bethlehem, and from other places associated with the story of Christ. And songs of carolers from many nations have been broadcast emphasizing the theme of good will among men.

A decade or more ago Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, chairman of RCA, asserted that radio, more than any other force, had advanced the concept of "Peace on earth, good will toward men." Marconi, the father of radio, envisioned radio as a great force to bring about international understanding and good feeling. The British Broadcasting company once had emblazoned over its portals, "Nation Shall Speak Peace Unto Nation." Even before the war it removed this motto as too hopeful for these times.

No Broadcasts from Bethlehem.

This year it will be harder for radio to emphasize this Utopian idea of radio. Actually the United States, through the nation's short wave stations, is still dwelling on this theme in its transmissions to Latin American countries. Goodwill and neighborliness are stressed.

But there will be no broadcasts from Bethlehem this year. As sober reminders of nations at war broadcasters will send microphones to sites in England, Germany, and France, where children evacuated from danger areas are having their first Christmas away from home.

American listeners may eavesdrop on what they have to say. One traditional short wave broadcast that is to be maintained despite the war is King George's empire broadcast on Christmas day, and Eamon de Valera is to speak from Dublin on Christmas day.

An All American Christmas.

Christmas on the radio will be "All American" in tone this year. And there will be greetings to Americans abroad, shortwaved to the remotest corners of the earth. There will be much Christmas music, colorful religious services and dramatizations of plays and stories that carry the flavor of the season.

President Roosevelt's greetings will be extended from 4 to 4:30 p. m. Sunday, Dec. 24 when W-G-N-Mutual and other chains air the ceremony in connection with the lighting of the National Christmas tree in Washington.

Lionel Barrymore will recreate Dickens' "Scrooge" for the sixth year on the air at Christmas time. Shirley Temple will make her debut as a singer in a broadcast on Christmas eve.

One of the unusual features arranged calls for an appearance of Mrs. Mary Christmas of Racine, Wis., on the First Nighter broadcast on Friday, Dec. 22. Mary Christmas is the founder of a famous Shut-In club with members all over the country and in many foreign lands. She will appear on this program in a dramatization titled "Who Feedth the Stranger." This play, starring Barbara Luddy and Les Tremayne, is based on a case from her files.

Mrs. Christmas is the mother of four children who assist her in her voluminous correspondence with members of the Shut-In club.

The traditional singing of "Silent Night, Holy Night," on NBC on Christmas eve will be done by Marjorie Lawrence, Metropolitan opera prima donna.

Yule Music for W-G-N.

From the studios of W-G-N will come a succession of choirs during the week before Christmas. The voices of these choral groups will echo across the air waves from 5 to 6 nightly.

Here is the schedule:

Tomorrow, the Edgewater Presbyterian mixed church choir, with the W-G-N Concert orchestra under the baton of Henry Weber, and Tenor Attilio Baggiore, and Organist Len Salvo.

Tuesday, the Mundelein College Glee club [girls' chorus], with the W-G-N string orchestra and Marion Schroeder, soprano, and with Salvo at the organ.

Wednesday, the Monumental Baptist church choir, with the W-G-N Concert orchestra directed by Harold Stokes, and with Soprano Edna O'Dell, and with Salvo again at the organ.

Thursday, the Christ Methodist church choir [mixed chorus], with the W-G-N Concert orchestra under Mr. Weber's direction, Soprano Kathryn Witwer, and Organist Len Salvo.

Friday, the United Evangelical Lutheran church choir [mixed chorus] with the W-G-N Concert orchestra and Mr. Weber, and William Miller, tenor, with Salvo at the organ.

Saturday, the First Christian Reformed church choir [mixed chorus], with Basso Mark Love, and Organist Walter Flandorf.

Monday, Dec. 25, the Y. M. C. A. chorus of the National Youth administration, with the W-G-N Concert orchestra under Mr. Weber's direction, and Baritone Lawrence Salerno, with Salvo at the organ.

Broadcast Candlelight Service.

On Sunday, Dec. 24, from 3 to 3:30 p. m., W-G-N and Mutual microphones will be taken to St. James' Protestant Episcopal church in New York where the annual services by candlelight will be broadcast. The choir will be heard, with G. Darlington Richards at the organ.

On Christmas day King George will speak to his subjects from 9 to 9:05 a. m. W-G-N-Mutual will carry this feature.

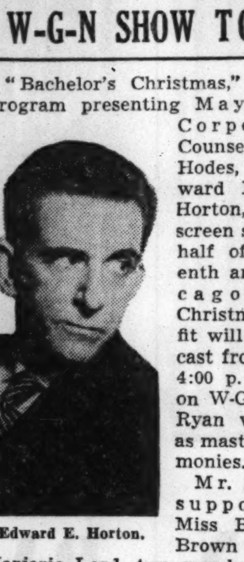
MAYOR KELLY, HODES, EDWARD E. HORTON ON W-G-N SHOW TODAY

"Bachelor's Christmas," a special program presenting Mayor Kelly, Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes, and Edward Everett Horton, stage and screen star, in behalf of the seventh annual Chicago's Own Christmas Benefit will be broadcast from 3:45 to 4:00 p. m. today on W-G-N. Quin Ryan will serve as master of ceremonies.



Edward E. Horton.

Mr. Horton, supported by Miss Barbara Brown and Miss Marjorie Lord, two members of the cast of "Springtime for Henry," will present a specially prepared playlet on the charity theme, with Mayor Kelly and Mr. Hodes participating. Miss Helen Westbrook will provide an organ accompaniment.

JAN PEERCE IS SOLOIST TODAY IN MUSIC HALL

Jan Peerce, tenor, will be guest soloist with the String symphony during the Radio City Music Hall on the Air, at 11 a. m. over WCFL. Peerce will sing the "Flower Song" from Bizet's opera, "Carmen," and "Le Soliel et la Mer," by Fourdrain. As an added feature, Elias Carmen of the Music Hall symphony will play the First Movement of Mozart's Concerto for Bassoon and Orchestra in B-flat Major. Erno Rapee will direct the orchestra in Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 2, and Wagner's "Siegfried Idyll."

CHRISTMAS NOTE ON TWO WEBER HOURS THIS WEEK

'Hansel and Gretel' Music on Thursday.

The Pageant of Melody, conducted by Henry Weber, will present a program of classical music commemorative of the approaching Christmas from 9:30 to 10:15 p. m. tomorrow on W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system. Atillio Baggiore and the octet will sing.

Baggiore will sing Paul Juon's "Panis Angelicus" and "The Lord Is My Light," by Frances Allitzen. The octet will do "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," by Johann Bach, and "O Praise Ye the Lord," by Cesar Franck.

Numbers to be played by the concert orchestra will be "Overture Athalia," by Mendelssohn; "Espana Rhapsody," by Alexis Chabrier, and "Cathedrale Englontie," by Claude Debussy.

Themes from the Christmas opera, "Hansel and Gretel," by Humperdinck, will comprise the program of the Concert Revue, directed by Mr. Weber, from 9:30 to 10 p. m. Thursday on W-G-N and the Mutual network. Kathryn Witwer, Mark Love, Harriet Brewer, and the octet will be the vocalists.

Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, archdiocesan administrator of Chicago and national director of the Catholic Youth organization, will be guest speaker at a special program dedicated to the Chicago Tribune Good Fellows Christmas campaign on "Your Sunday Date" from 8 to 8:30 tonight on W-G-N. Six hundred Good Fellow workers, as well as the radio audience, will hear Bishop Sheil speak on the subject of charity.

The musical portion of the program will feature the singing of Edna O'Dell, Lawrence Salerno, and the Four Shades of Blue with the W-G-N Dance orchestra directed by Harold Stokes.

Edna O'Dell will sing "A Penthouse for Rent" and "Last Night." Salerno will sing "At the Balalaika," and will join the chorus in "South of the Border."

The Four Shades of Blue will present the hit tune, "Stop! It's Wonderful." Numbers to be played by the orchestra include "Bambalina," "Scatterbrain," "Traffic Jam," and "Rock and Roll."

"Romance in Rhythm," conducted by Mr. Stokes, will feature Edna O'Dell and Curt Massey in a varied program of popular melodies from 9:30 to 10:15 p. m. Wednesday on W-G-N and the Mutual system.

Curt Massey will do the hit tune, "I didn't Know What Time It Was," and "Lilacs in the Rain." Miss O'Dell will sing "Speaking of Heaven" and will join the chorus in "One Cigaret for Two."

CAMPAIGN OF 1940 TO BE SUBJECT OF REVIEW STAND

The 1940 presidential campaign will be discussed on the Northwestern university reviewing stand this morning. Dr. A. R. Hatton, chairman of the department of political science, and Dr. Earl H. DeLong, professor of political science, both political commentators, will analyze the probable issues in the coming campaign. The broadcast will be aired over W-G-N-Mutual from 10:15 to 10:30 a. m.

Listeners have been invited to send in their opinions on two questions: "Are the major political parties playing politics with the war? What do you think the important issues in the 1940 election will be?" Hatton and DeLong will comment on listeners' viewpoints.

The Four Notes

ALLAN DEWITT MAKES HIT WITH TOMMY DORSEY

Allan DeWitt, the new singer with Tommy Dorsey's orchestra, heard regularly over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system from the Palmer House, perhaps has found a permanent job with the band.

DeWitt was hired to take the place of Jack Leonard, the regular vocalist, who is on leave of absence because of illness. Leonard is not expected to return to his job in front of the band and before the W-G-N-Mutual microphones for several weeks.

When Leonard became ill, DeWitt flew to Chicago for an audition. He was unknown then, but already his fan mail is now greater than that of any other performer at the hotel.

DeWitt was slated for a job with Bob Chester's orchestra after Leonard returns, but, if the present response continues, Dorsey says he will keep Allan on, and have him share the spotlight with Jack. Anita Boyer continues the feminine songstress.

FEUERMANN TO BE SOLOIST TODAY WITH SYMPHONY

Barbirolli to Conduct N. Y. Philharmonic.

Emanuel Feuermann, eminent cellist, will be the soloist during the New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra's broadcast from 2 to 3:30 p. m. today over WBBM-CBS. Deems Taylor will be the intermission commentator. John Barbirolli will conduct the orchestra.

Feuermann is to play the Haydn cello concerto in D Major in its original edition. Barbirolli also will conduct Ravel's two "Daphnis and Chloe" suites, which he has combined by employing nine measures from the first suite as a bridge between the two.

The program also includes Nicolai's "The Merry Wives of Windsor" overture and the Adagietto from Symphony No. 5 of Gustav Mahler.

Owing to the death, Dec. 8, of Ernest Schelling, noted composer-pianist and conductor of the Philharmonic-Symphony Young People's concerts, the broadcast program of Saturday, Dec. 23, and the name of Mr. Schelling's successor as conductor, are to be announced this week.

Another change in the orchestra's schedules is made necessary by the illness of Georges Enesco, who was to return as guest conductor for his fourth season with the Dec. 31 broadcast.

Barbirolli has delayed his vacation plans to take over in Enesco's stead that day and the following Sunday, Jan. 7, the Russian composer-pianist and conductor, Igor Stravinsky is to direct the orchestra over CBS.

THINK OF NEW WAYS TO KILL? TELL THE SHADOW

Radio is an ingenious business. Its script writers evidently work on streamlined typewriters, punching the keys of tomorrow to draft ideas that might appeal to a Martian.

Take the various ways criminals die in "The Shadow" program broadcast over W-G-N and Mutual at 4:30 p. m. every Sunday:

A criminal, killed by a kiss of a jackdaw with a cyanide-tipped beak; a Great Dane who ate up the killer midget; the trained gorilla who cracked his criminal master's skull with a finger thump on the temple; the mechanical man who crushed his Frankenstein creator; the poisoned fog that enveloped a jewel gang and choked them to death before they could sell the pearls they stole—all of those ideas have been used to do away with criminals on "The Shadow" program.

If you think of any better way, the Shadow sponsor is open to suggestion.

Cleveland Students on American Youth Hour

Cleveland Heights High school students will be featured in the Music and American Youth program at 10:30 a. m. over WMAQ. The school's 90 piece orchestra will play the "Three Brothers Overture" and "All Glory to God on High." The Cleveland Heights a cappella choir of 68 voices will sing "Beautiful Saviour" and "Willie, Take Your Drum." The Roosevelt Junior High School Girls' Glee club will join the choir in singing "Christmas Eve" by Wayne Howorth.

In "Bystanders"

Leola Bailey, who is heard over W-G-N in "The Guilty Bystanders" from 8:45 to 9 p. m. Fridays. She takes the role of Mrs. Martin Yorke in the serial play, which is a dramatization of a novel by Rupert Hughes of the same name. A pictorialized version of the story appears each week in the Graphic section of the Sunday Tribune.

INTEGRITY TO BE THEME TODAY OF DE PAUL PROGRAM

"Meditation and Melody," aired by De Paul university in coöperation with the University Broadcasting council, will touch on the theme, "Personal Integrity," in its broadcast from 2 to 2:30 p. m. today on W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Morris Gomberg, violinist, will be guest soloist. Numbers to be played by the W-G-N concert orchestra under the direction of Henry Weber will include "The Lotus Land," by Cyril Scott, and "The Elegy." Prof. J. M. Phelps of the De Paul English department and Harry D. Taft, assistant dean of the College of Law, will discuss "Personal Integrity."

Mary Marshall Guest on Steelmakers' Show Today

Mary Marshall, soprano, of Moundsville, W. Va., whose brother, Harry, is employed at the Benwood mills, and Russell Gates, an employé in the main office of Wheeling Steel, will be two guest stars on W-G-N and Mutual's Musical Steelmakers broadcast from 4 to 4:30 p. m. today. Mary will sing "Someday" from the "Vagabond King." Gates will sing "Does Your Heart Beat for Me?"

Here's How to Lose Ugly Fat

If you want to take off ugly fat easily and pleasantly all you have to do is—

First . . . eat sensibly, which means you avoid over-eating. Second . . mix ¾ of a glass of Welch's Grape Juice with ¼ of a glass of water and drink before meals and at bedtime. Thus you reduce caloric intake considerably. But you do not suffer a hungry moment. There are no strict diet lists, strenuous exercises or taking drugs. Yet!—in a test conducted by Dr. Damrau of New York, with this method among a group of intelligent and coöperative people who followed directions implicitly, an average weight loss of seven pounds was registered per month. This remarkable method is just as beneficial and effective for overweight men as it is for overweight women. There is only one thing to watch. Eat sensibly, which means you avoid over-eating; and be sure to use Welch's Grape Juice—always made from the pick of the grape crop; always full strength; always pure.

Irene Rich, lovely star of the screen and radio, now past 40, weighs the same as she did at 16. She recommends the easy Welch way to reduce.

News and Queries Within and Without the Church —A Religious Voice of the People— Edited by the Rev. John Evans

The Rev. Karl H. Meyer.

How many Protestant churches are necessary to serve the half million persons in Englewood, Auburn Park, and adjacent communities? If you count them you will find about 160 which are affiliated with a score of denominations.

Such figures are all right as far as they go, but these figures fail to tell the story of a church work program which, in a sense, means just one church with a score of branches and about 160 group or congregational units.

At least, we asked the chairman of the Englewood Church-Y. M. C. A. Coöperative program, the Rev. Karl H. Meyer of Grace Evangelical church, Albany avenue and 60th street, what the unique church program of that community meant. He did not exactly say there was only one church but explained that a single work program is coming close to embracing the work programs of the coöperating local churches.

Add it up, now! How many churches?

For convenience, here is the record for 11 months of 1939:

Schools of leadership training. Leaders of 30 churches enrolled.

United Good Friday services. Five services and 59 churches coöperating.

South Town Church hour. Daily Monday radio services, 168 local ministers of 20 denominations coöperating. Nearly three years on stations WHIP and WWAE.

Ministers' association held nine monthly meetings, and Sunday school superintendents' association held three meetings.

The Rev. Mr. Meyer said the unprecedented interdenominational coöperation is based on the jobs to be done rather than upon varied theoretical methods of procedure in undertaking the jobs, or upon defined philosophy that may identify the jobs. Each local church, he added, may come into the program of work so far as it wants to do so. It may coöperate in just one activity if it wishes—and still vote in the annual meetings of the program.

Speaking of Christmas Greetings, here is one from the Rev. Howard E. Ganster, rector of Christ Episcopal church, Waukegan:

"Merry Christmas and Happy New Year from the Rectory Gan[g]sters, Edward, Jim, and Bill."

The Rev. James O'May, pastor of Avondale Methodist church, has installed five radio receiving sets in his church so that his Sunday school may hear "The Living Bible," broadcast by Station W-G-N each Sunday morning at 9:45 under the auspices of the Chicago Bible society. Getting the pupils to Sunday school on time is no longer a problem, the Avondale pastor says.

When the Rev. George W. Goebel announces his sermon text this morning, veteran members of his congregation may remember that he used the same text just 20 years ago today when he began his pastorate at Christ Evangelical church, Des Plaines. He said he chose the old text purposely to show that after two tumultuous decades of world history he still holds to the enduring, "For I Am Not Ashamed of the Gospel of Christ." Romans I., 16.

Christmas carols are not yet all written. The latest contribution to this literature is from Dr. Norman E. Richardson of Presbyterian Theological Seminary faculty. The first stanza is:

I hear in the air, as if angels were near,
The notes of a song that no mortal could sing.
It tells of a Savior in Bethlehem born,
Whose name shall be Wonderful, Prophet, and King.

The words are set to a Dutch melody arranged by T. Le Baron Bearse, which has all the flavor of a volkslied and therefore is suited to congregational singing. The air lies wholly an octave within the staff of the Treble clef. The three upper voices are in close harmony, making the carol available as a trio.

If radio's slim fingers can pluck a melody
From night and toss it over continent and sea;
If the petaled notes of a violin
Are blown across a mountain or a city's din;
If songs like crimson roses are culled from thin blue air,
Why should we mortals wonder if God hears prayer?

Found among the papers of the late William B. Read, former lay official of St. Paul's-by-the-Lake Episcopal church, Ashland and Estes avenues.

SICK CHILDREN ARE REMEMBERED BY GARDEN CLUB

Candy filled Christmas stockings and bags of gift toiletries are being forwarded this week to the Children's Memorial hospital by the Village Garden club of Barrington, which opened the new club year under its newly elected officers this month. Gifts for Chicago area institutions are being forwarded thru the Chicago Plant, Flower and Fruit guild, for which Mrs. W. W. Seaverns is the Barrington club chairman, assisted by Mrs. E. B. Collins, Mrs. H. R. Homuth, Mrs. R. M. Jurs and Mrs. L. F. O'Neill. New president of the club, which maintains a year round schedule, is Mrs. R. G. Plagge.

THERE'S A WAY FOR HEALTHFUL AIR IN ANY HOME

Humidifiers Aid Winter Comfort and Safety.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

What more welcome Christmas present to a house or apartment than something for its air? Too dry air which steals moisture from everything it touches will then become a memory, our fuel bills less, our health better.

Units for winter air conditioning can be as easy to look at and as comely and clean as that range in our kitchen, or that refrigerator, water heater, or sink.

In the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Kramer, 627 Clinton place, Evanston, a home designed and built a year and a half ago by Everett Hughes, architect of Highland Park, there are two modern types of radiator heating units. In one end of the living room, there is a slender type radiator designed to occupy little space and provide all the features of radiator heating; conduction, convection, and radiation.

Unit Well Concealed.

At the opposite end of the same room, there's a modern air conditioning unit for year round use. It is designed to harmonize with bookshelves on both sides so that one would not know that any unit existed. For winter use this unit heats, humidifies, filters, and ventilates. For summer use, when connected with a cooling medium, it will cool, dehumidify, filter, and ventilate.

Such a unit can be installed in an existing home or apartment which has radiator heat. Cooling coils can be included at a moderate cost, and then at some later date, at the owner's convenience, the cooling medium can be supplied.

Right now, and for the months ahead, we are interested primarily in units which will give our rooms needed humidity.

If winter air conditioning is to be successful, the right amount of moisture must be added to the air. If we have too much, we will have steamed windows. If we have too little we will be more liable to colds and respiratory ills.

Ways to Add Moisture.

There are a number of ways we can add moisture to our rooms; that is, if we have no warm air heating system which supplies moisture to our air, or a radiator system which has been given no auxiliary air conditioning until, humidifying unit or humidifying radiator.

There are the familiar radiator pans and attachments for radiators. There are the radiator covers and cabinets which contribute to our indoor humidity.

There are humidifiers which can be added to an existing warm air furnace, automatically controled to prevent oversaturation in severely cold weather, and automatically fed with water, so they do not have to be hand tended.

There are humidifiers which can be attached to hot water and steam radiators, take the place of air valves and automatically humidify the room. These are inexpensive and easy to install, costing in some cases under $4.

For Apartment Homes.

It goes without saying that if one is building a new home, some provision for winter humidification probably will be made. But for the large number of people who aren't building a new home, or even modernizing their existing one in the immediate future, and the many people who are living in apartments and hotel rooms, there are increasing ways of giving air moisture to one or more rooms, so that during the winter, floors won't be so likely to develop creaks, wallpaper to crack, paint to chip, doors to warp, and plants to wither and die.

Electric humidifiers come in handsome forms. There are large cabinet models, with evaporating capacities of five gallons a day. If you don't really know how thirsty your air is, you would be surprised at how many gallons of water per day a six or seven room home can "drink" and yet not get oversaturated.

There are cabinets with automatic humidistat control. You set the dial to the relative humidity you wish, say 45 or 50 per cent, and when this point is reached, it will automatically switch off the motor.

Will Play Musical Glasses at Salvation Army Party

Holiday tunes played on musical glasses by Maj. Kaleb Johnson, Cragin corps commander, will be featured at the Christmas party for 500 northwest children on Friday night, when the Salvation Army entertains at headquarters of the Humboldt Park corps, 1710 North California avenue. Col. Tom Gabrielsen, head of the Army's Scandinavian division, will be guest speaker.

Give Vesper Program.

Directed by Miss Alma Schock, head of the music department, the Elgin High school annual Christmas vesper program will be presented this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the high school auditorium.

Seeks Title of Queen

Miss Mary Margaret Wojtalewicz, 4029 Roscoe street, is a candidate for the title of queen of Pi Alpha Lambda, arts social fraternity at Loyola university. The successful candidates will be chosen at the annual formal Christmas dance, which the fraternity is holding next Tuesday night at the Electric club in the Civic Opera building. Her escort will be Edward Dolazinski, 4434 North Tripp avenue.

[Koehne Photo.]

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Dec. 18.

If a humidifier is attached to the radiator the humidity in a room will be increased and plants will do better. It is almost impossible to grow plants in such a dry atmosphere as is found in the average room. However, by careful selection, a window filled with plants may be had. Examples of these are the rubber plants because their thick, leathery leaves can be washed with soapy water once a week to cleanse them.

Tuesday, Dec. 19.

Do not use tallow candles on Christmas trees, for they catch fire. Use electric lights. It is time to apply the slight mulch to the lawn. Peat is an excellent material to use, for it contains no weed seeds and may be obtained from many sources. The old fruit tree may be grafted with fine varieties if the scions are cut now, buried outdoors, and used in early spring. Grafting apple trees is interesting, gives the home gardener an opportunity to exhibit his skill, and opens a new avenue of experimentation. Do not neglect to protect the trunks of young trees against rodents. Fine meshed wire fencing, tar paper or a collar of tin may be used. Rabbits do much damage if permitted to attack trees.

Wednesday, Dec. 20.

It is easy to obtain a few plants from the bunch of roses that have decorated the house by making cuttings of the stems. Cut with a sharp knife close to and below a leaf bud, leaving one leaf above, place the base in a pot of sand, water well, and cover with a Mason jar. Give sufficient air to prevent an excess of moisture in the jar. Carnation cuttings can be made from the growths that appear along the flower stems. Cut back coleus and other plants that tend to grow spindly. Cutting back the stems will produce a more compact, sturdy growth. Give full light to house plants during the winter.

Have you tried growing the dwarf callas? They make interesting plants and have good foliage with small flowers. The standard calla also is an excellent house plant with fine tropical foliage.

Thursday, Dec. 21.

Examine the roots and bulbs that are stored to see if they are keeping in good condition. Cover leaves to prevent blowing away. Often the cover is insecurely placed and mulched plants are exposed which may prove injurious during the spring freeze and thaw. Glass wool makes an excellent mulch for many kinds of plants. It can be used over again.

Friday, Dec. 22.

Pot Christmas peppers and Jerusalem cherries should not be allowed to dry out or the leaves will soon fall. Coal and illuminating gas affects the foliage of these plants, causing it to fall. Keep primroses and cyclamen in a cool place. Why not start a few pussy willows in water? They are fine for bouquets.

Saturday, Dec. 23.

Bring all garden furniture indoors. Cover statuary with waterproof material. Take care of the tools by oiling and painting all parts requiring it. Store all garden accessories indoors to prevent injury during winter. Keep after all insect pests that appear on the house plants. Keep a regular spraying schedule and these pests will cease giving trouble. Wash palm leaves with soapy water to kill scale insects. Recommended sprays are available at supply houses. Some perennials require extra precautions to bring them thru the winter safely.

RACING PIGEONS VIE FOR HONORS TODAY IN SHOW

500 N. West Side Birds Entered in Contest.

More than 500 homing pigeons from northwest side lofts will compete today for "best bird in show" honors at the first winter show sponsored by the North End Concourse association, composed of the Irving Park Homing Pigeon club and the Rogers Park Flying club.

The meet, designed as a between-season amusement for fanciers, will be held in the association's headquarters hall at 3935 North Kedzie avenue.

Enter Racing Birds.

Fifty members of the sponsoring association and its two member groups will enter racing birds from their home lofts, which include from 25 to 75 pigeons each. Concourse president is Joseph Hartley, also head of the Rogers Park unit, and its secretary is Fred Smith, with Elmer Schroeder of the Irving Park group as race secretary.

George Bartel heads the Irving Park club which Mr. Schroeder serves as secretary. Alex Petrie and Frank Mennes are recording and racing secretaries, respectively, for the Rogers Park fanciers.

First Show in Area.

Today's show is the first held on the northwest side and the third Chicago event for pigeon racers in recent years. Birds, which are raced for distances of 80 to 1,000 miles in outdoor events during the summer, will be judged on racing qualities and homing ability.

The North End bird owners are members of the Greater Chicago Concourse, composed of nine associations affiliated with the American Racing Pigeon union, and flying birds with the "AU" band authorized for members' racing pigeons.

Choristers at North Park to Present Two Concerts

Christmas worship in song is the theme of two programs at North Park college this week, when Dean E. Clifford Toren will lead a student chorus of 150 voices in yuletide music, accompanied by the student symphony orchestra directed by Ebba Sundstrom. Tomorrow night's concert will be a preview for single ticket holders of the regular Tuesday evening series concert the following night.

MAINE STUDENTS TO PROVIDE 100 FOOD BASKETS

Needy Families Will Get Christmas Cheer.

Students at Maine Township High school expect to deliver 100 baskets containing food and gifts to needy families in their community this Christmas. Officers of the Girls' and Boys' clubs who are supervising the Christmas charity have requested each room to prepare two baskets.

Canned goods, milk, staple groceries, and gifts for each member in the needy families will be donated by students. Perishable goods such as meat, butter, and eggs will be purchased with funds raised by a dance next Thursday afternoon and with pennies collected in boxes in the cafeteria during the last few weeks.

Welfare chairman of the Girls' club is Doris Jackson and John Spangler is welfare chairman of the Boys' club. Faculty advisers are Miss Louise Wood for the girls and Milo S. Johnston for the boys.

Representatives who are supervising the basket campaign include:

EDGEWOOD CLUB OFFERS PARTY THIS AFTERNOON

The Edgewood Community club will hold its annual Christmas party at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the Edgebrook Country club, Central avenue near Indian road. Toys and gifts will be distributed to the children.

Members have arranged a home talent show with the following performers scheduled to appear: Joan Busch, Marion Stadtler, and Warren Wellens, pianists; Fred Schmeissing and Leonard Lewandowski, violinists; Carol Jean Langley and Marilyn and Wanda Fischer, dancers, and Emily Medal, whistler.

Mrs. Barbara Bialk is chairman of the committee. Assisting her are Mrs. Ruth Schultz and Mrs. Rose Schnetzler.

—Lane—

Company D's entry won the intraregiment platoon contest in the Lane Tech R. O. T. C. unit recently. The platoon, which was commanded by Second Lieutenant Paul Varde, was adjudged the best drilled and most advanced in theory by two guest judges—Sergt. Elza Nance, military instructor at Schurz High school, and Sergt. John Delaney, assistant military instructor at Lake View. Commander of Company D is Capt. Albert Moeng. Members of the winning platoon are Platoon Sergt. John Letterer, Platoon Guide Leonard Ellman, Corporals George Gieser, Fred Espovich, and Russell Eggert, and Cadets Robert Gross, George Erhbach, Le Roy Fischer, Sidney Mortens, Edward Donkin, George Pitner, Myron Heck, Raymond Rads, Joseph Biancalana, Arthur Seeber, Paul Weiss, Frank Uhlman, Robert Sell, Steve Goshinski, Franklin Wellhausen, and John Mache.

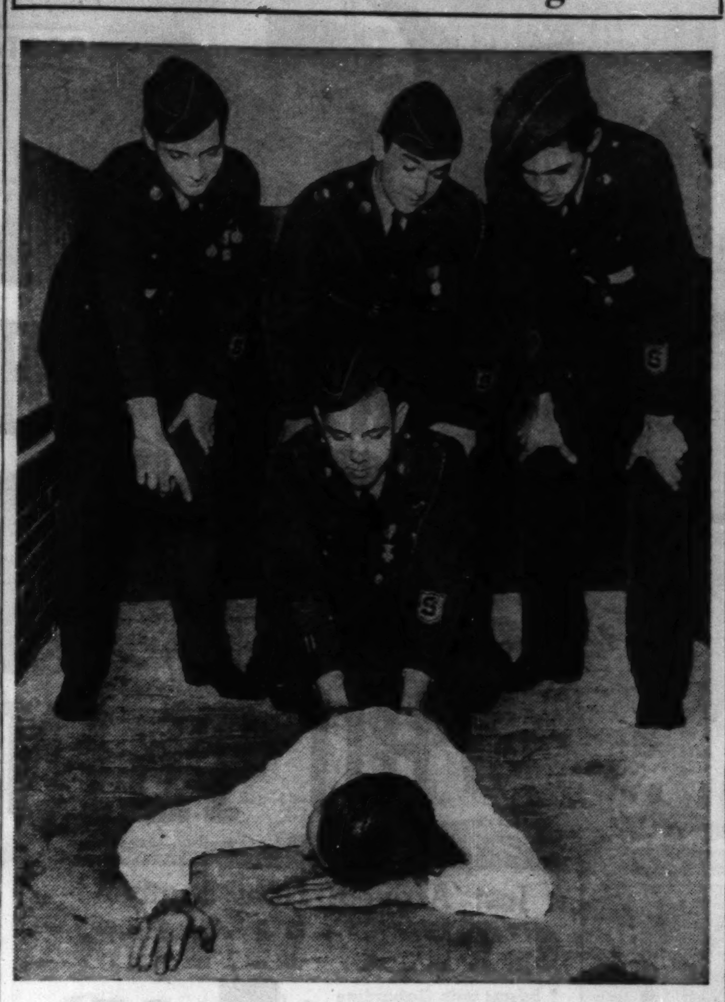
—Roosevelt—

Warrants and commissions were presented to 17 Roosevelt High school R. O. T. C. cadets recently by Staff Sergeant Joseph V. Ackerman, military instructor. Heading the list are Capts. Richard Sodeberg and Theodore Wendland. New "noncoms" are 1st Sergt. Charles Massey, Sergts. Herbert Fox and George Simpson, and Corps. Robert Bruce, Paul Burtness, Herbert Feldman, Jack Hollander, Irving Katz, Joseph Liebl, Ralph Lindemann, Jerome Loeb, Alexander Shimansky, Arnold Tamarin, John Wolf, and Milton Wright.

Talk on Sanitation.

J. M. Mercer, Sanitary District engineer, will describe a "Half Century of Sanitation in Chicago" tomorrow night at the Division street Y. M. C. A., 1621 Division street.

Cadet Revival Meeting



Cadets often "play dead" in the R. O. T. C. at Steinmetz High school, but there's method in their deadness. They act as subjects for instruction in artificial respiration, a phase of first aid all cadets must become versed in before they complete their course. Second Lieutenant Joseph Adams is the cadet "reviving" Sergt. James Walters on the floor for the benefit of (left to right) Cadet Russell Jane, First Lieutenant William Stewart, and Cadet William Parisoli. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

BOYS TO SING OVER RADIO ON FRIDAY MORNING

Twenty northwest choristers will sing over the air Friday morning on the 12th annual Christmas program of the Rev. Francis C. Young of St. Philomena church, 1921 North Kedvale avenue, as a feature of the National Farm and Home hour at 11:30 o'clock. The pastor will read original poems, with the boys' holiday songs as a yuletide accompaniment. The singers are John Bodenbender, Edmund Bouchez, Norman Carsello, William Clark, Bernard Connelly, Robert Einweck, George Foster, Joseph Ginley, Frank Kern, Thaddeus Kolski, Frank Kornfeind, Gerald Kramer, William LaVey, Henry Maibusch, Fred Mueller, James Olsen, Alfred Skibbe, Frank Tomaszewski, Norbert Williams, and John Butler.

Athletic Club Auxiliary Will Entertain Children

The ladies' auxiliary of the Logan Square Athletic club will entertain member children at its annual Christmas party on Thursday night in the women's club rooms at 2635 North Kedzie avenue. Mrs. Marie Poggensee is arrangements chairman, assisted by Mrs. Mae Bredberg and Mrs. Hy Voekel.

3 INSTITUTIONS TO HAVE PLAYS BY JUVENILES

Mothers' Drama Club Is to Be Sponsor.

Mrs. Henry J. Hartung.

"A double surprise" will be in store for three Chicago institutions this week and next as juvenile players sponsored by the Mothers' Drama club give a Christmas play of that title for the Illinois Eye and Ear infirmary on Thursday, for the Martha Washington home on Friday, and for the Park Ridge School for Girls on Dec. 29. Mrs. Henry J. Hartung of 2848 North Seminary avenue is president of the mothers' group, and Mrs. Katherine Atz is dramatic coach.

Cast of "A Double Surprise" includes Patricia and Kathleen Kane, David Walter, Dion and Frances Luper, Marylyn Stone, Shirley Peters, Gabriel Berrafato, and Loraine La Brecque. A second play, titled "Jocie's Christmas," will be given for three institutions, with a cast of 11 northwest children, Arlene Lindstrom, Lenore Lenzer, Rose Anna Altemeyer, Frances Koch, Carol Ann Snip, Shirley Peters, Marylyn Stone, Kathleen Kane, Gabriel Berrafato, Loraine LaBrecque, and Kenneth Atz.

Additional dates for the club's touring players are Dec. 27, when their Christmas sketches will be shown at the Lake Shore fieldhouse for neighborhood children, and Jan. 14, when they will entertain inmates of the Oak Forest infirmary. The five play dates are annual events on the juvenile Christmas program.

Mothers' club offices assisting Mrs. Hartung and Mrs. Atz with the yuletide visitations include Mrs. Charles Azlin, treasurer; Mrs. E. C. Frank, secretary; Mrs. Opal Altemeyer, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Carmella La Cavera, vice president.

BUILDERS' GROUP TO GREET NEW OFFICIAL STAFF

Victor E. Moessinger will be installed as master builder of Jefferson Park chapter of the Order of the Builders tomorrow night in the Masonic temple at 5418 Gale avenue.

The other officers are Kenneth Wilson, deputy master builder; Richard Ritchie Jr., senior inspector; Jack Zechlin, junior inspector; Raymond Heidorn, secretary; Arthur Barber, treasurer; Willard Jefferies, senior overseer; Floyd C. F. Hauerrberg, junior overseer; Stanley Gustafson, chaplain; Edward Stipek, marshal; Reinhold Bendahl, first steward; Harry Meinke, second steward; Kenneth Wang, third steward; Jacob Teschke Jr., fourth steward, and Linus Lademann, sentinel.

Merchant to Act as Santa to 1,500 Children Friday

Abe Rubin, near northwest side merchant, will play Santa Claus to some 1,500 neighborhood children next Friday at a party in his store, 1314 Milwaukee avenue. The third floor will be converted to a temporary theater where moving pictures and vaudeville acts will be offered from 11 a. m. until 3 p. m. Candy and ice cream will also be distributed. Mr. Rubin has been giving Christmas parties for children for the last six years.

WERE YOU TRYING TO GET IN THERE?
THAT SIGN MEANS YOU SHOULD KEEP AWAY. FROM THAT ROOM TILL CHRISTMAS!!
YETH, MAM
KEEP OUT UNTIL XMAZ
HEY, WHAT'S THE IDEA OF THAT SIGN ON OUR BEDROOM DOOR?
IT'S JUST LIKE MA'S SIGN-IT MEANS NOBODY ELSE CAN COME IN HERE UNTIL CHRISTMAS!
OH, HAVE YOU GOT PRESENTS HIDDEN IN HERE?
NO, DON'T YER CATCH ON? NOW WE WON'T HAVE TO MAKE OUR BEDS, AND HANG UP OUR CLOTHES, UNTIL CHRISTMAS!
NOT BAD, EH?

Camels

There's no finer gift for those who smoke cigarettes than Camels. You can be sure your choice is wise—for more people enjoy Camels than any other brand. And when you give Camels you're giving the milder, cooler smoking of Camel's matchless blend of long-burning costlier tobaccos. Your dealer is featuring Camels in a choice of two attractive gift packages—200 Camels in each. There's lots of cheer in smoking Camels—and in giving Camels!

Prince Albert

If he smokes a pipe then he's bound to appreciate a gift of Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco—the largest-selling smoking tobacco in the world. Prince Albert is the famous cooler-smoking pipe tobacco that's made extra mild and extra tasty by special "crimp cut" and "no-bite" treatment. There's so much pleasure in giving Prince Albert because you know your gift will please. So, for pipe-smokers, this Christmas, give Prince Albert—the National Joy Smoke!

After a hectic trip in an old car, Tim and his mother finally arrive at Magnolia Manor, their recent inheritance
IT CAN'T BE-
BUT LOOK-THE SIGN SAYS MAGNOLIA MANOR-
AND TO THINK WE'VE TRAVELED ALL THIS WAY-AND FOR WHAT? NOTHING BUT A TUMBLED-DOWN SHACK!
GOSH-EVERY WINDOW IN THE HOUSE BROKE!
I DON'T SEE ANY SERVANTS AROUND, MOM-
WELL-WE MIGHT AS WELL GO IN-AFTER ALL, IT BELONGS TO US NOW-JUST LOOK AT THESE ROOMS - THE FURNITURE A COMPLETE WRECK-AND EVERYTHING COVERED WITH DUST-
HERE'S A CHAIR THAT LOOKS ALL RIGHT, MOM-
BE CAREFUL, TIM! YOU'LL HURT YOURSELF-CRACK!
THAT SETTLES IT! WE'RE LEAVING HERE AT ONCE-
OH, MOM-CHEER UP-WE CAN FIX THIS PLACE-WHY, ALL THIS CHAIR NEEDS IS A LITTLE GLUE-
VERY WELL-IT'S GETTING LATE-I SUPPOSE WE CAN STAND IT FOR ONE NIGHT-I ONLY HOPE THERE ARE BEDS UPSTAIRS-
HO HUM! AND AM I TIRED-
BUT TOMORROW MORNING WE'RE LEAVING THIS PLACE-
SH-H-LISTEN-SOUNDS LIKE SOMEBODY'S UPSTAIRS-
NONSENSE, TIM-WHY, NO ONE HAS LIVED IN THIS HOUSE FOR YEARS-OH, YES-THERE HAS-

DAY by DAY on the FARM

By BOB BECKER

Bird Banding.

December 16, 1939.

SO far the juncos, chickadees, and other birds which stay in Chicagoland wood lots each winter haven't become accustomed to the new feeding station on the Du Page county farm. One wire trap caught many of the migrating birds when it was operated this spring and summer as a ground trap, but now this same outfit has been moved to a winter location on a feeding platform where the birds apparently aren't much interested in it.

A number of juncos have been feeding at this platform, but so far not one has gone into the trap. The trap will be operated for another week, then if it doesn't attract birds some experimenting will be done.

One of the ambitions of every bird bander is to attract birds which have been banded by some one else in another part of the country. But it isn't often that a banded bird will make its appearance in a trap. Karl Bartel, for instance, operates a banding station in Blue Island and has banded over 14,000 birds during the last six years. But only 12 of these were birds which had been banded by another ornithologist. Of course many of the birds which he has banded have returned to his own station. Some have returned several times.

Catbird Is Regular.

One of the interesting records listed by Mr. Bartel's reports is that of a catbird which comes back to his station so regularly each year that it has the rating of star boarder. Bartel first trapped this catbird Aug. 20, 1933. The same bird returned each May for five straight years. It reported May 20, 1934; May 20, 1935; May 10, 1936; May 23, 1937, and May 17, 1938.

A brown thrasher and a towhee also have good records. The thrasher was banded Sept. 11, 1933, and returned to Bartel's traps Aug. 14, 1934; Sept. 16, 1935, and Aug. 17, 1936. The towhee was banded May 5, 1934, and returned Sept. 6, 1934; April 30, 1935, and May 5, 1936. The life record on this towhee was completed on April 29, 1937, when it was killed by a cat.

Black Haw Pleases.

One wild shrub which grows on the farm and is attractive thruout the whole year is the black haw. In the spring [usually in April] the black haws provide clusters of white flowers that are among the most attractive of the season. It continues its show of blossoms until summer winds cause them to droop. But even then the black haw is not ready to fade out of the picture, because early in the fall it decorates its branches with clusters of reddish-orange berries. By October these berries are ripe—about the color of Concord grapes, and then in November and December they cling to the shrubs even after Jack Frost makes his appearance.

When we were wandering down one of the roads on the Du Page county farm one day this week we stopped to eat several of these sweet berries. After frost has nipped the black haws the berries taste somewhat like dried dates, and every farm boy knows that sweet black haws are one of nature's finest winter delicacies.

MOTORS—TRAFFIC—HIGHWAYS

Tax Increase for Roads Seen by Professor

BY HAL FOUST.

Increases in taxes, including a 1 cent raise in the gasoline rate, were suggested by Prof. C. C. Wiley of the University of Illinois engineering school last week to cover a deficiency in requirements for street and road maintenance and construction. He spoke before a forum under the auspices of the Illinois tax commission.

"The greatest problems in connection with highway financing," said the professor in concluding his paper, "are how to acquaint the people with the real needs of the highways, with the meaning of the various popular demands and various proposals, and then to convince them that they can buy the roads they want by comparatively small increases in their individual expenditures."

Tribune Warns of Danger.

For more than three years, this department of THE TRIBUNE has been warning that the Illinois highway finances were headed for the red, threatening a gas tax boost, due to a large extent to a policy of the Springfield administration.

The state's most important highways, which are profitable public investments, earning money for the road treasury by the gas tax from their usage, are being allowed to deteriorate. Funds which might be used for their modernization, thereby reducing accidents as well as stimulating gas tax revenue, are being spent for new mileage, some of it inmodern traffic. This, he said, is burden on the treasury because with light travel it produces insufficient revenue to cover costs.

The professor's picture of the highway situation in this state was as gloomy as this foregoing analysis. He said that for the next decade, with the older pavements wearing out and dangerously antequated in design, the state will require $18,900,000 a year to perpetuate a system suitable for modern trafic. This, he said, is $2,700,000 more than can be anticipated for this purpose under the present tax rates.

Throws Cold Water on Hopes.

Wiley's paper threw cold water on the hopes of Mayor Edward J. Kelly that the Illinois highway department will make substantial contributions to the city's $205,000,000 superhighway program. The state collects almost 50 per cent of its road revenue from Cook county traffic.

"It seems to be clear," said the professor, referring to farm roads as well as to city improvements, "that the state is not in a financial position to assume additional direct duties nor to render additional assistance to the other highway systems."

Wiley said that additional money needed by the state can not be obtained by juggling the present system of distributing the gas tax revenue 1 cent to the state, 1 cent to counties, and 1 cent to cities. He said the cities and the counties were in an even more desperate need for additional street and road funds.

Favors Gas Tax Increase.

The professor spoke favorably of suggestions for increasing the motor fuel excise ½ of a cent for the state and ½ of a cent for the counties. For cities, he mentioned the possibilities of a wider use of special assessments and of city wheel taxes. He also said that the legislature might increase the municipal tax rate to permit a special levy for streets or boost debt limitations to permit bond issue for streets.

The 1 cent raise would amount to $13,000,000. The state's one half, $6,500,000, would add approximately 40 per cent to the funds available for construction. This is assuming that there would be no increase in the highway department's expenses other than for construction. The state is now spending approximately 39 per cent of every license fee and gas tax dollar for road building, the 51 cents going for bond requirements, administration, engineering, maintenance and police.

"Doubtless," said Prof. Wiley, "any proposal for a tax increase would raise a storm of protest. It seems to be a human trait to object to tax increases, from force of habit if nothing else. But let the matter be considered a moment.

Would Increase Bill $5.

"The average passenger car in Illinois burns about 500 gallons of gas per year. A 1 cent increase would therefore increase the average car owner's annual automobile bill by about $5, which is only about 1.3 per cent of his total annual car expenses and hence could hardly be considered a hardship. He would get better roads. The 4 cent rate for Illinois would not be out of line with a national average of 3.96 cents per gallon.

"But motorists are queer. They will spend money like drunken sailors to buy gadgets for the car but complain bitterly at paying anything at all for decent roads on which to run the machine. Yet, if we stop to consider, a $10 bill spent for roads will buy more economy, comfort, convenience, and safety on the highways than any other $10 that could possibly be spent on the car."

The main tax prot-st from motorists, as voiced thru their organizations, is not against the amounts they p--. It's that their money does not all go for better streets and highways, some of it going for schools and for poor relief, some of it for political road building and some of it to campaign funds thru the shakedowns of contractors and of department employés to reëlect Gov. Henry Horner.

Many automobile owners believe that the revenue from the present taxes, spent honestly and judiciously, would be adequate for needs. Due to errors and sins of the past, this may no longer be true.

Eight Prep Teams Will Compete in Milton Meet

Milton, Ill., Dec. 16 [Special].—Eight high school teams will compete here Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thurs-y in Milton's annual invitational basketball tournament. Pairings:

Monday—Griggsville vs. Nebo; Perry vs. Pearl.

Tuesday—Milton vs. Winchester; Bluffs vs. Barry.

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.

Should motorists carry warning flares to be used when changing tires on the highways at night?

Where Answered.

In North Michigan avenue.

The Answers.

I. J. Drielsma, 1033 Loyola avenue, former shoe manufacturer—It would be a very good idea, yes. Any one changing a tire on the highway after dark is apt to be run into by another motorist. Flares should stop this. Their use should be required by law.

Peg Merriam, 47 East Division street, secretary—I think that's a good idea. It avoids the possibility of accidents. If other autoists know these motorists are carrying flares, they'll realize what is wrong and won't be alarmed about the prospect of a highway robbery.

Bob Johnson, 7404 North Damen avenue, artist—I think they should have at least a flashlight. I think the flare would be a good idea, though, because I drive a car myself, and you don't see people on the highway until you're right on top of them. It would be a fine law.

Mrs. Frank Pierce Jr., 1510 North Dearborn parkway, housewife—There's an ordinance requiring trucks to carry flares, so why shouldn't all motorists? There have been a number of fatal accidents lately in such circumstances. Usually a man changing tires obstructs the tail light of his own car.

E. F. Resch, 1645 Touhy avenue, salesman—It would be a good thing. I think it should be left up to the driver, though. If he wants to be killed, let him. I've often thought of what would happen if you were on a strange road with no siding and got a flat tire.

VOICE OF TRAFFIC

CONGRESS STREET SUPERHIGHWAY.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—The plan advocated by the city for Congress street is objected to by motorists as they do not think they should pay for a right-of-way a block wide and also because of the congestion at the Canal street crossing at grade. West side interests wish such an improvement to arrest the spread of its blighted areas and to enhance falling real estate values. In view of the huge expenditures by the park board along the lake shore, it is equitable that they do as much for the west side, and the following plan is along this line:

It presupposes a coöperation of the various municipalities such as the city, park board, county, state, and the federal and Chicago housing authorities. It is proposed to acquire a strip of land from the river westward to the city limits, three blocks in width, except at such points where the cost is prohibitive.

The two outside strips, a block in width would be acquired by the park board and converted into parks. The central strip, a block wide, would be acquired by the city and that part not required for highway would in turn be sold to the federal housing authorities fo. housing projects, to the state to house its various offices now in rented space. Branch libraries and other city buildings would be built on parts of the land. An elevated highway would be constructed along the center of the middle block, while the park frontages could be utilized for building purposes. The buildings such as garages could be erected under the elevated structure.

By the above plan, it works out that the motorists pay only for land required, and the west side gets twice as wide a parkway together with slum clearance and low cost housing. The space under the structure would accommodate the subway.

The elevated highway would pierce the postoffice at the third story level and continue thus to the outer drive, thru or over such buildings as are in its path.

EMMONS COLLINS.

TROUBLE AT TEST LANES.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—With due regard for the warnings being issued by the police department and also for the time it takes to get a car thru the testing lane, my recent experience may be of interest and may prompt some action on the part of those who supervise the equipment of these testing lanes.

Recently I took my car to station No. 5 and got an o. k. on everything except the headlights, which the inspector told me were too high. My mechanic, using the chart furnished by the Westinghouse Electric, dropped the headlights 4 inches, but again station No. 5 rejected them as still being too high. Having a little spare time and being in the vicinity the next day, I stopped in to testing lane No. 1. Here the headlights were found to be in perfect condition, but the car was rejected because the brakes [it was claimed] needed equalization. Station No. 5 say the brakes are o. k. and so does my mechanic. Presumably the equipment uesd at both stations is the same but, as it now stands, I am likely to get a ticket from the police for not having stickers for the current half-year.

And I know of other cases where brakes and lights have tested perfectly when examined by our very competent mechanic, but have been rejected by station No. 5. Either the equipment at this station needs a very thoro checking or the inspectors at this particular station have not been thoroly educated in the proper methods of handling this equipment.

THE GREAT AMERICAN AUTO.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—The great American symbol should be an auto. It represents the most progressive and forward American spirit, both in clear thinking and in commercial enterprise. The auto has educated Americans into acceptance of new mechanical contrivances and labor saving machinery. If Americans want a symbol of themselves a machine would be most characteristic.

INTER-AMERICAN HIGHWAY BEING BUILT STEADILY

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 16 [Special].—Steady and sure progress is being made on the International Pacific highway, which eventually will link 20 republics and Canada for motor traffic. The world's longest thorofare will extend from Fairbanks, Alaska, to Buenos Aires, South America.

Figures supplied by the Automobile club's engineers serve best to show what has been accomplished in the development of this master project:

Mileage by type of improvement.

	Total lgth.	All weath.	Dry weath.	No road.
Alaska	274	100	....	174
Canada	1,952	1,162	....	790
United States	2,091	2,091	....	....
Mexico	2,479	882	1,487	110
Cent. America	1,744	894	478	372
South America	5,795	5,169	263	363
Total miles	14,335	10,298	2,228	1,809

Mexico at Work.

Mexico has been working at many points. From Nogales on the border, the road has been graded and graveled 225 miles, to within 45 miles of Guaymas, Sonora port city. Between there and Mazatlan sections have been improved. A new causeway across the bay from Guaymas to Emplame eliminates a long, circuitous tour.

Thru the dread Barrancas a road has been opened and is used by stages on regular schedule between Tepic and Guadalajara. From the latter point to Mexico City a modern highway, uniform the entire distance, has been completed. From the federal capital the road is paved to Puebla, 83 miles, and work has been done on a new direct route to Oaxaca, not yet passable. The old cart road has been improved out of Oaxaca to Mitla and the road is passable from Mitla to the canyon of the Rio Tehuantepec.

Bridges Built in Central America.

With the coöperation of the United States of America, which supplied money and engineers, three important bridges have been built on the route in Central America. In Panama an improved road has been constructed between David and the canal, and reconnoissance carried on southward. Sections have been improved in Colombia and Ecuador. From northern Peru to Buenos Aires, via Santiago, Chile, the route is continuously improved and passable, with a considerable portion paved.

Interested South American automobile groups plan a caravan over the entire route from Los Angeles to Buenos Aires in 1942, excepting only southern Panama, between northern Colombia and the Panama canal, a section around which cars will be ferried.

NEWS AND VIEWS

A survey completed by the Chicago Automobile Trade association discloses the ability of the show to attract visitors from great distances and it shows how attendance and registrations from Chicago and suburban areas dovetail. Licenses of 200 cars in the parking area surrounding the International Amphitheater, site of the show, were examined each night for three nights. Ten per cent of the cars came from outside of Illinois.

Cars from suburban Cook county accounted for 23.4 per cent of the total visitors to the show and owners in the area accounted for 23.6 per cent of the new cars registered in 1938. The southeast side produced 30.8 per cent of the show visitors and 29.2 per cent of the 1938 registrations; the west side 16.3 and 18.8 per cent; north side 22.6 and 21 per cent and the northwest side 11.5 and 8.9 per cent. Because of geographic causes there were greater disparities in southwest side and loop figures. The former produced 10.9 per cent of the visitors and 4.8 per cent of the registrations and the loop figures were 7.9 per cent and 17.3 per cent.

A series of reginal service meetings will be held by the Chrysler corporation to discuss servicing methods and plans, H. J. Nestle, general service manager of the Chrysler corporation, said yesterday. H. M. Hoffer, regional service manager for Chicago, said the local meeting will be held tomorrow in the Knickerbocker hotel.

A sound deadener made from products that would be otherwise wasted is manufactured by the Ford Motor company at its Dearborn plant for the purpose of making its cars quieter in operation. One of the principal ingredients in the sound deadener, which is called "dum dum," is the dusty residue from coke. About 3,000 tons of coke are produced daily at the Ford plant.

November sales of the Cadillac Motor division of the General Motors corporation were the largest for the month in the 37 year history of the company, D. E. Ahrens, general sales manager states. Sales of Cadillacs and LaSalles during the month exceeded those of any month since May 1937, Ahrens says.

Samuel L. Davis, president of the Willys-Illinois company, Willys-Overland distributor for the Chicago area, says that the Willys dealer organization in the 43 counties comprising the Chicago area has increased more than 52 per cent since the introduction of the 1940 models.

Christmas Ideas for Last-Minute Shoppers

By Eleanor Nangle

WITH the tinkle of jingle bells ringing in your ears and Santa's breath hot on your neck, of course you're in the mood for last-minute gift suggestions. In the beauty marts things get "excitinger and excitinger," as the little girl said. Even at this late date new ideas for beauty-gift presentation are popping up in the shops.

Vanity and lipstick set.

Some of the gifts shown here are tried and true successes, but most of them are brand, spanking new. The first is a debutante. The vanity, of metal enameled in black, green, red, or pink, with a severely modern design in the cover, is slim and light as the best kind of pancake. With a generous puff and a large mirror, it's for single powder. In a gift box, with matching lipstick, $2.50.

Remember "Hungary water"?

"Hungary water" won't mean much to the younger generation, but it will revive lovely memories for the oldsters, and when the youngsters get acquainted with it they'll know why. A new presentation of it is shown in the second picture. It's delightful stuff, delicately fragrant, that makes one of the nicest refreshants. The container is truly elegant, of white kid ornately trimmed with blue and gold kid, and labels that look like beautifully illuminated old manuscripts. In the size shown, $10.

To clear the head.

Nothing old-fashioned about gift No. 3, bottles of revivifying bath trimming to be used when a hangover or a hard day slows you down. There is ammonia in the mixture, nicely disguised with violet or carnation, and the bottles, silver-wrapped, are miniatures of Rhine wine containers. $1.50 each.

Every woman wants a dressy as well as a tailored compact. No. 4 is a dressy one, shaped like a medallion, in gold finish with colorful jewel trim. If it has a black enamel edge the center jewel may be jade green. Other versions: Turquoise enamel edge with turquoise stone; beige edge with coral stone; white with lapis, green with jade green stone. It's a single vanity for loose powder. $3.50. In a super-dooper version, yellow gold plate, with diamond design, it's $16.

Compact with jewels.

Romance in fluid ounces.

There are five luxurious perfumes available in the beautiful spherical bottle, gold-stoppered, that's shown fifth, at the left. No one is like the other. They range from the tangy scent for outdoors and furs to the tantalizing and sophisticated. The various sizes begin at $3.50 and work up.

The bath preparation, whether it be a single cake of fine soap or an expensive treasure chest of trimmings, is irresistible to any woman. And she'll surely feel that heaven's her destination after a "shining star" bath made glorious with fragrant soap, star-shaped, and a rubdown with superlatively scented cologne which comes in a star-shaped bottle. The set, in soft feminine colors, $6.50.

Shining stars of the bath.

Daughter's dresser set.

Growing girls will love this dresser set, and youthful hair will profit by the brushing that's fun instead of a chore with this cunning brush. This set in gleaming blond or bleached maple, with the Tyrolean design in five brilliant colors, is $5. The bristles of the brush are excellent. Wooden sets, incidentally, are smart. There are appealing styles for grownups as well as youngsters.

For those lucky lassies who neither toil nor spin there must be Christmas gifts that are sheer fun, minus even a suggestion of the utilitarian. Here's one. "Fifi," shown at the lower right, is a saucy piece the sophisticates will love. Very, very Paris, it's a high boot of stiffly starched white lace, with a bottle of provocative perfume tucked in the toe and six satin sachets tumbling from the top. The satin of the sachets and the high, high heel may be blue, flesh-colored, ivory, or a blazing scarlet. Nestled in a dashing box, $10.

Shades of the naughty 90s.

Steamed Type Pudding Fits Holiday Mood

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

The Christmas season mustn't be allowed to pass without a steamed pudding or two popping up as dessert. Rich, fruity, steamed puddings are full of calories, so they'd best appear as the climax to one of the lighter meals of the Yuletide.

Last year, at this time, in response to a request, many readers sent us genuine old English and Welsh plum pudding recipes which had been in their families for years and years. I want to print one of them this year, along with several of our own recipes. This contributed recipe came from a woman whose mother used to make the pudding in Wales, and who continues to make it for her family every year. It's a large recipe. She says it makes one large pudding in a shortening can, and seven small ones in baking powder cans.

WELSH PLUM PUDDING.

4 cups bread crumbs
4½ cups sifted flour
6 cups chopped suet [1½ pounds]
2 cups chopped citron, lemon, and orange peel
½ pound candied cherries
1 pound dates, chopped
2 chopped apples
1 cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon mace
1 teaspoon allspice
1 tablespoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon ginger
1 teaspoon baking powder
3 packages raisins
1 package currants
2 cups brown sugar
½ cup dark sirup
6 eggs, beaten
4½ cups beer or wine

Ingredients are combined and filled into greased cans, leaving room for swelling. Cans are covered and then boiled for six hours. The contributor of this recipe says she boils puddings for ten hours. She serves them with a sauce flavored with brandy or whiskey.

Here's a somewhat similar, smaller recipe for a steamed Christmas pudding.

ENGLISH CHRISTMAS PUDDING.

½ pound chopped suet
½ pound seedless raisins
½ pound large, seeded raisins
¼ pound currants
¼ pound mixed candied lemon and orange peel
1 lemon, juice and grated rind
½ cup shredded almonds
4 cups day old bread crumbs
½ cup sifted flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup milk
¼ cup rum or brandy
4 eggs, beaten

Combine suet with fruit and nuts. Add lemon juice and rind. Sift flour with salt and spices. Add to bread crumbs and mixed fruits and place in a bowl. Combine milk, rum or brandy, and eggs, and stir into the dry mixture. Mix until well blended. Fill greased pudding molds two-thirds full, or put mixture in greased pudding cloth. Steam pudding in cans for five hours, or boil bag pudding four hours. Serve hot with hard sauce, lemon or brandy sauce.

Suet is an ingredient of a simpler old-fashioned Christmas pudding, too. This "Yankee" pudding contains only raisins and nuts as the "fruity" addition.

YANKEE PLUM PUDDING.

1 cup ground suet
1 cup molasses
3 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 cup raisins
1 cup nuts

Work suet with hands until creamy. Add molasses. Sift dry ingredients together and add alternately with milk. Dredge raisins and nuts with part of the flour and add. Fill buttered molds two-thirds full and cover tightly. Steam for three hours and serve hot with hard sauce or a fruity pudding sauce.

These sauces may be used with any of the three puddings.

YANKEE SAUCE.
[For steamed puddings.]

½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
2 tablespoons cornstarch
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 cups water
2 tablespoons butter
1½ tablespoons vinegar

Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add water and butter. Cook 10 minutes, stirring constantly to keep smooth. Add vinegar and serve hot.

HARD SAUCE.

½ cup butter
About 1½ cups sifted confectioners' sugar
1 tablespoon cream
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter until soft. Gradually beat in the sugar. Add cream and vanilla. Beat until fluffy.

INTIMATE APPAREL IN CHRISTMAS STYLE

A—Newest ensemble, gown of slithery soft satin in combination with similarly cut and designed long negligee in sheer material. ● B—Another gift possibility, featuring eyelets thru which colored satin ribbon is laced for additional feminine charm and contrast. ● C—Pajamas are even better than in previous seasons. This is a combine fashioned of dainty, floral-printed cotton, trimmed with contrasting rick-rack braid. ● D—One of the new sheer charmers in pastel colors. It has eyelet trimming and a corselet section of matching soft satin. ● E—One of the smartest and snappiest of sleeping pajama units, this time in white flannelette peppered in deep pink dots. Coat has blouse-back effect copied, so they say, from the sports jackets of one Clark Gable! ● F—Here is the thick and the thin of the pajama racket. The trousers are of printed cotton, the matching coat quilted and padded. ● G—New trio, dainty nightgown, slip and panties to match.

Lingerie for Gift Season Is Exquisite

By Rhea Seeger.

Especially designed gift lingerie plays a repeat performance each season, topping the preceding year's showings every time. Nightgowns and matched sets of slip, panties, nightgown, and negligee are the spotlight stealers, with separate pieces, duets of nightgown and robe, lovely lace-trimmed costume slips, petticoats, and sleeping pajamas making a good record for eye appeal and for modest price marks. Any of the pieces makes the perfect gift for appreciative feminine collectors.

This year the collections are more than irresistible. Some of the loveliest nightgowns imaginable come with amazingly low price marks. Soft Dresden colors flattering to every one, delicate pinks, and the glamorous, filmy black chiffons offer a wide assortment from which to choose. Lace, bow knots, frills, and fine embroidery are exquisite details, and soft satins, fine crêpes, and novelty brocades are the favored materials.

• • •

Rich self-patterned brocades are especially effective in the semitailored gowns trimmed with perfectly finished, dainty, but rather complicated narrow scalloped edgings. These come in rosy pink and Chinese white, every stitch made by hand. Some lovely blue tones also are obtainable, but the pinks and whites predominate. Filmy ninons in printed effects are particularly good buys, because they assure long wear and femininity, and have soft, handmade details. Small dots and tiny floral patterns offer a wide selection.

Long sleeved nightgowns are more than abundant, made of soft, thin woolen, precisely tailored crêpe, and flannelette. These are distant relations of the dreary, dull, long sleeved affairs of long ago. Nowadays the long sleeved nightgown has a definite allure, with full bell sleeves gathered in narrow cuffs with exquisite trim of fine handwork and with romantic collars, such as some of Irish lace. There are even some of those long sleeved beauties in black chiffon! The flannelette comforts are made with as much swank as the superlatively cut and fashioned models in thick silk crêpe, satin, shetland, and albatross. Fragile pastels and dainty printed patterns make them easy on the eye.

Sets of nightgown and bed jacket are new, especially those with the nightgown of sheer and the matching bed jacket of sterner stuff padded cozily for the chilly hours after 10. Other duets have gowns of satin teamed with long sheer negligees of the exact shade and general outline. Satin applique on the negligee repeats the satin of the gown. Real gift gowns are the beautiful chiffons made with dozens of yards of material in virtually every known pastel and clear bright color. Some are plaited in the bodice, others have double cartwheel skirts or sunburst plaited skirts; still others are gathered around the waistline, peasant skirt fashion, with a matching gathered, scant bodice. Gleaming white satin destined for the trousseaux of early spring are especially good finds at the gift season. These come in sets or are sold separately, and are lavishly trimmed models or the more tailored effects. The satin is luxurious in thickness and shimmering beauty, the laces breath-taking, and the price marks surprisingly low considering all the glamor.

Chartreuse green, raspberry, star sapphire blue, corn yellow, a few floral patterns against dull white, a few gray tints, mint greens, and a few topaz tinted chiffons come in these gift finds. Most of these colored gowns are of sheer chiffon or ninon. Most of them are cut and fashioned in the classic Greek silhouette, with full wide skirts, soft plaited bodice tops, shoestring straps over the shoulders, and a high waistline. Delicate laces trim, others in discreet insets, suggestions of accents at the deep vee lines of the neck, and so on. Classic gowns in black also come with cobweb thin insets, or trim of fine black lace or are tied bewitchingly with colored ribbons, festive red, gala green, and two-toned effects.

• • •

But the soft, shell pink and heaven blue satin gowns still top the popularity list as gifts. These have all kinds of surprisingly low price marks, considering the quality of the satin, the beauty and workmanship of the details, and the frosting of lace. Both simple and ornate affairs offer everything. The models are all cut with superior skill, skirts are plenty long, fit smoothly, and all of them are sure to wear amazingly long with only average care in the laundering.

Sketched are some of the high finds of the season, gift models for the most exacting recipient, all with comfortingly modest price tags.

Patterns by Clotilde

By Clotilde.

For your informal wardrobe, three companionable patterns. The blouse and skirt idea is important in the fashion scheme of things, so we're promoting it in a big way today.

Upper left: Two blouses, both made with one pattern. One version has lumber jacket lines, and may be made of silk, woolen, or velveteen. The only trimming is buttons. The other version is dressy, with a V and rever-collared neckline, fitted waistline, peplum effect, and novelty buttons. Brocades and "fancy" silks are the best choices, to be worn with a crêpe, velvet, or velveteen skirt to contrast.

Lower left: A pattern that makes a blouse with three bows and short sleeves, or a bolero jacket and matching sash to dress up a last year's frock, or a new one, for that matter. The same pattern creates the bolero jacket with long and puffed sleeves that keeps company with the simple, flared skirt sketched center. This ensemble may be made of silk, woolen, or velveteen, and one of the simple blouses described may complete the costume.

Style No. 3023 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 2⅛ yards of 39 inch material for lumber jacket blouse, and 1⅞ yards for fitted model.

Style No. 3166 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 1⅜ yards of 39 inch material for bolero and sash, 1⅝ yards for blouse.

Style No. 2886 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 1 yard of 54 inch material.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Parachute Jumper Is Alive Despite Risks

One of the few professional women parachute jumpers in the United States is Mrs. Marie McMillin of Columbus, O. In her 135 jumps, for which she has received $300 to $500 each, Mrs. McMillin has been "knocked out" again and again, has waked up in an ambulance thirty-five times, and in a "dead wagon" twice, but she never has been seriously hurt.

For Joyful Cough Relief, Try This Home Mixture

Saves Good Money. No Cooking.

This splendid recipe is used by millions every year, because it makes such a dependable, effective remedy for coughs due to colds. It's so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its soothing effect on throat and bronchial membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all, and takes but a moment. No cooking needed.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of cough remedy, very effective and quick-acting, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be amazed by the way it takes hold of coughs, giving quick relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Juvenile Crocheted Items

By Ellen Bruce.

Have you ever noticed how proud the youngster is who wears a crocheted hat, scarf, and purse ensemble? The purse is carried "just so," and the tilt of the head on which the beret and matching scarf are posed indicates the pride of "Punch." This set is so simple to create that no four to six year old should be without one. Three skeins of pompadour or light weight knitting worsted do the entire job.

For instructions in crocheting the beret, scarf, and purse ensemble for the four to six year old, No. X-399, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Campus Modes by a Co-ed

By Carolyn Ramey.

After the New Year holiday the social season will settle down to informal parties, with the exception of "proms" and cadet dances, of course. For these gala events, on campus and off, you'll want a variety of simple but rather dressy frocks, and the pattern today is the means of having at least one of them.

The original I made for myself is of dark brown crêpe with the frilly collar, three tiers all lace trimmed, in honey beige to contrast. The back of this dress is styled down to essentials, but the front gets all the glory. There are shirrings, panels, and buttons to lend a lot of detail. The total effect is one of girlishness and femininity, two important fashion recommendations.

If you like, create this dress in velveteen, velvet, or sheer woolen. Use either dark colors or light. The delicate and fragile looking misty and jewel tones are getting big promotion in style centers this season, and there's no reason you shouldn't fall in line.

Style No. T-8652 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 5 yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of contrasting.

Best Coiffure Is One Suited to Your Type

By Antoinette Donnelly.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We often are asked about the new hair style, if there is any one style that is particularly outstanding. To which we answer: There is one style, and it is the style that suits best your own particular type of beauty.

Not long ago Claire Trevor of Hollywood said: "I think women who can do their own hair somehow manage the most attractive coiffures. They know themselves better. They know their faces better. They can arrange and rearrange lines that bring out the best points and nullify the poorer ones."

We think there is an excellent coiffure sermon in that. BUT, it is true that all women haven't the knack of creating hair design and style for themselves, in which event the next best thing is to have a good style created for them.

We would say that, after tours of the spots where the so-called "best dressed" appear, coiffures on these heads show, above everything else, a magnificent care reflected in the high sheen and fine vitality of the hair itself. That is the primary distinction for which to aim, whether hair is upswept or down, done in classic style or simple and informal, elegant or gamin.

We also would say that hair and coiffure never, within your knowledge and ours, has occupied so dominating a place in the scheme of the woman beautiful.

Perhaps the only one styling in common that applies to the season is the upswept side arrangement. But this is for a more youthful effect gained thru lifting hair away and up off the temples and sides of the forehead. One pushing back of hair from this area proves, with one look in the mirror, its youthful effect. Outside of that, one well known hairdresser says, "there is no set style that can be worn by every one. The individuality of the wearer must be carefully considered."

Miss Donnelly's authoritative articles, counseling women in matters of beauty and charm, appear every day in the feature pages of The Chicago Tribune.

Dress Designed in Paris Adopts Military Styling

By Bettina Bedwell.

All the fashions being created in Paris aren't "escape" modes. That is: the subject of war is faced squarely and even adopted in moderation as style inspiration. One of the healthier of the military modes is the one incorporated in this street dress. A leading French designer is sponsoring it, which should be guarantee enough for anybody.

There is no collar, but the neckline has a shallow V and soft contours. To match in spirit the double-breasted braid effect of the bodice, the shoulders are squared like those of the huskiest army captain. Ingenious paneling creates true smartness for the fitted bodice, below which the skirt is gracefully flared. Notice that unpressed plaits originate in tucks below the slim waist. A belt to match the braid is used.

The original of this frock is bright blue, sheer woolen with the braid and belt of shiny black. The mannequin who exhibited this dress in its home salon wore a military hat with visor, as sketched.

Style No. 5325 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material.

Etiquet Editor Offers Advice on Gift Giving

By Helen Bartlett.

Christmas sidled up and took us by surprise again this year. It always does, in spite of the annual Dec. 26 promises to ourself to do something about one penchant for procrastination. But, judging by the crowds of Christmas shoppers for last minute purchases, this confession will meet sympathetic reactions. It isn't too late, however, to talk about some of the problems of Christmas gift giving.

• • •

One of the problems is the exchange of presents between girls and boys. Their trouble is that they are so eager to make an impression on their favorite person that they spend too much money, use poor judgment by selecting too personal things, or use no judgment at all by insisting on providing a Christmas present when the friendship is not well enough established to justify it and it would be better not to make overtures.

Remember, you young boys and girls of high school and college age, that the presents you buy for your "steady" should be inexpensive and should be strictly impersonal—nothing in the way of jewelry or wearing apparel. And unless the boy has at some time in the past indicated his interest and made the original gesture in the matter of gift giving, the girl is not free to give that boy a present. She must not be the first to start the practice. To do so might put her in a rather embarrassing position, and embarrass the boy, too. And such a state of affairs does absolutely nothing to foster a romance.

• • •

Thinking of something for the family-that-has-everything always frustrates the best of us. We haven't any smart solution to suggest, but we do personally feel that the people who have quantities of money and quantities of worldly goods need not be remembered extravagantly for that reason alone. It seems to be a common opinion that more money than some people can afford must be spent on the wealthy friends, another example of the old quotation, "Them what has, gits." Perhaps we are putting Christmas on too mercenary a basis, but it seems that it is the friends who do not have much money who can be the most benefited as long as money has entered into our discussion.

It may be argued that we put Christmas giving in a rather businesslike light. Christmas shouldn't be that, we know, but we think that this is an accurate perception of many of the practices of present day Christmas giving.

Trying to Make OverChildhood Is a Sad Mistake

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

There's an odd thing about some husbands and wives.

It's this: The glow of the honeymoon has barely faded before one tries to make the other over! John was attracted by Marie's gayety and amusing talk and generosity—so different from himself. It all suited him perfectly during their courtship. But settling down in their apartment he soon begins to look coolly on these traits, and then by criticism tries to make Marie over. If he succeeds she won't be the girl he fell in love with and married. To be Marie is to be gay, to have a witty angle on people and situations, and to be really open-handed. Many a girl [and man, too, I'm sure] has been first bewildered, then hurt, and then made truly unhappy by such a course, such an about-face.

In a sense, some of us, quite unwittingly, are that way about children. We love them because they are children, because they possess the qualities of childhood, and yet we try to remodel them into miniature adults. We keep working backward, trying to impose upon a new, burgeoning creature the fixed confines of a more or less finished product, a civilized adult. Instead we should leave ourselves out of the picture as a model and leap backward in imagination to those years when life was a small, clear stream flowing along with its own purpose between its own narrow but delightfully fascinating verdant banks. Such a slant is like a headlight on the road ahead of us and them.

The thing for us to do is to admit the actual difference between us and children, and to recognize the free flowing quality of childhood, the very opposite of the static state that too often characterizes maturity.

• • •

Have you ever wondered why the word "children" finds a special echo in so many people's hearts? It is because children stand for so much that is precious in life, which we lose later on. And yet with the stupidity, or lack of vision, or the expediency of the grownup who really feels his little business of life so important, we try to educate or train these very qualities away, or stifle them thru neglect.

Did you ever stop, even casually, and try to enumerate the qualities that make childhood seem to us so beautiful, so interesting, so refreshingly different? Did you ever try to inquire into the very nature of childhood?

There's joyousness.

There's eagerness.

There's vivid interest.

There's faith.

There's the infinite patience and persistence in learning [not the three R's kind].

There's lovingness.

There's plasticity.

And there's growth—change from phase to phase—one of the most interesting of all the qualities of childhood, as any mother will tell you. This is more than interesting—fascinating to watch—so different from watching adults who are too often fixed, set, static in mind and body, who have stopped growing. Growth is a wonderful, vital thing.

Those, then, are a few of the qualities that make childhood a delight to us. And they are qualities we might well borrow back again ourselves, since most of us have lost them. But if we can't do that we can at least strive to preserve them in our children.

• • •

Some of our educators have vision to know the nature of childhood. The new education, for instance, has as its ideal not primarily to train or to hamper children. Instead, it tries to provide for them the most favorable conditions for growth, for reaching out to gather to themselves the things they need most to retain and nourish their precious innate qualities.

I think one of the things that blinds us so to the true needs of children is this terrible forward looking habit we adults have for them.

What folly! Childhood is life, not just a preparation. It is sufficient in itself. It isn't a marking time until the glorious era of grownupness is reached. Childhood is life itself, and quite sufficient life. If we could only let children be thoroly children in their childhood, what a thorogoing race of grownups we'd have, too.

Living enjoyably in the present is a desirable thing. Adults rarely do it. Think a moment. Aren't we usually planning, looking to the future for accomplishment or pleasure? But to a little child tomorrow scarcely exists. "I want it now, NOW!" is his cry. After all, the present is the only reality. Let's make it the best possible kind of a present and the future will take care of itself.

Contract According to Culbertson

By Ely Culbertson.

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

It is all very well for experts and "authorities" to point out that great care, often involving the use of safety and other advanced plays, should be given to every contract, whether for two clubs or seven no trump. But the fact remains that the dear public is interested solely in stratospheric contracts—the average player's thrill seems to be wrapped up exclusively in slam packages. This being so, it is no more than logical that said average player should do a bit of practicing in the department of slam bidding. John C. Stablein, writing in The Bridge World Magazine, makes an ingenious suggestion along this line:

"Actual play does not furnish very many hands with slam probabilities. Hence if a partnership is not existent for a period of years it does not get enough practice to acquire proficiency in this department of the game. Yet there is nothing more destructive to partnership morale than the abuse of a big hand. Some years ago I experimented in an effort to devise means with which to combat this obstacle. Ordinary shuffling and dealing practice was not productive of results because it wasted too much time. But after numerous other ideas were tried and found wanting an almost perfect plan was evolved. The idea is simplicity itself and as a result of its use the author has had the pleasure of forming fine partnerships with several grand players. In addition he has been able to test the efficiency of various bidding conventions and systems. The method of doing this will be outlined later. At the solicitation of others I now take pleasure in presenting it to the bridge players in the hope that it will be received with acclaim and with the belief that no greater single contribution has ever been given for use in the development of partnership proficiency. No doubt we all can remember when mother used a broom straw for the purpose of testing her cakes. We want an instrument capable of testing partnership proficiency. Hence let's label the solution the "Broom Straw Method."

Any other 13 cards and a different distribution could be selected—it is immaterial. The example is cited merely for the purpose of being specific. Lay these cards aside and you are left with a pack of 39 playing cards which is your practice deck. Now with this practice deck deal 13 cards to a partner and the same number to yourself. Thirteen cards remain on the table. These are not used in any way unless you don't like the hand you have drawn and wish to exchange it for the table pack. Wouldn't it be grand to get this kind of hands in a real game? The slam and near-slam hands are now the normal expectancy with this pack and isn't it fun to bid them? After a partnership has practiced bidding the numerous combinations which arise in such a short time they will have more confidence in their ability to handle them correctly when it means something. Failure is not costly because it leads to mutual discussion which cannot help but be profitable. This is in contrast to the destructive effects of criticism and recriminations which follow bad results with a big hand in actual play. Assume the following hand crops up in a match:

NORTH
♠A 9 8 6 5
♥9 7 6
♦A 10 7 4
♣8

SOUTH
♠K 7
♥A K J 10 8 5
♦K 5
♣A Q 7

"The bidding:

South	North
1 heart	1 spade
3 hearts	4 hearts
Pass

"A lay-down slam is missed and later South picks up this model:

NORTH
♠Q 10 9 8 5
♥Q 6 4
♦K 6
♣10 8 5

SOUTH
♠K 4
♥A K 10 9 8 7 5
♦A Q
♣K J

"The bidding:

South	North
1 heart	1 spade
3 hearts	4 hearts
4 no trump	5 hearts
6 hearts

"South, having in mind the previous result, makes a trap bid of four no trump. He then decides that North's failure to show the spade ace was for fear that it automatically committed the hand to a slam contract. After some reflection he leaps there anyhow. Successful slam bidding has its roots in the lower strata of bidding and failure with the above hands may not be due to ignorance on the part of either. Perhaps North is not certain as to the strength shown by partner's jump rebids. Or he may be a little deficient in the ability to visualize how his hand will fit with the strength shown by his partner. At any rate the Broom Straw Method will iron out all these 'bugs' and permits the partnership to mess up a hand at a time when mutual discussion enables them to profit from the errors. Take a husband and wife team, for instance. There is just as much entertainment in bidding hands from the practice deck as there is in playing solitaire, casino, etc. Then when they step out in fast company they are not afraid of the big hand when it comes along.

"Let's make a new practice deck by restoring the 13 abstracted cards to the pack. Withdraw seven small clubs and six small diamonds instead and lay them aside. Now our practice deck not only favors high cards but freaks are of frequent occurrence. Practice with this pack is guaranteed to lower one's egotism and is a sure cure for the blues. Or it may be well to form your practice deck by leaving one suit intact and extracting 13 small cards from the remaining suits. Again try out your bidding on minor suits by leaving them intact and deducting 13 small cards from the major suits. It will be found that under this circumstance the problem of finding the proper contract becomes more acute.

"Tennis, golf and other athletic stars improve their game by having a professional pick out their shortcomings. They then strive to correct that weakness by constant practice in that department of the game. By using the Broom Straw Method, a master teacher can quickly detect the weaknesses in an advanced player's game and take the necessary steps to correct them.

"A little toying with the prepared pack will convince any pair of the necessity of using more potent stop-and-go signals than are provided by the ordinary conventions. The 'proof of the pudding being in the eating,' you may wish to test the efficiency of different bidding conventions. The Broom Straw Method furnishes an ideal means of doing this. Simply deal with the prepared pack and try the various advocated conventions on each hand. Do this for some little time. Then compare results and see for yourself."

Bridge Problem.

South's contract is five diamonds, doubled by West. West opens the spade king. Can the contract be fulfilled? If so, how?

Answer: Yes, the five diamond contract can be fulfilled against the best defense, as follows: Declarer ruffs the spade king and leads a club to dummy's 10. The spade queen is returned and passed, declarer discarding a heart. After winning with the spade ace, West makes the best return of a club. Declarer wins in his own hand, cashes the heart ace, then leads a club to the ace, and discards the heart queen on the spade jack. A heart is ruffed by South, then South's high club is ruffed in dummy. South now ruffs away dummy's last heart, thereby reducing himself, West, and dummy, to three trumps. The diamond jack is led, and when West covers, he is permitted to hold the trick—his second trick. Now he must return a diamond from the K-9 to the combined tenace of A-7 in dummy and 10-8 in the closed hand.

Clothes for Southern Wear Stress Colors

By Bettina Bedwell.

On these dark, dripping December days, when other folks have their minds on Christmas, the fashion reporter lolls in more or less upholstered chairs looking at a parade of clothes that'll never have to face the grim weather conditions up north. One blast out of Canada or the northwest would slay these pretty darlings, but for coming cruises and southern resort vacations they're the answer to any style-aware 1940 maiden's prayer to be effective.

Designers think that we'll still want to wear slacks in the sun, but what slacks! They're cut on the same tailored lines, but made of absolutely gaudy plaids and sparkling stripes, which represent the taste of the vanished cowhand or the Spanish gaucho. Shirts, sweaters, and jackets to wear with these are made of pastel colored wool, linen, rayon, or silk. Very short jackets, double-breasted and sporty looking, are new. Some of them leave a strip of diaphragm out in public view. They're bolero length. Soft shirts of silk or printed cotton are cut something like shirts worn by swordsmen, or they're cowboy items.

Topcoats headed south are no less colorful. Swagger back coats, long, loose, and made to swank around in, come in plaid wools, the plaids much smaller but even more colorful, and they come, too, in pale pastel colors that are odd and new looking, or they may be had in stable shades such as navy blue, but with brilliant linings and often gleaming buttons. There's a decidedly military air to many of these coats, and the cape coat, that stems from parade greatcoats worn by officers, is new. High crowned, visored hats that would make an Italian officer dither with delight are ready to march off with these coats.

Jacket and dress ensembles, and jacket and skirt suits, continue to be a "must" in the resort and cruise wardrobe. However, these new jacket costumes must have no grim severity to them. The style is for softened suits but minus any weeping willow femininity. Very flaring skirts with short, fitted jackets look the right way when they have interesting pocket and lapel treatment. Look at the pockets and lapels of your suit, and see to it that they have personality. Another point to insist on is color. This season colors look very different. There is a ginger shade of jacket, worn over a white sports dress, that's what I mean. A "plane" gray tweed skirt with a checked tweed jacket in turquoise and gray, over a luscious red cashmere sweater, is another of these distinguished and different color scheme sports ensembles.

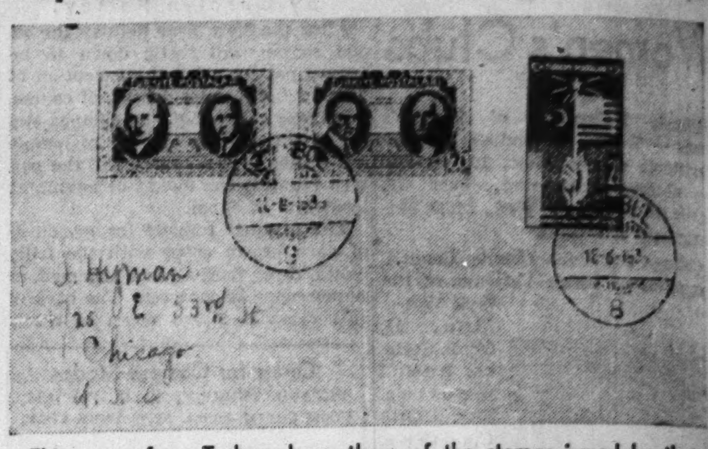
Every right thinking southern traveler will have some of those draped turbans that are no more than a handkerchief in weight, but that make the ordinary handkerchief simply unthinkable. Often these are draped with the point of the folded handkerchief falling over the nape of the neck, and they're pulled up to make high drapery at the top of the head. They may combine straw and printed cotton or silk. Cotton printed with designs in the rich blacks, browns, tawny shades, and white of Java are used for some of these stunning turbans.

A southern resort coat with a future is one of the military topcoats that are being shown privately for future wear. It is made of a blue that is deeper, but like the blue of a cadet's uniform, a smooth wool being the material. It fastens down the front on two rows of carved gold buttons, and has a belt around sides and back of the waistline. The impudent shoulder capelet is lined with bright, bright red, and the visor felt hat is bright red with blue ribbon trimming. A big handbag is made of alternating stripes of blue and flowered grosgrain.

The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning values. Do not ask where stamps may be sold, as the Stamps and Coins advertising section adjoining contains offers to buy and sell. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.



This cover from Turkey shows three of the stamps issued by that country in commemoration of the inauguration of the constitution of the United States. These stamps bear the portraits of Presidents Roosevelt and Washington and a representation of the United States flag. The cover was lent by S. Hyman of Chicago.

Supposedly, there is nothing new under the sun, but stamp collectors are continually confronted with something which is not explained in last year's handbooks. The most recent development is "electric eye" perforating, and since it promises to become the normal method of perforating United States stamps, an explanation of the process may help to clear away some of the mystery of the name. Our material has been taken largely from articles written by H. M. Southgate, and published in the Bureau Specialist, a publication of the Bureau Issues association.

The experiments with electric eye perforators were made almost wholly for stamp collectors in an attempt to improve the centering of stamps. Perhaps the trials would never have been made, however, had not other printing industries been interested in the perfect division of items printed in multiple on sheets and webs of paper.

The mechanical work of equipping a perforating machine with photoelectric cell control was done at the bureau of engraving and printing under the supervision of Henry J. Holtzclaw of the General Electric company.

In adapting the photoelectric cell or relay to the perforators, two units were used. One of these was arranged to control the horizontal perforations and the other for the vertical perforations. The means employed to actuate the relay, which controled the vertical perforations, was a row of large colored dashes engraved in the center of the vertical gutter between the right and left panes. So long as the line of dashes was centered under the eye, the perforating mechanism was performing as desired, but if the line of dashes wandered to one side or the other due to shrinkage or twisting in the paper, the electric eye went into action and energized a mechanism which shifted the six central perforating wheels in the proper direction to overcome the difficulty. The remaining 16 wheels of the perforator were not controled by the eye, but were adjustable by hand.

The control of the horizontal perforations depended upon a single colored dash located in the right hand margin of the sheet opposite the center on the horizontal gutter. When this dash did not appear in its proper relation to the eye, a mechanism sped up or retarded the flow of the paper until the proper results were obtained. Since the vertical control was constantly scanning the line of dashes, the adjustments were always slight. On the other hand, the horizontal perforations, if not corrected, could accumulate their error until the perforations were in the middle of the stamp, or beyond.

The first plates made for electric eye perforation were numbered 21149 and 21150. They were plates of the 2 cent red stamp, series of 1923 and curved for the rotary press. They were put to press in November, 1933, but it was not until a year later that the first sheets were perforated on the new machine. The distribution of these began on Feb. 5, 1935, and over 9 million were issued on that and the following day.

A future article will describe the improvements made in this type of perforating and indicate the changes made in plates used for printing the stamps.

The summarized list of all United States postal cards lists is concluded in this issue. It gives the date of issue of each card, the official government designation of each, and for reference purposes the number used in Scott's United States catalog is added. All 1 cent cards are domestic, 2 cent and 3 cent cards are international unless otherwise indicated, and multiple value cards indicate those which have paid reply cards attached. All cards measure 5½ by 3¼ inches unless otherwise noted:

Oct. 27, 1911—2 cent, Grant, red, "No. 7" UX 25.

July 29, 1913—1 cent, Lincoln, green, 5 by 3 inches, same design as card issued Jan. 21, 1911. "No. 5" UX 26.

June 4, 1914—1 cent, Jefferson, green, "No. 8" UX 27.

Sept. 18, 1915—1 + 1 cent, same as card of Oct. 27, 1911, but inscriptions altered including omission of word "only," so that instructions read "This side of card is for address," "No. 6" UY 62-63.

Dec. 22, 1916—1 cent, Jefferson card issued on white paper until Feb. 13, 1917. "No. 8." Not listed by Scott.

March 14, 1917—1 cent, Lincoln, green, 5 by 3 inches. New design, portrait on colorless background and otherwise simplified. "No. 5" UX 28.

Oct. 22, 1917—2 cent [domestic], Jefferson, red. "No. 9" UX 29. Same but new die, finer impression. "No. 9" UX 30.

Aug. 2, 1918—2 + 2 cent [domestic], George and Martha Washington, red. "No. 10" UY 64-65.

1920—UX 29 revalued "1 cent" in single line, UX 31; UX 29 revalued "1 cent" in two lines, UX32; UX 30 revalued as last, UX33; UX 24 revalued as last in error, UX 34; cards UX 13, UX 6, and UX 25 were revalued "1 cent," in two lines, and are listed as UX 35, UX 36, and UX 38; 1 cent cards UX 26 and UX 27 were revalued "1 cent," in two lines, in error, and are listed as UX 39 and UX 41; 1 cent cards UX 26 and UX 27 were revalued 2 cents in error and are listed as UX 40 and UX 42; 2 cent cards UX 29 and UX 30 were revalued 2 cents in error and are listed as UX 43 and UX 44. The 2 + 2 cent, domestic cards UY 64-65 were revalued "1 cent" in two lines and are listed as UY 66-67. There are many types of the overprints.

Jan. 29, 1926—3 cent, McKinley, red. "No. 11." UX 45. 3 + 3 cent, McKinley, red, 5½ by 3½ inches. "No. 12." UY 70-71.

No change in United States postal cards has been made by the postoffice department since 1926.

Frank Zaracki, 2763 Dupont street, Omaha, Neb., will send an assortment of five bi-colored poster stamps to any one who sends him return postage.

The hobby of poster stamp collecting continues to grow rapidly. The P. S. E. X. Clotilde Children's Patterns

This pattern is not strictly for little girls, because sisters up to 14 years of age wear the ensemble. Depending upon the fabric chosen, this costume may be worn for school hours or party events. The original is created for festive occasions, with the jacket top of striped silk and the flaring skirt of contrasting color crêpe. Velvet, velveteen and woolens also are suitable materials, and the two pieces may match or contrast.

The blouse has a Peter Pan collar, altho the sketch at the right illustrates how effective this style may be without a collar. The puffed sleeves may be long or short, and the button arrangement also is optional.

Style No. 3124 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14. Size 8 requires 1 yard of 39 inch material for jacket and 1⅛ yards for skirt.

3124 SIZES 6-14

Address orders for Clotilde Children's fashions to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing ten cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred — wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

WINSTON CHURCHILL

(World-Famous Statesman)

RETELLS THE STORY OF

TESS OF THE D'URBERVILLES

BY THOMAS HARDY

FOREWORD The most famous of Thomas Hardy's novels is "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," which is retold here in short story form by Winston Churchill, first lord of the British admiralty. Hardy was a celebrated English poet and novelist who with a facile pen dealt not with civilization and manners but directly with the principle of life itself. "Tess of the D'Urbervilles" was first published in 1891. So great was Hardy in the English-speaking world of literature that when he died in 1928 his ashes were buried in Westminster abbey. It is fitting and proper that the condensation of his classic into short story form should be done by another noted Briton. Churchill is known the world over not only as a statesman but as an excellent writer in a wide field of subjects. The second story of the Fiction Section, "Home for the Holiday," by Margaret E. Sangster, is a delightful and seasonable tale. It has a merry Christmas ending and an enjoyable freshness that discloses the author's ability as a story teller.

[Copyright: 1933: By Harper & Brothers.]

HERE is tragedy, sublime, inexorable, annihilating. It is tragedy on the grandest scale, but also presented in its most pitiful guise. The author has known how to combine the forces of fate and passion with the weary pressures of humble, frugal, stinted existence. Thomas Hardy's art has drawn together in these pages all the promptings of proud and ancient blood and all the simplicities and embarrassments of poverty. Not only does he slowly close the shears of doom; he tortures with all the pinchers of commonplace need. Yet it is only from so complex and disproportionate a foundation that the character of Tess could have arisen immortal in all its womanhood and nobility.

The story opens in the Vale of Blackmoor, a fertile and sheltered tract of green fields so small that the hedges look from above like the meshes of a net; a broad, rich mass of grass, and trees, and running streams; the air is languorous and tinged with azure. Here on a May evening the "haggler," John Durbeyfield, was lurching homeward on his rickety legs, his empty egg basket on his arm, when Parson Tringham on his gray mare saluted him: "Good evening, Sir John!"

John was puzzled by the address, and the parson explained that he had been digging out genealogies and discovered in him the representative of the great Norman family of D'Urberville, who once had vast estates and houses in the south and a vault of knightly graves at Kingsbere, but had taken a downward turn in the 17th century and sunk into the common ruck. John is dazzled; he sits down by the roadside to think it out, and when a country lad passes by he tells him the news.

"There's not a man in South Wessex that has grander skillentons in his family than I," he says, and sends him for a carriage from the Pure Drop at Marlott.

Outside the village the annual "club walking" is in progress—an ancient May ceremony in which all the women, young and old, dress in white and go in procession to dance in the fields. Tess Durbeyfield, a beautiful girl of 17, with a skin of cream and roses, masses of dark hair, and the stature of a goddess, is astonished to see her father driving past in state, but she cannot leave the dance. A little later three young gentlemen, evidently brothers on a walking tour, stop to watch the proceedings and the youngster, whose name is Angel Clare, stays behind to dance with one of the village girls. His appearance has a grace and distinction such as Tess has never seen and she wishes he had chosen her, but he does not notice her till he is hurrying off to catch up with his brothers. Then he has the same wish, but it is too late.

Tess Finds Parents Agog with New-Found Glories

Tess goes home and finds her parents agog with the new-found glories of their birth and state. Her mother, Joan, remembers hearing of a rich Mrs. D'Urberville who lives some miles away at Trantridge. She must be a relation and will no doubt welcome her new kinsfolk and help the lovely Tess to a grand marriage. John shambles off to celebrate at the public house, after a time Joan goes to fetch him, leaving Tess in charge of her little brothers and sisters, Liza-Lu, aged 12; Abraham, aged 9, and four still younger.

In the end Tess has to fetch both her parents home herself, and John is so drunk that he cannot start next morning at 2 o'clock, as he should, to haggle his hens at Casterbridge, so Tess and little Abraham have to go in his stead. Tess falls asleep and the poor old horse, Prince, taking the wrong side of the road, is killed in the dark by the mail cart as it dashes along.

The loss of Prince spells ruin to the family fortunes and poor Tess, in her remorse for her share in the accident, overcomes her reluctance to thrust herself upon her supposed grand relation. The kinship is mythical, for the lady was the widow of a north country manufacturer and money lender who had bought an estate in Wessex on his retirement and, with the aid of a faked pedigree, coolly assumed the grand old local name.

But Tess could know nothing of this, and when, by van and on foot, arrayed in her best white muslin, she made her way to the Slopes she was surprised to find a brand new red brick house surrounded by trim lawns and acres of glass, very unlike the notion she had formed of the home of her ancestors. While she hesitated at the entrance a young man, evidently the son of the house, came out of a tent on the lawn and asked her business. He was a flashy fellow, the reader perceives, tall, swarthy, near handsome, with full red lips and bold, black, rolling eyes.

Alec, for that was his name, accepted the cousinship with amusement, fed her with strawberries in the hothouse, and sent her home loaded with fruit and roses. Letters in a masculine hand arrived at the cottage signed with Mrs. D'Urberville's name, offering Tess the charge of a fowlhouse and giving her directions for journeying by cart to the Slopes. But the cart turned out to be Alec's own gig, driven by himself, and his behavior caused Tess such grave misgivings that she let her hat blow off and, after dismounting to pick it up, insisted on walking the rest of the way while Alec drove beside her at a foot's pace.

Involved in Brawl and Rescued by Alec

Her sense of duty to her family held her to her engagement. Mrs. D'Urberville proved to be a blind old lady whose chief interest in life was a daily visit from her cocks and hens, each of which she knew by touch, so Tess was left to her own resources against Alec's persistent advances. For three months she held her own. But then, on the return from a collective expedition of the villagers for Saturday dancing and drinking at Chaseborough [Cranborne], Tess was involved in a brawl and set upon by two jealous castoff mistresses of Alec's, nicknamed Queens of Spades and Diamonds.

Suddenly a horseman appeared upon the scene and came to the rescue. It was Alec D'Urberville. Taking her upon his saddle, he rode off with her thru the autumn mist toward the Chase forest. After a time they were lost and he bade her wait for him while he sought the road. When he came back she was sleeping on the leaves and ferns. There in the darkness and the silence, under ancient oaks and yews, he had his will of her. Doubtless, suggests the author, some of Tess D'Urberville's male ancestors rollicking home from a fray had dealt out even more ruthless measure toward the peasant girls of their time.

The next phase is nearly a year later. Tess in her trouble has been received into her happy-go-lucky family with whimsical disappointment but little reprobation. She has passed thru many pains of soul and body. The bogus D'Urberville had disappeared—Tess had been too proud to invoke his proffered aid. The birth of her baby restored her once again to touch with life. We see her by August in the harvest field suckling her little son when Liza-Lu brought him at midday. There is a pitiful account of the infant's death and of his burial among the nettles in the unconsecrated part of the churchyard, with a little home made wooden cross at his head and flowers in a marmalade jar at his feet.

In the following May she heard of a vacancy on a dairy farm in a valley many miles to the southward of Marlott, among the former estates of the D'Urbervilles, and with her unexpended youth surging up in her once more, bringing with it hope and the invincible instinct toward self-delight, she set out for the Vale of the Var.

Besides the three dairy maids, Marian, Izz, and Retty, who with Tess shared the farm dormitory, there was only one inmate, Angel Clare, the youth who had taken part in the club walking at Marlott. His father was vicar of Emminster, an Evangelical clergyman of the straitest Pauline sect, and he had been destined, like his two elder brothers, for the church, but the difficulties about the 39 articles had supervened and he was now at the age of 26 a free thinker and a rebel against all conventions, studying the dairy business with the view of becoming a farmer. Tess recognized him at once.

As the splendid summer went slowly by the two were thrown together in the idyllic intimacies of the dairy farm, from the early morning twilight when Tess walked like some primeval goddess thru the luminous gloom of the pastures till dawn transformed her into a piece of merely human loveliness, and on thru the long golden days till the gray of evening they were together and love grew up between them. The other three maids were all in love with Clare, but in the simplicity of their generous natures they recognized without jealousy that they had no chance against Tess' beauty, her intelligence, and her natural distinction.

Poor Tess was ill at ease, for since her seduction she had made up her mind that she could never marry, but tho for this reason she would not stand in the way of the other three there was a secret joy in every proof that she was preferred. It was not till August that the supreme moment came. One afternoon when Clare and Tess were milking together in a lonely field he looked up and on a sudden saw her beauty with new eyes; a breeze passed thru his nerves and he almost fainted; then he kicked over his stool and, kneeling by her side, clasped her in his arms. Her heart went out to him and she sank on him with a cry of ecstasy; they told each other of their love, and from that instant the world was changed for them both.

Clare Urges Tess to Become His Wife

After some family consultations he asked her to be his wife. She told him that she loved him, but could not marry him and, tho the reasons she gave were incoherent, he thought it best to give her time.

The following months were spent in a growing intimacy. Clare told her of his free thinking, of his social creed, and his hatred and contempt for the great ones of the earth, especially for the old tyrannic families from one of which, tho he did not know it, she was descended. Time and again he repeated his proposal of marriage and on each occasion came closer to her defenses—it became evident that she had some one definite reason for her refusal. One afternoon on the drive home from taking the milk to the railway station he insisted on her telling him her secret and she gathered up her strength to reveal it, but at the last moment her instinct of self-preservation was too strong for her and she pretended that the barrier was her descent from the D'Urbervilles.

It was a great relief to Clare to find that this was all, and something in him that had nothing to do with his theories was secretly pleased that after all Tess was a kind of lady, so he thought it would be easy to reassure her. But Tess had lost her chance of confessing and her perplexity was greater than ever. She wrote to her mother, and got an answer advising her to keep her secret to herself.

But now there were practical questions to be faced. Tess would not be wanted at the farm in the winter, and Clare was planning a study of flour milling at another farm called Wellbridge, which was one of the old D'Urbervilles' houses fallen from its high estate, and he urged her to fix a day for the wedding, so that they could go there together. Day after day he pressed her and her courage always failed, but at last she agreed to New Year's eve.

On Christmas eve they went shopping in the town and two men passed them. "A comely maid," said one. The other was a Trantridge man and Tess remembered his face.

"Comely enough," he replied, "but no maid." Clare heard him and gave him a blow which sent him staggering. Her sense of guilt rushed in upon her and with it the resolve at all costs to expose the truth. It seemed less hard to write than to speak.

The next day she thrust a full confession under Angel's door and awaited the consequences. Nothing happened. He gave no sign of having read it, and when on the wedding morning she crept up to the room he had left she found her letter still sealed under the edge of the carpet.

So they were married and she had told him nothing! They went to the church in a very ancient vehicle, stately, rickety, a relic of bygone times produced from the local inn. There was a legend in the D'Urberville family of a spectral coach and horses which were seen or heard by those of the blood when disaster or crime impended upon them. Tess knew nothing of this story, but she felt she knew all about the coach from the inn.

"It is very odd," she said. "I must have seen it in a dream." He told her casually that a certain D'Urberville of the 16th or 17th century had committed a dreadful crime in his family coach, and that there was a local superstition about it. As they drove away from the farm to their new house at Wellbridge a cock crowed three times in the afternoon. It was an evil omen.

The house at Wellbridge stood near a ruined abbey, and was itself the remains of a partially demolished mansion which had belonged to the D'Urbervilles. Built into the staircase wall were two portraits of women, whose proud and treacherous faces bore a sinister family likeness to Tess. Her inner anxieties persisted, but she was diverted by a package from Clare's father containing jewels, a diamond necklace, bracelets, and earrings which had been left by his wealthy godmother to be given to his bride and made an heirloom.

Tess put them on and they gave a new luster to her beauty. As the two sat hand in hand by the warm firelight, which sparkled in the diamonds which she wore on her neck and arms, she poised once more upon the verge of confession. Suddenly he anticipated her with a confession of his own. He could not be at ease till he had owned, as he put it, that he had "plunged into 48 hours of dissipation with a stranger." So he, too, was not without guilt, and she on her side, thank God, had something to forgive.

With a gasp of relief she began her own story. This is the climax. The fire in the grate looked impish and the fender grinned. As she bent forward each diamond on her neck gave a sinister wink like a toad's. All material objects around them announced their irresponsibility with terrible iteration as in a low, level voice Tess, murmuring the words without flinching, recounted her acquaintance with Alec D'Urberville and its results.

Angel Clare only realized gradually what she was saying. He stirred the fire; he walked about the room. By the time he sat down he knew what he thought, and he told her without reproof, but with determination, that she was no longer the woman he thought he was marrying. He was not angry, but his love for her was gone. It was not a case of forgiveness. She was a different person.

She pleaded with him, crouched at his feet, at first white faced in an insane dry voice of terror, then in a rush of weeping which lessened to an intermittent catching gasp, and at last she spoke in her natural tones, submissively.

"I shan't do anything," she said, "unless you order me to, and if you go away from me I shall not follow; and if you never speak to me any more I shall not ask why. I will obey you like your wretched slave, even if it is to lie down and die." But nothing moved him, and after a time he walked out into the night, which was clear and starry.

Husband Tells Her He Never Can Love Her

Tess followed him with dumb and vacant fidelity, over the great bridge into the fields and thru the abbey ruins; then, catching him up, she pleaded with him again, but still to no purpose. She offered to drown herself in the river, but all he would say was that he forgave her, but could never love her again. At last he bade her go to her room, and she went back to the house and fell into a deep sleep under a now ironic bunch of mistletoe which Clare had hung over the bed. Clare came in later and listened outside the door to her calm breathing. Then he lay down on the couch in the sitting room.

When they met the next morning they were but the ashes of their former fires. To the hot sorrow of the night heaviness had succeeded, and Tess told and Clare heard with dull apathy how she had always supposed that if he wished he would be able to divorce her, and that had not her courage failed she would have hanged herself in the night under his mistletoe. Clare was shocked but not touched. He was a rare but limited being. At the core of his gentle, affectionate nature there was a vein of unconquerable hardness. To such feeling as he still had for her she was too simple and too humble to appeal with any art; she accepted his judgment of her and thought all evil of herself, none of him. So they passed three days in estrangement, and Tess, giving up her last hope, told him that she would go home to her parents.

A few days later they drove away toward Marlott, and just outside the village Clare stopped the fly and led her down a lane. There they parted.

He told her gently that, tho there was no anger, there was that between them which he could not endure. He would do his best to endure it, and if he could he would come back to her. If he did not she must not come to him, or write, unless she were ill or in want. He gave her money and said he would send the diamonds to the bank. Then he led her back to the fly, bade her good-by, and followed the carriage with his eyes, suddenly hoping that she would look back, but she was lying in a half dead faint inside. When she passed over the crest of the hill he turned to go his own way, hardly knowing that he loved her still.

For the next three weeks he wandered about looking half heartedly for a farm that would suit him, but finding himself quite unable to recover his balance. Then he paid his parents a visit at Emminster and told them he was emigrating to Brazil, giving them to understand that Tess had agreed to live with her family for a year while he made a home to which he could fetch her when he was ready.

Next he went to settle up with the farmer at Wellbridge, and there he ran across Izz Huett, the dairymaid from Talbothays. He found that she was still in love with him, and in the degradation of his misery and loneliness he asked her to come with him to South America. Perhaps she would have consented, but he tried to make her say that she loved him more than Tess had, and she was too honest.

"Nobody could love 'ee more than Tess did," she told him. "She would have laid down her life for 'ee. I could do no more."

At these words he had a sudden revulsion, and all the reward that poor Izz got for her honesty was that he left her, having broken her heart for the second time. Soon after he sailed for Brazil, and to the reader's relief he passes out of the story for a while.

Meantime Tess had found that there was no place for her at home. Her mother took her downfall with her usual inconsequence: Tess had been a fool, but accidents would happen, and her father brooded over it with sudden mortification. After a few days she went off to work on a distant dairy farm, leaving her parents 25 of the 50 pounds that Clare had given her.

When October came there was no more work for her at Port-Bredy and her money was all gone, but just as she was growing desperate she heard from Marian of a vacancy at a farm in another part of the county. Flintcomb-Ash was a very different scene from the Vales of Blackmoor and Var, and Hardy gives us a third of his surpassing landscapes. It was a "starve-acre place." The work was swede-hacking and swede-trimming; the winter was severe.

One day in these hard times Tess stopped to listen to a "ranter," an itinerant evangelist who was putting the fear of hell into a small audience of villagers—and who should he be but Alec D'Urberville? She fled, but not before he had recognized her, and she had not walked far when he came running after her. He had experienced a sudden conversion, he told her, and by a strange coincidence it was old Mr. Clare who had changed his heart. He had never forgotten her, but now she need not fear him. His dearest wish was to share with her his new salvation.

Yet even while he spoke her beauty began to work on him again, and he was afraid. They walked on together till they reached the Cross-in-Hand, the most forlorn spot in all that bleached and desolate upland, named after a strange and sinister monolith of unknown origin, on which a hand was roughly carved, and there, putting her hand on the stone, he made her swear that she would never tempt him.

But the oath was of no avail. From that day forward, tho nothing was further from her thoughts or wishes, Tess was an obsession to him. At first he asked her to marry him, and forced her to tell him she had a husband, but his fit of piety was as brief as it had been intense, and it was already yielding to his revived passion when a short conversation in which Tess retailed some of the free thinking arguments with which Clare had undermined her own faith sufficed to drive it away for good and all. Thereupon he resumed his original morals and with them his old get-up as a provincial masher.

Time after time he came to her when she was alone—in the turnip field, in the cottage, on the platform of the threshing machine, where she had stayed to have her luncheon while the other threshers ate theirs out of sight in the field below. At last he boldly invited her to go away with him, and she struck him on the mouth with her farm gauntlet. In the afternoon he came back and asked her pardon, offering his help for herself and her family. Poor Tess saw no escape from his resourceful siege, and that evening she wrote an exceedingly beautiful and touching letter to Clare, telling him she was in danger and imploring him to come to her or let her go to him. But Clare in Brazil was stricken down by fever.

Soon after this Liza-Lu came to Flintcomb-Ash with the news of illness at home. Tess returned to Marlott and took charge. On a March evening old D'Urberville dropped dead of heart disease. This meant that the family was turned out of the house and they planned to take up their abode at Kingsbere, where the ancient D'Urbervilles had their burial ground. On the evening before their departure Alec appeared and proposed that Tess should go back to her old post of poultry keeper at the Slopes and install the family in the fowl house. Maddened by his persecution she was seized for the first time with resentment of Clare's neglect and wrote him an angry letter of protest, telling him that she could never forgive his cruel injustice and would try thenceforth to forget him.

Next day the Durbeyfields, with all their wretched belongings, drove to Kingsbere, only to find that the rooms they had counted upon were occupied. There was nothing for it but to unload their furniture and encamp for the night in the churchyard under the wall of the D'Urberville Aisle. When she had put the children to bed Tess entered the church and surveyed the ruined tombs of her ancestors. On one of them there was a recumbent effigy, and as she passed before it the figure seemed to move. With a shock she recognized Alec, who had pursued her even there. He went away when she bade him, but she wished that she herself were buried in the vault. . . . Here Hardy parts company with her for a time and we have to imagine the final stages by which she became Alec's mistress for the second time.

He Returns from Brazil—Too Late

Meanwhile Clare had been greatly changed by his experiences in Brazil. His dreams of successful settlement had gone up in smoke, his health was ruined by illness, and he had learned thru suffering to discredit the appraisements of the morality in which he had been brought up. The beauty or ugliness of a character was found, as he now saw, not only in its achievements but in its aims and impulses; its true history lay not among things done but among things willed.

Tess appeared to him in a new light. The strength and simplicity of her devotion far outweighed the lapse for which he had cast her off, and when her first appealing letter reached him he made up his mind to go back to her at once. When he came to Emminster he was so altered that his father and mother could hardly believe it was he.

You could see the skeleton behind the man, says Hardy in a vivid phrase, and almost the ghost behind the skeleton. Tess' second despairing and accusing letter was waiting for him and it filled him with remorse. He tracked Tess to a stylish lodging house at Sandbourne [Bournemouth].

The landlady showed him into the dining room and Tess came down to him, more beautiful than ever, in an embroidered cashmere dressing gown. He held out his arms, but she stood still in the doorway. "It is too late," she said in a hard voice, with unnaturally shining eyes; and at first that was all she would say. Gradually he forced her to tell him how she had waited and waited for him; how Alec had been kind to her and her family, and how at last he had won her back. They parted. As Tess went upstairs a surge of hatred for Alec swept thru her being. How he had ruined her; how he had lied to her. He had sworn that her husband would never come to her again, but he had come back. Too late. Too late! Her beloved had returned and she was barred from him forever by this man who had pursued her to her doom.

The landlady, full of curiosity about the early visitor and his abrupt departure, crept upstairs and put her eye and her ear to the keyhole of the room to which Tess had retreated. She could see her kneeling beside a chair and hear her moaning and accusing herself of she knew not what. Afraid of being found spying, she went to her kitchen and soon after saw Tess leave the house in her walking dress. Pondering over the problem of these doings she lay back in her chair. Suddenly she noticed a tiny dark spot on the ceiling. After a while she saw that it was red. Presently it grew into a large ace of hearts.

A Carving Knife Thru Alec's Heart

Running upstairs she paused at the bedroom door. The dead silence within was broken only by a regular beat. Drip, drip, drip. Within, Alec was lying on the bed with a carving knife thru his heart. There was a dangerous streak in the D'Urbervilles.

Clare had gone to the station, but there was no train for an hour. He couldn't keep still, so he set out on foot for the next station on the line. As he walked Tess came running after him, pale, breathless, and quivering in every muscle. She told him she had killed Alec because he had come between them. Surely he would love her now? Clare was dazed, but the one certainty was her overpowering love for him and a passion of tenderness drove every thought from his mind.

He kissed her endlessly with his white lips and promised to protect her whatever she might have done. A strange, intoxicating happiness came over them and hand in hand they wandered on thru the green forests like two children without a plan. At last they came to a large old country house, with a board announcing that it was to let. Clare left her sitting in the garden and came back with food and the news that the house was empty, only visited on fine days by an old caretaker from a hamlet near by.

They went in and found a bedroom with crimson damask hangings and a huge old four post bed. In this room they stayed for six days, undisturbed by the old woman, who never came upstairs. Then, one morning she opened their door and, seeing them asleep, went off to consult the neighbors. Tess awoke with the consciousness that some one had been in the room and they decided to leave the house and walk northward, hoping to reach a seaport, where nothing would be known of the murder and sail from thence.

"Ah! happy house," she exclaimed with a gesture of farewell.

About midnight they passed thru Melchester [Salisbury] and followed the turnpike road which, after a few miles, plunged across an open plain. The moon had sunk and the night was as dark as a cave, but they groped their way along till, on a sudden, Clare became conscious of a vast structure rising sheer from the grass in front of them. It was a group of colossal rectangular pillars, thru which the wind boomed like the notes of a gigantic one stringed harp, and he knew it must be Stonehenge.

There they lay down and slept till dawn. When Clare awoke the eastward pillars stood up blackly against the growing light and a figure was approaching from the hollow beyond the Sunstone. He heard the brush of feet behind him, and before he was aware there was another at hand on the right and another on the left till he was surrounded by 16 men.

"Let her finish her sleep," he begged, and the police consented. All stood silently watching her till a ray of light in her eyes awoke her.

"What is it, Angel?" she said. "Have they come for me?"

"Yes, dearest, they have come."

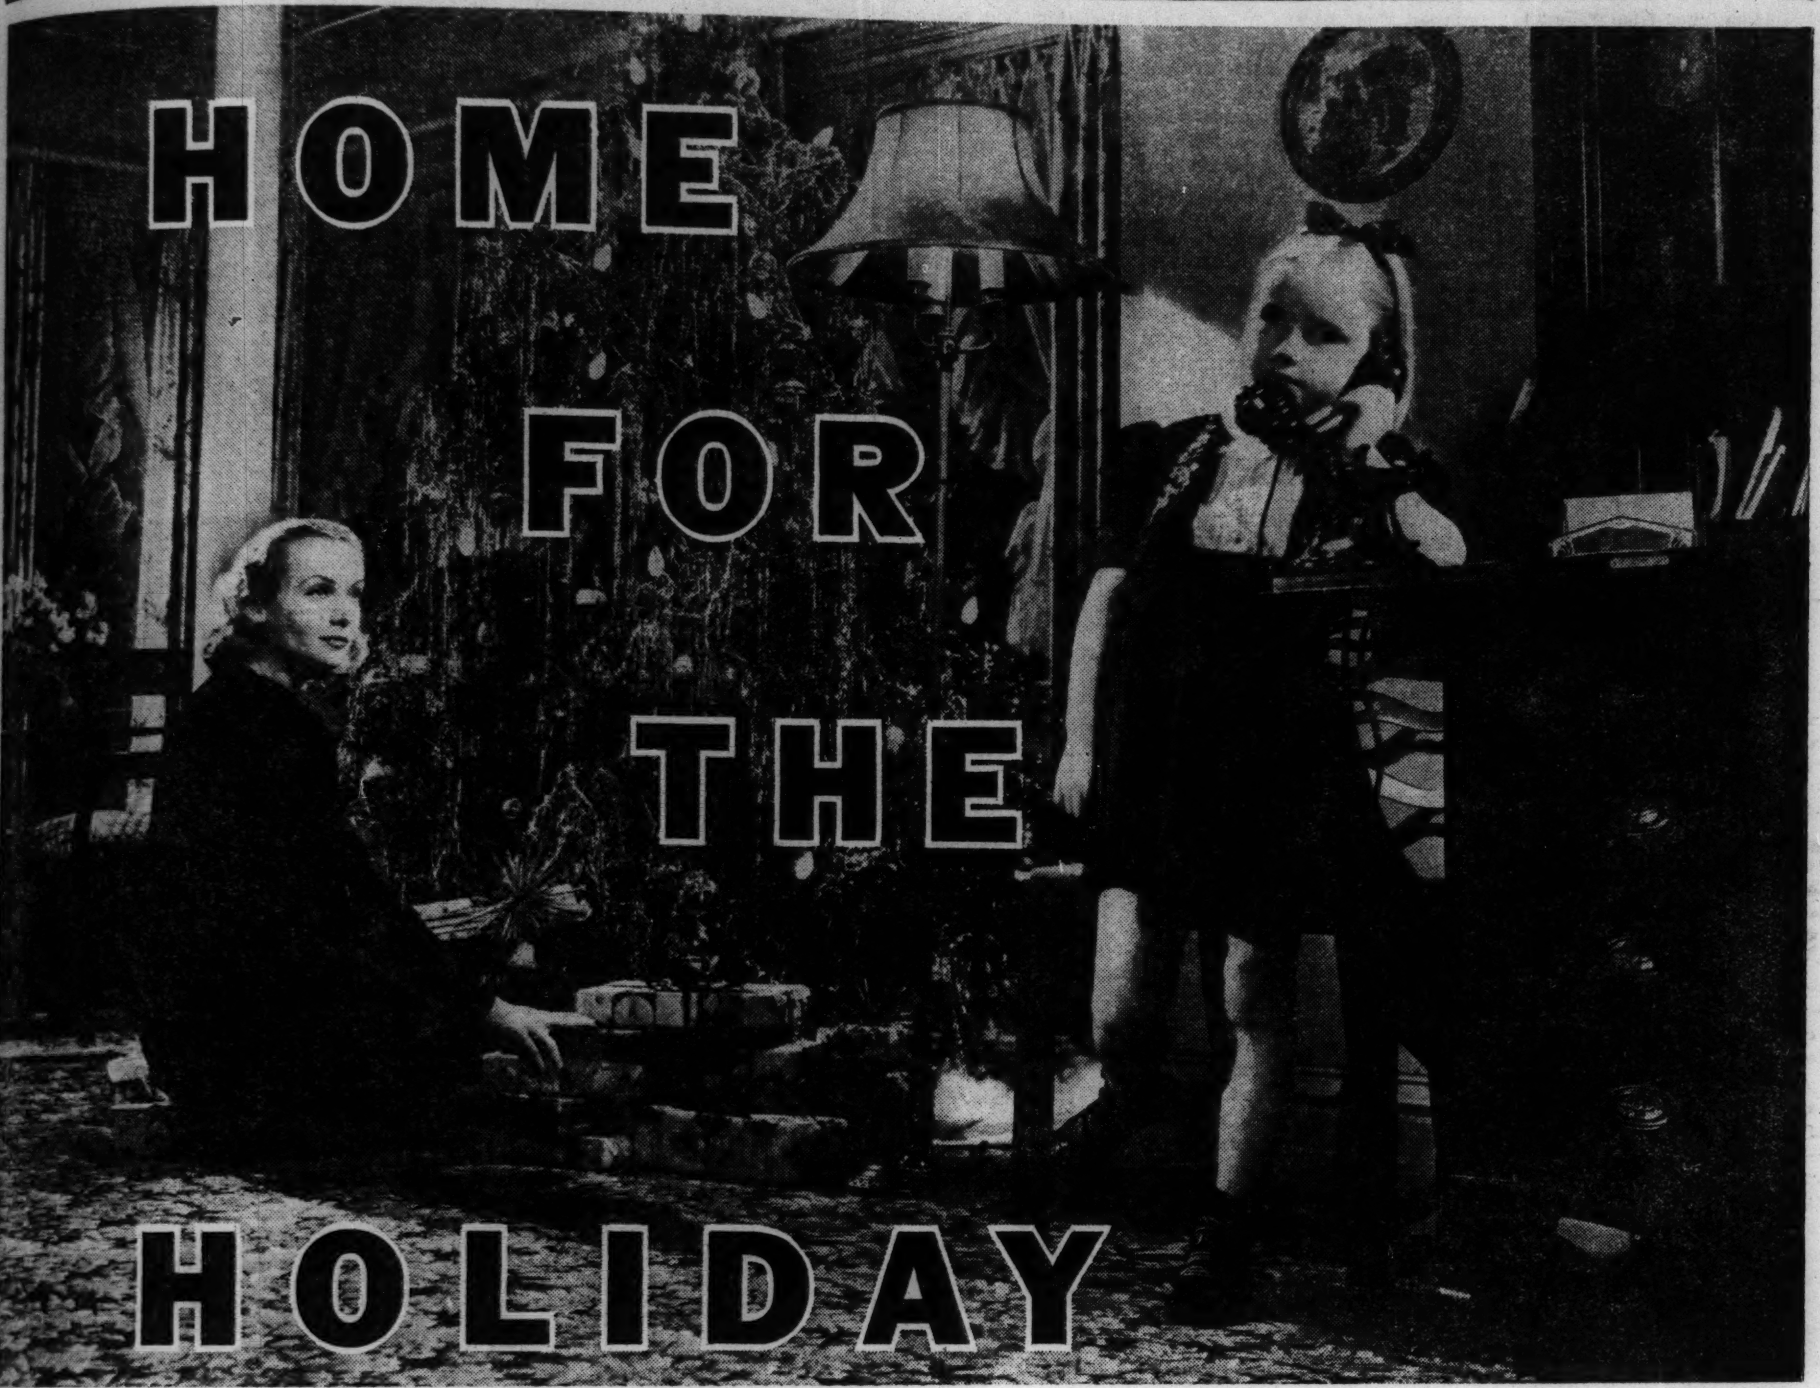
"It is as it should be," she murmured. "This happiness could not have lasted. I have had enough and now I shall not live for you to despise me." She stood up and went forward.

"I am ready," she said quietly.

Some weeks afterward, in the early morning, Clare and Liza-Lu were walking hand in hand, with bowed heads, up the measured mile which leads from the western gate of Winchester. When they had nearly reached the top of the great west hill the clocks in the town struck eight. They walked on to the first milestone and there suddenly stood still, turned, and waited in paralyzed suspense beside the stone. On a high tower, rising far below against the east horizon, they saw something move slowly up the flagstaff and spread itself on the breeze. It was a black flag.

"Justice" was done and the President of the Immortals had ended his sport with Tess. And the D'Urberville knights and dames slept on in their tombs unknowing. The two watchers bent themselves down to the earth as if in prayer, while still the flag waved silently. As soon as they had strength they rose, joined hands again, and went on.

HOME FOR THE HOLIDAY



By Margaret E. Sangster

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

IT WAS midafternoon when Clarissa Vane parked her low-slung roadster just beyond the gate and came slowly up the path with her correct, narrow suitcase held tightly in her correct, narrow, perfectly gloved hand.

A slim woman, Clarissa—past her first youth and more beautiful than she had been 10 years ago. This, probably, because her face held something more than youth. There were snowflakes on the collar of her mink coat, and snowflakes on her lashes, and one—star shaped—was perched upon the tip of her nose. She brushed at the star shaped flake with the hand that didn't hold the suitcase.

The house loomed up, whitely, thru the storm. It was like a child seated on a corner hassock at a grown-up party. Clarissa had always felt the charm of that house—she had never, not once, begrudged the dusting and sweeping that its wide old floors demanded. Often while painstakingly ironing the ruffled curtains, she had hummed a gay tune. And even when she was feeding wood to the hungry cookstove——

Clarissa laughed. That cookstove! She climbed the two stone steps that led to the front door, with its brass knocker and its fanlight—they had once been millstones, those steps—and set down her suitcase and fumbled in her purse for a key. After all these—after more than a decade!

Her heart was beating faster than usual as she heard the key grate in the ancient lock. She was breathing rapidly as the door swung gently inward. Call it insanity if you will, call it caprice, call it anything—but here she was. Here she was—home for the holidays.

Of course, if the play hadn't closed the week before Christmas—the leading man must undergo a major operation and there was a clause in his contract—this homecoming would have been an impossibility. But the leading man had complained of tummy pains and the play had closed . . . if, when poking thru a box of trinkets, she hadn't come upon a key, she might have gone resignedly to the Ellsworths' house party. But she had come upon the key and had realized, simultaneously, that the Ellsworths and their like bored her.

"I'm tired," she had told them. "No, not physically tired—spiritually tired. I want to creep into a corner and invite my soul."

Billy Ellsworth, whose admiration of her was a theme for every columnist in the city, made answer.

"A corner of the Ritz you mean," he said, "with a maid and a butler and a secretary and a whole chorus of satellites."

Clarissa interrupted. "I said a corner," she corrected firmly. "I'm fed up with crowds, Billy. I want to be by myself. I own a little house in a country village—no, I won't tell you the name of the village—certainly not. I'll go there without my maid and without my butler and without my secretary. I'll be on my own."

Clarissa Boasts of Her Ability as a Cook

Billy queried, "How'll you eat?"

Clarissa Vane stretched out her white, narrow hands for his inspection.

"Believe it or not," she told him, "these ten fingers can whip up a mean omelette and cut out a meaner biscuit. I'm a good cook, Bill—or rather, I used to be. My husband married me for my cooking. He divorced me nearly ten years ago because a cake fell."

Billy laughed. All the Ellsworth crowd laughed. Even, after a moment, Clarissa laughed. But beneath the cloak of her laughter she was remembering why her husband, Arthur Vane, really had married her. And, much more important, why he had divorced her.

As she stepped over the threshold of the trim little white house, Clarissa was remembering how Arthur had carried her across the selfsame threshold when she was a bride.

"This is better than being an actress, isn't it?" he had begged. "Clarissa darling, this is living—not pretending."

Clarissa snuggled her head into the curve of his shoulder. She didn't tell him that the footlights she was leaving, to be the wife of a small town lawyer, were already dim. She didn't tell him that this tiny cottage was a haven after weeks on end of day coaches and cheap hostels and musty dressing rooms and second rate theaters. She only said——

"Why did you marry me, Art?"

Arthur Vane's voice had taken on a strange, furry sound. "Because I couldn't manage to live without you," he grated. "O, my dearest dear——"

Good cook, indeed!

Clarissa Vane had been 21 the day after her wedding, and she had been an actress for as long as she could remember, almost. She had read her first line when she was 6, more or less.

After four years of marriage the glow had become vague of outline. The shaded radiance of a reading lamp had taken its place, just as the fragrance of new bread and cedar logs and fresh lavender, in a linen chest, had taken the place of the grease paint. She had put on a little weight—not much, six or seven pounds, perhaps—and she was as near being contented as any woman ever is.

There were no children—probably there never would be—but she didn't feel the lack of them, as yet. The house was still too much of an adventure—Arthur was still too much of an adventure.

Opportunity Knocks at Arthur's Door

And then, when there wasn't anything more to wish for, not really, Arthur had come home one evening, breathless with excitement, and told her the great news, They were going to the city—yes, at once. That man Bellows who had bought a summer place in the next township—of course you remember, Clarissa, I did the title search for him!—had come forward with the offer of a job. There had been a long distance call that very afternoon and Arthur was mad with delight.

"Opportunity!" he kept saying. "I could stay in this town for a century and never get an inch farther ahead."

When Clarissa murmured something about pulling up stakes and how desperately it hurt, Arthur remarked, albeit tritely, that she must stop looking for trouble—that opportunity only knocks once in a lifetime.

"O, sure, we'll come back for vacations when we get around to it," he promised Clarissa as, thru tears, she went about her packing. "We'll leave the house all furnished—this stuff wouldn't fit into the city anyhow. But," he had laughed delightedly, "you won't want to come back, honey, once you're used to city ways again. Why, Buttonface, when you first married me and came out here to live you were at a loss."

"I know," nodded Clarissa, and went on with her packing, and before you could say Jack Robinson they were ensconced in a small apartment on the right cross street, with chaste Sheraton and broadloom rugs. Clarissa, in a daze part of the time, was going to an impersonal grocery store and ordering meat from a man who didn't know her first name, and there was a trim colored maid who did the cooking, and the kitchen stove was a miracle of chromium and green enamel and electricity.

Arthur made good from the very first—it was another miracle. He took to the city as a duck takes to water. His clothes changed and his speech changed and his point of view changed most of all. But even so, for the first two years it was not so bad. For almost 24 months Arthur managed to keep a certain freshness, a boyish enthusiasm.

"Isn't it swell, darling!" he'd ask Clarissa, as if he didn't credit his own luck, and Clarissa would nod and agree—"Yes, it's swell."

Arthur had brought home his problems during the first two years. Weighty problems, they seemed to Clarissa and, tho she couldn't do much about solving them, she was glad to listen and say—"Yes, you're right," whenever the occasion seemed to demand it.

Those first two years had been building years. They carried the Vanes to a larger apartment on an ever brighter side street, and they taugh Clarissa to play bridge an wear silver fox. The next two [illegible] had been different—they had been years of tearing down.

Like a bolt from the blue, Arthur had been given a partnership—prematurely, Clarissa thought in her soul—and his new sense of importance made a gulf between them. He was away from the newer and larger apartment more often than he was in it. He was gentle and generous, but there was something faintly remote, even in his generosity.

Clarissa was his wife and he loved her, but she no longer shared his problems. He seemed content to know that she would be there if he came home, and that she would be tolerant if he didn't. He was proud to have her grace his table when business made it necessary for him to give a smart dinner party, but when she dropped into his office there was a faint annoyance in his gesture of welcome and he seemed to begrudge the time it took him to write out a check or make a phone call.

Annoyed by Wife's Revelation of Past

By some curious magic—black magic—the small town lawyer had been swallowed up in the man of big town affairs. Something suave was taking the place of Arthur's eagerness. His mask of suavity slipped only once, and that was when he heard Clarissa confiding to a dinner partner that she had once been on the stage.

"Must you rattle the skeletons in our closet?" he asked after the guests had gone. "That fellow Moffett was brought here by an associate of mine, and——"

Clarissa interrupted. "Mr. Moffett wanted to know about me, Arthur—where I'd come from and what I'd done. He was very much interested in my—lurid past. You see, he has a finger in two or three theatrical pies."

"Let him," growled Arthur, "keep his finger out of our pie."

Clarissa nodded in grave agreement.

But the next evening, when Arthur had some doings with the bar association and Mr. Moffett phoned, she found it hard to say nonchalantly that he mustn't drop around. And the next evening, when Arthur was entertaining a client from Chicago and his secretary called to say that they were going stag to the Follies, Clarissa—goaded by loneliness—told the theatrical man that he might see her. He came bearing roses and bon bons—Clarissa had lost the surplus poundage—and, in a flat manila envelope, the script of a play.

"I wish you'd read this over, Mrs. Vane," he said—tendering the script. "This play—it's been on my desk for a week—was made for you. . . . No, not the star rôle—the second lead. When you read it you'll see what I mean."

Clarissa Vane read the script carefully, almost prayerfully, after Mr. Moffett—his first name was Tom—had gone home. She did see what he meant, the play was a hundred per cent—her property. The second lead was a fat part—and she knew what she could do with it. Hadn't she been trained to the theater?

The next night when Arthur had to attend a directors' meeting it was she who called Tom Moffett and asked him to drop in. "If you," she told him after his arrival, "can read the part of Nelson in the play, I'll do Adrienne. I'd like to get your opinion."

Tom Moffett stared at her. "But you have only one script," he said.

Clarissa told him, "I know the part. I learned it last night."

So she did Adrienne from memory and Tom Moffett went stumbling thru the scene opposite her. When it was all over—almost against his own volition—he crossed the room and took her in his arms.

"My dear Clarissa," he said. "O, my dear child! You'll accept the part, of course. It's good for three years on Broadway."

Clarissa didn't detach herself from his arms—why should she? It was not a moment of passion or high romance—it was a moment of healing and balm to a wounded spirit.

"Yes, I'll take the part," she said soberly, "and if it's one year or two years or three years——" She broke off, for Arthur Vane was standing in the doorway.

They Separate and Obtain a Divorce

That night Arthur moved to the club—with seven bags and a dressing case—and the next morning Clarissa sent his trunks after him. A week later he came around, asking for the explanation which, by that time Clarissa was too proud to give. Anyway, she wasn't home—she was in rehearsal.

Three months later Clarissa and Arthur Vane were divorced. Tom Moffet wasn't named as co-respondent—the affair was handled decorously, almost too decorously. When she got the notice of the divorce, Clarissa was reading other notices—critics notices—and, tho the tears were close, she couldn't shed them because Tom Moffett was sitting close beside her, glowing with the pride of a Pygmalion. He wasn't her lover—he was her manager.

Clarissa kept track of Arthur, altho he didn't pay her alimony—she'd refused alimony. "All I want," she had said thru her own lawyer, "is the little house." She kept track of him thru this case which he had won hands down, and that case which he lost after a brilliantly bitter struggle.

She often wondered if Arthur kept track of her, also via the medium of the press. Certainly the papers were full of Clarissa Vane—from the roto sections on down. At first, she was a skyrocket and people expected her to fizzle out. Then she was the school girls' matinée idol, and the college boys' delight. When she turned down a Hollywood contract she became something of a legend and people mentioned art in upper case when they spoke her name.

But thru it all Clarissa knew only that she was a trouper—a good average trouper. She threw herself into the job at hand with complete abandon. When you get right down to brass tacks, it was just work—much like sweeping an aged floor and ironing curtains, and feeding wood to a hungry stove.

And then, after ten years—ten long, busy, oddly lonesome years—she was poking thru a box of trinkets, and there was the key to the house and, two days later she was crossing the hall and entering the little living room that she and Arthur had called their parlor.

The house was neat—as clean as a peeled egg. That didn't surprise Clarissa, for she had an arrangement with a raw-boned country woman who came in once a week to dust and sweep. Even tho she herself had never returned to the place, she had taken comfort in knowing that this small house of dreams was not being neglected, in an actual sense.

It did surprise her a trifle that the house was warm, for it was real Christmas eve weather, what with the snow and the gray, lowering sky, and she had expected to find the house icy and inhospitable. Instead, it was quite as if some one had just stepped out for a moment—some one who would soon return.

Makes Herself at Home in Old Country House

Clarissa drew off her gloves and shrugged aside the unexpected warmth with gratitude, and asked no questions of fate. Doubtless the country woman had been in that day and had done a spot of fixing and had made a fire to keep herself from pneumonia.

"After a bit I'll go into the kitchen and take a look at the range," Clarissa told herself, "and then I'll climb into my car and go down to Grumbage's general store and lay in some supplies." She sighed suddenly. Only an unmitigated idiot would consider buying a Christmas tree—and yet, unless she was very much mistaken, there were ornaments in the hall closet on the top shelf.

She and Arthur had trimmed four Christmas trees in this house. The first had been the most cuddly, but the fourth had been unbelievably straight and slim and tall.

On sudden impulse Clarissa went hastily out of the living room and into the hall. She flung open the door of the hall closet and peered up. The country woman was efficient—there were no cobwebs in the closet—and, yes, the box of Christmas ornaments was still there. Would the tinsel be too tarnished to use, she wondered? Well, she'd take the box down presently and investigate, and——

Something brushed against her face. Clarissa started back, an exclamation of dismay on her lips, but it was only a coat swaying loosely from a hanger. A tweed coat—quite an interesting opulent tweed. Had she, in that flurry of packing ten years before, forgotten to include one of Arthur's overcoats? No, it wasn't possible—and besides, this tweed looked entirely unfamiliar.

O, well—she shrugged again, meeting the coat as she had met the warmth—why worry about unimportant details? After ten years and a divorce and a spectacular stage career, one can't be expected to remember an ex-husband's top coat!

Clarissa closed the closet door and went back to the living room and, standing in front of the mirror, removed her beret. Even in a house alone she ran a comb thru her short tousled curls—some folks would never take her for a serious actress until she could train her hair to lie smooth—and powdered her nose and drew a lipstick across a mouth that was less smiling than it should have been, under the circumstances.

The mink coat was slipping back from her shoulders. She tossed it aside onto the sofa that she and Arthur had bought at auction during the first month of their marriage. They had upholstered the sofa themselves, and she had bashed a thumb with the tack hammer and Arthur had kissed it to make it well.

She crossed to the whatnot—Arthur had found that during their first summer. They had rubbed it down with lemon oil and pumice until the walnut was mellow. There were all sorts of things on the whatnot—an Indian arrow head that they dug out of the zinnia bed, and a porcelain vinaigrette box, and a souvenir spoon, and a conch shell. If you held the shell to your ear you could hear the sea roaring far away.

Clarissa lifted the conch shell in her hands and held it to her ear. Yes, the sea was roaring against some distant sandy beach. Perhaps it was the beach of that Never Never Land where the boats that start out bravely on a voyage and fail to get there find a compromise harbor. Her boat and Arthur's had started out so bravely on a voyage and had failed——

Her reverie was broken by the sound of the hall door slamming violently. By the sound of a voice calling, "Are you in the living room, Buttonface?" And then Arthur stood in the doorway, with his face beaten red from the cold and a big parcel in his sweater clad arms. And Clarissa, staring at him, felt the sea shell slither from her fingers and heard it crash into a million pieces on the hard old floor.

Great Stories

Each Sunday The Chicago Tribune brings to you this special Fiction Section. Presented in it are Great Stories, Romances, Mysteries, and the like that are the finest works of the best of imaginative minds. Creations of present-day writers are offered along with those of the earlier masters. These all are vivid, thrilling, and gripping tales and well worth reading. Look for the Fiction Section. Read it! Save it!

Clarissa's first thought was that Arthur had expected her, for he had called out "Buttonface," and he had always addressed her as Buttonface in those moments that were half tender and half casual. And then she realized that he hadn't expected her, because his face was so blank with surprise. And then—devastatingly—she found herself wondering who he had expected, and who he now called Buttonface. She said weakly:

"Why, Arthur——" and Arthur said, also weakly, "You don't look the same as you do behind footlights. I mean—not so sophisticated. You look the same as you used to look when we lived here."

And Clarissa told him, "I always was a chameleon."

Arthur set his parcel down on a convenient chair—it was a lumpy parcel in a brown paper sack, and it could only contain groceries. He walked slowly across the room, one hand extended. "You're the last person I expected to see, Clarissa," he said, "the very last."

Clarissa touched the extended fingers with her own. Shaking hands with Arthur at this moment had a fantastic quality. She said:

"That goes double, Art," and Arthur said, "I never dared come back before—not since we left," and Clarissa said, "I was never here, either," and Arthur stooped to pick up the broken fragments of shell.

"It's curious," he said in a muffled voice, "that we should have chosen the same time!"

"I don't know as it's so curious," Clarissa disagreed. She, too, stooped over and started to pick up shell slivers. "After all, it's Christmas eve—or will be in a few hours. This seems a logical time——" She hesitated "I'm sorry I broke the shell—I always loved it."

"So did I," said Arthur. "Do you suppose we could have it mended?"

"It could be stuck together, of course," Clarissa nodded, "but the sea sound would be gone. It wouldn't be enchanted any more——"

"No," agreed Arthur. He rose from the floor and walked over to the table and deposited his fragments in a heap. After a moment Clarissa followed suit.

There was a moment of silence. Silence that was so heavy that it ached. Clarissa tried frantically to make conversation.

"Then it was you who started the fire," she said, "and it's your coat hanging in the closet?"

"Yes," nodded Arthur, "it's my coat."

Clarissa told him, "I was kidding myself that it was something we'd overlooked—years ago."

"I don't think," said Arthur somberly, "that we overlooked anything, years ago. . . . You've been very successful, Clarissa."

"Tolerably," nodded Clarissa. "And yourself?"

"Yes," Arthur told her. He said, "It was your car by the gate? I wondered."

"Nice job," said Arthur. "We came down by train."

It was the "we" that brought Clarissa up sharp. We! She stared at Arthur. His face was older than even the ten years should have made it—there were deep lines etched on either side of his mouth, and the wrinkles around his eyes hadn't been caused by laughter, and his thick hair was powdered with gray. "We," she said quietly. "I wish you hadn't brought her down here, Arthur—not for the holiday. And I wish you wouldn't call her Buttonface."

Arther said, "What the——" and then all at once he smiled. "I didn't dream it would matter," he said, "to you. Having me bring some one down here—having me call some one Buttonface."

Arthur went on. "And besides," he told Clarissa, "there's that fellow—that Billy Ellsworth. Dan Walker said last week that you and he were"—he broke off.

Clarissa took up the litany. It amounted to that, almost. "Billy's a lamb," she murmured. "I considered"—this was a stark lie—"bringing him with me——"

Arthur was glaring at her. "I've seen Ellsworth around town," he said. "He'd be a gigolo if he weren't rich. After all, Clarissa—well, I can't understand you. You used to be so sensitive."

"Sensitive?" queried Clarissa.

"Yes," grated Arthur, "sensitive! To think that you'd even consider bringing a chap like Ellsworth down here, to our house, makes me see red. After all, some things are sacred."

On Verge of Tears She Stares at Him

Torn between laughter and tears—and with the tears apt to come in first, Clarissa stared at the man who had once been her husband.

"You're a fine one to talk about things being sacred," she told him. "I resisted that impulse—you didn't. Here this house has been empty for ten years and the first time I come home for Christmas you're here ahead of me with——"

"Wait a minute," interrupted Art. "You called it home——"

"And why not?" demanded Clarissa hotly. "Why shouldn't I? I've lived in apartments on Park avenue and apartments on Lake Shore drive. I've lived in all the best hotels, but they've never been anything but—well, just places to live. This has always been home to me, and I've always hoped to come back some time."

"Me, too," said Arthur. He moved closer to her, and Clarissa backed away. "We used to have good times here," he said, "didn't we? Christmas mornings, especially. You always made buckwheat cakes and sausages, Christmas morning—could you still make buckwheat cakes, Clarissa?"

"I could make them for two," choked Clarissa, "but I'm darned if I could make them for three!" All at once the tears were spilling over. "Where is this girl friend of yours that you were expecting to find in the living room? Wouldn't it be a trifle more conventional if you introduced us?"

Arthur said strangely, "It might be, at that. She's probably upstairs asleep. The trip down was pretty tiring. Those way trains are fierce—stopping at every cow shed."

Clarissa sputtered thru the tears. "You should have given me a ring. I'd have been glad to run you down in my car. Asleep upstairs, you say? In our bedroom?"

Arthur said, "I wouldn't know. I left her poking around and she may be anywhere." He said, "Come along and we'll find her."

They went upstairs together, Arthur slightly in the lead. For some reason they tiptoed. They crossed the square of hall made gallant by a hooked rug with "Welcome" worked into it in red and green. The door to the bedroom stood ajar. As Arthur, who was slightly in the lead, laid his hand on the door knob, Clarissa felt a slight nausea in the pit of her stomach—not a slight nausea, either, a very definite squirminess! She said sharply, "O, don't!" but either Arthur didn't hear her, or didn't want to—for he swung the door wide.

Like a Christmas Tree's Wax Angel

She was lying on the bed—her flaxen curls tumbled, her dark lashes sweeping cheeks that were flushed with sleep. Clarissa caught her breath and said:

"She's like the wax angel that we hung on the Christmas tree that last year," and found herself groping for Arthur's hand.

Arthur said huskily, "That same thought struck me."

Clarissa moved closer to the bed. "How old is she, Arthur?" she breathed, and Arthur told her—"Going on five. I'm her legal guardian, and I didn't know what the deuce to do with her in a bachelor apartment on Christmas. And then it came over me—this house standing idle——"

He was surprised at the vehemence in Clarissa's muted voice as she interrupted. "A fine guardian!" she said. "Leaving her here, all alone, to take a nap, with nothing over her. . . . There are plenty of quilts in the cedar chest!"

They were back in the living room with the sofa they had upholstered and the lover-mantel mirror and the whatnot and the pile of seashell fragments on the table. Arthur explained:

"Her father and mother are getting a divorce—just as we did."

"Just as we did——" echoed Clarissa.

Arthur went on. "Her mother's in Reno and her father doesn't like children. It was up to me, Clarissa. I realize that I should have gotten in touch with you and asked if I might use the house, but—well, I still had my key—I've been wearing it on my watch chain all these years, and"—his voice broke—"I remembered the Christmases we used to have——".

"The box of Christmas tree ornaments is still on the top shelf of the closet," Clarissa told him. "Art, is there by any chance a turkey in that paper sack?"

Arthur's face broke into a slow grin. "No," he said, "there's a goose. Could you cook a goose?"

Clarissa was also smiling—a watery smile, but there was mirth in it. "I've cooked my own goose many times," she said. "Art, during the ten years you've worn the key on your watch chain, have you ever been——" She left the sentence unfinished.

"If you had any sense," said Arthur, "you'd know the answer. I was a fool. If it's any comfort to you, I've paid for my criminal foolishness. All this success stuff is so desperately hollow."

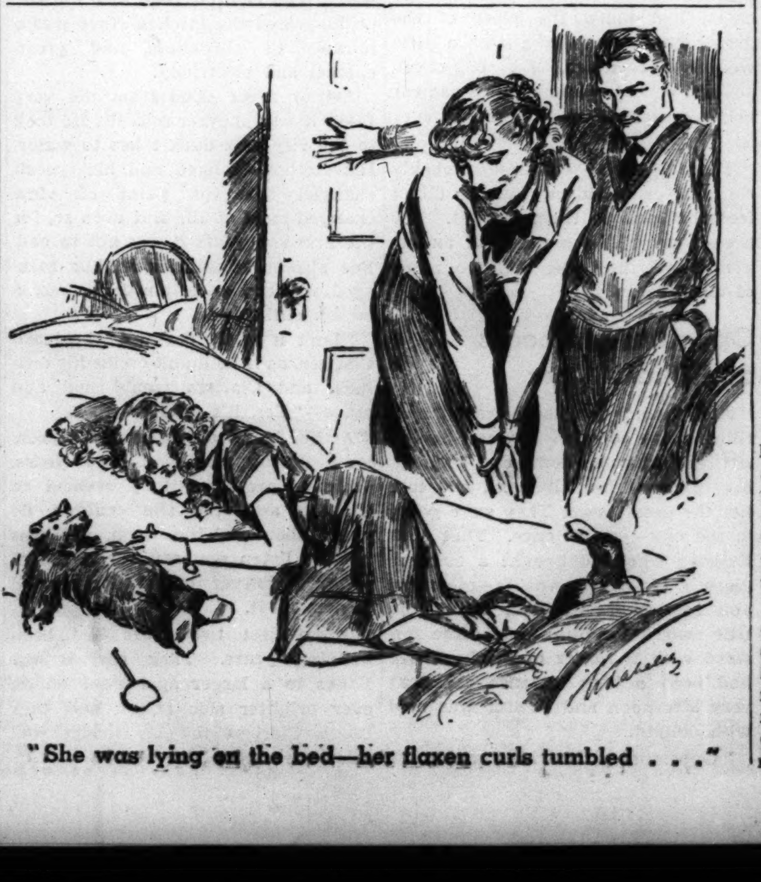
Clarissa breathed. "It's small comfort——"

Arthur walked over to the table and started to fiddle with the fragments of broken seashell. When he spoke again he didn't look toward Clarissa, but his voice had a hushed, breathless sound.

"Yes," he said, "I believe it could be mended. And even tho the sea sound is gone for good, there might be—something else."

Clarissa said irrelevantly, "Maybe the child's mother won't want her back after she's had a taste of Reno." Her voice became brisk. "Arthur, we've no time to lose. The dusk comes early in December and we have heaps to do to get ready—the tree and wreaths and mistletoe and toys. . . . Does she still believe in Santa Claus?"

"Yes," said Arthur. He added, very low—"And so do I."



"She was lying on the bed—her flaxen curls tumbled . . ."

Two New Shows Prepare to Open on Christmas Night

Barrymore and Horton Still Sticking It Out

By Cecil Smith.

The week before Christmas always brings a lull in theatrical enterprise. What with the final flurries of Christmas shopping and the many home and family parties that play an important share in the seasonal celebration, most dramatic entertainments find it necessary either to close outright for the week, or to be satisfied with fairly slim pickings. This week, however, both Edward Everett Horton and John Barrymore are sticking it out—with the best of reasons, for since both have posted Jan. 6 closing notices, they are assured of good business.

Two new shows are waiting for the starting gun of the post-Christmas season. Both will open their doors to the public on Christmas night, Dec. 25. "The Man Who Came to Dinner," the leading hit comedy of the new Broadway crop, will re-light the Harris, dark since the closing of "Outward Bound" last night. George White's latest edition of the "Scandals" takes over the Erlanger theater the same evening, causing Mr. Horton and the "Springtime for Henry" company to move next door to the Grand Opera house from Dec. 25 to Jan. 6.

"The Man Who Came to Dinner" is George S. Kaufman's 30th contribution to the American theater. If a scientific count were to be made, we should probably discover that Mr. Kaufman—sometimes alone and sometimes with such collaborators as Marc Connelly, Morrie Ryskind, Edna Ferber, and Moss Hart—has been responsible for a larger total number of good laughs than any other living American playwright. "You Can't Take It With You," which kept the loop in an uproar for 49 weeks, was one of the most convulsing examples of Kaufman merriment. This comedy, like "The Man Who Came to Dinner" and "I'd Rather Be Right," was written in collaboration with Mr. Hart.

"The Man Who Came to Dinner" derives its individuality from a completely unique central character. No cat is let out of the bag by the revelation that this central character is a lampoon of Alexander Woollcoot, ex-drama critic, raconteur, caustic wit, man-about-town and radio "town crier." The authors have dedicated the printed play [published by Random House] to him, "for reasons that are nobody's business." Mr. Woollcott has implicitly admitted that it is all about him, by [1] refusing to comment upon the comedy beyond saying that he only reviews plays for money, and [2] accepting an offer to play the lead part in a Pacific coast road company now in process of formation.

In choosing a principal player for the Chicago company, Sam H. Harris, the producer, and Messrs. Kaufman and Hart did not attempt to do what is known as "casting to physical type." Mr. Woollcott is far from slight in his proportions; Clifton Webb, who is to caricature him here, is spare of frame. But any one who saw Mr. Webb as Mahatma Gandhi or as John D. Rockefeller in the revue "As Thousands Cheer" will not have much doubt of his ability to make something racy out of his opportunity.

• • •

George White's "Scandals" is the first Broadway revue — as distinguished from musical comedy — to come here in some time. The tradition of the "Scandals" goes back many seasons, to a time when our theaters were also generously laden with various editions of Ziegfeld's "Follies" and Earl Carroll's "Vanities." It is the good old girl-show tradition, of which our recent "A Night at the Moulin Rouge" was such a specious and vulgar parody.

Willie and Eugene Howard, who have produced laughs for Mr. White before, heads a cast that also includes Ann Miller, a new meteor in the tap dancing world, Ben Blue, Ella Logan, Colette Lyons, and Craig Mathues. Jack Yellen and Sammy Fein did the lyrics and music.

• • •

A familiar face in "The Hot Mikado" [the much publicized Michael Todd production created last spring to compete with the Federal theater project's headline-making swing "Mikado"] when it comes to the Auditorium theater Jan. 7 will be that of Maurice Cooper. Mr. Cooper's services were available, in as much as the WPA "Mikado" failed soon after it was taken over by private entrepreneurs. It was a wise move on Mr. Todd's part to hire Mr. Cooper, for he is a better Nanki-Poo than the tenor who sang the rôle in "The Hot Mikado" before him.

Bill Robinson, whose insinuating tap dancing has never been surpassed, comes on the stage in the second act as a Mikado the like of which was never seen in old Nippon, and carries the bulk of the performance from that point forward. Before his entrance, the evening is kept lively by rampant jitterbugs on the stage and excellent swing orchestrations in the pit. The production is more expensively costumed and set than the WPA version we saw last winter.

• • •

Celebrities of the flickering screen are evidently falling all over themselves to play in Chicago "in the flesh" since the word of John Barrymore's local success has penetrated the consciousness of Hollywood. When Mr. Barrymore vacates the Selwyn theater on Jan. 6 he will be followed in the very next night [Sunday, Jan. 7] by Constance Bennett in a revival of Noel Coward's comedy, "Easy Virtue."

Constance Bennett.

This is Miss Bennett's very first appearance on the legitimate stage, believe it or not, and she will come to us with not more than a fortnight's experience in brief stands in the east and in Milwaukee. With her excellent movie record, however, there could hardly seem to be reasonable doubt that she possesses considerable dramatic temperament. For the present revival, John C. Crosby has modernized the script. Hassard Short directs the production, whose cast includes among others Nigel Altman, Reginald Mason, and Viola Roache.

• • •

The city's five active legitimate theaters — Harris, Selwyn, Grand Opera house, Erlanger, and Auditorium—now look ahead to a considerable period of uninterrupted tenancy [except for a two day hiatus at the Auditorium between the outgoing Ballet Russe and the incoming "Hot Mikado"]. In fact, there aren't going to be enough theaters to go around. Popular Edward Everett Horton, with "Springtime for Henry," leaves the Erlanger after next Sunday evening to make way for the "Scandals." He moves to the Grand Opera house, but he can remain there only an additional fortnight before Raymond Massey and "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," with a booking of many months' standing, crowd him out. He therefore has no choice except to leave Chicago in the midst of good business. Looking thirstily this way, too, is the newly formed second company of Clare Boothe's "Margin for Error," a satirical melodrama dealing with Nazism.

• • •

A few attractive items for your list of light phonograph records: "Strange Fruit," the year's most eerie popular song, sung by the provocative Billie Holliday [Commodore Classics in Swing]; harp solos by Casper Reardon, swing harpist who evoked enthusiasm at the Pump room early in the autumn, including "Summer Time," "In a Sentimental Mood," and "If You Can't Sing It, You'll Have to Swing It"; two breathless and sparkling mementos of "I Married an Angel," sung by Audrey Christie—"How to Win Friends and Influence People" and "At the Roxy Music Hall"; an excellent Ethel Waters record ["Hottentot Potentate"] from "At Home Abroad." All except the Billie Holliday disc are released under the Liberty Music shop label.

PLAYS ROLE OF MARY TODD

When "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" comes to Chicago, Muriel Kirkland will play Mary Todd to Raymond Massey's Lincoln. Robert E. Sherwood's Pulitzer prize drama will open at the Grand Opera house on Jan. 8.

Evans' Hamlet Is High Point of Drama Week

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK [Special].—The theatergoing choice was high and low this week—high for the Maurice Evans entirety "Hamlet," low for the humor that comes out of a music piece called "Du Barry Was a Lady." There was a creditable attempt to make a Frederick Lonsdale comedy called "Foreigners" interesting, and there was one bloomer brought in from the summer theaters entitled "The Woman Brown."

Most of the interesting discussion swirled around the Du Barry person and her following, and the "Foreigners" play. The Evans "Hamlet" was not new to us, having started here a year ago and been duly acclaimed on that occasion. Mr. Evans [who would have you pronounce his given name trippingly on the tongue, as tho it were spelled "Morris," and not mouth it, as so many playgoers do, as the French "Maurice"] has within three years become the outstanding exponent of the classical drama in America. If he should elect to go on and become a citizen, as it has been printed he would do, he will doubtless take over the leadership of our stage. And do it credit, too. He is, I think, the most versatile of our players and equally at home in the modern or classic repertory. We cannot say so much for any other of our gifted young men.

For the present, Mr. Evans is content to let the credits stand as they lie. This year he has had a fine preliminary season touring in "Hamlet" and will resume his tour after five weeks on Broadway. As for his citizenship intentions, it is unlikely that he will take any action while England is at war. He has already offered his services to the mother country and awaits her call.

• • •

The "Du Barry" item is at once the most common and the most beautiful of the burlesques—the most common, low, coarsely physical in line and situation of any of them, and the most beautiful in stage settings and costumes. You may wonder how so violent a contrast can be brought about. Well, I'll tell you. The story of "Du Barry Was a Lady," as written by B. G. Desylva and Herbert Fields, follows the fortunes of a gents' room attendant at a swanky night club. That is starting pretty low. The attendant wins $75,000 as a sweepstakes prize and his rise and fall thereafter are the result of a dream. This gives the authors every possible latitude and such license as they feel they may safely embrace.

The chief performers are Ethel Merman, playing the name part, and Bert Lahr, doing service as the washroom boy. Miss Merman is the star of the floor show at the club. For years the lowly Louis in the washroom has worshiped her. And as soon as he gets his prize he tries to make arrangements to share his wealth with her. Naturally his suit is spurned, and with some ardor.

Ethel Merman.

Thereupon Louis would have revenge. When the Merman favorite, who, reasonably, is a handsome baritone, would congratulate Louis on his luck he agrees to take a parting drink with the boy. And Louis drugs his liquor. Unhappily he mixes the glasses and drinks his own micky finn.

It is as a result of this happy accident that Louis, who goes a lot to the movies, dreams that he is Louis XV. of France and that Miss Merman is his Du Barry. Which, as intimated, provides an excuse for the richest costumes and the handsomest settings any of the new entertainments has revealed.

• • •

During seven of the 11 scenes the importunate monarch of the dream is chasing his elusive mistress thru boudoirs and gardens of great beauty, avoiding or fraternizing with such dancing choruses as the stage infrequently presents. In the end Louis is back in his washroom. The government has taken most of his winnings, and he has squandered the rest.

The jokes, as said, are coarser than other Broadway burlesques have dared to use, being more physical. The songs and lyrics, by Cole Porter, are in keeping with the humor, but with a smart turn that saves the best of them. The melodies, also by Mr. Porter, are appealing. "Do I Love You?" is an outstanding romantic ballad for Ronald Graham, the baritone, and would appear to be the hit song. Miss Merman's snappier numbers include "Oo-la-la" and "Katie Went to Haiti."

What our nicer people will do about "Du Barry Was a Lady" remains to be tallied. I sat with one audience of Quakers in Philadelphia at a "Du Barry" matinée and may report that it was wildly applausive. I sat with another in New York that had paid $7.70 a seat for orchestra places opening night, and it, while a little more restrained, was also explosive. So, I assume, Mr. Desylva, who is the producer, will not suffer greatly at the box office.

• • •

Lonsdale's "Foreigners" is, in idea, the most interesting of recent productions. Here is the urbane author of numerous drawing room comedies, such as "The Last of Mrs. Cheney," "The High Road," and "Spring Cleaning," for instance, writing a serious study of present day world conditions. Only Bernard Shaw has tried that sort of thing with any success, and while Lonsdale has something of the Shaw impertinence, he has little of his wit.

In "Foreigners" we meet representatives of nine leading nations in the cabin of a small steamer sailing one of the neutral oceans. Among them an American, an Englishman, a German, an Italian, a Spaniard, a Frenchman, an Irishman, a Russian, and a Jap. Also a Jew, to make the contrasts complete and tighten the national animosities.

They spend their time for the most part insulting each other, declaiming their particular hatreds, each against the other, until finally two of them threaten to shoot out their particular quarrel. The captain of the ship thereupon demands a general disarmament and takes guns away from the lot of them.

Now a stowaway, a pretty girl, is found aboard and immediately the competition tightens. In the Lonsdale symbolism, which is muddled, I have an idea she may represent peace, or power, or property, or just sex. In any event each of the nationals is ready to fight for her if he can use her to his own advantage and gain.

Damion O'Flynn.
[Acme Photo.]

Suddenly the steamer runs aground. In the confusion the Jew grabs two of the discarded guns and tosses the rest overboard. Now he is dictator, and continues dictator after the passengers have taken to the boats and landed on a tropical island.

• • •

He is, as it turns out, noble and generous. They all seek to trick him, including the girl.

In a general fight the Jew is overcome and his two guns are grabbed by the German and the Englishman. And now these two must spend practically all their time watching each other, and protecting themselves from the pack. But there has to be an end. Eleven o'clock must come. So Mr. Lonsdale lets the Jew find a way to repair the ship's wireless, which is still in the wreck off shore, and summon help. As for himself, he elects to stay on the island. And the girl, who had, up to now, favored the romantic Irishman, decides to stay with him.

"Foreigners" has been well cast as to type. Richard Ainley, good looking son of the Henry Ainley who once played in America as Maude Adams' leading man, and was then counted the handsomest actor in England, plays the Jew with suavity but not great distinction. George Macready is the German, Robert Craven the Englishman, Damion O'Flynn the Irishman, and the others are equally representative. A reasonable curiosity, but no great enthusiasm, has greeted "Foreigners."

ENDS ABSENCE FROM CITY

After an absence of more than a year, Buddy Rogers has returned to Chicago as the maestro of a band—making his debut in the Gold Coast room of the Drake hotel.

International Flavor Given Colony's Show

An international flavor gives zest to the Colony club's current—and season's biggest—floor show. There's Hildegarde, the Milwaukee blonde who won singing fame in Paris. There's Gali-Gali, the deferential and very talkative Hindu magician. There's the Estelle and LeRoy dance team, Americans by birth, but for five years almost exclusively an entertainment "must" in France and other European capitals. Then, of course, there are Don Orlando and his very American band, and Fernando Canay and his Argentinian rhumba crew.

Hildegarde, since her Colony club success of a year ago, has added a high, almost brittle polish to her manner of song selling, altho some of the opening night artificiality may have been a buffer against hecklers whose vast minority in no way diminished their evaluation of the importance of their remarks. Favorite of Hildegarde's ballads is "I Didn't Know What Time It Was." The comedy touch is highlighted by Cole Porter's disrespectful version of "Babes in the Woods."

Gali-Gali's amazing speed of hand and tongue makes his deft manipulations real laugh producers. Chickens, corks, rings, coins appear and disappear in an amusing manner that assures Gali-Gali a hit run.

The very intelligent and graceful dance interpretations of Estelle and LeRoy have had few American audiences outside of New York, but are fast setting a standard for acts that have not yet in this country reached the rarified atmosphere reserved for the so-called "big names." A dramatic gem is their interpretation of "My Prayer," and their Brazilian Maxixe is as authentic as it is entertaining.

• • •

Paul Draper will bring his unique and highly popular tap-ballet interpretations back to Chez Paree Dec. 21, to complete the three star Holiday revue. Already announced have been Gertrude Niesen, sultry siren of song, and Romo Vincent, the emcee who explains wordlessly why "mirth" and "girth" rhyme so well. Fred Evans has prepared new routines for the Adorables, and Lou Breese, near to stealing the current show by his masterful direction, will remain.

Ralph "Cookie" Cook's nightly impersonations of a gargoyle on a bender have so infected the entire cast of the show at Harry's New Yorker that even the Winnie Hoveler dancing girls literally "hit the ceiling" in a circus routine. Florenza, Lillian Barnes, Ryck and Kaye, and Betty Storey fill out the fast paced show that is played by Mickie Cozzie's band.

• • •

Joe Sanders band proves its versatility in the Blackhawk restaurant show with Joe singing at his piano, Red Hodgson explaining what happens when "The Music Goes Down and Around," and Adrienne, petite vocalist, scoring with a mixture of ballads and catchy tunes. Ruth Pryor, danseuse, and Barry and De Alba, dance team, fill out the show.

• • •

Harris and Virginia Ashburn, dance dancers, Wilfred Du Bois, juggler, the Jane Hadley dancers, and Art Kassel's bandful of entertainers provide the holiday show that opened Friday at the Bismarck hotel in the Walnut room.

• • •

Maggi McNellis and a trunkful of spectacularly beautiful gowns are back home from a New York engagement, and guests of the Buttery and Pump rooms in the Ambassador hotels hear her every night as she gives charming nuances to the Paul Barron songs, "Carry On," "Chili Con Conga," and "Unfair to the Union of Love," among others.

Boswelling the Bistros:

It was "Foo Arms" night in the Continental room of the Stevens hotel recently, when a group of Iowa friends of Griff Williams and his orchestra repaid a call he made to their private salon of that name on the banks of the Mississippi after playing a one nighter in Burlington, Ia. . . . Those week-end tea dances at the Oriental Gardens are Saturday from noon to 2 p. m., not Sunday. . . . Fun feature of the Arthur Murray nights every Wednesday in the Drake hotel's Gold Coast room is the ecstatic interpretation of the boomps-a-daisie dance by Maitre Frank Ahmstadt.

Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo Will Open Here on Dec. 26

Will Perform 14 Times in a Ten Day Stay

By Edward Barry.

The day after Christmas the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo will move into the Auditorium theater for a 10 day 14 performance engagement. Despite transit and visa difficulties occasioned by the war the company's personnel—at least as regards the principals—remains virtually intact. The répertoire here will comprise 20 ballets, of which six have never before been seen in Chicago.

This company is composed partly of dancers who cast their lot with Leonide Massine in the Massine-De Basil splitup of two years ago and partly of dancers whom Mr. Massine later engaged to fill out his roster. Among those who were familiar here during the 1933-'38 tours of the De Basil ballet and who are members of the group scheduled to arrive next week are Alexandra Danilova, Igor Youskevitch, Roland Guerard, Marc Platoff, and George Zoritch—as well as Mr. Massine himself, who is the company's artistic director. Alicia Markova, Mia Slavenska, Nini Theilade, Nathalie Krassovska, and Frederic Franklin will be remembered for their successful appearances here last season on the occasion of the first visit of the reorganized company. André Eglevsky toured with the older group in 1933 and 1934, and is now with the Massine company. Efrem Kurtz, who has been conducting the ballets' performances for years, holds the title of musical director.

• • •

So much for the identity of the company. As to the répertoire, major interest naturally resides in the six novelties. "Ghost Town," scheduled to be unveiled at the ballet's very first performance, is American in setting and in authorship. The piece tells the story of the modern hitch-hikers who come upon the site of Virginia City, Nev., and find it inhabited only by a single old prospector. However, the old prospector's stories of other days—when Virginia City was a hard fighting, hard drinking, free spending gold rush community—so work upon the imaginations of the hitch-hikers that the town as it used to be seems to come to life before their eyes.

Alexandra Danilova.

The choreography is by Marc Platoff who, despite his name, is California born. Richard Rodgers wrote the music. Decor and costumes are the work of Raoul Pene du Bois, New York designer, whose best known recent achievement was the sets and costumes for the Acquacade at the New York fair.

"Devil's Holiday," due Dec. 27, concerns Satan's strange stroll on the streets of Venice; where, disguised as a rich visitor, he amuses himself, like the meanie that he is, by meddling with human lives and loves. Choreography is by the Englishman, Frederick Ashton. The music is Tommasini's, with a Paganini base.

• • •

That same evening [Wednesday, Dec. 27] will see two more novelties. "Igrouchki" tells of the unrequited love of a farmer boy for a goose girl. The choreography is based on Fokine and the music has been extracted from Rimsky-Korsakoff's fantasy on Russian themes. The remaining novelty that night is "Capriccio Espagnole," with more of Rimsky-Korsakoff's music. The choreography is the result of the collaboration of Argentinita, the renowned Spanish dancer, and Mr. Massine. The ballet is a series of dances drawn from various parts of Spain.

On Dec. 28 "Rouge et Noir," based on Shostakovich's First symphony, will receive its first Chicago showing. Massine's choreography represents the struggle of various forces to control the soul of man. Scenery and costumes are the work of no less a person than Henri Matisse.

"Bacchanale," due Dec. 29, is the widely publicized surrealist ballet whose settings, costumes, and general idea were furnished by Salvador Dali. It concerns King Ludwig of Bavaria [Wagner's patron] and his hallucinations. Everything which an unfettered imagination can add has been duly added. The music is Wagner's, the choreography Massine's.

The most important of the revivals is "Scheherazade," a barbarically splendid piece built upon Rimsky-Korsakoff's music. The charming little "Boutique Fantasque," or "Fantastic Doll Shop," is also back in the répertoire.

• • •

The schedule for the complete engagement follows:

Tuesday evening, Dec. 26—"Scheherazade," "Ghost Town," "Spectre de la Rose," "Gaité Parisienne."

Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 27—"Les Sylphides," "Petrouchka," "Prince Igor."

Saturday afternoon, Dec. 30—"Boutique Fantasque," "Scheherazade," "Spectre de la Rose," "Capriccio Espagnole."

Tuesday evening, Jan. 2—"Carnaval," "Three Cornered Hat," "Afternoon of a Faun," "Ghost Town."

Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 3—"Rouge et Noir," "Bacchanale," "Scheherazade."

Wednesday evening, Jan. 3—"Seventh Symphony," "Boutique Fantasque," "Blue Bird" dance from "Aurora's Wedding," "Gaité Parisienne."

Thursday evening, Jan. 4—"Rouge et Noir," "Ghost Town," "Bacchanale," "Gaité Parisienne."

Box office sale opens tomorrow. Seats are 55 cents to $3.30 evenings [except Dec. 31, when prices will be 55 cents to $4.40] and 55 cents to $2.75 afternoons.

SOLOIST FOR TUESDAY NIGHT

Jacques Gordon will be soloist with the Woman's Symphony orchestra at its concert in Orchestra hall on Tuesday night. The former concert master of the Chicago Symphony will play the Brahms violin concerto.

[De Bellis Photo.]

Notes of Music and Musicians

Besides playing its regular concerts on the Thursday-Friday series the Chicago Symphony orchestra will give the second of its Young People's concerts on Wednesday afternoon in Orchestra hall. This last will offer the following program:

Prelude to "Hansel and Gretel" ...... Humperdinck
Dances, from Suite No. 2, B Minor..Bach
"In the Spinning Room"..........Dvorak
"Spinning Song"..........Mendelssohn
Song, "Here We Come A-Caroling".. ...... Traditional
"In the Village," from "Caucasian Sketches"............ Ippolitoff-Ivanoff
Prelude to Act III., "Lohengrin"....Wagner

Hans Lange will direct the concerts on Thursday and Friday which feature three compositions associated with the Christmas season. These are the pastorale, from Bach's "Christmas Oratorio"; the prelude to Humperdinck's fairy tale opera, "Hansel and Gretel," and a suite from Rimsky-Korsakoff's opera, "Christmas Eve." The symphony will be Borodin's second, and the program will conclude with Elgar's Variations on an Original Theme, opus 36.

The Chicago City Opera company has announced a post-season gala performance of "La Bohème" for New Year's eve at the Civic Opera house. It will feature the American operatic debut of Marta Eggerth as Mimi. Miss Eggerth is the wife of Jan Kiepura, the Polish tenor who will also sing in the opera, and she has appeared in several musical motion pictures made abroad and released in this country. The rest of the gala "Bohème" cast will include Charlotte Boerner, Reinhold Schmidt, Virgilio Lazzari, Giuseppe Cavadore, Ben Landsman, and Kenneth Morrow. Carl Alwin will conduct. A midnight supper will be served in the Opera club after the opera, to be followed in turn by dancing in the opera foyer.

A benefit performance for the "Sons of Italy" of the same opera will be given tomorrow night at the opera house with Virginia Pemberton, Henrietta Chase, André Burdino, George Czaplicki, and Virgilio Lazzari in the leading rôles. Miss Chase and Burdino will be making their first appearances locally in their respective rôles, Musetta and Rodolfo. The conductor will be Leo Kopp.

Henrietta Chase.

June Evans, pianist, will give her debut recital in the Auditorium recital hall this afternoon.

A program of American, Greek, Polish, Yugo-Slav, and Armenian songs will be given by the Savine Singers, a new musical ensemble, in the Auditorium recital hall tonight. The quartet is composed of Lucia Altoonjian, American soprano; M. J. Lester-Wilczynski, Polish tenor; Stayro Chiapi, Greek tenor, and Josef Novak, Yugo-Slavian bass. The group is under the direction of Alexander Savine and is accompanied by Emund H. Attwood.

Handel's seasonal oratorio, the famous "Messiah," will be given its first Orchestra hall presentation today by the Swedish Choral club under Harry T. Carlson's direction. With the exception of the tenor, who made his debut only a week and a half ago on the Chicago Symphony's all-Beethoven program, the soloists are familiar artists around town: Esther Hart, soprano; Helen Bartush, contralto; Joseph Laderoute, tenor, and Mark Love, bass.

Esther Hart.

There will be no busier conductor this week than Izler Solomon, faced with the job of leading two orchestras in different programs on successive nights. On Monday he will direct the Illinois Symphony orchestra in its weekly concert in the Blackstone theater, and the following evening the Woman's Symphony will play its third concert of the season under him in Orchestra hall.

The program of the former ensemble features the Chicago première of "Rondo Veneziano," by Ildebrando Pizzetti. This celebrated contemporary Italian composer has suffered needless neglect locally, only one of his orchestral works having been played here, the "Summer" Concerto. The Rondo was composed in 1929 and has been used as ballet music at La Scala.

Frances McCormick, young Los Angeles pianist, will be the evening's soloist, playing Emile Blanchet's Concert Piece for piano and orchestra. Its only other performance in this city was given last spring at the Chicago Musical college's commencement exercises. Blanchet is a 62 year old Swiss composer. He has dedicated the concerto to his lifelong friend, Rudolph Ganz.

The balance of the program is devoted to Beethoven's overture, "The Consecration of the House"; Haydn's Symphony No. 103 in E flat major, known as the "Drum Roll" symphony, and Ravel's "La Valse."

The soloist with the Woman's Symphony will be Jacques Gordon, performing Brahms' violin concerto. The one-time concertmaster of the Chicago Symphony last appeared here on the 1939 Ravinia festival, playing a concerto by Leo Sowerby. Three other items complete the program on Tuesday night: Corelli's Concerto Grosso, No. 8, subtitled "Christmas Music," arranged by Rhené-Baton; Prokofieff's Classical Symphony in D major, and Aaron Copland's increasingly popular "El Salón México."

Grades Opera Performances as Season Ends

By Cecil Smith.

Except for a few post-season addenda noted in another column, the 1939 Chicago City Opera company season ended formally with last night's repetition of Charpentier's "Louise." This is, therefore, the proper time to look backward over the seven week period and, in cheerful holiday mood, to pin a few orchids on some of the people responsible for the best achievements of the season.

Even though it may make my list of tributes incomplete, I must confine my observations to the performances I actually attended—a limitation that arbitrarily excludes about one-fifth of the season's total. If your pet enthusiasm does not appear in the following list, be sure that the performance fell on a night when duty called me elsewhere.

• • •

My tokens of appreciation are of three classes, corresponding to the honorary degrees often awarded by colleges to their graduates. In the course of the season I found the following participants especially worthy of praise and gratitude:

Summa cum laude [with highest honor]:

To Henry Weber, for taking over the musical direction of the company at a difficult and insecure moment, and for tightening its musical standards in discernible fashion week by week; for conducting Verdi's "Il Trovatore," probably the finest performance in his career as conductor, in a manner that restored a much neglected work to its rightful place as a masterpiece of Italian dramatic music; for possessing the artistic courage to cancel a performance of Verdi's "Falstaff" that could not be made ready to reflect credit on the company within the allotted time.

To Grace Moore, for realizing her full gifts for the first time in Charpentier's "Louise," and for bringing back to the operatic stage a power of intense and exciting emotional projection that has been lacking, in large measure, since the days of Mary Garden, Geraldine Farrar, and Claudia Muzio.

To Giovanni Martinelli, for penetrating deeper each year into the musical meaning of every measure he sings; for the most beautifully conceived performances of this generation in "Il Trovatore" and "Aïda."

To Tito Schipa, for keeping alive a lofty and valuable tradition of Italian bel canto.

To Kirsten Flagstad, for continuing to confer dignity and serene majesty upon the Wagnerian repertory.

• • •

Magna cum laude [with high honor]:

To Virgilio Lazzari, for the superb authority and assurance of his histrionic and vocal style in a diversity of rôles, serious and comic, ranging from Raymond in "Lucia di Lammermoor" to Varlaam in "Boris Godunoff."

To John Charles Thomas, for maintaining, albeit in an unnecessarily small operatic répertoire, the most polished vocalism of all American baritones.

To Gladys Swarthout, for indicating in an extraordinarily good performance of "Carmen" that she is now ready for a distinguished operatic career.

To Lily Pons, for the choicest and most perfect singing of the rôle of Lucia in all her Chicago career.

To Karin Branzell, for a regal and commanding performance, both vocally and visually, as Amneris in "Aïda."

To George Czaplicki, for his superb baritone voice and his discriminating use of it, and for his intelligent, forceful delineation of a wide variety of major character parts.

To Leon Rothier and Maria Claessens, for enactments of the parts of the father and mother in "Louise" that bore the stamp of highest authority.

To Louis Hasselmans, for his solid knowledge of French operatic literature, and for his outstanding command of the score of "Louise."

To all the young singers in the sewing machine scene of "Louise," for making their scene one of the most delightful episodes in many seasons.

To André Burdino, for balancing elegance against vigor, and remaining an admirable exponent of French lyric style.

• • •

Cum laude [with honor]:

To Rose Bampton, for showing her excellent possibilities as a Wagnerian soprano in "Die Walküre."

To Ellen Dosia, for the cool simplicity of her approach to French rôles.

To Helen Jepson, for increasing both the drive and vocal nuance of her Violetta in "La Traviata."

To Hilde Reggiani, for her brilliant top voice and her interesting future possibilities as a coloratura soprano.

To Elisabeth Rethberg, for possessing and using the world's most exquisite half voice.

To Elen Longone, for greatly stabilizing and brightening her singing.

To Armand Tokatyan, for warmly sung performances of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Tosca."

To Carl Alwin, for bringing to Chicago the authority of his long Viennese experience as a conductor.

To Kurt Baum, for his easy, large tenor voice, and for the air of enjoyment with which he invests his work.

To Robert Weede, for a first rate Rigoletto in the making.

To Ezio Pinza, for his dynamic effect upon his audiences.

To Mark Love, for eloquent singing as Friar Laurence in "Romeo and Juliet," and for superior work in many secondary parts.

To Carlo Morelli, for the greater resourcefulness and variety with which he now uses his fine baritone voice.

To such reliable and indispensable singers of secondary rôles as Elizabeth Brown, Margery Mayer, Ada Paggi, Louisa Hoe, Helen Margolyne, Giuseppe Cavadore, Anthony Marlowe, Douglas Beattie, John Daggett Howell, Pompilio Malatesta, Reinhold Schmidt, and Edward Stack.

To Angelo Canarutto and Leo Kopp, for their considerable growth as conductors.

U. of I. Names in Who's Who Climb Steadily

By the Rev. John Evans.

[How are universities rated for excellence? If you need help in selecting the right school for your children read the book, "Higher Education," by Dr. John Evans of the Tribune staff. On sale at Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, 435 North Michigan avenue. Price, 10 cents. By postpaid mail, 13 cents.]

Altho controversy is still raging as to the value of ratings in Who's Who in America, yet there is no institution of higher learning but does not welcome the recognition. When, however, it comes to comparative alumni rating, the fact that the majority recorded in Who's Who is male, acts adversely to the co-educational college, and favors those universities of older standing, which is why Harvard and Yale lead in the ranking of alumni rating.

But at that, the University of Illinois has increased its alumni recording in Who's Who by 50 per cent in the last 10 years, being surpassed only by Chicago, California, and Yale. This is a good showing when it is remembered that the University of Illinois was founded in 1868, and not until 1890 did its student enrollment pass the 1,000 mark.

Illinois' ranking in alumni rating is revealed in a study by Beverly W. Kunkel of Lafayette college and Donald B. Prentice published in the educational journal School and Society. Harvard ranks first with 5.81 per cent of its alumni listed and the University of Illinois is 75th, with 0.39 per cent recorded.

The study shows that from tax supported institutions in the aggregate, the percentage of alumni in Who's Who is 0.74 per cent as compared with 2.2 per cent from the endowed universities. Both these groups, however, show a decrease in the number of alumni listed compared with 1928—0.4 for the former and 1.31 per cent for the latter group.

Three interesting statistical facts to be derived from the Kunkel-Prentice study are:

1. One-third of the college and university graduates listed in the 1938 Who's Who were born in the central states;

2. The number of alumni listed, who attended central states educational institutions, increased from 27 per cent in 1928 to 31 per cent in 1938;

3. Over the same period, alumni listed in Who's Who, having attended eastern institutions, decreased from 56 to 48 per cent.

Pledges to an approximate amount of $140,000 have already been made to the Wesley foundation at the University of Illinois by Methodists of the state. The ultimate goal is $225,000 and to reach this 4,000 workers, clergy and laity, have been enrolled for a campaign under the direction of Henry P. Scott. The local churches have been set a quota, and to date about 300 congregations, about 25 per cent of the state total, have qualified.

These figures were reported at a meeting of the executive committee held last week in Urbana at which the Dr. William G. Pulliam, district superintendent, presided. Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of Chicago is general chairman of the campaign and James R. Jackson of Freeport is chairman.

The Horace H. Rackman Educational Memorial of the University of Michigan will be located in Detroit. The building, to cost $1,500,000, will be located in Farnsworth avenue, opposite the Detroit Institute of Fine Arts and facing the Detroit Public library. It will serve as the headquarters of the Engineering society and the university's extension service.

The former body, which announced plans for the construction, reports that the new building will be "a tribute to the high level of technical accomplishment long associated with Detroit."

The Rev. Edward A. Keller of the University of Notre Dame, whose "Study of the Physical Assets of the United States" was published last spring, has received papal recognition from Pope Pius XII. in the form of a citation with apostolic benediction. This book denies the claim that the country's wealth is concentrated in but few families' control, and is the first of a series of studies to present an inclusive picture of American economics. Father Keller's next study, to deal with the nation's income distribution, will be published early in 1940.

Good Morning!

What does a secretary have that a wife hasn't got which makes a husband—the wife's husband—park the wife at home and take the secretary stepping?

Little Mrs. Norton wants to know. For to this unsuspecting and devoted little wife of a year has come unmistakable evidence that when papa says he's working, why papa's really shirking [pome] with the assistance of the blonde who takes his dictation. . . .

Now Jane herself is no slouch. Nor is she a girl who likes to stay at home. She's pretty, she's popular, and she proves that she's perspicacious. For, having made up her mind that no other woman shall wrest her man from her she decides to, so to speak, put herself in the would-be wrester's shoes and learn about secretaries from a secretary—same being herself.

She lands in the office of a philandering, married Mr. Dexter, business acquaintance of Ken Norton's. She leaves for work mornings after Ken has departed and skedaddles home at night arriving in her own boudoir just a hop ahead of her unsuspecting husband whom she's able to keep in the dark thru the able connivance of her colored maid, Melbourne. . . .

As you will surmise, it isn't long before Mr. Dexter and "Miss Blake" are seen lunching, etc. And then there comes that awful eve when Ken, really for business reasons, breaks a date with his wife AND finds himself and secretary dining with Dexter and "secretary" at a most sophisticated night club . . . OUCH! . . .

While this so-called sophisticated comedy drama is ably acted and sumptuously staged, I didn't find it so hot. Too obvious, and the dialog is, at times, the last word in banality.

See you tomorrow.

Notes of Music and Musicians

The first performance of Christmas oratorio, "The Mass of Christ," will be given at the St. James Methodist church, 4611 Ellis avenue, this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Mrs. Walter Dill Scott wrote the libretto for which Bethuel Gross, choir director and organist of the church, supplied the music. The soloists will be Maurine Smith Gross, soprano; Marcia Sandahl, contralto; Eugene Dressler, tenor, and Raymond Koch, bass.

Vitaly Schnee, pianist, will be the featured artist on a benefit concert to be presented by the Yaldai Ammi at the Hamilton hotel, 18 South Dearborn street, tonight at 8:15 o'clock. The entire proceeds of the affair will go to aid homeless Polish children.

Yuletide Mail Brings Bids to New Year Fun

By Cousin Eve.

Christmas day is dangerously near, and the skids laid into 1940. Already New Year party cards are blowing in with early Christmas mail, and we know how squirrels feel in their cages, round and round so merrily. In intermission of opera nights we dine out and find huge piles of boxed and ticketed Christmas gifts, ready to go.

In these hard times the wrappings are often more gorgeous than the gift. Women who practice le grand chic, are forever seeking new wrappings and gadgets from the earth's ends, to decorate their holiday packages. The paper is sometimes very beautiful, the ribbons quite divine and pine cones, holly, and even orchids roost upon the top.

The annual Assembly Ball, the great get-together of the early winter is now in the past tense. The thousand and more guests strolled, supped, chatted, and danced over all the Palmer House ballroom suite amid subtle fragrance of pinery and woodsy wreaths. Women wore their important frocks and men their most immaculate "wear." William McCormick Blair was chairman of the ball and with Mrs. Blair headed respectively the two receiving lines.

An odd thing about this late dance was that quantities of youngsters kept early hours, while oldsters stayed on dancing until five in the morning.

There were two Assembly dinners, where guests of the older set played bridge to pass the time until midnight, and then never reached the Assembly at all. This is a subscription party.

There were two quite outstanding receptions that were unexpectedly gay and beautiful. Last Sunday at the Casino Mr. and Mrs. Silas Strawn and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Burgess entertained in honor of Franklyn Snyder, new head of Northwestern university and his attractive wife. A witty friend said if she'd had any blue stockings she would have put them on for this party. But it wasn't in the least highbrow after all, for Silas Strawn began at the ballroom door with a line of jokes and there was such a roar of conversation, we never heard the gypsy orchestra at the west end. One of the troupe, a pretty girl, played violin solos in front of the various groups at tea, and the tea table with Mrs. P. A. Valentine at one end and Mrs. John Crerar at the other was laid in the center of the ballroom. Relieving them later were Mrs. Walter Cummings and Mrs. Wesley Dixon and Mrs. James Cathcart, the two handsome daughters of the Strawns. Mrs. Charles Dewey was also assisting, and thru her good offices many guests had the pleasure of meeting the new commandant of Great Lakes, Admiral and Mrs. Watts. They came here in September from the Long Beach, Cal., naval station. To enumerate the personalities would be quite a task—but naming a few—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yoe Freeman, Col. and Mrs. George Langhorne, Mrs. Charles Deering, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Morton, Mr. and Mrs. H. Belin Voorhees, Mrs. C. W. Dempster, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Hinckley, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce MacLeish, Mr. and Mrs. Jason Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. James Kemper, Mr. and Mrs. George Mason, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Countess Cardelli, and Mrs. Henry Hollis.

Robert Allerton is our most perennial bachelor, and in the old days, when one spoke of such things, he was said to have a large fortune. One had almost forgotten about this last item, until the Art institute reception days ago, in the new Allerton wing, when the thought came back. Here was a magnificent suite on the lower level, spreading south and east until it joined up with the noble apartments containing the Antiquarian collections. It is a memorial suite to all the Allertons who have flourished in Chicago from Prairie Avenue days, and great houses, four-in-hands and things.

Robert Allerton lives at Monticello, Ill., and calls himself, in the farming season, a farmer. In winter he goes to a new house built on his own island in the Hawaiian group and he also keeps an apartment in Astor street.

The Antiquarian reception opening this new Allerton wing was very brilliant, with Mrs. Phillip Miller, granddaughter of Mrs. George M. Pullman, heading the line which included the new curator of fine arts, Meyric Rogers and Mrs. Rogers. Among the Antiquarians seated at the beautiful tea table two by two were Mrs. Clive Runnels, Mrs. A. H. Patterson, Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, and Mrs. Potter Palmer looking lovely in gray toilette, almost white, a white winged hat that merged with her hair, and sables.

• • •

Pouring tea for such a multitude was no laughing matter. To see the treasures lining the walls was even harder. From the vestibule of the wing, there are fine chests, chairs, and primitive paintings from the collections of Mrs. Emily Chadbourne, Robert Allerton, and the Martin A. Ryerson bequests. These are set as if actually in use, and in the larger halls fine tapestries are hung. One of the 15th century, given by Laura Shedd Schweppe [of dear memory], is very grand. The pair of oak doors out of Marly, favorite country house of Louis XIV. now destroyed, have gilt bronze knobs, and are near Ruth Davis Danglers' Memorial to Harry Dangler, her husband, a small salon taken entire from the hotel of the Duc de Longueville in Rue Vermeil in 1720. The walls with lovely walnut panels, parquet, doors, and marble chimney piece with side lusters are all as used two centuries since. Two small love seats sit by the hearth. Another memorial room is the former Mrs. Waller Borden's tribute to her mother, the late Elizabeth W. Waller, in painted chinoiserie with chairs of the period.

WILL BE WED THURSDAY

Miss Mary Jane Bierman, daughter of Mrs. William Bierman of Pittsburgh, Pa., will become the bride of Noel B. Gerson of Chicago next Thursday. The wedding will take place at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel P. Gerson, 1300 Hyde Park boulevard. Miss Bierman attended Carnegie institute. Mr. Gerson is a graduate of the University of Chicago. He and his bride will live at the Sherry hotel.

[Maurice Seymour Photo.]

Opposite stands a glass case with a wonderful and rare collection of "Verre de Nevers" given by Miss Elizabeth McCormick. These tiny glass figures from the far past are not to be had any more, but there exists in a Paris musée a superb Henri IV. on horseback, quite large and the finest existing specimen of this lost art.

• • •

There is a marvelous Cartonniere or receptacle for boxes from the collections of the dukes of Bauffremont, who were poor business men and were sold out lately in Paris. Bustling forward into other galleries one finds a pair of chairs made by Samuel McIntire and bought by the Edith Almy Adams bequest, and other beautiful pieces in the George F. Porter and Byron Smith memorials, as well as Sewell Avery's gift. On various consoles are wax fruits and flowers under glass, of 18th century fabrication, the most interesting being a floral agglomeration loaned by Mrs. Potter Palmer.

In a small alcove, is a rare collection of old lace paper valentines. After seeing these, one decides to save everything for posterity.

A charming part of this giro round the Allerton wing is the lovely lighting from little secluded, quiet courts, each with its fountain and clipped trees.

Looking ahead into 1940 the much liked lectures of Dr. Hugo Simon, held Wednesdays at half after eleven, will run thru January in the houses of Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, Mrs. Charles Swift, Mrs. Mitchell Follansbee and Mrs. Edward Leight.

Dr. Simon is a brilliant and impartial historian who lectures at Northwestern, and some of his topics are "World Revolution," "Romantic Ups and Downs of Polish History," and "Other Storm and Stress Eras Like Ours."

Another something to fire the imagination is church music at the Art institute during Christmas week in honor of the beautiful Italian pictures now on view. Bishop Bernard J. Sheil and other prelates in the Chicago diocese are lending their church choirs, and already one hears the lovely voices caroling in practice hours. This delightful idea is an outgrowth of having the celebrated "Madonna of the Chair" out of Rome and in our keeping at Christmastide.

The Chicago City Opera performances were over last night, except for an extra on New Year's eve, "La Bohême," which sounds as if Poland were to the fore with Jan Kiepura, George Czaplicki and Marta Eggerth, a lovely Hollywood star, in the cast. The Polish people always turn out in force to support their artists to the last seat in the top gallery, and know how to yell and shout their enthusiasm.

Mrs. John Alden Carpenter's foundation committee to raise a foundation fund for our opera goes on triumphantly. At Mrs. Charles Swift's tea at 209 Lake Shore drive, the reports were of large sums given and more promised. Giovanni Cardelli gave an opera résumé beforehand on opera in history: seems that Venice had fifteen operas going at once in the 18th century. Count Cardelli has specialized in the study of opera and delivered 69 lectures on the subject in the Chicago sector since October.

MARRIED

The former Miss Mignon Benamy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sol Benamy of 1139 North Spaulding avenue, whose marriage to Dr. Albert H. Diamondstone took place on Nov. 19 at the Chicago Towers club. Dr. Diamondstone is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Diamondstone.

On Monday at the "Bartered Bride" rehearsal in the vast spaces of the Civic Opera house, twenty guests of President Jason Whitney sat entranced in the front seats and saw the Littlefield ballet at work, and Director Henry Weber instructing the quartet on when to breathe. Mrs. A. H. Patterson, Mrs. R. T. Crane, Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Mrs. Charles Renshaw, Miss Elsie McCormick, Mrs. Walter Cummings, Mrs. George Langhorne, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Brown were a few who were there. Afterward Mr. Whitney entertained his guests at a most charming breakfast in the Electric club high up in the clouds above. Two of the opera's popular artists sang during this feast, Mme. Giannini and Morelli. Douglas Beattie, a new young basso with the company, rounded up a cheerful and nice party. And, I nearly forgot, Martinelli, the veteran still full of fire and gorgeous voice made a cunning Italo-Americano speech. There were two other luncheons that day—Mrs. John H. Winterbotham's for Mrs. Hugh McBirney and Mrs. Walter Brewster's.

Letters come winging across the cruel, mine infested seas, churned up by winter's wicked storms. How much better doesn't it seem to fly above all the risks and hazards of war, up into the dome of the heavens? Peter Dewey, now safely somewhere in France, flew out by Clipper. His letter home is almost poetry with its talk of winds and weather. The Ronald Trees were aboard, and from old New York in a half day, they were stepping out and enjoying hot weather in Bermuda. That night the air ship sailed high thru clouds and star decked sky into the very face of the moon, so large, bright as silver, cold. In the morning they landed at the Azores and took a drive around, and the next incident said Peter, younger son of the Charles S. Deweys, was walking the gang plank at Lisbon.

Another letter comes out of Berlin, from yet one more traveler by Clipper. This, he says, makes all other modes of going seem difficult, and his was a speedy trip to Germany in the interest of Red Cross aid for Poland. From his room at the Adlon two flags could be seen waving in the breeze. One with the swastika, the other with the hammer and sickle, out of compliment to the Moscow trade commission.

This traveler and other Americans in his group were dining at the embassy with Alexander Kirk, and they had attended the Berlin opera for a performance of "Die Meistersinger." This, they said, was a magnificent treat, absolutely thrilling, with no thoughts of war except in the very competent German blackout.

Another letter comes from Finland, out of Helsingfors the charming, quaint capital, from the hand of Baroness Dagmar Ramsay to her Chicago friends. Baroness Ramsay is a beautiful, tall, blonde; part Finn, part Russian, whose life has had stormy interludes in the past years.

Baroness Ramsay once escaped across the ice to Finland, with forty-four soldiers after having outwitted a bolshevik firing squad. They had seized and blindfolded her, and were standing their victims up against a wall, when she asked to meet death with eyes wide open. "Yes, dog of an aristocrat, you may see your finish," and they took off the blindfold, thereupon an instant before the volley she threw herself down, wriggled off behind the wall into a forest and saved herself.

Baroness Ramsay has been the guest in Chicago of Mrs. Herbert Bradley, Mrs. Francis Dickinson and Miss Dorothy Stirling and she writes to them of the dire needs of her compatriots. Her house in Helsingfors is now a hospital, and what American heart is so stony that it doesn't enlarge at that plea?

The Casino's twenty-fifth birthday party was its first large dinner-dance of the year, and given in honor of Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, the club's first president.

Mrs. Coleman received at the head of the line in voluminous heavy crimson silk. Her corsage flowers were white camelias sent by Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, Mrs. Watson Armour, and Mrs. Frank Hibbard, recent presidents, in their order. Mrs. Hibbard's dress was pale rose, in glittering design.

Dinner began at 9:30, and the march of the lovely frocks was spectacular. Mrs. Gustavus Swift's sweeping brocade with red shoulder straps was gorgeous; Mrs. Barrett Wendell's peacock blue taffeta, quite a knockout; Mrs. John Cochran's ice blue tulle with corsage feathers was a dream, while Mrs. Ralph Shaw's floating black lace skirts and slim figure were easily among the most distinguished, and the women who wore white were perhaps most numerous of all: Mrs. George Ranney, Mrs. John Carpenter, Mrs. Dewey, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne.

There was a long table headed by Mrs. P. A. Valentine, and a head table with its party of ex-presidents. This was graced at the dessert hour by a white three tiered birthday cake with 25 lighted candles. This was carried in state about the hall by the two coffee boys from the Pump room of the Ambassador, whose livery of green with three white feathered hat, is certainly grand.

A jolly good number of the floor show was that of the officers of the Casino in close harmony, headed by Arthur Meeker. Charles Freeman, Barrett Wendell, John R. Winterbotham, Frank Hibbard, and Harris Brewer, with Mr. Meeker, composed the Gasino glee. After that there was dancing.

Announce Engagement of Gertrude M. Kleinman

The engagement of Miss Gertrude Marjorie Kleinman to Dr. Henry D. Forman of Milwaukee is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip M. Kleinman of East Chicago, Ind. Miss Kleinman was graduated from the University of Chicago. Her fiancé received his bachelor's degree from the University of Wisconsin and his dental degree from Marquette university.

Veterans to Be Remembered by Legionnaires

The bright blue uniform of American Legion auxiliary members will take the place of Santa Claus' red one in the 21 government hospitals of Illinois this week, as that organization brings to each of 8,500 disabled war veterans a gift of his own choosing. A day will be spent decorating Christmas trees and another day visiting the patients and delivering the gifts which auxiliary members previously had learned were wanted. The 1,800 men and the 25 ex-service women and war nurses at Edward Hines Jr. hospital will receive their gifts Thursday.

Junior auxiliary members have selected and stamped nearly 10,000 Christmas greeting cards for veterans to send to their families and friends.

Not just at Christmas time, but the year around, auxiliary members who have earned their uniforms by regular visits to the hospitals offer friendship and cheer to ex-service men. Mrs. Ralph C. Webber, as rehabilitation chairman for Illinois, directs these and other auxiliary activities on behalf of war veterans.

This afternoon Chicago circles of the Daughters of Isabella will sponsor a food and linen shower at the Council of Catholic Women home, 2501 West Monroe street, as their diocesan Christmas project. Individual circles also are planning Christmas parties for the less fortunate.

No fewer than 16 Christmas cheer parties will be given today by councils of the Ladies of Isabella at Chicago institutions. Six parties already have been given, and 21 others are scheduled for the holidays. Each person at the institutions visited receives a gift selected personally for him by the Ladies of Isabella.

Forty women will be hostesses, each at a table for 10, when the Church Club of Chicago gives a Christmas dinner for 1,000 underprivileged children Thursday evening at the Hotel Sherman. That afternoon the group will wrap presents, to include one practical gift and one toy for each child. These Santa will distribute at the party along with candy and fruit. Mrs. John L. Kellogg is chairman of the group.

Indian boys and girls in Chicago and the three Indian student nurses whose education the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs is financing will be guests at the annual Christmas party of the federation's Indian welfare department at 5 o'clock today at headquarters, 30 West Washington street. Santa Claus will present gifts, and supper, movies, games, and music will be in order. Mrs. C. J. Albrecht is in charge.

Women of Rotary will hold their annual Christmas party at the Illinois Surgical Institute for Children on Wednesday afternoon following their regular meeting at the Hotel Sherman. Mrs. C. A. Patterson is president.

Pilot International, business and professional women's service club, will give a Christmas party for 12 young girls from the Chicago Children's center Monday evening at the new Pilot headquarters, 2841 West Washington boulevard. These girls are to be adopted by the organization as junior pilots and are to be helped toward careers for which they have shown aptitude. The young guests will give a program, and there will be a tree and gifts. Mrs. Edna Hamilton McNiell is president.

• • •

The Railway Business Woman's Association of Chicago is among the organizations taking part in THE TRIBUNE's Good Fellow campaign this year. The organization's own Christmas party will be held at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday at the Morrison hotel. Miss Bernice Koller is president.

Boys and girls from the Illinois Protestant Children's home will be guests of the Hotel Women's Association of Chicago at a Christmas party tomorrow at the Bryn Mawr Community church. After a turkey dinner, toys, and clothing will be presented. Mrs. Bertha Semple is general chairman. Mrs. Georgia A. Hunt heads the association.

Fifty children will be guests of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Chicago at a Christmas party Thursday evening at the Women's and Children's hospital clinic, 1600 Maypole avenue. Santa Claus will distribute filled stockings, and there will be refreshments and a Mickey Mouse movie. The club also is donating layettes and furnishings to the hospital. Miss Minnie Forest is chairman of the party.

• • •

Pi Omicron national sorority will be hostess to 50 little girls from the Frances Juvenile Home at a Christmas party today at the Hotel Sherman. Santa Claus will present toys, games, and candy. Miss Geraldine Halloran is in charge.

Children at the Sarah Hackett Stevenson Memorial, 2414 Prairie avenue, will be guests at a Christmas party following a dinner for members and friends Thursday evening at the home.

Miss Florence Stewart, superintendent of the Chicago Home for Convalescent Women and Children, will give a Christmas party for the patients Friday at the home, 2678 Washington boulevard.

The Independent German-American Woman's club will raise money for Christmas philanthropies thru a sale of handmade articles, jelly and candy Wednesday at the Auditorium hotel. A Christmas luncheon will be held at 12:30 o'clock, with music by the Alice Cave quartet. Mrs. George Levack will be chairman.

The Janette Goodfellowship club will give a Christmas party for children of members Saturday afternoon at the Halsted Street Institutional auditorium. Santa Claus will present gifts and candy, and there will be entertainment. John Sepesy is in charge.

So many hundreds of colored children will attend the annual Christmas party given for them by the Chicago Woman's Aid next Friday at the Chicago Urban league community center, 3032 South Wabash avenue, that the guests are to be entertained in shifts. Those aged 2 to 6 will come in the morning; those aged 6 to 14, in the afternoon, and the teen-aged in the evening.

Mrs. Samuel R. Wittelle.
[Moffett Photo.]

A Christmas tree, an orchestra, candy, ice cream, cookies, fruit, and a toy for each child will be provided by Mrs. Samuel R. Wittelle, chairman, with magic tricks by Eugene Bernstein for good measure. The club also is sending toys, clothing, and books to many other institutions.

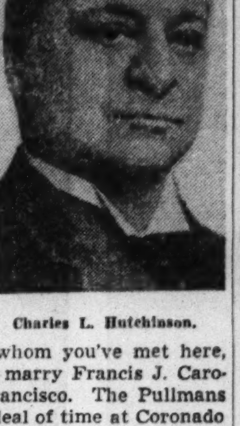
When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, September 22, 1891.

Dear Julia: Will is attending a meeting of some kind at the Chicago club and, after a solitary dinner, I am consoling myself by writing you. In a society column of the paper I find an item that will interest you: Harriet Pullman, pretty 22 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Pullman, whom you've met here, is engaged to marry Francis J. Carolan of San Francisco. The Pullmans spent a good deal of time at Coronado Beach last winter and it was there that she met her fate. I don't know when the wedding will take place.



Charles L. Hutchinson.

Another American heiress is mentioned in the paper, too, Mary Leiter, daughter of the L. Z. Leiters, formerly of Chicago, now of Washington. There has been much talk of her marrying the earl of Roseberry, but her father denies this.

• • •

Just there I became drowsy, put down my pen and fell asleep in my chair, not waking till Will came in. He had exciting news to tell. It is quite certain that Chicago is to have a beautiful new building for its Art institute. The meeting he attended was for the purpose of deciding about the purchase by the Chicago club of the present Art institute building, at the southwest corner of Michigan avenue and Van Buren street, which will enable the Art institute to build, on the opposite side of Michigan avenue, a more adequate place to house its treasures.

The Art institute owns the land on which it now stands—a fine piece of property, 80 feet on Michigan avenue and 175 feet on Van Buren street. The architecture of the building is good; it is five stories high and fireproof.

The view from its front windows will never be obstructed and thus no more desirable place could be found for a club, Will says. Real estate experts estimate the corner to be worth half a million dollars, but the Art institute has agreed to sell at $425,000. There is a mortgage of $150,000 on it, but even so, there will remain $275,000 net to begin the erection of a fine building on the lake front. The city council has already given the trustees the right to build in the Lake Front park anywhere between Monroe street and Park row. The directors of the world's fair have voted $200,000 toward the new Art institute building, in consideration of having its temporary use during the World's Fair.

Thus, you see, the institute has $475,000 assured for the new enterprise. Will tells me Charles Hutchinson, president of the Art institute, says it will be no trouble at all to raise $25,000 more and reach the half million dollars which they want for the new building.

• • •

Many of the Chicago club men are also deeply interested in the Art institute, so they will put their hands in their very capacious and well-filled pockets and make up the amount. Charles Hutchinson will be one of the most generous, I know.

As for the Chicago club, Will says the members are very enthusiatstic over getting the Van Buren street corner. They have long been "cabined, cribbed, confined" in their small quarters on Monroe street, near State, where it is noisy and inconvenient. Some of the men on their committee for the purchase of the property are N. K. Fairbank, E. L. Brewster, Franklin MacVeagh, H. H. Porter, Hobart Chatfield-Taylor, John M. Clark, and Norman B. Ream, all well known and capable. For the Art institute, the negotiations have been in the hands of J. J. Glessner, A. A. Sprague, and A. C. Bartlett.

New York has such fine museum buildings, you are accustomed to them, but we are new to the sensation and are thrilled over our prospects.

And now to bed.

Your loving friend,
MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOT NOTES.

The Art institute moved to its present location in May, 1893, but did not obtain complete control of the building until the close of the World's Columbian exposition, for whose congresses many rooms were needed. The Chicago club still occupies the corner of Michigan avenue and Van Buren street, tho the building has been altered.

The Pullman-Carolan marriage ended in divorce, and Mrs. Carolan is now Mrs. Arthur Schermerhorn of New York.

Four Score and Ten.

Leon McVicar sends us the name of Mrs. Emma Lowe, 1724 Greenleaf avenue, whose 93d birthday occurred Dec. 17. Mrs. Lowe, born in Ionia, Mich., was an organist, playing the pipe organ in the Ionia Methodist Episcopal church. She has lived in Chicago since 1890, her residence during almost 50 years having been in Rogers Park. . . . Elizabeth A. Fanning sends the name of Mrs. Rose Collins, widow of a civil war veteran, who celebrated her 91st birthday Nov. 15. Mrs. Collins' friends find her interesting because of her kindliness, her sense of humor, and her knowledge of history. Miss Alice Temple, 6937 Stewart avenue, reached the age of 90 on Oct. 26. Miss Temple has lived in her Stewart avenue home, which she built in the '90s, for more than 50 years.

Old Opera Programs.

Lee K. Preston, 4446 Berkeley avenue, Chicago, is writing a history of opera in Chicago and would welcome material for his work.

Three Leading Women Voice Big Challenge

By Betty Browning.

Three exceptional women presented the same challenge to Chicago women last week.

Mrs. Betsy Kjelsberg.
[Rude Photo.]

One was Norway's "grand old lady," Betsy Kjelsberg. Her king twice has decorated her for services to her country. She represented Norway at the San Francisco fair, and since has traveled and lectured in various parts of this country.

Another was Dr. Alice Garrigue Masaryk, founder president of the Czecho-Slovakian Red Cross and first president of the International Conference of Social Work, now an exile from the country founded by her late father, and soon to be a Chicago resident.

The third was Dr. Helen Pearce, head of the English department at Willamette university, Salem, Ore., and president of Zonta International, a service organization, patterned on Rotary, for business and professional women.

It was striking to find all three in agreement, all three eager to emphasize the point of agreement. Each believes that it is vital today for women to interest themselves in public affairs. Particularly, the two foreigners stressed, is this important for American women, because theirs is so great an opportunity, and so great a responsibility.

• • •

Small Fru Kjelsberg, still vigorous and keen of eye for all her 73 years, told how the emancipation of women in Norway, in which she was a prime factor, derived directly from the inspiration of American women leaders. Carrie Chapman Catt, American suffrage leader, is her lifelong friend.

[Associated Press Photo.]

The National Council of Women of Norway, of which Fru Kjelsberg was president for 16 years and now is honorary president, helped to win suffrage for Norwegian women by 1913, years before English and American suffrage workers were successful.

The council, which comprises all business, civic, and philanthropic women's organizations of Norway, was founded as an outgrowth of the International Council of Women, organized by Frances Willard "in Seneca Falls, New York, in 1888," Fru Kjelsberg added zestfully. Fru Kjelsberg is honorary vice president of the world organization.

She was still a young girl preparing for the university in Oslo, in accordance with the progressive ideas of her sea captain father and her Scottish mother, when she first came into contact with Norway's women leaders. But she married a lawyer and had several children before she had a chance to follow their example.

"A poor young working girl came to me," Fru Kjelsberg recalled, "and told me about working conditions, and asked me to help her. So I organized the first business and professional woman's club in our city, to fight for decent hours, pay, and working conditions.

"We got them, too. Soon there were such clubs all over the country."

• • •

When women first received the right to vote in municipal elections, Fru Kjelsberg, now the mother of six, was one of three women first elected to the city council in her home city. Then, with the success of her efforts to better working conditions, came her appointment in 1910 as chief national factory inspector. She was the third person to receive the appointment and she retained this post for 26 years, year after year representing her country at the international labor conferences. Her first visit to the United States came when she attended the international labor conference in Washington, D. C., just after the world war.

A Liberal party member who ran for parliament eight times and was defeated because she "would not take a step either right or left," Fru Kjelsberg opposed and helped to defeat all legislation protecting women as such. "We have in Norway legislation protecting all workers, men and women alike. It is not true that women are the weaker sex," she commented. "Men need protection just as much. In my position as factory inspector I protected almost as many men as women."

This mother of six and grandmother of nine, who is twice a great grandmother, herself has found time to take an active part in public life, and believes that all women should be interested, if not active, in the government of their country.

• • •

Fru Kjelsberg described how Norwegian women not only work thru their parties, but band together regardless of party to hold meetings before elections in order to learn where candidates stand on issues the women consider vital. When she learned that the League of Women Voters follows this same procedure, she exclaimed approvingly: "That is fine. It is all right for women to join parties, but they must keep their own organizations in the parties and out if they are to accomplish anything. Women must learn to stick together and work together."

During her Chicago stay, which ends tonight, Fru Kjelsberg has addressed several Norwegian-American organizations, including the Norwegian Federation of Women's Organizations, League of Norsemen, and the Committee for National Scandinavian-American Educational week. She is on her way to Washington, D. C., to spend Christmas at the Norwegian embassy, and after further lectures in the east, plans to sail for home in March.

• • •

"Be vigilant, if you wish to preserve your freedom," was Dr. Masaryk's reiterated warning when she spoke Monday at the Palmer House at the third annual Chanukah breakfast sponsored by the Chicago Women's division of the American Jewish Congress. A tall figure, dressed in unrelieved black, Dr. Masaryk made a moving appeal to Americans not to "take their liberties for granted."

"With us it took only a few years to lose our freedom, with you it might take 30, but the tragedy would be no less great," she emphasized. Women, she urged, should be on the alert for any violation of democratic principles and safeguards.

Altho her mother was an American, Dr. Masaryk spoke with a pronounced accent. Now and then she appealed to her audience for a word. As she explained, with characteristic and disarming candor, "I thought you would prefer me not to read my speech." More than 1,200 women heard her address.

That Chicago is to be "enriched by Dr. Masaryk's presence at least for a short time," as Miss Sophonisba P. Breckinridge phrased it in introducing her, has been confirmed by Dr. Masaryk herself. After the first of the year she will live at the University of Chicago settlement, in the famous "back o' the yards" area, where, in the early 1900s, she studied social work with the late Mary McDowell. Dr. Masaryk left for the east Wednesday to spend Christmas in New York.

• • •

Women should act together, not for their own interests, but for the general good, was Dr. Pearce's contention. She paid a visit to Chicago last week to confer with Zonta leaders.

"Women are not used to concerted action in public affairs, nor are men, for that matter," she remarked, "so I shall say simply that there is need for people to coöperate in the interests of the entire community."

There is an increasing interest in public affairs, Dr. Pearce has found during the two years that she has traveled about the country as president of Zonta International. Her organization now is emphasizing the need of information, of careful study of all sides of a question, before action is taken.

Dr. Pearce, who also has been a leader in the American Association of University Women, comes of pioneer stock on both sides. All four grandparents came across country to Oregon by covered wagon in the 1850's.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Miss Mary Ellen Seaman, whose engagement to Warren Jay Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bradford J. Reynolds of Chicago, has been announced. Miss Seaman is the daughter of Mrs. John T. Seaman of Milwaukee and a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo D. Seaman, Milwaukee pioneers.

Handmade Items Being Sold Daily to Aid Crippled

Handmade articles of metals, woods, and fabrics, greeting cards, and other products made by home bound crippled children and adults are offered at a Christmas benefit sale held daily in shop 22 of the Michigan Square building, 540 North Michigan avenue. The Illinois Association for the Crippled is sponsoring the sale jointly with the Chrysalis society, the Chicago Polio Swim club, the Spalding alumni, the Country Home for Convalescent Crippled Children, the Opportunity Guild for Shut-Ins, the Janeil shop, and the Illinois wing of the National Shut-In society.

The sale is held from 9:30 to 5:30 o'clock each day, and until 9 o'clock on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings.

Party Season, Holiday Tempo Grip Pasadena

By Ruth Billheimer.

December's remaining days are bursting with parties planned to holiday tempo.

PASADENA, CAL. Returning collegians find the town hung with necklaces of colored lights and the gigantic traditional tree at the Memorial flagpole, where fashionable Orange Grove avenue crosses bustling Colorado boulevard. And in spite of continuing summer temperatures [which brings soft mutterings even from the natives], it is apparent that Santa Claus will soon make his grand entry.

Before he comes one of the gayest gatherings will be the annual Day Nursery ball at Midwick. It calls, of course, for much entertaining and one of the largest cocktail parties beforehand will be that of the Hallett Thornes, who have bidden 200 younger friends to meet Mrs. Leslie Thorne Pierce of New York City. Mrs. Pierce is here with her 7 year old son, Thorne Dewey Pierce, for her first visit in 10 years with her brother, Hallett, and her father, Charles H. Thorne.

On the same evening one of three parties planned to honor Chicago's visiting debutante, Miss Josephine Zeiss, will take place. It will be a cocktail party given by her aunt, Mrs. Spencer Hammond, and Miss Mary Frances Snow, who also entertained for her jointly last evening before the Assistance league dance. The third affair will be the 5 to 7 eggnog party which Miss Zeiss' grandmother, Mrs. Charles Spencer Williamson, will give New Year's night. She is inviting 100 guests.

Miss Theodosia Smith will serve eggnogs to a group of friends before the day nursery dance and many of the guests who are invited to the Norman Gosses' [Jean Ericson] housewarming that evening will go to the ball. The Goss party celebrates also the birthday of Mrs. Goss' cousin, Armour Morris, who will be down from San Francisco long enough for the holidays, then off for three years in Arabia on an important mission for a large oil company.

Mr. and Mrs. Goss will take four friends with them over New Year's for a house party at the Lake Arrowhead lodge of Mr. Goss' mother.

Hadassah Will Fete Birthday of Miss Szold

Miss Henrietta Szold will celebrate her 79th birthday next Thursday in Palestine by working as she has every day for years on behalf of her chosen country.

This month Hadassah, the Woman's Zionist Organization of America, which she founded, is according recognition to Miss Szold at a series of Oneg Shabbats, Saturday afternoon meetings, thruout the United States. In Chicago seven branches are gathering in tribute to the founder and honorary president of the national organization.

It was Miss Szold who first envisaged and then developed Hadassah's health program in Palestine. Hadassah has established a system of hospitals, dispensaries, infant welfare stations, school health and lunch services, and medical circuits in rural districts, centering about the Rothschild-Hadassah University hospital on Mount Scopus, at Jerusalem, and the nursing school named for Miss Szold.

• • •

When conditions in central Europe created the emergency, it was Miss Szold who started the Youth Aliyah movement, whereby more than 5,000 children from Germany, Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, and Poland have been brought to Palestine. Hadassah is the American agency for this world movement.

This afternoon Chicago Junior Hadassah will celebrate Miss Szold's birthday at the Stevens hotel. Miss Minn Robinson, midwest vice president, will speak on Miss Szold's life. Miss Ann Brodsky, all-Chicago membership chairman, will announce the name of the queen of the annual membership ball to be held next Sunday at the Stevens hotel.

A fourth ballet, "Spectre de la Rose," has been added to the bill scheduled for Dec. 26, the opening night of the Ballet Russe's forthcoming engagement at the Auditorium theater. For the third consecutive year the National Council of Jewish Women, Chicago section, is taking over the entire theater for two ballet performances, Dec. 26 and 27, as its sole fund raising venture of the year.

A tea next Tuesday afternoon on the 22d floor of the Medical and Dental Arts building will rally council members for the last time before the benefit. Margery Mayer, contralto of the Chicago City Opera company, will sing. Mrs. Benjamin I. Morris, president, and Mrs. Harry J. Myerson, Mrs. Gerson B. Levi, Mrs. I. J. Reis, and Mrs. Felix A. Levy, former presidents, will be hostesses.

Reports will be made by Miss Evllyn Silverstine, chairman of the benefit; Mrs. Milton Tigerman, ticket chairman; Mrs. Joseph R. Willens and Mrs. Oscar Plotkin, chairman and vice chairman of the souvenir program book; Mrs. Joseph G. Slottow and Mrs. Max L. Loewenberg, goodfellow co-chairmen; Mrs. William Cooper, office chairman, and Mrs. Max Stein, chairman of the phone squad, who are directing the benefit committee of more than 100 women.

Fifteen thousand dollars must be raised thru this benefit to enable the council to carry on its work. This 45 year old organization maintains a summer camp for underprivileged mothers and children. It supports adult education projects and others for the blind and the hard of hearing. The emergency needs of refugees are met at a special office maintained by the council at 130 North Wells street, with a staff of nine professional workers, eight clerical helpers, and a number of trained volunteers.

• • •

A holiday party for the blind of Chicago will be sponsored by the Blind Service association Wednesday evening at 185 North Wabash avenue. The organization will receive contributions of merchandise and money at its office at that address, to be distributed by Santa Claus that evening. Mrs. Nathan Goldblatt is chairman of the party, with Miss Nancy Farwell as co-chairman.

The Chicago Philanthropic club and Juniors will celebrate the senior organization's 70th anniversary with a dinner-dance Wednesday at the Chez Paree. Proceeds of this annual earning fund party will be used to help the dependent children who are wards of the Jewish Children's bureau, and to provide funds for the occupational therapy department and the cardiac clinic at Billings hospital, for scholarship funds, for sewing for the poor, and for other club philanthropies. Mrs. Herman L. Korach is president. Mrs. Theodore Wolf, Mrs. Leopold Karlsberg, and Mrs. Vernon Watts are earning fund chairmen.

The 32d birthday of Sarah Greenebaum lodge, No. 16, United Order of True Sisters, will be celebrated at a luncheon tomorrow at the Congress hotel. The Jewish People's Institute players will present two plays.

• • •

The Freda Komaiko Stone Heart club will summarize its work of the last year at a meeting tomorrow evening at the Auditorium building. Dr. B. H. Lerner, the club's medical adviser, will speak on "The Importance of Convalescent Care for Cardiac Patients." The club provides medical and convalescent care, clothing, and milk to cardiac sufferers; maintains a bed at La Rabida Jackson Park sanitarium; lends wheel chairs to convalescents after they leave a hospital, and supplies materials for occupational therapy for 40 children. Miss Gertrude Fishbein is president.

Mrs. I. J. Reis will address Johanna No. 9, United Order of True Sisters, on "As It Appears to Me" at 1:30 o'clock Thursday at Emil G. Hirsch center. Mrs. Reis, who was concurrently president of the National Council of Jewish Women, the Women of Rotary, and the League of Religious Fellowship, and long secretary of the Travelers' Aid society, has interpreted current events for many years. She also is a member of Johanna lodge.

BETROTHED

Miss Loretta Anne Coogan, whose engagement to John Otis Manning, son of Edward K. Manning of Chicago, has been announced. Miss Coogan's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Coogan of Atlantic City, N. J.

French Civil Life Striving for Normalcy

By May Birkhead.

The French premier, M. Daladier, recently described the present war as one of fortresses. While

PARIS. enormous forces are concentrated along the Maginot line, to watch and check every move by the enemy, much attention now is being given to the problem of preventing civil life from stagnating, and there is no doubt that recently a quickening of activity in many fields is becoming more and more evident.

More theaters are opening, and more movie houses, some of the business concerns, large and small, that closed down at the time of mobilization, are coming back to life, so that the capital, after three months of war, is beginning to assume a somewhat brisker aspect. For some weeks the usual means of distraction had reached so low an ebb that the tide was bound to turn. Virtually every new presentation of a play or movie devotes its proceeds, for the opening, to some charity.

• • •

This was the case with the Elsa Maxwell film, "Hotel for Women," which had a brilliant introduction at the cinema known as Le Paris, in the Champs Elysées. There was not room in the spacious house for all the notabilities who thronged the première. In the front row were the duke and duchess of Windsor, he in his khaki uniform, she in a long robe of navy blue. Others seen there were the princesse de Faucigny-Lucinge, Princess Aspasia of Greece and her daughter, Princess Alexandra, Mlle. Eve Curie, M. Henri Bernstein, the playwright, the marquis de Polgnac and his American wife.

A number of the entertainment places in Paris are offering variety of the cabaret type, where the spectator simply pays by buying a drink. Some of these shows are very attractive, such as that at Le Tyrol, where an excellent orchestra of young women, in Tyrolean costumes, furnishes the music for a brisk troupe of singing and dancing artists, every number being greeted with lively applause.

• • •

The other day a leading tenor of the opera gave an open air recital in front of the famous building, often called the Palais Garnier, from the name of the opera architect, and the crowd gave small sums for a charity sponsored by the Paris municipality.

Efforts are being made to keep those painters, sculptors, and architects who have not been called to active war work from vegetating, or from suffering privation. Some of the celebrated artists, beyond the age of active participation in the war, have returned to their easels or their chisels. Picasso is to be seen occasionally at the Flore café on the left bank. Othon Friesz is in Normandy, finishing a number of canvases. Maurice de Vlaminck, in the country, is raising horses and sowing wheat, and remembering his days of painting as a time of youthful folly.

Helen Motenko to Be Bride of John Zukerman

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Motenko of 2040 North Kostner avenue today are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Helen, to John V. Zuckerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Zuckerman of 6559 North Bosworth avenue. Miss Motenko is a graduate of the University of Illinois. Her fiancé attended the University of Chicago. No date has been set for the wedding.

Rodeos Draw Vacationists to Southwest

By Lolita Linn.

PHOENIX, ARIZ. It is no accident that the San Marcos hotel and the Chandler rodeo opened on the same day. For "Bobbie" Foehl, manager of the Chandler resort, has more than an academic interest in the western sport. His most prized possession is a framed document awarding him one pair of copper riveted Levis [cowboy overalls to you] for his prowess in the fine art of tying a calf.

The rodeos of Arizona-Helzapoppin at Buckeye, La Fiesta de Los Vaqueros at Tucson, Frontier Days at Prescott, and all the others—mean endless fun to Arizona visitors. But down in his heart every visitor knows that the rodeo is no frolic put on for his benefit, but that it is, as Tucson says in Spanish, the carnival of the cowboys and their horses.

There is good reason to have a box seat in the Chandler rodeo stands, for the boxes are built out over the chutes, and you can almost hear the bad broncos breathe. Paul Carney, world's champion all-around cowboy and head wrangler at San Marcos, was running the show the other day. Guests returning to the San Marcos this season are even more interested in Paul's romance than in his rodeo honors. Paul, Cecil Kennedy and his wife, Louise, were raised on a ranch in Colorado. They did the rodeos together in the summer, and in the winter ran the San Marcos stables. A year ago this summer Cecil was killed by a bad bronco. Paul Carney helped Louise run the stables last winter. And this spring they were married.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Calef Darling of Kenilworth, Ill., who have been winter visitors at the San Marcos for many years, have opened their spacious bungalow. Mrs. William M. Burton, formerly of Chicago, now a resident of Pasadena, Cal., is spending the winter at the San Marcos. The Charles S. Jamisons and their tiny daughter, Ursula, of Greenwich, Conn., spent several days at the hotel on their way to California. Dr. Brown Pusey of Chicago, a long time visitor at San Marcos, arrived last week. Dr. Pusey is an ardent golfer and may be seen on the manicured San Marcos course every day.

Autograph hunters had a field day at the Westward Ho this past week. Among the guests were Dave Rubinoff, Jacques Fray, Mario Braggiotti, Alexander Woollcott, Eve La Gallienne and Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Baker. Kenny Baker endeared himself to the guests of the Westward Ho by joining an impromptu concert given in the lobby by the band of Loyola university, over from Los Angeles for a football game with the University of Arizona, and by singing German lullabies over the telephone to Mrs. Frank Haberl, wife of the manager, who was too ill to join the party.

Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis Hunt Jr. [Florence Grace Gardner] arrived last week in Phoenix after a honeymoon trip over the Santa Fe trail. The Hunts have taken a little house on the desert and are busy readying Arcadia Lodge for their first guests, who are expected after the holidays.

• • •

Ingleside inn, granddaddy of the inns around Phoenix, opened on the 15th. One of the great attractions of Ingleside is its fine grove of olive trees, planted more than 40 years ago.

When a guest comes to one of the desert inns of Arizona he usually visits the stables within the first hour. The stables at Camelback inn have a special attraction this year. Howard Kirby, Colorado cowboy, has spent most of the summer building a great roping arena which he calls "El Riata" [The Rope]. El Riata is specially designed for the pleasure of the children, but the grownups are giving them some pretty stiff competition in roping goats and calves and playing with Snowball, the Camelback burro.

The new stables of Kiami lodge are of interest to lovers of architecture as well as lovers of horses. They were designed this summer by Blaine Drake of the Taliesen Fellowship, and the plans were approved by Frank Lloyd Wright. The buildings are an artful arrangement in adobe, canvas and wood; and the corral has a beautiful, curving fence which, due to the use of boards of varying widths, forms a perfect design. Mr. and Mrs. Wright are staying at Kiami and motoring to their desert camp every day.

Out in the mountains beyond Mesa, the Mormon city of Arizona, is one of the most distinctive ranches of Arizona. Sahuaro Lake ranch is as good as its name. It not only has some of Arizona's most beautiful riding trails at its front door, but, what is more unusual in Arizona, it has Sahuaro lake. Boating and fishing on this 10 mile body of water are memorable experiences, for beautifully colored canyon walls rise on all sides. Mrs. Roud McCann of Evanston and her son, Ensign Jordan R. McCann, came to Sahuaro Lake ranch in September. Mrs. McCann will spend the winter there, but Ensign McCann left recently to join the U. S. S. California at San Diego.

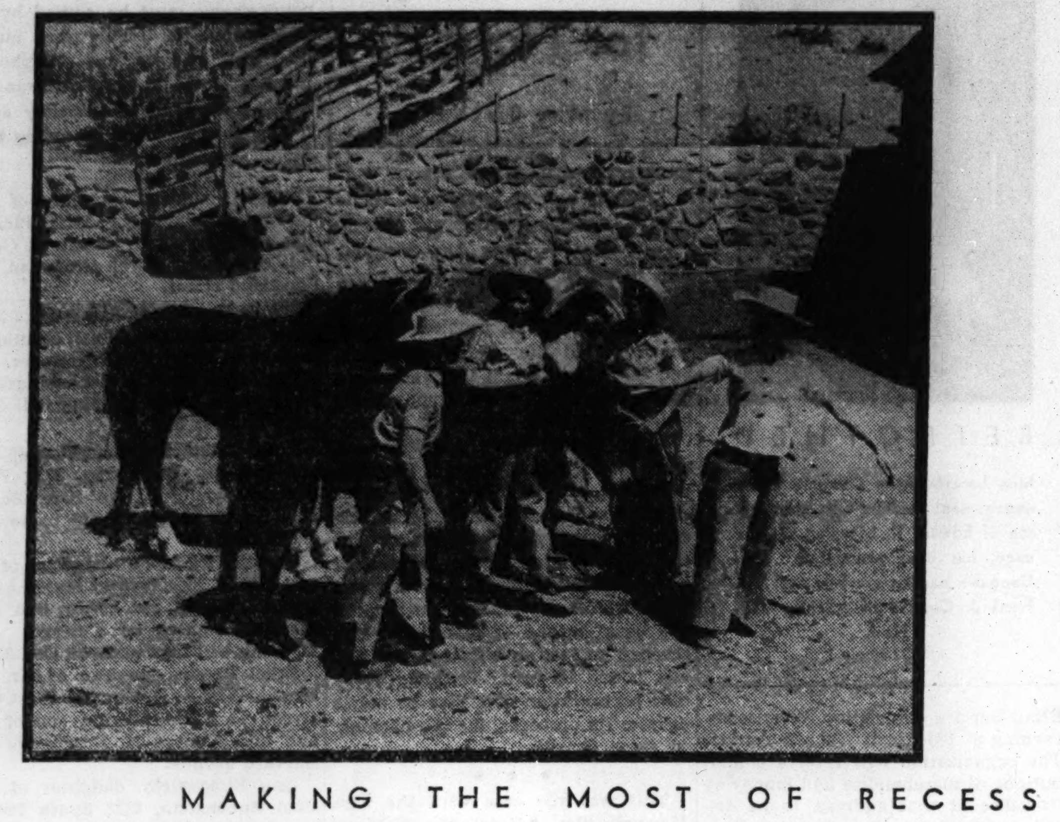
Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Davis of Chicago and their daughter, Patricia, were visitors at Kay-El-Bar ranch at Wickenburg in November.

Mr. and Mrs. James Versluis and their daughter, Laura, stopped in Phoenix recently on the return lap of an extended visit to California. Mr. and Mrs. John S. Dean of Chicago and their daughter, Mrs. Thoburn D. Rowe of Racine, Wis., have taken an apartment in Phoenix until the first of the year.

• • •

At the première of the movie, "Geronimo," the other night, we saw on our right hand Mr. and Mrs. John A. Reilly of Chicago, and on our left the Clarence Budington Kellands and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Rockwell and Dr. and Mrs. "Si" Bloomhart of Phoenix. In front of us were the Frank Nelsons of Chicago. The Reillys own a home in Arcadia and spend every winter in Phoenix. The Nelsons are just completing a home on Coronado road. Mr. Nelson will remain in Phoenix until after the holidays, and Mrs. Nelson and her little son, Fargo Edward Nelson, will spend the winter in Arizona.

The Nelsons had an experience last week which reminded them that Arizona is still part of the old west. They went out 58 miles beyond Casa Grande ruins to a placer mine, where three old miners spend their days panning gold. There is no danger of starting a gold rush from Chicago, however, as the "take" is only about three dollars a day. But the old miners are perfectly satisfied, for three dollars will buy a lot of beans, and there are few temptations for reckless spending out on the desert.



MAKING THE MOST OF RECESS

Even going to school is a thrill for youngsters at resorts and dude ranches in the southwest. At least, this group finds it so.

Air Cavalcade Starts Jan. 1

ORLANDO, Fla.—An air cavalcade, expected to draw between 700 and 1,000 light planes, will descend on this resort Jan. 1 as young pilots gather from all parts of the country.

The 1938-'39 cavalcade attracted attention for the number of small planes which participated. More than 500 landed on Florida airports.

Back in the Business.

New York, Dec. 16 [Special].—Arnold Bernstein, who at one time operated two trans-Atlantic passenger and freight lines, is back in the shipping business. With the political changes in Germany he lost control of both the Red Star and Arnold Bernstein Lines. With this month's departure of the first of his new ships, the Mauritz, for Scandinavian ports, he once more has entered the picture under his own name.

Canadian Resorts Open to Americans

MONTREAL, Canada, Dec. 16 [Special].—Montreal travel officials said today that the war has made no change in regulations for travelers between this country and the United States. Americans are being welcomed as much as ever, no passports are needed, customs examinations are simple, there has been no raise in rates, and the dollar is at a premium of about 10 per cent.

Winter resorts in the Laurentian mountains, the Canadian Rockies, and British Columbia are running on a "business as usual" basis.

World Jaunt Souvenirs.

If you wish to buy souvenirs of a round the world trip without going around the world, you can take a West Indies cruise to Curacao, whose shops seem to duplicate those of Shanghai, Alexandria, Tokio, and Madrid, with not a few things that come from Syria, India, and France.

December Is Gayest Month in Old Mexico

Travelers who visit Mexico City between now and Jan. 6 will find this period filled with an almost continuous round of festivities.

This end of the year fiesta period is easily the gayest of the Mexican calendar. It begins with Guadalupe day, dedicated to Mexico's patron saint. Then come the nine days, called Las Posadas, prior to Christmas; Christmas day itself, New Year's, and finally Jan. 6, which is the time when children receive gifts.

During this period Mexico City, always a fascinating place, receives additional color from the Indians who come to town by the thousands and do homage to Our Lady of Guadalupe. These descendants of the Aztecs display their basketry, fine silver, tin, and leather work, and native pottery, on stands around the Alameda, one of the capital's principal parks.

As a nine day prelude to Christmas, the "Las Posadas" symbolizes the search of the Virgin Mary and Joseph for shelter before the birth of Christ. Family groups, young people, and even social clubs set out with lighted candles to seek a lodging "for the Christ child." They are turned away from all except the ninth household, where they are admitted by prearrangement. Then dancing, dining, and merriment become general.

Hot Springs Plans Yuletide Tableaux

Hot Springs, Ark., Dec. 16.—The Yuletide will find this spa glittering with multicolored lights, intertwined with garlands, in the most extensive decorative plan so far attempted here.

Arrangements for the Christmas eve program of caroling and accompanying tableaux have been completed. This year the plan calls for an increased number of tableaux and a larger group of highly trained adult singers. The program is sponsored jointly by the national park service and the chamber of commerce.

Following the holidays Hot Springs will begin preparing for its rôle in the 1941 celebration to commemorate the 400th anniversary of Hernando de Soto's visit to this continent. Records show that the Spanish nobleman and his followers were the first white men to refresh themselves in the pools here.

Kilauea Crater Is Active, but Not Dangerous

By Frederic Babcock.

Americans not wishing to visit foreign fields this winter might well take a look at Hawaii. That cluster of islands has no exchange rate differentials or foreign language difficulties. It is as much a part of the United States as is Illinois.

But back of its sandy shores are scenic wonders, traditions, and native life that will stack up against the attractions of almost any other part of the world. Among these the foremost, perhaps, is Kilauea crater.

• • •

The volcano lies 31 miles from Hilo, over a road that passes thru curious lava formations, tropical jungles, fern forests, and steaming firepits. It is the center of the national park set aside in 1916 and embracing an area of 187 square miles.

Kilauea's eruptions of oozing, molten rock have built a huge core. It is the same process as that by which the whole territory was created countless centuries ago. Yet, as long as man can remember, there have been only two violent eruptions there. The first was in 1790, when boulders and ashes were hurled for miles, and the second in 1924, when there was similar outpouring. Today there is no danger for the tourist as he views what the Hawaiians call "the House of Everlasting Fire."

• • •

The park also contains Haloakala crater, on the Island of Maui, and Mauna Loa, from the summit of which spurt steam and lava. Thus the traveler, avoiding the volcano that is Europe, comes across the volcanoes that have helped to make peaceful Hawaii one of the leading destinations of this winter's journeys.

Beyond the craters lie such places as the Kona coast, with its unexcelled fishing; Waimea canyon, cutting thru rocks of a hundred colors, and the vast plantations that produce one-sixth of America's domestic sugar supply. Not to mention Waikiki beach and Honolulu and all the other tourist haunts in the crossroads of the Pacific.

We have been having an argument as to who made the first trip in a self-propelled flying machine. Please settle the question for us. —C. H.

The honor is generally accorded Alberto Santos-Dumont, a native of Sao Paulo, Brazil. Records show that in 1898, in Paris, he made a flight in an elongated balloon propelled by a gasoline engine, and in 1906 flew a machine built on the principle of a box kite. Credit for the development of aviation as we know it today is usually given the Wright brothers. Orville Wright made his first successful flight in a heavier than air machine from Kitty Hawk, N. C., in 1903.

It is a chain of trails leading from Canada to Mexico, thru Washington, Oregon, and California, for a total distance of 2,300 miles. It traverses five national parks and 19 national forests. The roads are situated directly beneath the summits of the Cascade range in Washington and Oregon and the Sierra Nevada in California. They are designed for back packing exploration journeys. For further information, write Clinton C. Clarke, 125 South Grand avenue, Pasadena, Cal.

In The Tribune the other day I read about the seminar to be held this winter at the art school at San Miguel de Allenda, Mexico. Where is the town? A. T.

Just off the Pan-American highway, about 200 miles north of Mexico City.

City Abounds in Interesting Art Exhibits

By Eleanor Jewett.

There is such an abundance of interesting art exhibits being shown about town this month that one hardly knows where to begin in a review of them. Of course, there is still the gorgeous group of Italian masterpieces at the Art institute. They will be kept on view to Jan. 9 and are beautiful enough to warrant every one's making the effort to see them. They are splendidly installed, and a visit to the institute to see them is time well spent.

A little while ago a foreign visitor to the Art institute spoke of the lack of reverence in the people who came to see our contemporary shows. "In Europe," she said, "people go to galleries as they do to church and would not dream of raising their voices above a whisper. You seem to lack that air of reverence in your galleries." We can tell her now frankly that the air of reverence, banished so long by the sort of art shown in our galleries, has returned to the Art institute. People walk slowly thru the Italian exhibit and stop to admire and study in silence or with hushed enthusiasm the inspired paintings.

• • •

Another exhibition in which reverence and admiration are well to the fore is that of religious paintings and portraits by Dom Gregoire de Wit, a Benedictine monk from the Mont Cesar abbey of Louvain, Belgium, on view at the Edgewater Beach hotel. The exhibit cannot be estimated in numbers, tho for those of a mathematical turn of mind it may be interesting to learn that the exhibition includes 52 paintings done in the United States this year and 27 examples of his earlier work done in Belgium.

But numbers, really, have nothing to do with this show. The paintings might be a dozen or a hundred more or less and it would not matter. What does count is the intrinsic quality of each picture. Dom Gregoire combines the simplicity of the primitive with the imagination of a modern. His Madonnas are fascinating and so are his conceptions of the little Jesus and of angels. In one large painting of spring you will find Mary surrounded by a host of adorable cherubs doing the same things our own children love to do, fishing and wading and picking flowers. The other Madonnas are more aloof, but all are beautiful and each is different.

The portraits are most interesting. Dom Gregoire is a skilled draftsman and works with a subtle and sensitive stroke. His portraits vary in kind, but each is captivating, whether it is the portrait of two sisters, dark, done in profile, or the full face three-quarter length portrait of a young man done in light shades. Look, in these larger portraits, at the background and detail. They are worth study.

• • •

The magnificent "Pietá" at the end of the room is in three parts and is intended to portray the sorrow of the world in the body of Christ, which lies across the knees of Mary, this time a woman with haggard and worn face, empty of the tears which a world of women were to shed. Adam and Eve are in panels on either side and the Tree of Knowledge, an apple tree, arches overhead; one apple lies on the ground before Christ. The painter suggests the rock of the world, faith thru suffering, rising slowly and solidly from the pain of the world to be at last its single sure hope. The lines of the Virgin's dress and of the entire composition serve to intimate this pushing force of sorrow which in the end is the world's crown.

Dom Gregoire has a brilliant reputation abroad. His two exhibits in Holland met with instant and great success. An art collector wished to buy all of his exhibition at The Hague in 1926, but the artist did not want to let everything go like that. "Wait, my friend," he said. "Come back in a month and we will see how the pictures are liked." The collector came back in a month only to find the entire exhibit scattered; the paintings had all been sold to individual art lovers. Tho money is not necessarily a criterion of merit, it may be of interest to know that the paintings sold for $40,000.

Dom Gregoire besides being a painter of genius is a musician of talent and a poet. He speaks six languages and he is a very simple, unspoiled, delightful man. He is in this country to do some murals in St. Meinrad's abbey near Evansville, Ind. If they are open to the public it would be well worth one's time to go to Indiana to see them. Judging by the beauty and power of Dom Gregoire's easel paintings, his murals must be unusually fine. Abbot Stephan found those he had done in the refectory of the Abbey of Metten filled with "an energetic religious quality." Such is the quality of his religious pictures in his Chicago show, but their energy detracts in no way from their beauty, charm and poetry.

No one should miss the exhibit.

• • •

Another exhibition which is absolutely "tops" is that of paintings by members of the Chicago Galleries association, 215 North Michigan avenue. The thousands of visitors who are now seeing the Italian masterpieces at the Art institute would do well to go afterwards to the Chicago galleries. Here is contemporary modern painting, which is not radical nor neurotic. It carries no social message. It is painting at its best, and many of the pictures could be hung beside the best work of Winslow Homer, George Inness and other of our American masters and none need blush for them. We have, this exhibit proves again, an American art today. And it is not, heaven be praised, radical.

In a show as brilliant as this names are not of much moment. It is enough to know that this exhibit was juried carefully and the paintings that are in the galleries are there on their own merits. Each is stunning; each is fine. If you want names, here are a few: Charles P. Killgore, Frederic Tellander, Oskar Gross [with a fine portrait], Richard A. Chase [with the most brilliant portrait of his career], Harriet Krawiec, Anna Lynch, Anna Lee Stacey, Gerald Frank, Rudolph Ingerle, Macena Barton, Karl Branner, Nina K. Griffin, Frank C. Peyraud and Edward Grigware. But this time names mean nothing; it is the picture that counts. For a thrill, a real thrill, see this exhibition. It is superb.

• • •

The Paul Klee exhibit at the Katharine Kuh gallery, Diano Court building, seems a very slight affair in comparison. Klee is a nonrealist par excellence. It seems to us as tho when a man has spent such time and effort in wiping out all intelligence from his work that it is highly improper for the spectator to try to read meaning into it. Therefore, out of respect, we will desist from effort. Modernists will probably enjoy these nonrealistic creations; for those who are not modernists there are the Chicago galleries' exhibit and the Italian paintings.

A group of delightful paintings, chiefly landscapes from South Africa and Mexico, by John S. Wittrup, is on view at the Woman's University club, Fine Arts building.

"OLD SPOKES AT HOME" BY ADOLPH HEINZE

Adolph Heinze has rarely painted a better picture than this homely American incident which is to be found in the superlatively brilliant exhibit of contemporary American paintings at the Chicago galleries, 215 North Michigan avenue.

Knitted Jacket for Infants

By Jean Macdonald.

A dainty knitted jacket for the infant up to six months of age is a knitting job which requires about two or three days. The pattern is an easy one to follow and only a couple of balls of fine yarn are required. A large sized knitting needle is used for the open work pattern, which is lacey looking and warm at the same time.

For instruction in knitting the infant's jacket with the lacey pattern, No. X-404, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Palm Beach's Worth Avenue Is Yule Dream

By Helen Van Hoy Smith.

PALM BEACH, FLA.

A magic wand has been waved over Worth avenue and it is now a Christmas tree lane. This short thorofare which harbors some of the most expensive and beautiful merchandise in America, present a storybook spectacle. Purple bougainvillea, swaying palm trees, and bright blue skies form a fascinating backdrop for yuletide regalia. Each shop window vies with the other for the beauty of its Christmas display. The air is gentle, and that jingling sound you hear is not sleigh bells but comes from the multitudinous bracelets that decorate the arms of fashionable shoppers. The accepted shopping garb seems to be slacks or pajama ensembles.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Baum have as their guests at their ocean front home John T. Stewart of Omaha, Neb. Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Davis, who were here earlier in the season, will return Jan. 10 to their South Lake trail residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Williams of Ripplemead, Va., are guests of Mrs. Williams' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Klotz of Winnetka, Ill. Later in the season Mr. and Mrs. Klotz will be joined by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Case Bennett of Highland Park, Ill., and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Charles D. Klotz of Emporia, Va.

• • •

Mrs. Elmer Rich has as house guests at Richelo, Mrs. Roy Whiteside, Mrs. Edwin Hichey, and Mrs. Bernice Wolf of Chicago, who will remain until Christmas. Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Hamilton of Chicago are moving this week-end into their new home on Orange Grove road.

Mario de Tullio of Chicago has joined Mrs. Charles Randle's house party which includes Mr. and Mrs. William White Forrester and Mrs. Guy Randle. Mrs. Jesse Spalding, who passed the summer at East-hampton, is again occupying her villa on El Brillo way. Mrs. Spalding was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. J. Hill Whiting of Chicago, who will be her guest this season.

The first sailfish in the Sailfish club's winter contest was entered last week by Mrs. Thorne Donnelly of Chicago and Boca Raton. Mrs. Donnelly's fish, entered for length, was 7 feet 11 inches. Mr. and Mrs. Donnelly plan to leave shortly for California to fish along the Mexican coast. Henry H. Windsor Jr., on the Apache, reported an exciting battle with a huge sea bat that got away. With Mrs. Windsor and their sons, they spend much time angling in the Gulf stream.

Mrs. A. Parker Bryant is expected soon from Chicago to join Mr. Bryant at Montresor, their Lake Worth home.

• • •

New styles have been decreed from the ground up. The toeless sandal is still a favorite, and so for that matter is the shoe guiltless of heel, toe and with most of the sides cut out to let in the Florida ozone. The lower the shoe the higher the price. "Dem golden slippahs," ornamented with colored stones will twinkle in Palm Beach dance patios, while jewel toned satin slippers are combined with gold and silver. The stilt heel and the platform sole are shown for both daytime and evening wear.

The snood, which harks back to the days of our great-grandmothers, adds glamor to evening coiffures, and scarcely a hat is shown without a veil or a snood and lots of fuss'n feathers.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolcott Blair are expected later in the season after an absence of two years. Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor of New York and Newport have leased a Palm Beach villa and will arrive in January. Marques and Marquessa De Cuevas [Bessie Rockefeller Strong] will also arrive later on.

Miss Betty Lowy and William Borin to Wed

The marriage of Miss Betty Lowy to William Borin of Detroit is to take place on Dec. 25. Miss Lowy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lowy of Detroit, formerly of Chicago. She attended the National College of Education in Evanston and is a senior at Wayne university.

A FRIEND IN NEED

By Sally Joy Brown.

One file which we seldom are able to deplete is that comprised of wheel chair requests. On the contrary, appeals for them seem to come in steadily, and we are rarely able to fill them.

We make an effort to limit our requests to those from persons who are permanently disabled, but the number of these seems to be increasing. The majority of such pleas comes from families who are utterly unable to provide such comforts for their invalids. Many of them are relief cases, and agencies cannot provide chairs, no matter how great the need. Others come from small income families, where food, shelter, and clothing are frequently inadequate, and money for extras is simply not available.

• • •

Mrs. L. has four small children. The oldest, a girl of 12, has had numerous operations on her spine, followed by infantile paralysis. She is frail and unable to walk much, and a wheel chair would enable her to be outdoors and to move around the house. The child's father would be able to make minor repairs if necessary. The address is on the extreme west side of the city.

• • •

Miss K. has been partly paralyzed for several years. Her mother is a bedridden invalid, and she has one sister who is the sole support of the family. Under the circumstances, she is unable to leave the house, but if a wheel chair were obtainable, a neighbor would be glad to take her outdoors. Use of a chair would also enable her to get around the house and help to care for her mother.

• • •

If some reader can supply two 26 inch wheels, a young woman who is crippled with a progressive ailment can have a wheel chair. Her father formerly was an iron worker, and altho now quite elderly, he has constructed a wheel chair from discarded materials he has been able to gather. He has been unable to find wheels of any kind and if two the size he requested can be located, the chair can be operated by the invalid. The address is south and west of the loop.

Yuletide the Inspiration of Club Parties

Christmas greens and a brilliantly lighted tree make the paneled Jane Addams room at the Chicago Woman's club a beautiful setting for a Christmas party. Not only are members holding festivities of their own there, but, as the illustrious member for whom the room was named herself might have suggested, they are giving the use of the room to other organizations for holiday gatherings. The forest and garden class, headed by Mrs. William E. Eaton, personally has decorated the room.

Yesterday the junior auxiliary held a party there for 400 underprivileged children from various institutions. Each young guest received a gift. Mrs. Harold N. Dalton heads this group. The senior club also entertained young girls from the Park Ridge School for Girls yesterday.

• • •

Next Thursday the Service Council for Girls, with the coöperation of a dozen organizations and schools, will give a Christmas party in the Jane Addams room for the underprivileged girls under its supervision. Mrs. Fred H. Law, chairman of the committee in charge, has arranged an afternoon of Christmas carols and readings by James Bradley Griffin, with a dinner and a gift from Santa Claus for each of the 100 guests. There will be a grab bag of gifts, too. Mrs. Burnett D. Warner, president of the Chicago Woman's club, formerly headed the council. Mrs. Frank M. Specht now is president.

The Mary club will take over the Jane Addams room Dec. 28 for a party for the young girls entrusted to its care by the Juvenile court.

From the artistic standpoint, the presentation of Christmas tableaux by the Hull House music school next Wednesday afternoon will be the climax of the Chicago Woman's club's festivities. For 20 years students of the music school have depicted incidents in the life of Christ each year in these tableaux. Mrs. Louis W. Burr, program chairman of the Chicago Woman's club, is bringing the tableaux to the club for the third Christmas.

• • •

Each year the Central Eleanor club centers its Christmas merrymaking around the burning of a Yule log in the old English tradition. Next Friday evening Miss Grace Coulter, president of the Central Eleanor association, again will tell the Christmas story, as she does each year.

Again Miss Florence Dibell Bartlett, chairman of the Central Eleanor club, will light the Yule log, and each member will cast a twig into the flame and make a wish. There will be a puppet show and carols will be sung around the ceiling-high Christmas tree in the club lounge, 16 North Wabash avenue. Each of the young business girl members will bring a gift for children at the House of Happiness settlement.

Mrs. Charles S. Clark, president of the Conference of Club Presidents and Program Chairmen, always plans an exceptionally charming program for her organization's Christmas meeting. Next Thursday morning at the Art institute Carado Casselli, tenor of the Vatican choir, and Harriet Brewer, contralto of the Chicago City Opera company, will sing. Phyllis Wermuth will give a dramatic reading of an excerpt from "Madame Curie," and Mary Duncan Stewart, a Christmas reading from St. Luke. Burr Tillstrom will present "Kukla and the Christmas Puppets," and Estelle Lutz, the Fine Arts players in a Christmas play.

The Christmas story, as depicted by the great masters of art, will be brought by Mrs. Elvir Winter Gilmore to the Chicago chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at 2:15 o'clock Thursday at the Stevens hotel. A program of music will be presented by a chorus of members and by Miss Doris Briggs, harpist. Tea will be served.

• • •

A Christmas program, to be presented before the Northern Illinois branch of the National League of American Pen Women at 3 o'clock today in the Fine Arts building, will feature "The Queen's Christmas," by Agness G. Gilman and Gertrude Gilman, to be presented by Agness Gilman. Constance Eberhart of the Chicago City Opera company will sing, accompanied by Nina Shumway Knapp.

Mrs. Ralph Merriam.
[Merrill Chase Photo.]

Mrs. Ralph Merriam, president of the branch, will give a recital of her poetry, published under the name of Ida Carothers Merriam, at 2 o'clock tomorrow before the Woman's City club. Tea will be served.

• • •

Mrs. Edith Jarvis Alden, president of the Chicago Altrusa club, will give a Christmas party for members at 4:30 o'clock today at her new home in La Grange. Each member of this service club for women executives has been asked to bring some object to represent her business or professional classification. The articles will be sold at auction for the benefit of the club's vocational fund.

The Mid-West Horticultural society will have a Christmas party Friday evening at the Garfield park administration building. Mrs. R. T. Van Tress will sing. Mrs. William Beaudry will give a dramatic reading, and August Koch will answer questions on winter horticultural problems. Refreshments will be served.

Count Giovanni Cardelli will lecture on "The History of the Opera" before the Chicago Musical Arts club at 4 o'clock today at the Fine Arts building. Richard Gordon, tenor of the Chicago City Opera company, will sing. Eleanor Everest Freer, Rossetter Cole, and Rudolph Ganz, honorary members, and Countess Cardelli will be special guests. A reception will follow. Mrs. Charles Pardee is president.

On the House

By Louise Bargelt

If you would capture more daylight for any part of your home this holiday season and for the wintry nights ahead, there are fluorescent lamp units, available in different watt sizes, for all manner of spots around your house. A Christmas gift of daylight for the home, over a bathroom mirror, or kitchen work base, a laundry tub or ironing board, a desk or study table, means that you have added a great deal of beautiful, evenly distributed illumination to corners which may need it badly. We'll hear more of this very new fluorescent lighting, for it has already inspired a host of new materials and new equipment.

* *

By means of a new, ceramic type paint, which has been specially treated to produce water-resistant qualities, you can now give those brick or cement basement walls a smooth, porcelainlike white surface. This paint affords a nice finish in itself, but if you prefer something more gay and festive for a game room, you've a surface ready to take delicately tinted calcimine or paint, wall paper or fabric covering. The paint sets in three hours and dries hard in twelve, so there's no reason you can't convert patchy, raw looking basement walls into those with definite eye appeal.

Definitely new and on the march along the home building and remodeling front, is the trend to keep obstructing walls to a minimum and thru our rooms. Toward this end, the built-in vogue grows. And with it increased use of a wood fiber board, with glass smooth surface, which can be left natural or painted.

Little Sleigh Serves as New Centerpiece

By Edith Weigle.

Only a week until Christmas! Have you planned the centerpiece for the dining table yet? Now is the time to do it, and there are some interesting ideas, this year.

New this season is a perfectly charming little sleigh. It's made to hold fruits and sprigs of balsam for your Christmas dinner table, and it comes in bright red or white.

Or, if you prefer, load it with small gifts and place it under the tree. Or use it as a tray for beverages and appetizers when you serve them in the living room before the gala meal. It's so attractive and clever it will serve as a conversation starter.

Still another use for this little sleigh is to load it with flowers and present it to your hostess, if you're going to be a guest in some one's house on Christmas day. It would make a charming and delightful remembrance.

• • •

Other suggestions for a Christmas centerpiece for the table are to surround a silver or china fruit bowl with lighted scarlet tapers, and to pile the bowl with oranges, grapes, clusters of raisins and little orange kumquats after you have lined it with galax leaves, or to make a flat wreath of huckleberry leaves around your mirror plateau and in the center place one of the exquisite white porcelain madonna figures, or a little group of angel figurines.

Lovely, fairylike trees for the table are being made this year from cellophane. Directions are given you when you get the material. To create the appearance of being laden with snow you dot the branches with white calsomine.

• • •

One of the most adorable trees comes on a round standard which conceals a music box. When the music box starts to play Christmas carols the little tree begins to revolve. Or you can get the standard alone, and place you own small tree on it.

Another attractive idea is to arrange masses of fruit on the tablecloth, or on a mat that you make by covering a piece of heavy cardboard with any one of the lovely metallic papers, and then have individual little Christmas trees at each person's place, with a place card propped before them.

Weird Jungles Encountered in Lower Mexico

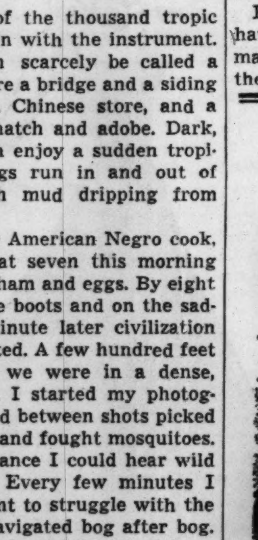
By Anson Brown.

TOLOSITA, MEXICO. It is a weird country, with bogs and lakes, where the sky is choked out above by the thickness of unfriendly foliage, where there are monkeys in the trees, and wildcats lurk on the far side of the river. Doesn't sound much like the Mexico most of us know, does it? But it is there, deep down in the isthmus country to the south and east, and here my trail has led me. I have accompanied Chicago friends in a private Pullman on an inspection tour of the vast jungle timberlands, and my mission is to get photographs of mahogany trees some of which have the breadth of the Michigan avenue bridge.

Earlier in the week we clicked off mile after mile over the line towards Vera Cruz and then cut south again thru the heat of the pineapple and banana lands. During the first day I sat on the rear observation platform, watching the snow covered peaks fade away into the blue sky as we dropped down, down to sea level. It was all cool and swift, with damp fresh odors sweeping around and the staccato clickety-bun of the rails singing an intoxicating rhythm hour after hour. After we reached the jungle our car was switched on behind a banana train, with frequent stops for loading. It was then that we would be surrounded by villagers who had fruits and candies for sale. The mothers would often hold their children up so that the youngsters could press their noses against our car windows.

• • •

It is evening as I write. I have been in the saddle for seven hours today, riding thru the jungle, and, even tho I am satisfactorily tired, it is too early for bed. A Chinese family living across the road from where this Pullman is parked are engaged in practicing on the marimba. The night noises of the thousand tropic insects blend in with the instrument.



Tolosita can scarcely be called a town. There are a bridge and a siding for the car, a Chinese store, and a few huts of thatch and adobe. Dark, naked children enjoy a sudden tropical squall. Pigs run in and out of the huts with mud dripping from them.

Sanders, our American Negro cook, awakened us at seven this morning to the tune of ham and eggs. By eight we were in the boots and on the saddles, and a minute later civilization no longer existed. A few hundred feet from Tolosita we were in a dense, strange forest. I started my photography work and between shots picked off wood ticks and fought mosquitoes. Off in the distance I could hear wild dogs barking. Every few minutes I had to dismount to struggle with the horse as we navigated bog after bog.

Tolosita is only 14 kilometers from Ubero, where the logs are cut into salable lumber. The colony of young American engineers living at each place commutes twice a week to play poker. We bumped into a bunch of them in the jungle today. How funny to hear a cheery "Hello, there!" in our own tongue in a place that does not exist to the American tourist—that has been forgotten by all except the capitalists and the insects. I wonder now, when I see the giant trees crash down, if dust storms will sweep these plains in another 50 years.

• • •

By noon we had covered 15 miles. Mud caked on me like baked clay. A Mexican trotted ahead with his machete occasionally cutting us a trail. Great vines dropped tendrils that brushed against our perspiring foreheads. My clothes were so soaked that when it rained a little it made no difference. The sun came out once more and a butterfly the size of a sparrow fluttered its white, gold tipped wings across the trail. I lagged behind until I could hear nothing except the birds and insects. The most unusual bug was one I could not see. It made a noise like a car skidding around a corner.

I saw no monkeys or wildcats. They have fled to another region since man's noisy tractors have invaded their domain. But I could hear the monkeys chattering on the other side of the dark river. Once my heart pounded a bit faster as I passed under a tree containing a large boa coiled and sleeping in the branches.

Of flowers I could speak no end. When the time comes that you can pick a delicate pink orchid to pieces for mere curiosity, something should be done. I did that today. I even put two orchids in the horse's mane for decoration, and wore a small one myself over the left ear, as we used to do in Tahiti. It was all a florist's nightmare. There was a peculiar species of orange and red blooms which catch insects, tho nothing like the fly-trap flowers. Small blue flowers lined the dark pathway, turning parts of it into garden-like hues. Other spots, where the sun was trapped by the dense foliage of leaves high in the tangled treetops, were barren of colors except for slippery green moss on treacherous molding logs. The horse shied in these parts because there was generally two inches of mud there beneath the decay. Once as I walked beside the mare the mud pulled at my heels like sticky fingers, making a sloppy, sucking sound as I stepped forward.

• • •

It is over now, a fascinating day, as tho Trader Horn had let us share a chapter or two with him. The thousand tropical crickets are droning incessantly, and beating their foolish bodies on the window screen behind my head, and trying to get in to the light.

I am seated on two pillows—for Mexican saddles are carved out of hard wood and are wider than the English saddle.

'Los Pastores' to Be Enacted in New Mexico

SANTA FE, N. M.—In the fortnight after Christmas New Mexico's Spanish American villages will be the scene of performances of "Los Pastores" [The Shepherds].

From the neighboring ranchos and casas come the visitors to hear the story told in the intonements of the ten shepherds, who stand in two horizontal lines facing each other. The antics and rags of Bartolo, the lazy shepherd, furnish comedy relief. Lucifer is the villain. At the head of the lines of shepherds sit San Miguel, played by a boy of 10, and Gila, the shepherdess, portrayed by a girl of 10 or 12.

When the long ceremony has concluded, the shepherds, in their white robes and carrying elaborately decorated staffs, file past the crib to venerate the Christ child.

Family Settles Travel Problem—or Does It?

By India Moffett.

"Business is better and I'm tired. Let's go some place this winter. Where'll we go?" says father. "Florida," mother answers quickly, but Bud, the "baby" of the family in spite of his 15 years, almost drowns out her well bred tones with a "Naw, I don't wanna go there. I wanna go where I can ride. On a ranch in Arizona, that's the place to go." "How absolutely silly," Gwen, the postdebutante, carries on. "Why go anywhere where there are no winter sports? You know, I have that stunning new ski outfit that I must wear."

"Daddy," persuasively says Patty, who will make her debut next season, "I've never been to California and you promised I could go there soon."

Poor father, what is he to do with four whose ideas of a pleasant winter vacation are at such variance? Flip a coin, or take his family where he wants to go? But which place does he prefer—the south, the far west, the southwest, or a resort where snow and ice are plentiful?

This is a problem that confronts many persons every winter. When one is ready to settle down and buy a winter home, it usually is not difficult to decide where to buy it, but before that time, when one is trying various places, it is not always easy to decide where to go.

"Palm Beach is my choice," mother replies to father's question as to which place in Florida she prefers. "There are many reasons why it would be nice to give Gwen and Patty a few weeks there," she goes on with a knowing look at father. "Yeah," Bud interjects, "nice for them, but not for me. I don't need to meet Mrs. Van Astorbilt or any titles. I'll tell you, if we go there I'll spend all my time fishing, and if it's fishing we're going for, why not go to Key West or the west coast of Florida? Hey, dad, how's for going there?"

"A ranch!" scornfully says Gwen, jumping back to Bud's first suggestion. "The very idea. We've all been to ranches. If we go to Arizona let's go to a smart hotel. All the best people go to Phoenix. Why not try that if you absolutely won't go to Sun Valley, or Lake Placid, or the Seigniory club?" "The races at Santa Anita are marvelous," Patty says; "we'd all love them." "Speak for yourself," her brother replies; "you can't fool me. It's Hollywood and not Santa Anita that you want to see." "Children, children!" mother says. "You know you all love the sea. The swimming at Palm Beach is wonderful."

• • •

"The society columns say Florida is very fashionable," Gwen says. "Perhaps we could drive south and go down the Florida west coast and up the east. I think that's the best idea yet." Snow and ice and ski suit are forgotten as she thinks of sun and sand and shorts and bathing suits. "No, no motor trip for me this winter," says dad. "I want a real rest. How would you all like to take a Caribbean cruise?" Mother replies politely, but with little enthusiasm: "Whatever you want, dear, of course—but we took a Mediterranean cruise last winter." "It's just an idea," father retreats. "Or maybe you'd like to see Santa Fe or Mexico City. The holiday season in either place should be interesting."

"Not for mine," Bud puts in. "But say, I wouldn't mind seeing the Grand canyon. I read in a magazine that it's as grand in winter as in summer. Hey, if we go to Arizona we can stop at the canyon." "We can stop there on the way to California, too," Patty inserts before Gwen has a chance to say: "I have the most marvelous idea. We'll fly to Bermuda." Complete silence. Then Bud says: "If we're gonna fly, how's for going to Honolulu? Gee, that'd be sumpin' worth doin'."

• • •

"But who said we were going to fly?" asks father. "In fact, who ever suggested taking a trip? If I did, I take it back. We'll stay at home until this family can get together on where to go." "I'll get some travel folders tomorrow," says mother, "and we'll look at them tomorrow night and then decide. Go to bed now, Bud; it's way past 10."

"Okay, I'm off," says the scion of the family, "but say, mom"—there's a twinkle in his eyes—"don't waste your time getting those folders, because we all know where we'll go."

Christmas Dinner Served Outdoors

St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 16 [Special].—Christmas night will see Kumquat bowl packed for the annual north-south interscholastic football championship game between all-Florida west coast and all-Ohio teams.

A new experience is in store for northerners spending their first Christmas in St. Petersburg. An outdoor festival of light and color takes the place of the cold and snow to which they have been accustomed.

Christmas dinners in many cases are served on lawns and in gardens. Trips to the Gulf shore, golf courses, tennis courts, and palm-bordered promenades occupy the rest of the holiday.

CHRISTMAS CRUISES

● You can enjoy a unique holiday as well as get a lift that will carry you through the rest of winter by spending Christmas on a cruise. A short while out of New York and you are in the land of summer. The semi-tropical islands at which your ship docks have an old fashioned charm and restfulness which you will never forget. Here is a Christmas treat and a winter vacation well worth considering. • Consult the advertisments in the Travelers' Guide today, or let the Chicago Tribune Travel Bureau help you to plan a Christmas cruise. This department of the Tribune Public Service Office can supply you with information about steamship, railroad, bus and plane travel, cost of transportation and accommodations en route for trips and tours to any part of the world which interests you. Services are free. The Tribune Travel Bureau sells no tickets—gets no commission from the sale of tickets. So feel free to call in person, write or telephone.

Waterfront Fete at Miami on Yule Card

By Clarissa Greene.

Christmas carols and holiday plans fill the air of metropolitan Miami.

MIAMI, FLA. The Committee of 100 takes the center of the yuletide stage with its Christmas eve water front festival. Hundreds will participate, and there will be hundreds of thousands of spectators.

Throngs of spectators will listen to the carols and spirituals and watch the breathtakingly beautiful spectacle. The parade route will circle La Gorce Island, pass St. Francis hospital, and head down Indian creek to 41st street, then return by the same route.

Excitement also attends the première of "Gulliver's Travels," first full length technicolor picture to be made in a Miami studio, here tomorrow night. Arriving celebrities will face typical Hollywood flashes and flickers as camera men record their attendance. Following the première Jessica Dragonette and Lanny Ross, here for the event, will lead a large portion of the crowd to the Roney Plaza for the Milk Fund ball. Mrs. Charles A. McCulloch and Mrs. Lee Wainwright Ernst are among the committee members, and Mrs. David J. Molloy and Mrs. Horatio Gilbert are patronesses, with others from Chicago assisting in many capacities.

• • •

The Harvey Hansons have returned from Chicago and will hold open house at their ocean front home at Golden Beach on Dec. 23. Mrs. J. Hunter Barton of Paris and Philadelphia and her son, Alfred I. Barton, for many years have held open house at their home, Bueno Retiro, on Collins avenue, Dec. 24. This year the event will honor Mrs. Alfred I. Barton, whose marriage to Mr. Barton was a recent event in New York.

Many music enthusiasts went to Lake Wales yesterday to hear Anton Brees, carillonneur, in the opening concert of his twelfth season there. Lotte Lehmann, soprano, and Lauritz Melchior, tenor, appeared in a joint recital Wednesday night for the Miami Civic Music association. Richard Bonelli, American baritone of the Metropolitan Opera, will open the concert series at the Hollywood Beach hotel next Thursday night.

Mrs. George A. Hughes, who has a block of eight seats for the University of Miami symphony series, entertained a group of friends at the opening Monday night, when Alexander Kipnis was presented, and at a reception for Mr. Kipnis and his wife [Heriot Ledy of Chicago] which preceded the concert.

• • •

House guests at the Hughes home in Coral Gables will include also Miss Betty Dodson of Omaha and her fiancé, Wylie Mayne of the Harvard law school. Plans for entertainment of the group are typical of those for scores of students in northern schools who will lay aside their skis for rod and reel, their skates and sleds for aquaplanes, which now may be had in the form of white marlin and sailfish.

Biscayne Bay Yacht club held its fifty-third annual fall reunion last week and its first race this week. Roy Page of Highland Park was chairman of the entertainment committee for the reunion. The annual flag raising ceremony on New Year's day will be the next major event on the club calendar.

Clubwomen of the area are taking an active part in preparations for the twelfth annual all-American air maneuvers Jan. 5 to 7. Outstanding is the breakfast-lunch on the roof of the Alcazar hotel, at which feminine flyers will be honor guests, each with a local personal hostess.

• • •

Among Chicago members already at the Surf club are Mrs. Emily Battelle Offutt, a new member; the George Crandalls, the Berbery W. Youngs, the Donald Defrees, who are taking a house for the season; Mrs. William G. Potts, the Fred D. Snites, Mrs. William Whitman, and George A. Winn. The Eugene B. Clarks have reserved one of the club's guest cottages and will be down some time during the holidays.

Members already registered at the Bath club are the David J. Molloys, the Charles A. McCullochs, the P. A. Nashes, the Charles B. Shaffers, and the junior William Atwills.

Beauty of the Gulf Coast Is Travel Magnet

By Dorothy Schmidt.

America is so beautiful, and offers such wide variety in pleasures to the traveler, that perhaps we should be self-conscious about confessing that we spent two successive annual vacations on the Gulf coast. We simply couldn't control our desire to return, such were the memories of our first sojourn in the deep south, the loveliness of which is like a bath to the mind, a restorative to a weary spirit.

We made a rambling, perfectly appointed and comfortable "inn" outside Pass Christian, Miss., our headquarters. From this seaside resort we went, when the desire to go sightseeing moved us, to other Mississippi cities, Gulfport, Bay St. Louis, and Biloxi, and to New Orleans. On the way home we paid a visit to Corpus Christi, Tex. All these cities on the Gulf of Mexico offer delightful, temperate climate, sporty fishing, swimming as-you-like-it, excellent golf courses, and lush green, tropical trees and brilliant flowers to delight the eyes of travelers who want nothing except rest and recreation in between those good southern meals.

• • •

Pass Christian being our "home," we saw a great deal of it, and became thoroly acquainted with its shore line. In spite of its having a magnificent sea wall, which it shares with Biloxi and Gulfport, this shore line has conceded nothing to "improvements" and is as beautiful as when Christian l'Adner, who discovered "the Pass" in the late 17th century, first traversed it. The homes are neat and sparkling, and the gardens, typically southern, reflect the thought and affection their owners bestow upon them. The most interesting of these, to our mind, are the Middlegate Japanese gardens that transplant one from 20th century Mississippi to the orient. If you look respectful and reliable some courteus Pass citizen may prevail upon the owners to allow you in. They used to be generous with their treasure, but unscrupulous and careless visitors forced them to put a lock on the "middle gate."

Whereas the Pass is a quiet, primarily residential town, Gulfport adds to its natural beauty the air of a busy city. It is a resort which northerners and southerners alike favor for rest and relaxation. Its little harbor plays host to ships from many parts of the world, and its attractive hotels to visitors from the south in the summer and from the north in the winter.

• • •

When "traveled" people boast of a deep south vacation, unstreamlined, restful, and complete, they often say they've been to Biloxi. This "peninsula city" is the golfer's Utopia and the fisherman's Valhalla. It shares with other Gulf cities a reputation for good hostelries, but it offers its own specialty, too. This is historical significance. There are landmarks that recall Biloxi's earliest history and dates important in the memory of Dixie. Much of the old city still is preserved, and everywhere there is the flavor of the past making richer the present.

If you like seafood you will, certainly, put Biloxi on your itinerary. It calls itself the "nation's fish basket," and justifiably so. Commercial fishing and seafood canning are two of its important industries, which the hospitable city will allow you to view in operation. And the Biloxi cooks serve seafood dishes you'll reorder as often as you can.

• • •

New Orleans is so famous from a travel point of view that it often is the special objective of a trip, but if you're "doing" the Gulf coast, as we did, by all means make a journey there. It's only a short drive from anywhere along the coast. You can do it between meals, if you like, but we're warning you that you'd better save room for some traditional New Orleans Creole cooking.

This Louisiana city, with its blend of the antebellum era and the modern, is a paradise for the gadabout. There are a magnificent garden section, the world renowned Vieux Carré, or old French quarter; modern architectural masterpieces, and, not too far away, the Evangeline country which, until you see it, you'll believe so unusual that it could exist only in literature.

Every night, from mid-December until early February, is carnival night in New Orleans. You never will lack for something to do and see. This year the Mardi Gras will begin Feb. 1 and continue thru Feb. 6.

• • •

Fisheries play a prominent rôle in the life of most Gulf cities, but Corpus Christi, Tex., has another form of commerce—oil. This "Naples of the Gulf," as it not too ambitiously is called, is an enterprising city, semi-tropical, but not languorous. It offers to the vacationist excellent weather and facilities for the sportsman.

Each of the Gulf cities deserves all the time you can devote to it, but you'll find even a flying trip along the coast full of satisfaction. [Yes, we're going to make the trip again—soon!]

Fishing Tourney to Draw Throngs

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—This city's fifth annual fishing tournament, with headquarters at the Miami Beach Rod and Reel club, may have 150,000 entrants this season.

Of this number, past records indicate, about one-third will be women. In 1937 the total was 53,000. Last season there were 53,000 women participants in a total of 124,000.

Last year the outstanding achievement event was won by a girl who landed a 102½ pound tarpon on light bass tackle while fishing from a row boat, and the outstanding fish award went to a girl who landed a record sailfish.

No awards are offered for heavy catches. The whole tendency in Miami Beach angling is toward bigger fish on lighter tackle—not on the taking of large numbers of any species.

The Voice of the Traveler

Moline, Ill., Dec. 10.—To the Travel Editor: I have read Anson Brown's article on Puebla, Mexico, in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE. We visited there last year, and his article brought it all back. What a fine word picture he has painted!

Mr. Brown's experiences were ours—especially the "wood box" where Mr. Clark wanted me to turn back, and there seemed to be no turning back. I was afraid I could not negotiate the space. I did, only to find my husband in an awful predicament, with his overcoat caught on a nail as he tried to squeeze thru.

"The Last Supper" was sublime. Judas and his money bag impressed me deeply. I recall the exquisite blue of the altar vestments. But I was glad to get back into the sunshine and to hear the bells of the cathedral as the boys pushed them back and fourth, the doves fluttered around, and the women in beautiful lace mantillas poured from the church. FLORENCE A. CLARK.

MORE ABOUT MEXICO.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Dec. 8.—To the Travel Editor: Rockwell Bingham wrote, in "The Voice of the Traveler," a highly interesting letter about [illegible] trip to Mexico. I wish others who [illegible] been to that country would tell [illegible] fully what they did there. Won't some one tell the kind of weather encountered between Laredo and Mexico City in February—and in July?

Bits of Spanish are always welcome. I wonder if in the show, "Blanca Nieves y Los Siete Enanos," the songs were in Spanish? It would be more interesting than Spanish from a textbook.

I trust there will be many more letters about Mexico, and some with Spanish in them. NATHAN LEONARD.

MAIL FOR SHUT-INS.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—To the Travel Editor: Please place the name of 6 year old Joseph Spychalski, 3220 Ravenswood avenue, Chicago, on the shut-in list. Due to an operation, he will be confined to his home for some time. It would be a great surprise to him to receive cards from TRIBUNE readers. D. A.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—To the Travel Editor: Kindly add the name of Mrs. Joseph Rypel, 3016 South 15th place, Milwaukee, Wis., to your list for cards and letters from travelers. She has been an invalid for 14 years and she would be delighted to hear from your readers. H. S.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—To the Travel Editor: In THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE yesterday I read about travel letters to invalids. It was the first I had known of the plan and I think it is a splendid idea. I have a brother who was injured in an accident 17 years ago and has never walked since. He is in bed most of the time. Please place his name on your list. His name and address: H. W. Phillips, 337 North Athenian street, Wichita, Kas. G. P.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—To the Travel Editor: I wonder if you could find space in your columns for these names of shut-ins. "The Voice of the Traveler" has brought happiness to thousands of shut-ins and I know those listed below would deeply appreciate being included:

J. W. Lyon, P. O. Box 5132, Jacksonville, Fla.

Miss Ella Downey, Fairview Sanatorium, Normal, Ill.

Miss Hila Bubert, 745 Deerfield road, Deerfield, Ill.

Mrs. George Ott, 846 Fourth avenue, Deerfield, Ill.

Sue Sugden, 5601 North Pulaski road, Chicago.

Miss Mae Arnold, 160 Brown street, Napa, Cal. HELEN BADE.

WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

Camera News Review

December 17, 1939

HE IS OLD and toothless and weighs only 106 pounds. But the little shadow of Mohandas K. Gandhi, wrapped in his yard or two of white cotton, is big enough to fall menacingly across the huge empire of Great Britain. He even threatens the existence of that empire.

For behind Gandhi are many, many millions of the inhabitants of India, grown articulate at last to demand independence. Step by step they are forcing their will upon the empire. They can no longer be persuaded, by concessions that give the appearance of freedom and power while denying the substance, to coöperate with the British raj.

The British Sun Sets on a Rumbling India!

By WILLIAM SHINNICK

Gandhi and his followers have been adroit enough to take advantage of the precarious situation of Britain at war. They will not listen to promises that their rulers will begin to consider India a candidate for dominion status when the struggle is over. Instead they are using their strongest weapon in an attempt to get independence now. That weapon is noncoöperation.

The India Congress, as Gandhi's Nationalist party calls itself, controls the legislatures of eight British Indian provinces. From each of these legislatures is chosen a council to advise and assist the provincial governor in administrative affairs. Under the system official acts within the range of provincial authority have, at least on the surface, the approval of Indians as well as of Great Britain.

Within the last two months the eight Nationalist-controled ministries have resigned. The governors must function without native support and in a manner plainly dictatorial; they must enforce their decrees with the police powers granted them by the crown. In effect the Nationalists have said: "We will not help longer to maintain a government that refuses us what we want—self-government. The color of our authority will not be added to the reality of yours. Give us the right to rule ourselves first; then talk about the details."

Gandhi has hinted that there may be an extension of noncoöperation; that his party may engage in a campaign for mass civil disobedience. It is an alarming threat. How can the British enforce their own law if the Indians of eight provinces, a total of 200,000,000 people, simply refuse to accept orders—to pay taxes, for example?

There is no ready answer, and therein lies the secret of Gandhi's power. The administrative units which his party controls politically (see map) are Bihar, Orissa, Bombay, Madras, the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh, the Central Provinces, the Northwest Frontier, and Assam. More than half the population of India is under the party sway.

The British empire, world's greatest landlord, has possessions and affiliates on all the continents. But it has none that needs and gets and deserves as much attention as India; it has none that is so truly an imperial possession.

So important is it in British economy and British tradition that the route leading to it thru the Mediterranean, the Suez canal, and the Red sea is known as the empire's life line. The British navy has but one duty paramount to guarding that line—the safety of the British Isles from invasion.

How did Britain acquire (Continued on page four.)

"The Guilty Bystanders"

A Novel in Pictures by RUPERT HUGHES

1 "That is the man who killed Martin Yorke—Hugo Ryder!" Phoebe Lockwood's dramatic words do not reveal her nervousness as she begins her testimony under the questioning of District Attorney McKeel.

2 "Hugo was brutal that day," Phoebe tells the jury. "He treated me roughly when he was hunting for Martin and Edith Ryder. Then—the shooting—I saw it—he struck me as he fled—I remember him snarling, 'I fixed 'em, just like I said I would.'"

3 Hugo Ryder is frightened—badly—by Phoebe's damaging testimony. "Murray," he pleads to Defense Attorney Bentle, "for the love of heaven do something!" "Keep your shirt on, Hugo," is Murray's sharp reply. "I know what I'm doing."

4 But Murray doesn't know what several others are doing. At that moment his brother Dick and Peg Cressy are again tempting the fates by renewing an affair that already has prompted Peg's jealous husband, Joe Cressy, to threaten them both.

5 "Dick! Look down there! . . . Joe! . . . He followed me!" It is only a furtive shadow, but there is no mistaking the figure of Peg's husband.

6 "You little fool!" snarls Dick, his fear and anger cutting thru the fragile bonds of his infatuation for Peg. "We've got to get out—and right now! Come on!"

7 Dick has two fears—an encounter with Joe Cressy and discovery by Murray. Uneasily he and Peg sneak to their car, unaware that they are watched by two pairs of eyes—one worried, the other smoldering with anger.

8 The worried eyes belong to Murray. He arrives just in time to see Dick and Peg drive off. But he doesn't see the angry eyes of Joe Cressy, who watches grimly as the auto disappears.

9 "Follow that car!" Murray has long tried to bring Dick to his senses about this dangerous infatuation for Peg Cressy. Now he must put a final stop to it.

10 Two cars speed down a dark highway. In the second one Murray Bentle has thoughts only for this very personal problem. Hugo Ryder is just part of a dream now—kid brother Dick is in danger.

Synopsis of 'The Guilty Bystanders'

IN THIS country we don't discourage murder either as a high art or just an outlet for high spirits. We pamper the criminal as a maligned member in good standing of our little community.

"When his trial finally begins the jurors are selected with care to make sure that they would excuse Guiteau for killing Garfield and decorate Czolgosz for assassinating McKinley. Then all of the witnesse are treated by the defense lawyers as if they were grave robbers, liars, criminals, adulterers, and malicious pests.

"The jury sits and stares at the defendant for days and days while the criminal lawyer points out that the prosecution is asking to murder the poor dear criminal just to gratify the prosecutor's blood lust. Experts show that the murderer's provocation was so great it drove him insane just before he fired the shot. But he bounced back beautifully as soon as the dead man dropped. He is acquitted, of course.

"The courtroom rings with cheers and applause, the killer goes out a hero. But the guilty witnesses sneak away with blackened reputations. They are a pack of thwarted murderers. They are the Guilty Bystanders!"

Thus speaks Rupert Hughes' character, District Attorney Kirke McKeel, of Hugo Ryder's murder of Martin Yorke and attempt to murder Edith Ryder, his wife. Ryder shot and killed Martin Yorke at the Lakemeadow Country club following one of Hugo's all-night drinking bouts. The pretext was Yorke's attention to Edith Ryder. Hugo, escaping, finally broke under the strain and gave himself up to police, signing a full confession.

But already Murray Bentle, brilliant young criminal lawyer, was on his way to assume command of Hugo's defense. And Bentle's friend and rival in both love and law, McKeel, had begun the preliminary work of bringing Hugo to trial.

Caught between these two opposing forces was Phoebe Lockwood—beloved by both Murray and Kirke. She was the closest eyewitness to Hugo's crime.

Bentle's young brother, Dick, is involved in a nasty row with Joe Cressy, whose wife, Peg, has been seeing too much of Dick. Young Bentle, furthermore, has found a new love, Doris Cade, sister-in-law of Martin Yorke. Doris refuses to have anything to do with Dick so long as he lets Murray defend the man who killed her brother-in-law.

But now the trial is on. The prosecution had its day — now Bentle is tearing down reputations. Phoebe Lockwood gets a call from Kirke — "Tomorrow you take the stand!"

Private Lives of Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Trio of Youngsters Who Went Places in a Hurry

Hollywood.

THE FACT that Mickey Rooney, Deanna Durbin, and Shirley Temple are the most prodigious infants of this town is no reflection on Jane Withers, Virginia Weidler, Baby Sandy, Gloria Jean, Bonita Granville, Freddie Bartholomew, and other members of the Hollywood Junior league. It just happens that 19-year-old Mickey, 18-year-old Deanna, and 10-year-old Shirley, in the total forty-seven years the trio has put in on this mortal coil, have busted all speed records in getting to the places they now occupy.

Master Rooney being the eldest, and old age carrying with it certain honors, I visited him first in compiling data for the Private Lives series. Mickey lives with his parents on the small ranch he bought for them out in the San Fernando valley. As neighbors he has the Clark Gables, the Spencer Tracys, the Phil Harrises, Lum and Abner, the Zeppo Marxes, the Andy Devines, Al Jolson, and other film and radio celebs, and, like them, Mickey is a horse owner. He owns four of them.

When I arrived Mickey was filing pictures in a regular filing cabinet. He has kept "stills" of every picture in which he ever appeared, and in the files are stills from the "Mickey McGuire" two-reelers in which he appeared years ago. There is no difficulty in recognizing him; the same shock of hair, the same stub nose, the same genial impertinence of the eyes, and the same square jaw line. On one shelf of the room stands a ship's model. You assume that it must have been a gift from some wealthy movie mogul. "No," says Mickey, "I bought it at Caliente for 75 cents." On another shelf stands the 1938 gold statuette which he was awarded last year by the Academy.

Mickey has been in pictures 15 years. He made his first picture, "Not to Be Trusted," when he was 4 years old, and because of his precocity he impersonated a midget who smoked cigars. At that early stage of his career he was listed on the program credits as Sonny Yule.

"Not many kids of 19 can boast a layout like this, Mickey," I teased. "Not many kids of 19," he answered, smiling, "have been working for 15 years. Sure, I've got a lot of things they haven't got, but they've had a lot of things I've missed. I never had a chance to be a kid in the real sense of the word. I'm not saying that in any sense of complaining, y'understand, but it's true. That's why I'm going to school now at the University of Southern California. It's fun to be like other kids."

Actually he'll admit that he never has been like other youngsters. "So help me," he says, "I've always wanted to be a big success from the time I was smoking a cigar as a midget in pictures. When I was 10 years old I wrote my first song. I figured maybe I could become a great song writer and be successful that way. A lot of writers have said it was just recently I started writing songs, but it goes back nine years. The name of it was 'That's What Love Will Do to You.' Only a 10-year-old kid could think up a title like that, huh?"

From his own statements, then, you have a picture of an astonishing little boy, born of vaudeville parents, setting his mind on success when other boys are playing marbles, and sticking resolutely to that ambition, come hell and high water. "I used to watch those old-timers like a hawk and see the way they played scenes," he recalls. "Then I'd go off by myself and practice it that way." You stare at him in amazement as he paints the picture, quite casually, of his own intensity of purpose from the time he was old enough to understand that there were tricks to all trades.

Deanna Durbin and Mickey were schoolmates in real life. "Sure, Deanna and me—I mean Deanna and I went to the same school at M-G-M," he points out.

"She'd send me a note: 'Mickey, where is that girl who sat in front of you yesterday?' I'd slip an answer back: 'They tested her for a part in the Dressler picture and released her.' Get it, Ed? You go to a school on a movie lot, but instead of just being pupils the kids are always wondering about the picture rôles they'll get or miss. If you miss, then you stop going to school. Like Deanna did. All of a sudden one day she wasn't sitting at her desk, and I heard that she'd left the studio, and I wondered to myself how soon they'd get a new boy to sit at my desk. There's no schoolroom in the world like that, is there?"

• • •

It was a sorry day for M-G-M when Deanna walked out of Metro's "little red schoolhouse" for the last time, of course. They'd had her under contract with Judy Garland and used her in one or two shorts before deciding that they had nothing for her to do. The impelling factor in this decision was the studio belief that Judy Garland was the better box office bet of the two singing youngsters.

Signed by Rufus Le Maire at Universal and spotted in a modest little picture that had been turned over to Hungarian Producer Joe Pasternak, Deanna spurted to national attention when "Three Smart Girls" was released, and she's been riding high ever since. In fact, she rode so high that her pictures pulled a major company out of bankruptcy, which is a man-sized pull.

By the time you read this the Private Life of Deanna Durbin may have assumed an entirely different complexion. It has been believed commonly that when she arrived at her eighteenth birthday Deanna would marry young Vaughn Paul. She was 18 years old on Dec. 4, so as you read this she may be Mrs. Vaughn Paul.

• • •

Mickey Rooney was born in Brooklyn. Deanna Durbin was born in Winnipeg, Man. Shirley Temple, the third of the golden triangle, was born at Santa Monica hospital, ten miles west of Hollywood. Her dad is a bank employe; her mother, judging from the magnificent manner in which she has conducted her child's career, is one of the most amazing women in the country.

Shirley is the only girl in a family that had two sons before she arrived on the scene. The boys are George Jr. and Jack, and while they're proud of their kid sister, they keep her in line.

Going into Shirley's private life is hardly necessary, because she hasn't got one. Explaining her natural talents is impossible. She was a "natural" from the time she was old enough to do imitations. In "Stand Up and Cheer" her rendition of "Baby, Take a Bow" made her a star overnight. Just how much money she's made is impossible to tell, but it is possible to reveal that she has paid back about 78 per cent of her earnings in national and state taxes. The balance has been invested for her in a wide diversity of trusts, in government, state, and municipal bonds, in stocks, annuities, and in real estate. Precautions have been taken so that when she grows up she can't squander this money or be defrauded of it. But until she grows up I'm afraid I can't tell you of Shirley's private life.

DEANNA DURBIN

Mickey—Pitch in and show 'em!

Story of Two Masterpieces

Reproduced in their original colors on page one of today's Picture Section are the famous paintings, "Virgin and Child with Three Saints," by Palma Vecchio, and "Madonna and Child with St. John and St. Catherine," by Giovanni Bellini. These two masterpieces are a part of the collection of paintings and sculptures lent by the Italian government and now on exhibit at the Art Institute of Chicago.

AMONG the artists of old Venice and the exponents of the Venetian school of art were three by the name of Bellini. Jacopo was the father. Gentile was the elder son. Giovanni, who painted, among numerous great works, the "Madonna and Child with St. John and St. Catherine," was the younger son. Giovanni was born about 1431.

Until he was about 30 Giovanni and his brother Gentile, who was a year or two older, both served as their father's assistants. Giovanni's independent works therefore date for their beginning back to about 1460.

Giovanni painted a number of altar pieces, some of which still are preserved in the European museums. Few were the portraits done by him, the only one still in existence in its original manner being that of the doge Loredano, which hangs in the National gallery in London. So famous became Bellini in the last ten or twelve years of his life that he was besieged with more commissions than he well could handle. He died in 1516, leaving to be finished by his pupils a "Bacchanal" ordered by the Duke Alfonso of Ferrara.

That Giovanni Bellini was one of the great painters of Italy there can be no doubt. Twice was he lauded in the verses of poets—by Ariosto and by Pietro Bembo. The full appreciation of Bellini, however, did not come until years later. Not until the famous nineteenth century English writer and authority on Italian art, John Ruskin, revealed him and his works in their true place in art. Ruskin, who puts him above the grandiloquent Tintoretto and the sumptuous Titian, writes thus of Bellini:

"Giovanni Bellini knows the earth well, paints it to the full, and to the smallest fig leaf and falling flowers — blue hill and white-walled city, glistening robe and golden hair; to each he will give its luster and loveliness; and then, so far as with his poor human lips he may declare it, far beyond all these, he declares that 'heaven is bright.'"

Of the "Madonna and Child with St. John and St. Catherine" A. Venturi in his "Storia dell' Arte Italiana" writes in glowing terms. He describes how Bellini has portrayed with his deft brush the timidity and youthfulness of the Virgin, pale in the cold light of the morning; how the Baptist is silhouetted in the shadow penetrated by reflected light, and he calls attention to the white city that stretches behind the pleasant figures, a true and fitting panorama seen from above, limited by the bluish mountains under a whitening sky.

• • •

Another master of the famed Venetian school of art was Jacopo Palma, called Palma Vecchio (Old Palma) to distingish him from his grandnephew, Palma Giovane, who also was a painter. It was Palma Vecchio who painted the "Virgin and Child with Three Saints."

Palma Vecchio was born in Serinalta, near Bergamo, in about the year 1480, altho he worked mostly in Venice. Like that of Giovanni Bellini, his fame as a painter spread, and he had more commissions than he could handle. When he died in 1528 he left unfinished more than forty pictures.

Palma Vecchio was a fine composer, his drawing was quick and resolute, and his touch unhesitating, firm, and fluid. The type of figure to which he clung was full and ripe, ennobled in the face by delicately chiseled features. Like Giovanni Bellini, he was fond of natural backgrounds, and he painted smiling landscapes at the period of their brightest verdure.

Venturi finds in the "Virgin and Child with Three Saints" an intense and splendid color, dominated by the silvery light from the mantle of Mary. This color, with the pomp of a golden September, he writes, invests the countryside, the heaven veiled with clouds, and the luminous figures of the painting. He dwells, in the appraisal of the work, upon the figure of the Virgin, her ample mantle billowing like a sail swollen by the wind. He sees triumphant emphasis in the hands which present and shield the infant.

Voice of the Movie Fan

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Miss Tinée: Your column would be a good column if you would stick to the facts. A while ago you stated that Miriam Hopkins almost exceeded the acting of Bette Davis in "The Old Maid." In other words, she practically stole the show. Miss Hopkins' acting is wooden and unemotional. To all Bette Davis fans this is slander in the first—no, make that third degree. I am sure all of Bette's fans will join me in contradicting this statement. Bette's acting is superb and cannot be surpassed by any actress in the world.

BETTE DAVIS

Hereby we have formed a "Mutual Admiration Society for the Protection of Bette Davis." Any more uncalled-for remarks from you will bring protest from the society. Please print a picture of Bette in your Sunday column along with this letter.

BETTE STEVENS and LORRY GLENNE.

Editor's note: O, don't be so cross! Should I think as you please or as I think?

Dear Miss Tinée: I would like to know the name of the teacher in "Andy Hardy Gets Spring Fever." I think she played very well. If I should write to her, where could I reach her? Thank you.

RUTH KUNTZ.

Editor's note: I thought I'd be getting some questions about her! Helen Gilbert is the name, and a letter addressed to her in care of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, Culver City, Cal., will reach her. You're welcome.

Dear Miss Tinée: I have just seen two swell pictures. They were "Winter Carnival" and "What a Life!". I thought the casts in both pictures were good, but I especially liked young James Corner, who played in both of them. I think he is one of the best boy actors on the screen. He has a certain originality that some of the young men on the screen lack. I talked to quite a few of my friends, who all agreed with me that he has what it takes.

Will you please tell me where I can send for a picture of him? Thank you. Respectfuly yours,

BEVERLY SULLIVAN.

Pull the Trigger on LAZY BOWELS and Also Pepsin-ize Stomach!

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach comfort, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. For a Free trial bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative-Senna with Syrup Pepsin, send your name and address on a penny postcard to Box M, Monticello, Illinois.

Our Army's Light Guns

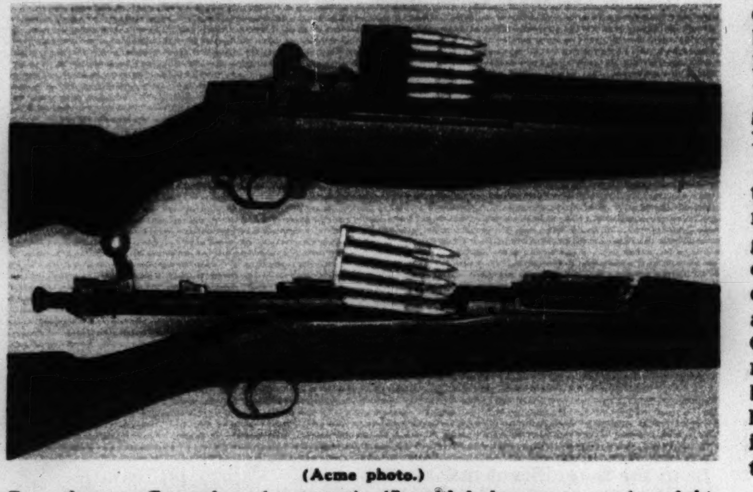
In the Field It Is Equipped for All Purposes

By CAPT. M. M. CORPENING

AN ARMY going into the field today is equipped with weapons for every possible purpose, yet these weapons, as of yore, still are divided roughly into two general classifications, the artillery pieces, which are mounted on carriages, and the hand weapons, carried for the most part by the soldiers.

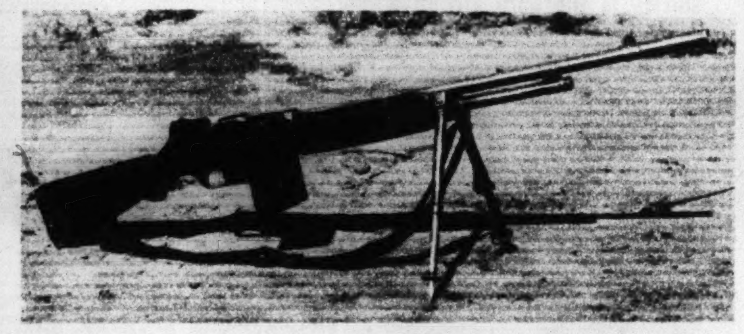
Modern warfare has become so specialized and scientific that the types of weapons no longer are few, but numerous. The hand weapons, for example, consist of the pistol, the rifle, the semi-automatic rifle, the submachine gun, the automatic rifle, and the light and heavy machine gun. All of the light weapons, or hand guns, of course, are standardized, and they range, as aforementioned, from the pistol to the heavy machine gun. The heaviest machine gun of the American army takes a cartridge of .50 caliber (one-half inch in diameter). A great deal of experimenting has been done by the ordnance department and by manufacturers to develop a still larger machine gun, but to date little progress has been made, the main difficulty encountered being the terrific heat developed in the machine fire of cartridges larger than .50 caliber.

The lightest of the hand weapons of the American army is the .45 caliber Colt automatic pistol, which weighs 2 pounds 13 ounces fully loaded. The term automatic does not exactly describe this weapon. It is, more accurately, a semi-automatic or self-loading pistol. It fires one shot for each squeeze of the trigger. The magazine, which holds seven cartridges, is fitted into the handle or grip of the pistol. An eighth cartridge may be inserted directly into the firing chamber. The weapon must be cocked for the first shot. After that the recoil of the firing ejects the empty cartridge case, throws a new cartridge into the chamber, and cocks the weapon.



(Acme photo.)

Top—the new Garand semi-automatic rifle with bolt open to receive eight-cartridge clip. Bottom—model 1903 Springfield, showing clip and manually operated bolt.



The Browning automatic rifle, caliber .30, with support and butt plate.

This weapon was first adopted with a .38 caliber, but when bullets of this size failed to stop charging men the .45 was substituted.

• • •

The Colt pistol is accurate at short ranges, and its bullets, which bear jackets of hard metal and weigh 230 grains each, strike with tremendous force.

The Springfield service rifle of .30 caliber, a hand-operated weapon of the bolt action repeater type, is being replaced by the new semi-automatic rifle designed by John C. Garand, an employé of the army, some thirty years after automatic rifles had become common in civilian use. The Garand rifle is self-loading, once the magazine or clip is inserted and the weapon is cocked. Gas pressure developed by the firing of the rifle is utilized to eject the empty shell and reload and recock the gun. The clip of the Garand rifle holds eight cartridges. As many as twelve clips can be fired in a minute by an expert. The rifle weighs a little more than 9 pounds, as against a weight of 8 pounds 8 ounces for the Springfield service rifle.

All infantry and cavalry troops eventually are expected to be equipped with the Garand rifle, but production to date has lagged. Despite the great advantages of the weapon, the government is said to have only 15,000 of them.

Before these rifles can be turned out in volume it will be necessary to provide 2,345 gauges, 1,766 fixtures, 1,386 special tools, and 79 punches and dies, a complicated process for a military rifle. Maj. Gen. Charles M. Wesson, chief of ordnance, appearing not long ago before a subcommittee of the house appropriations committee in support of further appropriations, said:

"We are making these rifles at the rate of 40 a day, and we dare not make them faster because if we do we will run out of production before we get money for additional rifles, and that would mean disruption of the organization."

Since then production has been stepped up to 300 a week.

If a generation late in arriving, it is agreed that it is an excellent weapon.

The Thompson submachine gun, a weapon of the mechanized cavalry, is the Tommy gun of police departments and gangland gunmen. It weighs 11 pounds and can be operated as a full automatic weapon. The largest magazine of the gun is of the drum type and holds 100 cartridges. Rate of fire is as high as 375 shots a minute.

The Browning automatic rifle weighing only 20 pounds is the smallest of the American army's .30 caliber weapons that delivers true rapid fire. It is mounted upon an inverted V support that acts as a rest for the barrel of the gun near the muzzle and increases the accuracy of fire. The gun fires the same cartridges as the Garand rifle, and the rate of fire is 400 shots a minute.

This weapon kills at 2,000 yards, altho inaccurate at that distance. The advantage of the weapon is its lightness and the noise it makes.

The 55-pound machine gun of .30 caliber fires 500 shots a minute. This weapon uses fabric belts about two inches wide for loading. Loops hold the unfired cartridges. Because of its weight and its sturdy tripod mounting, the 55-pound machine gun is extremely accurate.

The .30 caliber heavy machine gun of our army weighs 82½ pounds and fires at the rate of 500 shots a minute. It is water-cooled instead of air-cooled, the water jacket around its barrel permitting long continuous fire. Because of its rugged build and ability to maintain steady fire over longer periods than the lighter guns, it is the most effective weapon in the .30 caliber class. Guns of this description made machine gun nests feared during the World war.

Largest of the present-day American machine guns are the .50 caliber weapons that weigh, without their mountings, 150 pounds. These weapons, which fire at the rate of 375 shots a minute, are provided with two different types of mountings. One, weighing 395 pounds, sets the gun up as an anti-aircraft arm. The other type, weighing 125 pounds, equips the gun as a defense weapon against tanks. It is both air and water cooled. The terrible wounds it will inflict should make it an even more effective weapon against infantry than the .30 caliber weapons.

British Sun Sets on Rumbling India!

India? For a jumping-off place in history nothing is more convenient than the price of pepper in England in 1600. Dutch merchants had a monopoly of the trade then with the Spice Islands. They were aggressive merchants, but they overstepped their market when they started charging eight shillings instead of the customary three for their condiment.

British temperatures went up about this. A company was formed, the East India company, and chartered by Queen Elizabeth. It wasn't long before British ships were carrying pepper and muslin and all the products of the glorious east to the home folks, and with great profit.

Little by little this company expanded. It became the greatest corporation on earth and took on politics as a major activity.

A throne in an Indian state would become vacant. The succession would be disputed. The company would choose a candidate, furnish him with troops and cannon, and finance him. When he won his place the company would get its rewards out of the state revenues.

This corporation developed its own generals. Perhaps the ablest of these was Clive. He led 900 Britishers and 2,000 Sepoys (native troops) against a Mohammedan host of 50,000 in 1757 and defeated them handsomely at Plassey, in Bengal. This victory is now commonly referred to as the beginning of the British empire in the east.

The era that followed was one of frank exploitation by individuals and the corporation. England in those days was not squeamish, but the looting of India became a public scandal.

There was little immediate reform, however. The formula for making the East India company pay even more spectacularly had been found. The French, sole European rivals, had been driven out of India, and the company armies little by little absorbed most of the Indian territory — and collected their revenues.

A fat land, India, under the circumstances. The east glittered with the jewels of maharanees. It yielded chests of gold and silver. It was spectacular. Behold the Taj Mahal, the sacred cows, the troops of elephants, the nautch girls, the burning ghats! It was magnificent. It was empire.

The crown began to see that it had made a mistake in letting the company attain the status almost of a sovereign nation.

The first tentative step toward bringing India under direct control of the British government was taken in 1774, when Warren Hastings, the company's governor, was made governor general by the crown and given a council of advisers appointed by parliament. But the company still ran India as its property, waging wars and seizing what it could, until 1858.

In that year parliament passed a law transferring all administrative functions from the corporation to the crown. The company's army of 24,000 Europeans was amalgamated with the royal army and the Indian navy was abolished. The governor general became a viceroy. India was a possession of Great Britain itself, and in 1876 Queen Victoria was made its empress. Its real government is in London.

India is a vast land, two-thirds as large as the United States, and has a population (including Burma) of 353,000,000.

How were a few thousand Britishers able to bend such a population to the yoke; how have a few tens of thousands been able in recent years to keep the teeming millions in check?

Division and dissension furnish the answers. India is a hodge-podge of many peoples who speak 147 different languages. There are two huge and seemingly irreconcilable religious groups — 240,000,000 Hindus and 78,000,000 Moslems. Five other religions have a total of more than 30,000,000 adherents.

India has a diversity of governments. Britain rules provinces with a population of 290,000,000 directly, as overlord. Besides, there are nearly 600 native states, nominally ruled by native princes, and these states have 63,000,000 people. Some of them are huge affairs, some have a handful of population.

Strife among the states, invasion from without, have made much of India's history for centuries. The tough hill men from the north, the warlike Mohammedans from the west, made incursions into the fertile river valleys long before the East India company's time. Sometimes they conquered and were absorbed.

The company armies did not, as a rule, fight unaided. They simply sided with one group of native Indians and furnished the balance of power. To this governmental broth was added the tradition of caste, always an important factor in the Hindu religion.

Caste is a word describing the division of society into classes. Broadly, there are four main Hindu castes. The Brahmin is the teaching and priestly class. The Kshatriya is the warrior class. The Vaisya is the farming, merchant, and money-lending group. The Sudra is the level that serves the other three "twice-born" classes.

Besides the castes there are a large number of persons beyond the caste citadels. It has been estimated there are 40,000,000 of them, known as outcastes, condemned by unbreakable taboos to the most menial tasks and the lowest living standards in India. To a high-class Hindu pollution may come if even the shadow of one of these "untouchables" falls upon him.

The British, it is not difficult to see, have had three advantages in their overlordship. Governmentally they are unified; religion plays a smaller part in their thinking than the Indians', and they are all of one caste. If this is overstatement, phrase it another way: They do not quarrel openly among themselves about government and religion, and they subordinate class ideas to the task in hand—the holding of India in thrall.

Thru all modern British writing and talking about India a consistent theme runs. It is: "We want the people of India to be self-governing on the democratic model. But they are not ready yet."

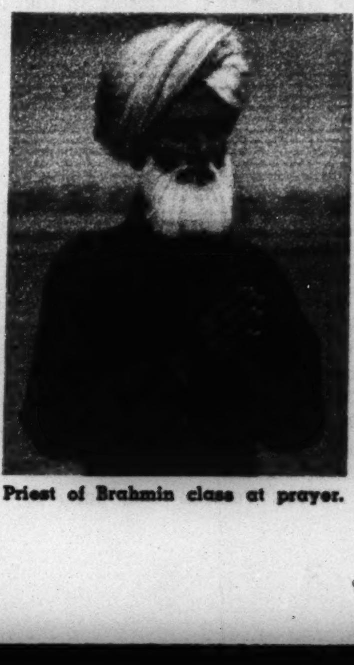
Why aren't they ready? The British say there are too many illiterates. They assert that without their own calming influence the Moslems and the Hindus would be at each other's throats and that the Indian princes would not stand the loss of their wide powers to any imaginable federation of states. They hold that India could not defend itself from enemies without the borders, nor from anarchy within. They maintain that caste distinctions would be intensified and the hardships of the outcastes made more terrible.

On these points Gandhi and his followers argue pointedly.

"Why," they ask, "has the British raj, after 150 years of doing as it pleases in India, left so many millions without learning?

"We will not be at each other's throats. Once make us independent and we will find a just formula for internal peace. It is true that many princes favor continuation of British rule, because British rule supports them in their exactions.

"India would be able to defend herself if Britain had not kept nearly all the army officers' jobs for her sons and barred all but a handful of Indians. The rank and file of India's defenders is three-fourths native.



Priest of Brahmin class at prayer.

"The influence of caste should be abated. There has been no effort on the part of the British to bring about that abatement. They encourage caste distinction and have set themselves up as a supercaste. Their policy has not changed; it is to divide and rule."

• • •

It is the contention of the Indian Nationalists that they have been promised in the past much more than they have received.

Back in 1919 parliament declared it wished to provide for the "increasing association of Indians in every branch of the administration and the gradual development of self-governing institutions, with a view to the progressive realization of responsible government in British India as an integral part of the British empire."

In 1929 the viceroy of India announced that "it is implicit . . . that the natural issue of India's constitutional progress . . . is the attainment of dominion status." In 1935 the act was passed which permitted the people of India to elect their provincial legislatures. In the elections more than 33,000,000 votes were cast, the majority for the Congress party or Nationalists.

Gandhi and his associates were dissatisfied with the powers granted these legislators. Gandhi seemingly realized the weaknesses of his own people as well as those of the overlords and set out some years ago to end them.

He gave up his caste (he was born a Vaisya) dramatically. He adopted a child of the untouchable class, and he persuaded Brahmins to sit down to dinner with him and a few street cleaners, who in India are the lowest of the pariahs. These demonstrations told the world that a dent had been made in the caste structure.

It was his argument that India should be self-sufficient, and he urged that every family spin and wear homespun, at the same time boycotting English cloth. The boycott was a success, and the harsh means used by the British to squelch it increased Gandhi's hold on his people. Civil disobedience on a large scale followed.

Mohandas K. Gandhi

In 1930 Gandhi led a march to the sea and extracted salt from water, in defiance of the British salt monopoly. For that he went to jail, but was released ten months later. Altogether he has been jailed eight times, each such incident making him more powerful.

When the new European war broke out the viceroy, the marquess of Linlithgow, pledged India's support to Great Britain and France. The Indian Nationalists hastened to make it plain that he did not speak for them and that his reiteration of the usual pious hope that "India may attain its due place among the dominions" meant nothing. They were also miffed by the declaration of Lord Zetland, secretary of state for India, that discussions of India's status would be taken up at the end of the war.

"The viceroy's statement," said Gandhi, "shows that the old policy of divide and rule is to continue. So far as I can see Congress will be no party to it, nor can the India of Congress' conception be a partner with Britain in her war with Hitler. The viceroy's declaration shows that there will be no democracy for India if Britain can prevent it."

WE'VE rounded up more Christmas ideas for you today:

1—Compacts. The ones shown are excellently made and appealing to the eye. One is a duplex in gold plate, with powder compartment and a full-sized lipstick. $3. The other is a triple threat against wilting, with powder, rouge, and lipstick. $3.50.

2—A zipper manicure case in genuine brown or black leather. The four liquid preparations stand upright and need never be removed. Implements are snugly fitted into the cover and the base. Schoolgirls love this. $3.75.

3—A decorative little colonial trinket box houses sachet, talcum, toilet water, and soap, all in the delightful scent of old spice. Colorful box. $1.

4—A chic week-end kit that looks like a stunning handbag. Three creams, two lotions, face powder, and makeup aids. It's $5.

5—English lavender, so long beloved, comes out in a smart new dress. The decanter is beautiful, the lavender the truest to be found. $2.50.

6—A haunting cologne in an exquisite bottle modeled after an angel. The box, reminiscent of an ikon, is a fitting frame for the flacon. $5.

7—Lift the cover of mirrored glass tied with tulle and what do you find? Face powder, perfume, talcum, and toilet water, all in the scent of one of the most popular of all perfumes. Also a stunning silver compact, double, and a jumbo-sized lipstick. $8.75.

8—At last a beauty case for the business woman. This "career" kit of metal, covered in brown leather fabricoid, holds cleansing cream, hand lotion, skin freshener, makeup cream, powder, and a mirror. $10.

9—A beautiful bath ensemble containing toilet water, perfume, dusting powder, and sachet in one of the liltingest scents of the day. When the box lid is lifted a tinkling music box plays "The Blue Danube." $15.

10—For fifty years this toilet water has been a favorite. That indicates its superlative qualities. The scent is a subtle floral blend. $8.25 and $3.75.

11—For a bracing bath: A tiny quantity of the perfumed liquid produces a blanket of bubbles and a fragrance that scents water and flesh. $5.

5 English lavender, an old love, makes its bow in a new dress. The decanter is stunning, the contents beloved by both men and women.

11 For the bracing bath: A perfumed water softener that makes the water fragrant, soft, and bubbly.

A Roast of Beef with a Christmas Greeting

By MARY MEADE

ROAST BEEF and Yorkshire pudding in the English manner will be served on Christmas day in not a few American homes. A Christmas greeting spelled out with cloves on the backs of canned peach or pear halves may be used to garnish the plate on which the roast is served and is sure to delight both family and guests.

If pears are used they may be tinted red and green and flavored with cinnamon and mint if desired.

Choose a large roast, a standing rib roast or a rolled one. The standing roast is placed in the oven with the ribs downward so that they will form a natural rack, holding the meat above the drippings. On the platter, however, the roast is placed so that the ribs are to the carver's left.

A rib roast is not hard to carve. The fork, guard up, is inserted between the top two ribs. Beginning at the outside edge of the large end of the roast, the carver draws the knife across to the rib side. A slice about three-eighths of an inch thick makes an attractive serving. The slice is loosened by cutting along the bone with the tip of the knife.

RIB ROAST OF BEEF

Season the roast with salt and pepper and place fat side up, ribs down, in an open pan. Do not cover and do not add any water. Insert a meat thermometer, if you have one, so that the bulb reaches the center of the largest muscle but does not rest on fat or bone. Place roast in a slow oven, 300 degrees, and roast rare, medium, or well done. Rare beef registers an internal temperature of 140 degrees, medium beef 160 degrees, well done beef 170 degrees.

If you've no thermometer, allow 18-20 minutes per pound for rare meat, 22-25 minutes per pound for medium rare roast beef, and about 30 minutes per pound if you want it well done.

Today's second picture is a preview of what some of the leftover Christmas turkey may want to become. Cold turkey is fine on the second day, but by the third day after Christmas the family begins to regard it in the light of leftovers.

A gay Christmas greeting can be spelled out on the fruit accompaniment for the beef rib roast, by means of whole cloves.

The recipe for turkey cutlets to be found on this page may come in handy after the Christmas dinner.

TURKEY CUTLETS
(Eight)

1 cup rice
3½ cups unsweetened pineapple juice
¼ cup butter
1 small onion
½ cup grated American cheese
Salt, pepper
2 cups cubed turkey meat

Wash rice and add to pineapple juice. Bring to a boil and cook until soft. Brown onion in butter and add to rice mixture. Stir in grated cheese, seasonings, and turkey. A teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce and several drops of tabasco sauce may be added if the family likes highly seasoned cutlets.

Shape into cutlets; roll these in cracker crumbs, then in slightly beaten egg, and again in crumbs. Fry in deep fat heated to 375 degrees, until golden brown. Serve at once with a well seasoned medium white sauce into which have been beaten 1 teaspoon minced parsley, ½ teaspoon minced green pepper, ½ teaspoon chives, and 1 hard-cooked egg, chopped.

New List of Pups for Gifts

WITH CHRISTMAS just about one week away, families everywhere are looking for sturdy, healthy puppies to be given as Christmas gifts to the children. A large majority of these puppies will come from the fifteen most popular breeds, a list that includes the cocker spaniel, Boston terrier, Scottish terrier, beagle, fox terrier (smooth and wire varities), Pekingese, dachshund, springer spaniel, chow, bulldog, collie, Pomeranian, Irish setter, Doberman, and Great Dane. It will be noticed that at the head of this list are what the kennels describe as "dogs of house pet size." Families that have a limited amount of room, and therefore want a rather small companion dog as a pet, naturally would turn to a breed that isn't large, a tendency which has boosted such breeds as the cocker, Boston terrier, Scotty, beagle, fox terrier, Pekingese, and dachshund into leading positions.

Altho a large majority of the Christmas puppies will be selected from the fifteen leading breeds in America, it doesn't mean that these breeds are the only ones that make satisfactory pets. In the next fifteen most popular breeds, the ones that rank from number 16 to number 30 in the list, are some marvelous dogs of varied size and usefulness with commendable traits. Number one dog in the second group is the beautiful English setter, a stylish, affectionate sporting breed. Then follow in order the German shepherd (erroneously called police dog), intelligent working breed whose best reference is that he is being widely used to guide the blind; the Airedale, one of the largest of our terrier breeds and a rugged companion dog that makes a good guard around the home; the Irish terrier, a medium-sized, active breed which is intelligent and alert; the tiny Chihuahua, interesting and amusing toy breed; the boxer, a strong, active working breed which when trained makes an excellent guard dog; Sealyham terrier, the white, wiry-coated little "badger dog," that has lots of personality; St. Bernard, one of America's best loved working breeds; Dalmatian, the old "coach dog" of the nineties, which is now making a comeback and winning new friends; poodle, distinctive and smart breed which also is gaining in popularity; Kerry blue terrier, one of the most unusual terrier breeds; Cairn terrier, a "house dog size" terrier which has the temperament, personality, and courage that dog fanciers like; Welsh terrier, a lovable little terrier that is smart and easy to keep and should go a long way in this country; schnauzer, rugged dogs which are bred in three sizes; and the bull terrier, an active, plucky terrier that can handle any situation.

In buying a puppy, no matter what the breed, it's wise not to take one that is too young. When you buy a very young dog you are bound to have more trouble raising it than one which has stayed in the kennel several weeks longer and is sturdier and stronger. Then, too, the older pup can stand more play and mauling. Another point is to ask the seller if the dog has received its first inoculation against distemper. Naturally this treatment, important to both the dog and the owner, adds slightly to the cost of a puppy, but it's well worth while.

It is smart business to pay a fair price for a sound, healthy puppy from good stock rather than to buy a "bargain" puppy of uncertain ancestry from a "here today, gone tomorrow" kennel or other vender of dogs.

Altho we rarely see a dog that we do not like, and most any dog is better than none at all in the home, we always urge a family considering a Christmas puppy to pick one that may be registered. In other words, choose a puppy whose ancestry is known, because you'll find that it really costs just as much to feed and care for a cross-bred as it does to raise a good looking pure-bred dog.

A modern colossus of the rails. This engine, built by the Baldwin Locomotive Works of Philadelphia, is of the type 4-8-8-2 because of its wheel arrangement. With its tender it weighs 526 tons. It burns oil as fuel and is suitable for either freight or passenger service. This picture is reproduced in scale with that of the old locomotive at the left, showing the comparative sizes.

A full-scale reproduction of Phineas Davis' steam locomotive, the York, which was built in 1831. It weighs three and a half tons. This reproduction now is an exhibit of the Museum of Science and Industry, Chicago.

Railway Locomotives—Speedy Symbols of a Rejuvenated Industry

FOREWORD The accompanying article is the first of a series on the subject of railway locomotives, particularly in their present-day aspects. The modernization of our railway systems, including the development and construction of modern locomotives, has accomplished, in fact, the rejuvenation of the industry. This is a rejuvenation brought about to a large extent as the result of an editorial campaign of encouragement waged by The Chicago Tribune for the last dozen years.

By JOHN A. MENAUGH

THE Baltimore and Ohio railroad on Jan. 4, 1831, offered a cash prize of $4,000 for the best American-made steam locomotive. Under the stipulations of this contest the locomotive had to weigh three and a half tons and had to be able to draw a load of 15 tons on a level track at the rate of 15 miles an hour.

Phineas Davis, a watchmaker of York, Pa., won the prize with a quaint little engine which he called the York. It consisted of a vertical boiler and mechanisms mounted upon four 30-inch wheels.

Altho it is not the purpose of this article and the ones that follow in the series to trace the development of the steam locomotive thru its various phases, a picture of a reproduction of Davis' engine and one of a modern steam locomotive are shown on this page, so that the reader may see at a glance just what has been this marvelous development in the relatively brief space of little more than a century.

In between these two locomotives, which represent the earliest and the latest types, there have appeared innumerable different kinds of power units designed to draw cars and coaches on railway tracks, some of which have proved impractical and others of which have been decided improvements on their predecessors. Even since the beginning of the present century there has been marked improvement in design, construction, and power of locomotives. Actually, from the engineering standpoint, there has been greater progress in this field in the last 39 years than in all the time before.

When the average person thinks of a modern locomotive he most likely has in mind one of those that hauls a high-speed passenger train, a towering steam engine, a streamlined and beautiful Diesel-electric engine, or one of those electric units that drags a transcontinental flyer thru the mountains or the congested areas of a big city. The average person does not as a rule think of the modern freight engine, yet the development of the freight locomotive has paralleled in virtually every way the development of the passenger locomotive.

Freight traffic in this country is far more important in dollars and cents than passenger traffic. Last year, for example, the total revenue from freight traffic on class I. railroads was $2,858,077,292, as compared with $405,883,269 for passenger traffic. To take in these vast amounts freight trains traveled 422,388,483 miles and passenger trains 393,791,736 miles. Class I. railroads represent approximately 95 per cent of the track mileage in the country and are all those whose annual revenues are more than a million dollars each.

Up until that time in recent years that the country began to lay stress on speed, most of the heavy freight was carried by the so-called drag freights, trains operating without schedule and with which speed was a secondary consideration. The main objective in designing a locomotive for drag freight service was to provide an engine which would carry the largest possible percentage of total weight on the driving wheels in order to obtain the maximum hauling capacity in proportion to locomotive weight. In general the driving wheels were of small diameter and the boiler power was suited to slow-speed service.

When competition about 15 years ago began to force the railroads to haul freight at higher speed, however, a new design of steam locomotive became necessary, one that not only could haul heavy loads but also move at increased speeds. The driving wheel and cylinder dimensions were increased, the steam pressure was raised, and the boilers were enlarged to insure sustained high horsepower. The locomotive evolved carried a smaller proportion of its total weight on its driving wheels, but its horsepower was greater, so that with a given tonnage the new engine could run away from the old one. A similar development, as has been mentioned, has taken place in the passenger locomotive. For some railroads, especially those that move large volumes of perishable commodities at high rates of speed, locomotives have been designed that are suitable for either freight or passenger service.

The modern steam locomotive, using superheated steam at pressures of 250 to 300 pounds a square inch and temperatures of 650 to 750 degrees Fahrenheit, develops a horsepower hour* on about half as much fuel and water as a locomotive of thirty years ago not provided with means for superheating its steam. The superheater is an apparatus for increasing the temperature of steam without augmenting its pressure. It increases the working efficiency of the boiler. The most remarkable improvement in the steam locomotive since its invention has been the introduction and use of superheated steam.

At the end of 1938 there were 43,810 locomotives in use on the class I. railroads of America. Of these 42,637 were steam, 829 were electric units, and 344 were either Diesel-electric, gasoline, or gasoline-electric.

From the above figures it can be seen that, altho it still predominates numerically in the field, the steam locomotive has competition. The electric locomotive has been in use in main line service since 1895, when the Baltimore and Ohio electrified the Baltimore tunnel. Electrification today is represented in about 1.25 per cent of the total of route mileage in the country. The advantages of using electric traction in inclosed terminal and tunnel operations are obvious.

"Moreover," according to Charles E. Brinley, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works of Philadelphia, "in handling heavy tonnage over long, steep grades an electric locomotive composed of two or three units coupled together, but operated from a single cab, can be employed. This concentrates a large amount of power in one multiple locomotive and makes possible advantageous operating speeds on ascending grades. Alternately, the electric locomotive, on a long descending grade, can be operated on the regenerative principle, feeding energy back into the line, the result being a retarding effect which controls the speed of the train without the use of the brakes."

The Diesel-electric locomotive has been in use for switching service since 1925. Five years ago it went into service on thru passenger trains, and today it is being experimented with in thru freight service.

*A horsepower hour is the work performed or energy consumed by working at the rate of one horsepower an hour.

Snow Scenes Not Hard to Shoot

● Questions of general interest to camera fans will be answered from time to time in this department. It will not be possible to print or mail replies to inquiries of a purely individual character. Address questions to "Know Your Camera," Chicago Tribune.

FAR FROM putting your camera in mothballs during the long winter months, you should take full advantage of the marvelous picture possibilities offered by snow and ice.

Snow photography offers you every conceivable type of picture from human interest shots to fast action and still life. Dark-clad skaters moving over sparkling ice, ski jumpers hurtling thru air, children playing snowball, winding streams appearing a metallic black by contrast to their snow-covered banks, plants rearing their heads above a blanket of snow—these are but a few of the countless subjects for winter photography.

Contrary to common belief, snow pictures are not more difficult to take than any other kind of picture. To get perfect exposures requires, of course, some experience, but there is little else needed beyond that to make striking snow pictures.

As is the case with all outdoor pictures, you should avoid shooting while the sun is high. Light coming directly from above flattens out the picture, because it casts very short shadows or no shadows at all. The effect of depth and texture detail—more important in snow scenes than in any other kind of picture—is created by shadows which appear only when the subject is side-lighted. Therefore take your snow pictures early in the morning or in the afternoon.

The best snow pictures are made in brilliant sunshine which makes the snow sparkle and casts dark, modeling shadows. But even if you take pictures during a blizzard you must remember that the snow reflects a great deal of light, even more than a sunlit beach or open water. This calls for relatively short exposures or you will overexpose your picture, losing all detail in the lighter portions. Overexposed snow pictures show blank white surfaces in the place of delicate snow texture.

There are several ways of avoiding overexposure. Foremost is correct judgment, which can be greatly aided by an exposure meter. Beyond that you can use faster shutter speeds or smaller diaphragm openings to reduce the amount of light reaching the film, and, finally, you can and should employ a filter.

If you are photographing fast action you will need fast shutter speeds to stop the action, and you will have to open up the diaphragm. But if you snap snowscapes or still life, slow speeds and a small diaphragm are the best combination. A small stop will give you a greater depth of field, meaning greater over-all sharpness.

The only accessories required for snow photography are a lens shade and one or more filters. The snow consists of billions of crystals, all reflecting light into your lens. To cut down unwanted reflections coming from the side of the camera, use a lens shade.

For universal use employ a medium yellow filter. This filter is needed to restore the proper balance of light and shade in your snow pictures. The reason for this is that all films are oversensitive to blue light. The shadows in snow are blue because they reflect the blue of the sky. Consequently they leave an unduly strong impression on the film and photograph as light as the white snow. The yellow filter does not transmit blue light and causes the shadows to photograph dark—the way they appear to the human eye.

While a medium yellow filter is all you really need, other shades of yellow as well as orange and red filters serve similar purposes in snow photography. A red filter will give you a very dark sky which may contrast dramatically with the white snow.

Most winter scenes are not very colorful, so that you can use orthochromatic film without sacrificing color values. If, however, you are accustomed to using panchromatic film for taking other kinds of pictures, you had better stick to the film with which you are already familiar.

There is no better time for taking striking snow pictures than after a heavy fall of wet snow that coats trees and telegraph wires with sparkling crystals. You can capture amazing pictorial effects when the breaking rays of the sun illuminate this crust of snow and ice.

Snow gives this commonplace city scene unusual interest. The picture, a prize winner in a recent contest conducted by Popular Photography magazine, was made by Edward Levi of Chicago, who exposed 1/50 sec. at f:6.3 on fast panchromatic film.

(Photo courtesy Popular Photography.)

Snow on the ground reflects light and greatly aids in making interesting night pictures. This film was made with an exposure of 75 sec. at f:6.3 on fast film.

LENS NOTES

It takes a contortionist to focus with a ground glass camera from a very low camera position. You can simplify matters by holding a mirror at a 45-degree angle from the ground glass. It will reflect the image upward, allowing you to focus in comfort.

Gems of American Eloquence

● American eloquence has played an important part in the history of our country. From a long list of famous speeches The Tribune is selecting gems of American eloquence which are being presented in this, the Graphic Section, every Sunday. The content of these speeches is important both historically and politically. Men and boys learning to speak in public will find in them helpful lessons. Speakers and writers can learn a great deal from studying their style. This is the twenty-eighth of the series.

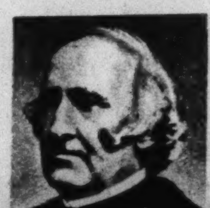
WENDELL PHILLIPS was an American orator celebrated for his direct and brilliant style of eloquence. His logic rarely was at fault, and he never was happier than when he was facing a hostile audience. Born in Boston in 1811, he was educated at Harvard, and admitted to the bar when he was only 23. His profession led him into the career of a reformer, and for many years he was a leader in the fight against slavery. He died in Boston in 1884. The following excerpt from his famous address on "The Permanency of Empire" is typical of his style of oratory:

"I appeal to History! Tell me, thou reverend chronicler of the grave, can all the wealth of a universal commerce, can all the achievements of successful heroism, or all the establishments of this world's wisdom, secure to empire the permanency of its possessions?

"Alas! Troy thought so once; yet the land of Priam lives only in song! Thebes thought so once; yet her hundred gates have crumbled and her very tombs are but as the dust they were vainly intended to commemorate. So thought Palmyra—where is she? So thought the countries of Demosthenes and the Spartan; yet Leonidas is trampled by the timid slave and Athens insulted by the servile, mindless, and enervate Ottoman.



Wendell Phillips

"In his hurried march Time has but looked at their imagined immortality and all its vanities, from the palace to the tomb, have with their ruins erased the very impression of his footsteps. The days of their glory are as if they had never been, and the island that was then a speck, rude and neglected in the barren ocean, now rivals the ubiquity of their commerce, the glory of their arms, the fame of their philosophy, the eloquence of their senate, and the inspiration of their bards.

"Who shall say, then, contemplating the past, that England, proud and potent as she appears, may not one day be what Athens is, and the young America yet soar to be what Athens was? Who shall say that when the European column shall have moldered, and the night of barbarism obscured its very ruins, that mighty continent may not emerge from the horizon to rule, for its time, sovereign of the ascendant?"

Predictions are risky things, but time has proved this one valid. And well it might, for the prediction was based on the decisions of time itself. Phillips' speech, in addition to being a good example of oratorical design, can well serve as a model for those who seek background for the message they wish to deliver.

ONE WAY TO SPELL CHRISTMAS IS . . .

T·A·N·G·E·R·I·N·E·S

"TANGEY-CLAUS"—free for the youngsters! Most markets have these amusing cellophane TANGERINE SANTAS. Grand for the tree and filling Christmas stockings! Each sack holds 3 fruit. If your market can't supply you, write to Florida Citrus Commission, Lakeland, Florida.

Of course, the big reason everyone likes tangerines is because they taste so good. But isn't it nice to know they're also so good for everybody? Loaded with vitamins and minerals—especially rich in calcium, that important element needed by every living cell in the body!

In most homes, tangerines are as sure a sign of Christmas as Santa Claus himself.

And just about as welcome!

There's something about this gay, festive fruit that seems especially made for good times—their dainty "party" size; their golden-ruddy color; their plump, tight-filled sacs of luscious, tart-sweet juice; even the peeling—so obligingly tender that the tiniest fingers have no trouble at all "unwrapping" these globes of goodness.

But, like Christmas, tangerines come only once a year—and the season is short. Yet, they come in such generous quantity every family can afford all they want.

So, for the few weeks your market has these delightful tidbits, keep a good supply on hand—just to make sure the youngsters leave some for the grownups!

10 seconds to make DELICIOUS HOT NESTLE'S

COMMON sense tells you that a hot drink is the happy way to start the day. It wakes you up. It wards off chill. You may feel that most breakfast drinks are "taboo" for youngsters.

But cocoa is ideal for them. It has that grand chocolate flavor they love. It's rich and nourishing. But the old-fashioned cocoa was lots of trouble to make. Nestle's EverReady Cocoa is easy! It takes only ten seconds. You put three teaspoonfuls in a cup, add hot water and stir.

Nestle's EverReady Cocoa is a remarkable combination of three ingredients . . . choice cocoa, sugar and pure whole milk . . . blended and already cooked for you. No messy, hard-to-wash pans! No disagreeable "skin" on top!

Naturally, a HOT drink is a better way to start the day. And, in HOT Nestle's you have a ten-second breakfast drink that costs no more per cup than ordinary cocoa!

There's a tip for you in what this cowpuncher knows about coffee

IT takes a lot out of a man to ride the range all day. So the cowpuncher likes his coffee—and plenty of it.

What that coffee does is take the sag out of tired muscles. It actually banishes fatigue. More, it makes the mind and muscles more alert, if there's more hard riding ahead.

But can a cowpuncher sleep? You ought to see him hit the bedroll! For the fact is, the lift he gets out of coffee—or the lift it gives you—lasts only two hours, if you're like 97 people out of 100.*

That means you can enjoy coffee in the evening and enjoy sleep too. Try it and see. *Medical authority on request.

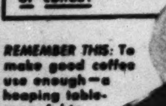
COFFEE INCREASES EFFICIENCY
Right? ☐ Wrong? ☐
In a recent scientific test, one group of stenographers, who were given coffee, wrote more words per minute and made fewer mistakes than the members of another group who were denied the helpful stimulation coffee invariably gives. Check "Right" above.

HAVEN'T YOU GOT "A THING TO WEAR"?



CHEER UP! What you need is another cup of coffee!

REMEMBER THIS: To make good coffee use enough—a heaping tablespoonful to each cup.

UNCAP the CLIMAX of Holiday Enjoyment!

This Christmas the best loved ginger ale in all the world—Canada Dry—will bring added joy to millions of families everywhere. There is reason aplenty why you should join them . . .

1. THE CHEERY GOODNESS...the bubbling zest and sparkle...and, above all, the inimitable flavor of Canada Dry Ginger Ale...have endeared it to the people of 50 nations. It has become the international ginger ale.

2. THE GINGER ROOT, from which Canada Dry gets its delightful tang, aroma and bouquet, is selected by Canada Dry's resident expert on the Island of Jamaica. He chooses only the choicest!

3. TRY CANADA DRY with those over-generous meals that go with the holidays. You'll find it a delicious aid to digestion...at home or at leading hotels and clubs. You'll find—it's gingervating!

4. CHILDREN CAN DRINK Canada Dry Ginger Ale to their hearts' content...without discontent afterwards. It contains no artificial stimulant. It provides pep—but only in the form of food energy.

5. CANADA DRY GINGER ALE is so pure and wholesome... its ingredients are so carefully selected . . . that it is served in many hospitals throughout the country... recommended by doctors to their patients.

6. TRY CANADA DRY in your home during the holidays —and you'll serve it ever afterwards. The cost? You'll wonder how on earth such a kingly drink can be bought for so little money!
